From the policyholders' point of view, one of the most favorable effects of this conservative, yet healthy development, is seen in the Company's established reputation for large profits to policyholders. Of the $1,101,000 paid to policyholders in 1926, more than 27% was for profits earned on policies. The Company's announcement of a further increase in profits to policyholders during 1927 is therefore the more remarkable.

The assurance and annuity reserves were increased during the year by $1,557,682, and stood at $11,785,894 at the end of the year. Income during the past year showed an increase of more than one-half million over 1925, and totalled $4,024,000.

High Interest Earnings.

The total assets of the Company amounted to $15,838,000, having been increased during the year by $3,463,094, and had the Government's valuation of securities been used in making up the figures the increase would have been $3,774,131. The character of the Company's investments may be judged by the comparatively small amount of interest unpaid at the end of the year—namely, $46,381. This is $18,777 less than it was at the end of December 1925, notwithstanding the fact that there was an increase of $3,383,000 in the amount of money invested.

Although over $6,414,000 of the Company's assets was invested in the highest types of Government securities, bonds and debentures, the average rate of interest earned on investments during the year was 6.95%. This especially high interest rate provides a wide margin of security and profit for the policyholder. Evidence of this is of course seen in the announced increase in policyholders' profits.

WOMEN'S GREAT PART.

Properly Trained Women Make Large Contribution To Modern Life.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 12 (By C.P.)—Referring to the part played by Trinity University in the establishment of St. Hilda's, one of the first colleges for women on this continent, Premier Ferguson said: "If a woman is properly trained, she has a great part to play. No one can be in public life without realizing this. A great contribution is made by the actions of high-minded women. It is a great thing for Trinity that so large a part of the enrollment consists of women."

NEGATIVE WINS.

An enjoyable evening was spent by the United Farm Young People last evening, when the Indian River and Peterborough Clubs staged their first debate of the season on the subject, "Resolved that Cadet Training should be abolished." Messrs. E. Sloane and W. Floyd uphold the affirmative for Indian River, while Miss Hazel Ackison and Mr. Harold Dawson upheld the negative for the Peterborough Club. Frank G. Stinson of the Peterborough Chamber of Commerce acted as judge, and the decision was given in favour of the negative side. A short program was then rendered after which the young people spent an hour or so dancing.

Electricity was first applied to a steam railroad in 1895 when the Nantasket branch of the New York, New Haven and Hartford road was electrified.

A Boon to Mothers

Mothers everywhere who realize the danger to delicate little stomachs of too much dosing appreciate the value of Vicks in treating croup and children's colds.

With Vicks there is nothing to swallow—you just rub it on. The body heat releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Thyme, Turpentine—in the form of vapors which carry the medication directly to the nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs.

At the same time Vicks is absorbed through and stimulates the skin like a poultice or plaster.

Colds go overnight, croup is generally relieved within 15 minutes.

FAMILY SETTLEMENT SCHEME LIKELY TO BE RENEWED IN 1927

Agreement Between British and Canadian Governments Working Well.

CHOSEN SETTLERS.

Suitable Families Brought Out and Given All Possible Assistance.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 12 (By C.P.—Land settlement is one of the problems before the Dominion government at present. The scheme for the settlement of 3,000 British families on Canadian farms, entered into between the two governments in August, 1924, expires on June 30 next. It appears likely that this scheme will be renewed, so far only about 1,500 families have been settled under the scheme.

The sub-committee of the Imperial conference on oversea settlement brought in a report that "in view of the conspicuous success of the 3,000 families scheme, it is most desirable that this form of settlement should become a feature of the joint oversea settlement policy of Great Britain and Canada." It provides for assisted passages and assistance in the initial expense of colonization. "The concurrence of the Canadian representatives in the scheme is conditional upon the passing of the necessary legislation (in Ottawa) for the grant of colonization loans," says the sub-committee's report.

Selected Families.

Under the scheme, specially selected families from the British Isles are brought to Canada, given land at a nominal charge and advanced money for the erection of buildings and the purchase of stock and equipment. The families with some children of working age are sought and efforts are being made to give them some initial training in farming before they come to Canada. The Dominion government may provide instructors, implements and equipment for these training centres in Great Britain.

When the scheme was initiated, the Canadian government had at its disposal a number of farms on which some work had been done by soldier settlers who afterwards abandoned the farms. This made it easier to provide at a low cost suitable land to settlers who came out under the "3,000 families' scheme." But the supply of government-owned land which comes up to the specifications of the scheme is running low. The chief obstacle to the continuation of the scheme is this shortage of suitable land. The government is inviting the co-operation of land owners in Western Canada, and at the same time is taking steps to prevent anything like a boom in farm lands prices. One suggestion incorporated in the report of the imperial conference is that owners of vacant farm lands should place their holdings at the disposal of the government, which would assess the price at which it would be turned over to the settler.

Financial Assistance.

The financial assistance provided by the governments of Canada and Great Britain would be extended to families settled on private lands in this way, if the scheme is carried out. It is understood that a number of private land owners have approached the government with schemes for colonization, but most of them involve the right of speculation in land prices, which is what the government is anxious to avoid. One tentative scheme which may go through provides for the taking over by the Canadian government of 2,000 quarter sections from the Hudson Bay Company and 1,500 quarter sections from the Canadian Pacific Railway. All this land is in Western Canada, and was acquired by the respective companies in pioneer days. If this number of farms are taken over in a lump, they will provide for all the family settlement for several years.

This family settlement scheme is the chief factor in the government's colonization plans today. It is interested financially or otherwise in private schemes to bring farm hands, of both sexes, to Canada, in the "Big Brother Movement" and so on. The two big railway companies in Canada have colonization schemes, as also have church and philanthropic organizations. Most of these movements aim to encourage the immigration of British people who will become farmers.

AMAZING SURGERY PROBES LIFE CELLS

Microsopic Creatures Are Disected To Answer Greatest Riddle.

In the Cornell University Medical School in New York City is one of the most astonishing operating rooms in the world. There a scientist takes a living creature smaller than the finest spect of dust in the air—so small that thousands of them might rest comfortably on your thumb-nail—and performs and operation upon it much as a doctor might operate on a human patient! With needle points too fine and delicate for human hands to manipulate without the aid of precision instruments, he probes into the microscopic secrets of the smallest unit of life we know on earth—the single living cell. Into one of thes cells, so minute that it can be seen only through the most powerful lenses of a microscope, he injects chemicals, just as a physician injects drugs into a human patient with a hypodermic needle, and watches their reactions.

The "surgeon" who performs these wonders—and he is one of a number of scientists today who are doing much the same thing—is Dr. Robert Chambers. As achievements they are astonishing enough in themselves, writes Edgar C. Wheeler in the February Popular Science Monthly. Their real significance, however, is that they are not only disclosing new knowledge to combat disease and prolong life, but are bringing nearer than ever before the answer to the greatest riddle of the universe—the secret of life itself. For they are giving new glimpses of the wonderful structure and habits of the very foundation bricks of life—the minute jellylike specks of energy of which you and every other living thing are made.

The men who, like Dr. Chambers, are devoting their lives to the study of individual life cells, have learned some surprising things about them. They have discovered, for one thing, that the countless microscopic parts of which you are potentially immortal; under right conditions, they would live forever. In the laboratory these men are revealing, too, the chemical changes and conditions within the cells which, they believe, are responsible for old age, disease and death.

"In its action, the living cell," says Dr. Chambers, "seems to be like a tiny electric battery in which current is generate by the chemical action of the exciting liquid."

FRANCE ACCEPTS PROPOSALS WITH SOME RESERVES

Briand To Draw Up Answer To Coolidge—Bernstorff Welcomes Idea.

JAPAN ACCEPTS.

Situation Perplexing For Britain, Is Comment of London News.

PARIS, Feb. 12 (Canadian Press) —France's reply to President Coolidge's naval disarmament proposals, it was understood after the Cabinet meeting to-day, will constitute acceptance in form, but under "serious reserves." Former Premier Briand will draft the reply and present it for final Cabinet approval on Monday.

Grave For France.

Germany Favorable.

ST. JOHANN STARNBORG, Germany, Feb. 12 (United Press). — Germany welcomes President Coolidge's proposals for naval disarmament and will support them to the utmost, Count Von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States and German delegate to the Geneva Disarmament Conference, told the United Press to-day.

"I consider Mr. Coolidge's message an encouragement to the delegates at Geneva to get busy," he said. "Although most of the points raised by the President already has been included in our agenda, I believe the message emphasizes the necessity of expediating action.

Perplexing Situation.

LONDON, Feb. 12 (Canadian Press).—Expressing its good wishes for President Coolidge's naval disarmament proposals, the Daily News emphasizes Great Britain's interest, "to avoid being driven into a hopeless, disastrous race for the development of naval power, in which the United States, if it chooses, would be able to beat every other nation on earth to a frazzle."

Nevertheless, the paper thinks that the proposals as they stand create a rather perplexing situation, partly because they would involve drastic alteration of the League of Nations' procedure and would dispose of the possibility of dealing with armament problems as a whole.

Japan Accepts.

TOKIO, Feb. 12 (Canadian Press) —A spokesman of the Japanese Foreign Office to-day stated that his Government had decided to accept the proposal of President Coolidge for a conference of the powers with a view to further reduction of armaments.

Activity In Massey Harris And Distilleries At Toronto

TORONTO, Feb. 12 (Canadian Press).—Feverish trading in Massey-Harris, which was distinctively the market leader, marked activity in the distillery stocks, and the prominence of issues in the unlisted section, featured the transactions on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Massey-Harris opened at 93 1-4, an advance of 1 1-8 over yesterday's close. It continued to sell upward, reaching the high of 94 3-4, but later fell back to 92 5-8, a gain of 1-2 over the previous close. The distillery issues came in for considerable attention. Walker remain unchanged, while Seagrams sold off 5-8 at 24, Amulet, Imperial Oil and Kirkland Lake among the unlisted stocks all eased a fraction under selling pressure.

Laval Quebec Leads Standard Mine Market

TORONTO, Feb. 12 (Canadian Press).—Laval-Quebec assumed active leadership on the Standard Mining Exchange today. 40,100 shares of this stock changed hands during the session Laval opened 1-2 higher than yesterday's close and remained steady to close at 40. Barry Hollinger was second in activity and sold down 1 1-2 to 66. Qebec issues were in demand and these stocks figured largely in transactions. Duprat, next to Laval, was most prominent and sold up 7-8 to 22 7-8. Dome Mines and McIntyre were strong features among the dividend paying gold stocks. The former advanced 5 cents a share to $9.25, and McIntyre 15 cents a share to $26.50. Lake Shore was off 2 cents a share to $17.38.

Veteran of Canadian Service

Mountie, the lead dog of the Chateau Frontenac huskie team, has seen five years active service with the famous Royal Canadian Mounted Police, in the far north. Four years ago he was brought from La Pas, Manitoba, as lead dog for the team in Quebec.

Now in his old age he has every care and attention, eleven years of faithful service should have some recompense. This dog is almost human in every way, and particularly where age is concerned, this he resents, and often asks in an insistent manner to be put into the team. Beauvais, driver of the team cannot resist his dumb appeal not to be counted too old to carry on the work. The faithful brute's entire life has been one of service, and he still longs to be counted in the running. He may rest one day or two, but he evidently has made up his mind to die game, not while he lives will he allow the other lead dogs to take his place entirely, he has not been in the service of the Dominion of Canada without spirit and grit behind him, and these still carry him far to be of service to Winter Sports enthusiasts in old Quebec.

ORIGIN OF ST. VALENTINE'S DAY

Editor, The Examiner—

Dear Sir: As the sweethearts' holiday approaches, one's thoughts naturally centre on that "red-heart" day, St. Valentine's. But, how many people really think about the true origin of this day?

St. VWWWWWW Sir: As the

The common belief is that February the 14th, is held in memory of St. Valentine, a martyr, who suffered torture at the hands of the Emperor Claudius II. of ancient Rome.

I hear you say, "But why do we send each other valentines, of such hues and assortments on this Saint's day?"

There are various answers to this question. Someone has said that St. Valentine, while suffering cruel imprisonment, was gifted with such a cheerful and unselfish temperament that he used to make little gifts in the shapes of hearts. He would then tie them to the feet of pigeons which used to tamely fly to the prison windows where they were fed with bits of crust. Then the pigeons wouldvin their travels through the country, distribute Valentine's hearts.

Another tale says that Valentine lived in a little village, beloved by all. Whenever any little fellow was found weeping over a lost toy, Valentine was the kind soul, who carved a new plaything for the child and turned his tears to smiles. When any citizen of the tiny hamlet was ill, Valentine would pick a beautiful bouquet of flowers from his garden, which was in itself a gorgeous mass of colour, and would go down the street to the home of the invalid. After knocking on the door, he would drop his flowers, and in an instant would have disappeared around the corner. But did the recipient of the gift need to wonder who the giver was? No! he knew it could be no other than dear old Valentine.

Strange to say, in spite of the numerous stories relating to the origin of St. Valentine's Day and the custom of sending valentines, historians tell us that there is no connection between the two, that although the day commemorates the martyred saint, the custom of sending heart-shaped valentines originated from a heathen tribe of people, who worshipped the god, Juno.

Nevertheless, it is a quaint custom; so let us keepit alive by thinking of St. Valentine and then on February the 14th, by spreading the "Valentine Spirit" abroad.

Yours truly,

F. C.

WILLIAM KNOX TAKES CHARGE OF LIVE STOCK

Elected Managing Director at Meeting of Exhibition Board Last Night.

DISTRICT OFFICIAL.

Clock Presented To Robert Grandy, Who Is Moving To Brooklyn.

William Knox had honors and work piled upon him at last night's meeting of the Peterborough Exhibition Board. The committee which revised the rules recommended the creation of the post of Managing Director, the holder of that office to relieve the President and Secretary of much work in connection with live stock exhibits. The suggestion was adopted and Mr. Knox unanimously appointed. Then Tom McIndoo, reporting on the annual meeting of the Ontario Fair Association, said that he and Mr. Grandy, aided by officers of Lindsay Fair, had secured the officer of District Director for Mr. Knox. He is the Association's official over Peterborough, Durham, Victoria, and Ontario Counties.

The dates of the Fair were set, September 12 to 17, a full week, being chosen.

Rules and prize lists were considered, and some small changes made.

The Agricultural Committee asked for suggestions to enable them to combat a practice which they say threatenes the grain exhibit, as it did the vegetable exhibit a few years ago. They referred to the practice of what they named "professional exhibitors" or "pot hunters" buying up good samples from all over the district and travelling from fair to fair, carrying off the prizes In some cases two entries were made, under different names, of grain from the same farm. It was decided to include a rule calling for an affidavit if requested by the committee, and the committee will also consider staining the grain so that the same sample cannot be taken to another fair or brought back here next year.

Robert Grandy, for many years a member of the board, was presented with a clock, as he is leaving to take up farming near Brooklin. His name is continued on the board and he promised that he would still work for the Fair. Regret at his departure was expressed by President Denne and several of the directors.

New members of the board were welcomed and asked to say a few words. They were Reeves Smithson and Cavanagh; Warden Middleton, and Messrs. Lowe, Savigny, and Bertram.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medicl discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited,

BASKETBALL NEWS.

The Y.M.C.A. juniors and the Y.W.C.A. seniors had a good practice game last night in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium. The boys were trying out their new plays and practicing their combination.

Both teams benefited by this light workout, and another game is looked for.

There will be another practice for the boys Tuesday night at eight o'clock.

The Petes are "in."

By beating a weakened Marlboro team 5 to 0 at Brock Street Rink last night, last year's Senior champs made sure of finishing in the play-off series for group honors with Varsity Grads.

Both the Dukes and Petes have still a game to play, but Eddie Wright's team are now five points ahead of Marlboros, and can't finish worse than three points in front.

Marlboros, with a chance of gaining second place, were expected by local fans to put up a desperate battle, but the opposition of the Toronto and York Industrial League wrecked Frank Selke's team, and with Primeau, Heintzman and other stars forced to remain in Toronto to play for A. R. Clark and Company, the firm for which they are employed, the Dukes' pilot was able to send into action only a portion of his regular forces.

Teddy Bennett and Joe Cook, two of Marlboros' Junior stars, were called upon and contributed valiant service, but the team as a whole lacked punch, and the game as a result was almost totally devoid of excitement. The visitors put up a stubborn defence, and assisted by a great performance in the nets by Gould, subbing for Joe Stark, kept the score down to respectable figures but their attacks lacked both system and driving power.

The Petes themselves, doubtless careless because their opposition was not as formidable as usual, did not give a very impressive performance, their checking being indifferent and their combination lacking its usual accuracy. It was apparent from the start that the Dukes were not a serious menace, and the home crew seemed unable to drive themselves into their usual form, although they always had a wide margin over their opposition.

The first period was particularly devoid of brilliant hockey, neither team being successful in finding the nets, although the Petes had many more opportunities than the Marlboros. Eddie Wright's squad came to life in the second, ran in four goals with no reply from the Dukes, and they lapsed back to indifferent hockey in the last twenty minutes, during which Rose increased the margin by getting the only goal of the period.

The Marlboro hero was Gould in the nets. The recruit goalie made a host of clever stops and cleared in fine style, his work in the last period alone preventing the score from climbing into double figures. Crompton and Frost made a fairly effective defence, while in the attacking division, Johnny MacPherson, the only regular forward in action, worked his head off to score and to prevent the Petes from registering. "Red" Foster, formerly of the Toronto Canoe Club, and the two Junior players, Cook and Bennett, gave a good account of themselves.

The Peterboro crew all shone in spots, and there was no one particularly outstanding, although Ken. Kane was a prime favorite through his aggressive checking behind the Marlboro blue line. The crowd liked to see him battling with two or three of the Dukes. Snap Parker was used as a right wing sub, a new position for him, and got his first goal of the season on a neat rush and a nice shot from the side.

The first period was devoid both of goals and excitement. The game opened slowly, with much of the play in mid-ice, and Marlboros, particularly Johnny MacPherson, drilling long shots at Dwyer from the centre of the rink. The Petes tried to work in, and succeeded once in a while, only to fall down in the scoring zone. Ranger tossed away two or three chances, on one occasion getting his own rebound and driving it right back at Gould. Collins also laid the rubber against the Marlboro goalie's pads, after stick-handling out of the corner. McLeod came down centre several times and drove powerful shots at Gould, one of which just whistled by the post with the goalie beat. At the other end of the ice Marlboros could not get inside, and their long shots were soft picking for Dwyer. Bennett drew the only penalty of the game in this period for tripping McLeod.

The second session opened without any particular fireworks, and it was not until the Petes finally scored after nine minutes of far from spectacular hockey that the game livened up. Ranger was the marksman, golfing one past Gould when Bogardis recovered the puck behind the Dukes' net and passed out in front.

The score acted as a spur on both teams, and the fastest pace of the game was set up in the next few minutes, during which the Petes ran in three more goals. Kane got number by being on the spot to bat in McLeod's rebound off the end of the rink, when the big defence man went down and drilled a hot one just over the net. Gould hadn't a chance to turn to meet the new attack, Kane's shot rattling the curtains before he could turn. Babe Bogardis made it 3 to 0 on a nice rush and shot. Gould blocked the first drive, but Bogardis closed in fast and lifted the rubber over the Marlboro goalie for a pretty score.

Twenty seconds after Parker, who had just come on the ice, added a fourth marker to the Petes' total. He went down right wing, skated around Bennett at the blue line, and then beat Gould completely with a high shot from the side.

The only goal of the last period was scored by Ray Rose twelve minutes after the start. He went up the centre ice lane and drilled a low shot between the defence pair that got away from Gould, although he partially blocked the drive. Marlboros got away several times, and twice beat the Petes' defence on combination plays, but Dwyer foiled them once and Bennett hit the post on another occasion. The Petes gave Gould a busy session, but he got everything but that one shot from Rose, finishing a fine performance by blocking a shot from Kane at point blank range in the last few minutes of play.

As a result of last night's game the group standing is:

	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
U. of T. Grads	9	0	0	18
Peterboro	7	3	1	15
Marlboros	5	6	0	10
T. C. C.	2	7	1	5
North Toronto	1	9	0	2

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

As these random thoughts, if any, is being wrote Thurs., I ain't able to say nothing about the game Fri. between Marlboros and the Petes, but I hope our fellows is in by the time this gets into print. The boys is playing good hockey now, and if they tear into them Varsity Grads with all they got the play-off serious oughta be a lulu.

Since my last our jrs. has dropped outa the picture, the Brockville kids walloping them 8-1 Tues. night, and the local management showed good judgment defaulting the return argument, thereby saving a bunch of jack. The sudden jolt is a big disappointment to the youngsters, and it oughta be to the fans, too, cause it brings us right up against the fact that we ain't developing hockey players here like we should. I used to think it was because the kids didn't get no chance to see fast hockey played, but since the Petes entered the sr. race some of the best amateur players in the game has performed here, but if the local kids has learned anything from watching them they ain't showed it much in their work. What I mean is, they don't seem to be picking up none of the finish that might be expected, or learning to use the poke check or the hook check and all the other little tricks what is needed nowadays. If you seen young Conacher out there with North Toronto last week you'll get what I'm trying to say.

We should be turning out some players if we expect to stay in fast company, and it looks to me like everybody oughta to be taking more interest in this angle of hockey. The youngsters need encouragement and coaching, whereas if it wasn't for Mister Lew Lebarr they'd be nothing doing in the jr. line at all.

Well, Mac, I suppose you was among them at the Lindsay-Havelock set-too Wed. night. There was a noble battle, worthy of the old days when a guy wasn't penalized as long as the bird he hit fell back on the ice. If he went over the boards or stayed up in the rafters, of course, the body-checker got the gate. The Dynamite twins on the Havelock defence, Messrs. Hopper and Quinn, was about as careless what they did with their 200 lbs. as any pair I ever glimpsed. "They ain't a finished player on the ice," a hockey cricket sez to me early in the fray. "Don't worry, Buddy," I sez to him, "if they ain't a bunch of players finished before this is over then George Young never swum the Catalina Channel." However, they was all able to skate off under their own power, but considering the way they was bounced round, they oughta to been a record night's work for the doctors.

The railroaders give Mister Coombs and his pals a busy night, but they didn't score, while the Bears picked up 1 goal and sundry bruises each period. At that Havelock had a big share of the play, and they peppered enough shots at this Mister Oliver to keep the Lindsay rooters as shaky as a set of flivver windows. If he'd picked Wed. for his night off the Lindsay boys would had nothing to show for their season's work but the sore spots they collected in the Havelock serious.

Mister Kipper Rowden and Mister Sammy Lowe scouted the game for the Oshawa team, and after watching the teams go for the 1st 5 minutes they was a look on their faces like the expression the cat wears just after it has picked off the canary. They figured either outfit would be duck-soup for Oshawa, and I ain't going to say they're wrong in their dope neither.

Well, Mister Sporting Editor, if everything come out all right Fri. night the next big event here will be the play-off game with Varsity. It oughta to provide the customers with enough thrills to last them until the ball season opens, if ever.

The old bean is empty of ideas, so I'll just call this a through street and come to a full stop.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

You'd Be SURPRISED!

BY BILLY EVANS

The will to win will overcome unsurmountable obstacles in all sports. Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion, had it, as well as many other leading ringmen.

The will to win is a combination of ability, determination and courage, with the last named asset predominating in a great many cases. One of Nelson's choice lines was:

"Never give up until you're licked. Then fight all the harder."

During his memorable career, which fairly teemed with color, one bout stands out as the toughest battle he ever had. For weathering the storm he received $15 and also lost the decision. I once heard Nelson relate the details of that battle.

"As long as I live," said Nelson, "I will never forget the name of Joe Hedmark. He gave me the worst beating I ever experienced in my ring career.

"Up to meeting him, early in my career, I had never lost a decision. The bout hadn't been on a minute in the first round when he floored me. That was a new experience also, for I had never been on the canvas before.

"However, that was merely the beginning. It seemed as if I had springs on my feet that evening. During the course of the six rounds I was knocked down 17 times. I surely was a horizontal fighter that evening.

"I did a little punching myself whennot reclining on the floor and knocked Hedmark down five time, making 22 knockdown in six rounds.

"There was no stalling in those days, the boys really fought, and for being on the receiving end of those 17 knockdowns I received 15 bucks. I have forgotten the details of most of my other fights, but that one, never."

NEW YORK TEAM MADE STRONGER FOR 1927 RACE

Weak Spots of Giants Have All Been Well Reinforced.

MANY NEW MEN.

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(United Press).—New York, more than any other team in the National League, has been strengthened for the 1927 pennant race. The weaknesses which caused the surprising collapse of the team last year have been corrected and it is quite likely that the club will start the season as a favorite for the pennant.

As long as there are teams in the league like the champion St. Louis Cardinals the Cincinnati Reds, the Pittsburgh Pirates and even the Chicago Cubs, those who like the chances of the Giants will not offer odds but none of those teams have plugged up the weak places like John McGraw has.

The Giants will present at least four new faces next season—Rogers Hornsby on second base, Bevo Le Bourveau in the outfield, Burleigh Grimes in the box and Al Devormer behind the plate.

With the exception of Hornsby, the names of the newcomers are not enough to strike fear or panic on the rival clubs. It may even be said that McGraw didn't strengthen second base when he traded Frank Frisch for Hornsby.

On the assumption, however, that Hornsby will not be affected by a weak back and the mental hazard of a lot of business troubles, the team should be stronger around second base than it was last year.

Frisch had a bad season last year. He was not in the best of health and he had some difficulties with McGraw that made a change of scenery almost imperative.

Under ordinary circumstances Hornsby ought to hit better than Frisch, as a fielder there is little difference but in the middle of double plays Hornsby is a much better player.

Grimes is no youngster but he is not an old man by any means. He didn't earn his high salary in Brooklyn because of strained relations with the management. Grimes had the reputation of being hard to handle and players find it difficult to get along with him because of an ungovernable temper.

Grimes is much like Carl Mays of the Reds. When his team falters behind him he hasn't the control to disguise his disgust and that does not add to team morale. McGraw, however, always has liked him for this reason. He likes a hard loser and Grimes is one of the poorest losers in baseball.

Le Bourveau comes back to the major leagues with a great reputation earned in the American Association and McGraw seems to be confident that he will be able to hold a regular berth. Then he has Harper, an experienced player to use in the event that Pep Young is not able to play.

Young has been in very poor health for several years and only recently it was reported from San Antonio that he never would be able to play again. He wrote later to the club, however, insisting that the reports had been exaggerated and that he would report for duty.

Devormer hasnt a great reputation. He didn't make good in the American League, but he may have improved. At any rate, McGraw was desperate for a catcher and Devormer at least has more experience than the youngsters McGraw had in 1926.

The Cincinnati Reds, runners up last year, no doubt will stand on the same team that surprised the experts. Jack Hendricks admits, like any other manager, that he could improve the team but improvements are hard to make and he is satisfied with the squad he has.

There were many critics who thought the Pittsburgh Pirates were the strongest team in the National League last year. If it was only internal dissension that caused them to blow up, they ought to play better this season under Donie Bush, a new manager. It's a dead cinch that they'll have to hustle and do what they are told with Bush on the job.

Those who rated the Pirates as first last year and amny other thought that the St. Louis Cardinals won a fluke victory but they didn't shown signs of inferiority when they went through the world's series with a disorganized outfield and trounced the Yankees.

It is hard to tell what effect the absence of Hornsby and Bill Killifer will have on the team. Bob O'Farrel, who succeeded Hornsby as manager of the club, is certainly a grand player but he has yet to prove himself as a manager. The difficulty that Sam Breadon had in reaching terms with a number of his star players is not good for team spirit but the Cardinals are not the first championship club to go through the same experience.

CLERKS MEET HYDRO MONDAY

Interesting Game Scheduled For Campbellford Town League.

FOR LEADERSHIP.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 12. — Will the acquisition of one man on a hockey team make a difference of 14 goals? This question will be partly settled in Monday night's Town Hockey League fixture, when the Hydro and Clerks clash for the third time. In their first meeting the Hydro were returned winners by a 7 to 1 score, but in the second encounter the Hydro were minus Cecil Watt, the big left wing player, and the Clerks reversed the decision, winning by a 9 to 1 score. Watt will be back in the Hydro line up Monday night and both sections are confident of victory.

Next Week's Games.

Monday, Feb. 14:
Midget Series: Bear Cats vs. Tigers at 7.30.
Senior Series: Hydro vs. Clerks, at 8.15.
Wednesday, Feb. 16:
Midget: Elks vs, Bear Cats, at 7.30.

Standing of the teams week ending Feb. 12th:

Senior team.	Won.	Lost.
Hydro	5	1
Clerks	4	2
Menie	2	4
Mill	1	5

Midget.	Won.	Lost.	Tied.

MILLBROOK PLAYS COGS HERE MONDAY

Cosmos Club Will Bring in Strong Team For Postponed Game.

Monday night the Cosmos Club of Millbrook will play the Cognawaga Club team in a game of hockey, starting at 6.30. This game was scheduled a week ago, but owing to weather conditions, was postponed. The Cosmos have a strong line-up, and are a hard bunch to beat. The Cogs, who are favorites to win the Church League, have a fast team, which should result in a fast game at the Cogs' rink on Aylmer Street South.

There is every prospect of a scientific pilgrimage to Wales and the North of England at the end of next June when an eclipse of the sun will be total in these parts of Great Britain.

MARMORA DEFEAT MADOC IN FAST GAME

Teams Met at Marmora For the Last Time This Season.

MARMORA, Feb. 12. — Marmora and Madoc clashed for the last time this season in the Hastings County League at Marmora last night in a game pronounced as the best of the season. They retired winners by a score of 5-3. The ice was in good conditon, and play was even throughout with little roughness. In the first period Wood found the net after six minutes and and a half of the game's start. McConnell equalized nine minutes later with a shot from close in. Marmora obtained the lead again three minutes before the close of the period, McWilliams sending in the rebound from Auger's shot. McWilliams again increased the lead on the start of the second scoring on a lone rush. Watson scored three minutes later for visitors from mid-ice. Wood scored shortly after the last goal of that period. In the final period Henderson beat Neal with a long shot. Wood, who was scoring for Marmora obtained the last goal on a rush with seven minutes to go.

Madoc tried hard in the last period to increase their score but Neal was sound.

At New and Lower Prices—the Lowest for Which Chevrolet has Ever Been Sold in Canada

NEVER in all automobile history has there been any precedent for Chevrolet's latest and greatest achievement! Never before has any manufacturer of low-priced cars introduced such revolutionary advances in beauty and refinement as have the builders of the Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History. But a still more remarkable fact, which only Chevrolet—world's largest producer of gear-shift cars—could accomplish, is this: that the Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History is selling at New and Lower Prices—the Lowest for which Chevrolet has ever been sold in Canada.

Come in and see the Most Beautiful Chevrolet, with its striking beauty of design and coloring, with its new, full-crown fenders, newly-designed radiator, new bullet-type head and cowl lamps, new AC air cleaner, new AC oil filter, new cohedental ignition and steering lock, new sliding seats in coach models, and other features too numerous to mention.

OSHAWA TEAMS HAVE BIG LEADS

SCORE 8-3.

LINDSAY, Feb. 12.—Oshawa O.H.A. Intermediates showed championship class when they trimmed Lindsay in a third round game here last night by 8 to 3. From the second period the game was never in doubt, Oshawa outpointing Lindsay on combination, speed and backchecking while the Bears did not show their usual strong backon long-range shooting. Rowden scored three goals and Johnston two for Oshawas, while Lott, Houck and Stephens got one each. Williams scored twice for Lindsay and Carew once, each team had four penalties. Line-up:

Lindsay—Goal, Hargrove and Oliver; defence, Carew and Killen; centre, Coombs; wings, Wilford and Williams; subs., Davis and Mills.

Referee—Herb Matthews, Toronto

Oshawa 8; Brockville 2

OSHAWA, Ont., Feb. 12—Brockville and Oshawa Juniors clashed here yesterday evening in the first of home and home games to decide which teams will represent Eastern Ontario in the next round of the Ontario Hockey. Association play downs and as a result of a 8 to 2 win, Oshawa Shamrocks take a six goal lead to the Thousand Islands town on Monday.

The penalties for the game were Brockville 8, Oshawa 3. The teams:

Brockville—Goal, McMahon; defence, Dexter and H. F. McInrue; centre, Walsh; wings, Garand and Levia; subs, Shorey and H. K. McInrue; sub. goalie, G. Cook.

Referee—Bobby Armstrong, Toronto.

PARKDALE LOSES FINAL WITH GALT

GALT, Feb. 12. — Though it has been a disastrous season for Parkdale Paddlers, they having failed to win a single game, the Toronto team kept its engagement here last night to help the Terriers ring down the curtain, suffering their third successive whitewash, 10 to 0. It was a tame affair witnessed by only a small audience.

Harry Watson brought along a patched up team while the Terriers were without the services of Mickey Murray, who is in the hospital, and Al. Gauthier, and used a trio of juniors for a try-out.

Parkdale: Goal, Humphreys; defence, Radke and Dibble; centre Clayton; wings, Morris and Bowsfield; subs, Hogan and Munro.

Referee: Alvin Schlegel, Preston.

FRENCH CROPS

Official figures transmitted to the Bankers' Trust Company of New York by its French Information Service show that the year 1926 was far from favorable for French agriculture.

Owing to a cold and rainy spring, followed by an exceptionally dry summer, the wheat crop amounted to only 67,659,730 metric quintals instead of the 89,904,820 which had been expected and which would have very nearly covered the country's requirements. The annual consumption of wheat in France is estimated at 90 million metric quintals—buckwheat, 3,678,960 m.q., as against 4,105,360 in 1925; maize, 3,271,770 m.q., 5,080,900 in 1925; beans, 670,120 m.q., 1,558,510 in 1925, and potatoes, 104,591,060 m.q., 151,950,380 in 1925, all of which show considerable declines.

The area sown in sugar beets was slightly reduced, 207,420 hectares, as against 217,300 for 1925 (one hectare is equivalent to 2.47 acres). The output totalled 44,357,230 m.q., as against 53,712,480 m.q. for the previous year.

The drought has resulted in a reduction of 33 per cent. in the fodder crop with a consequent decline in cattle breeding. At the beginning of 1926 France's bovine live stock, according to the Academy of Agriculture, totalled 14,373,000 head, but the shortage of green fodder will probably reduce this number before the spring.

The French vineyards have also suffered from unfavorable weather conditions. While from 1921 to 1925 the average yearly production was 60,194,898 hectolitres, in 1926 the total wine output amounted to 40,564,101 hectolitres.

Hops, on the contrary, showed an increase, aggregating 44,287 metric quintals, compared to 20,208 in 1925.

CANADIAN ART LECTURE THEME

J. W. Beatty, R.C.A., Gives Interesting Address in Trinity Hall.

ATTENDANCE GOOD.

An interesting and instructive address on "Canadian Art" was given by Mr. J. W. Beatty, R.C.A., of Toronto, in Trinity Reid Street Hall last evening, under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Mission Circle of the church. There was an attendance of nearly two hundred pupils at the lecture, Rev. D. Wren acting as chairman for the programme, and moving a sincere vote of thanks to the speaker at its conclusion. Miss L. Elliott seconded the vote of thanks.

The musical programme included vocal solos by Miss Daisy Murray, who sang "Love's a Merchant," "Can't Remember," "The Song of the Robin," and "Mighty Lak a Rose," with accompaniment by Miss Gwen Donley, and violin numbers by Mr. Stewart Widdess, playing the "Berceuse" from "Jocelyn" and Beethoven's "Minuet," with accompaniment by Miss Margaret Widdess.

Mr. Beatty illustrated his address with lantern slides, the machine being operated by Mr. A. B. Gates, and gave an entertaining series of descriptive bits with regard to the artists whose work was shown. He preluded his brief address with an assertion that, as yet, no distinctive school in Canadian art had been formed. He pointed out the centuries of background to the development of the art of European nations, and hoped that in time, Canadian art would be of such a distinctive type as to stamp its individuality in outstanding fashion in the exhibitions of work of foreign artists.

He also deplored the fact that immigrants, "people who cant speak our language without an accent" felt themselves to be the only true interpreters of Canadian art. "We must take our place in art and literature and music," he said. "We are no longer a nation of lumberjacks and farmers, but an intellectual people."

Commencing with "the first native-born Canadian artist," Paul Kane, born in Toronto, in 1813, of Irish parentage. Mr. Beatty showed examples of this artist's work, and its wonderful fidelity to the dress and customs of the Indians amongst whom he lived for many years. He also showed slides descriptive of the work of Creighoff, painter of the habitant; of Paul Peel, whose 'Venetian Bather" sold at one time for $167 and was later purchased for the Canadian National Gallery at $10,000; of William Cruikshangs and Wyley Grier; of Frederick Challoner; of Henry Sandham; of Blair Bruce, and Horatio Walker, many of the expatriated Canadians who were compelled to seek patronage in other lands because they could not earn a living in Canada.

Mrs. Stanhope Forbes, George Foster, and Mabel May, of Montreal, showed, as so many of the others the influence of foreign tuition in art, an influence deplored by the speaker who affirmed his belief also in "modern art, as long as it is not grotesque." C. W. Simpson's "Montreal Harbor in Winter" was shown, with a couple of the heads of Suzor-Cote, and some of the pictures by Maurice Cullen, Frank Brummell of Ottawa, Henrietta Shore, William Brymner, James Morrice, Frank Carmichael, Lawrence Harris and J. H. McDonald.

Coming to the two Canadian artists whom he termed the greatest of the time, A. Y. Jackson and Tom Thomson, the speaker paid an eloquent tribute to the work of the latter, showing on the screen a cairn, erected by himself, in memory of Thomson, in September of 1917, at Canoe Lake, Algonquin Park. Two of the speaker's own painting, concluded the series of slides.

HUGHES-CLARKE WEDDING TO-DAY

BRILLIANT CEREMONY.

LINDSAY, Ont., Feb. 12 (Special) — Lindsay is excited to-day over the wedding of Miss Aleen Victoria Hughes, youngest daughter of the late Sir Sam Hughes and Lady Hughes, to James Freeman Clarke of Boston, Mass. The ceremony took place to-day at three o'clock in the First United Church, the officiating clergymen being the pastor, Rev. T. E. Holling, and Rev. Canon Marsh, rector of St. Paul's Church, Lindsay.

The church was profusely decorated with quantities of foliage, the oak leaf predominating, the pillars and columns being twined with smilax, and the pews tied with madonna lilies and white hyacinths. The choir loft was a mass of flowers of various shades of orchid and purple, and of palms and ferns. The flags of Canada and the United States surmounted the loft. The bride, who was given away by her brother, General Garnet Hughes, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., of London, England, was in silver brocade, with a long train of silver tissue. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Byron Green of Toronto, as matron of honor, four senior bridesmaids, Miss Alice De V. Ware of Boston, Miss Aleen Green of Toronto, Miss Phyllis Edwards of Lindsay, and Miss Margaret Rishin of Chatham, also two junior bridesmaids, Miss Elizabeth Ware of Boston, and Miss Mary Green of Toronto.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Lady Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke leaving later by train for Toronto. The bride travelled in blue of a periwinkle shade, with hat to match and coat of caracul, trimmed with kolinsky.

The honeymoon will be spent at the bridegroom's home near Boston, Mr. and Mrs. Clarke leaving later for a hunting trip in French Indo-China. It was while on a trip to South America three years ago that Miss Hughes, who is over thirty years of age, met Mr. Clarke, who is about thirty-five, and is a bond broker of Boston.

Among the guests, twenty-five of whom were from Boston and many from Toronto, were Dr. James L. Hughes of Toronto and Col. Douglas MacAlpine and Mrs. MacAlpine of Toronto.

Last evening, the Great War Veterans of Lindsay, in memory of the late Sir Sam Hughes, entertained the wedding party to a dinner at the Benson House and a dance in the G.W.V.A. Hall.

BUTCHERS' FEUD ENDS IN DEATHS OF TWO RIVALS

Rochester Man Kills Competitors and Wounds Two Others.

FIGHT OVER STALL.

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 12. Canadian Press. — A butchers' feud, which had raged for three years, was ended to-day with two of the rivals dead, and the third under arrest charged with the double murder, and, in addition, the shooting of two other butchers.

Tired of the slow process of the courts of the settling of his business difficulties, Harry Gordon, aged 34, took the law into his own hands last night, armed with two automatic pistols, and set forth on a wild shooting orgy, which resulted in the death of Harry Katz and Sam Toltz, two of his business rivals, the possible fatal shooting of Morris Flass, a close friend of Cordon, and the wounding of Frank Cohen.

Following the shootings, Gordon attended a moving picture show, occupying a seat next to Leonard Metzer, a friend. He remained in the theatre for nearly two hours, relating the story of the evening's events and showing the pistols to Metzer.

The latter however thought that he was only fooling and did not report the matter to the police until after Gordon had been captured.

A snub tendered yesterday by Katz prompted him to carry out the murders, which he had planned for several weeks, Gordon said.

The feud between Gordon and his victims started more than three years ago when Gordon opened a stand at the public market. The controversy over his appearance at the market resulted in his arrest four times for assaulting Toltz and his subsequent indictment as a second offender and sentence to Auburn prison. He had served only a short time of this when he was released on a certificate of reasonable doubt.

WEDDING BELLS.

JENKINS—KIDD.

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, Feb. 9th, at 5 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Kidd, when their daughter, Irene Frances was united in holy bonds of matrimony to William Russel Jenkins, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jenkins, sixth line of Dummer, Rev. J. P. McLennan, of the Norwood Baptist church, officiating.

CENTRAL CHINA MAY ENTER INTO CHINESE STRIFE

Armies Clash When Northerners Attempt To March Through Honan.

DISARMED TROOPS.

Due To Misunderstanding Caused Between Subordinates of Both Armies.

Peking, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press)—The armies of two old-time enemies, Chang Tso Lin and Wu Pei Fu, have clashed, and as a result a new alignment of China's war lords may be effected.

Troops of Chang Tso Lin, head of the Northern Alliance of Militarists, met resistance from Wu's troops when they attempted to march through Honan province to attack the Cantonese government forces on the Yangtse River in the campaign for control of all China. Instead of being a sharply drawn contest between the Peking and Cantonese (Nationalist) governments to rule China's 450,000,000 population, there may be another element introduced in the person of Wu Pei Fu, able general and recently undisputed war lord of Central China.

The fighting in Honan province, said headquarters here of the northern Alliance, was due to subordinates of the armies of Chang and Wu misunderstanding the purpose of the movements. The Northerners asserted that they had disarmed some of Wu's troops who attempted to prevent their advance toward the City of Chenchow, near the eastern frontier of Honan.

The forces of the Northerners are believed to be those dispatched from Shantung province by Chang Tsung Chang, its governor and ally of the Manchurian dictator, Chang Tso Lin. Other forces going southward through Chihli province received the significant message Thursday from Wu that they had best halt at Changteh, Northern frontier of Honan to prevent possible conflict due to "misunderstanding" by opposing troops.

The strength of Wu's orders which lie between those of the Peking and National (Cantonese) government's is not known, but his past record is sufficient to inspire opponents' respect. Although he suffered defeat last August when the Cantonese forced him Northward from his capital at Hankow, the success of the Cantonese was believed due as much to insubordination of Wu's generals as to their own skill and strength.

Meanwhile, the Cantonese, as usual, continue their preparations in secret to meet the Northern menace.

GAS-ELECTRIC TRAIN REMOVED

Recent Signs at Belleville That Change is Coming.

FOR EVENING TRAIN.

(Special Correspondence.)

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 14. — New interest has been aroused here in reports from Belleville that the C. N. R. are preparing to put a gasoline-electric locomotive into use on the line between Belleville and Lindsay. This innovation has been mooted for a year or more, and the recent rumors suggest that the change may be made in the Spring and Summer service. It would replace the present evening train that reaches Peterboro at 8 p.m., and makes the return trip in the morning. The gasoline electric coach and trailer would require only two operatives. Part of the unit has been at Belleville for some time and the rest is expected shortly. Railway men from Belleville told The Examiner they had no definite information as to the intentions of the C. N. R. but recent signs indicated the probability of the electric train being put into service before long.

SCIENTIST DEAD.

Senator Fernardo Bianchi Dies While Lecturing at Naples.

NAPLES, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—Senator Leonardo Bianchi, 70, former Minister of Instruction, died to-day while addressing an assembly of the Royal Academy of Medicine and Surgery. He had been elected to the Chamber of Deputies many times and was famous as a scientist.

Flapper Called No Worse Than Hoop Skirt Mother

INDIANOLA, Ia., Feb. 14.—(Associated Press). — The mother who wore hoop skirts or bangs in her day, has no right to criticize her daughter for wearing short skirts or bobbed hair, Edwin Holt Hughes, Bishop of the Chicago Area of the Methodist Episcopal Church, declared in an address before students of Simpson College.

"It isn't fair to the younger generation for them to criticize the present mode of dress for there never was a more healthy, mode of dress than to-day," he said.

Bishop Hughes declared he preferred the song, "Yes, We Have No Bananas" to "Bulldog on the Bank," the popular song when he was in college.

"I want to tell you we weren't all saints in my day," he added.

PROTESTS MADE AGAINST CHANGE IN PRAYER BOOK

Man and Woman Speak in Opposition During Service.

DOCTRINE INVOLVED.

LONDON, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press Cable). — The new Anglican Common Prayer Book has already caused a protest in open church. The Lord Mayor of London yesterday attended the quaint little church of St. Ethelburga the Virgin, where the rector used some small part of the new prayer book ritual. A man and later a woman, who were in the congregation, protested that the new prayer book involved a change in doctrine. The rector remarked that the interrupters were legally guilty of brawling, but the interrupters left the church.

The rector stated that he had used parts of the new book to give the congregation an opportunity of hearing it.

OFFICER SHOT BY BURGLARS

AT NIAGARA FALLS.

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Feb. 14.— (Canadian Press.) —Patrolman Daniel Clark was shot by safe blowers early to-day when he was about to enter the Strand theatre, after hearing the safe in the theatre blown. Clark is in hospital with a bullet in his right side. His condition is serious, surgeons believing the bullet entered the spine. The robbers escaped.

The outer doors of the safe were blown open, but the robbers failed to get into the strong box, which is said to have contained more than $15,000, the receipts of Saturday's and Sunday's business.

WASHINGTON IS ASSURED NAVAL DISARMAMENT PARLEY BE HELD

Japan Will Accept U. S. Invitation For Conference Without Reservation.

UNDER DISCUSSION.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 14 (Canadian Press)—A five power negotiation at Geneva for limiting construction of auxiliary naval craft is regarded here as virtually assured.

Japan will accept the United States invitation for such a conference without reservation. France is formulating an acceptance in principle coupled with "very serious reserves."

British acceptance is clearly foreshadowed, and Italy alone is unheard from in any definite way.

Acceptance of the proposal to negotiate, however, by no means carries with it certainty that a five power treaty to limit cruisers, destroyers and submarines will result International problems of extreme difficulty remain to be overcome.

Whether President Coolidge, in the event of failure of the five power plan at Geneva would revert to the informal Japanese suggestion for a three power limitation on cruiser tonnage as between Great Britain, the United States and Japan, no official will predict. It was said flatly, however, that the five power plan was the only proposal now under consideration, and that no decision as to the future could be made except in the light of developments at Geneva.

The exact terms in which any of the four governments communicate their acceptances of the United States proposals may prove of great significance. No official word on that subject has yet reached the state department.

The House foreign affairs committee approved yesterday the administration request for $75,000 to pay expenses of continued United States cooperation with the Geneva disarmament conference. Should the naval negotiation plan be accepted by the naval powers in time, it appears probable that additional appropriations will be asked because of enlarged naval and technical staffs will be necessary.

France Ready

PARIS, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press) The French government is ready to associate itself with any movement tending to disarmament, M. Briand, Foreign Minister, declares, but the problems are difficult.

M. Briand points out that the League of Nations committee worked on this problem for a long time, but that the conference proposed by President Coolidge of the five great naval powers would be inadequate on account of the Mediterranean, in which Spain, Greece, Turkey and Russia are interested.

It is asserted that the Coolidge proposal is contrary to the Geneva principle that disarmament should include all arms, not the navy alone. French opinion seems to be that any disarmament should include all forms of military strength.

Press Unenthusiastic

ROME, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press) —In general terms the Italian press declares that President Coolidge's disarmament proposal is valuable as an invitation to both the large and small powers to clear up in a concise way the atmosphere surrounding the disarmament problem, but that it does not contribute tangibly to a real solution.

The press echoes a semi-official

Existence Of Radio "Ceiling" 100 Miles High Is Verified By Carnegie Institute Scientists

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Existence of a layer in the upper air which bends radio waves back to earth has been verified, the Carnegie Institution announced on Saturday, in experiments conducted by Dr. G. Belt and Dr. M. A. Tuve, research investigators of its Department of Terrestrial Magnetism.

Were it not for that "ceiling," it was explained, the radio waves would pass steadily outward into space, rendering long-distance transmission impossible.

In a series of experiments during 1926, in co-operation with the Naval Research Laboratory, the Bureau of Standards and other agencies, the investigators found that a receiver at a given point, under favorable conditions, would record at least two pulses for every pulse sent out by the generating station.

One comes by a direct horizontal path, while the other travels by way of the "ceiling," reaching the receiver as an "echo" or "reflection." As the latter path is the longer of the two the pulse traversing it arrives about one-thousandth of a second later.

By ingenious devices the investgators succeeded in recording photographically these pulses and in measuring the difference in time of arrival. This enabled them to compute the effective height of the "ceiling," which they found generally to be about 100 miles above the earth, although it rose and fell within a range of from 50 to 130 miles.

The experiments showed that variations in the height of this layer are often very sudden, and that probably it is at a greater height in Fall than in Summer and in the afternoon than in the morning.

Charleston Wins Over Ban Placed By Town Council When Municipal Dance Hall Threatens To Go Under

EDMONTON, England, Feb. 14 (A.P.).—Staid Muncipal Councilmen of this Middlesex village who held no brief for new-fangled dances are recovering from a bout with the Charleston in which they were knocked out in the first round.

The Council figuratively stroked its whiskers, surveyed the dance, and found that it was "wicked." Forthwith they decreed that it was not to be tolerated at any municipal dance.

But the attendance began to fall off so rapidly that the municipal dance hall was in danger of going into the hands of a receiver.

Upon reconsideration, the Council decided that the Charleston wasn't so bad after all, and, that far from condemning it, it should be encouraged. Official Charleston competitions are being organized.

ENVOYS FAIL TO SIGN TREATY ABOUT BRITISH CONCESSIONS

Conference Held To-day Believed Final—Troops Reach Shanghai.

TWO BATTALIONS.

HANKOW, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—Negotiations are believed to have been completely broken off between the Cantonese (Nationalist) and the British Governments for an agreement as to the administration of the British concessions at Hankow and Kiukiang. The agreement remained unsigned today after what is believed to have been the final conference.

Troops Go to Shanghai.

HONG KONG, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—The First Indian Brigade, en route to Shanghai as part of the British defence force, will proceed directly to that city, instead of stopping here as other troops have done. The Second Suffolk Regiment, at present stationed here, will sail for Shanghai within the next few days

Protest From Hong Kong.

HONG KONG, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—The British Governor here sent a strong protest to-day to the Chinese military authorities at Canton against the formation of a "Farmers' Army" by Canton soldiers at Shatanok, which is on the boundary line of British territory. The British assert that the soldiers are inciting farmers to strong anti-British feeling.

With the object of restoring confidence, the Governor has ordered the soldiers away from the British boundary.

Troops Landed

CHANGHAI, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—A battalion each of the Durham and Gloucestershire Regiments landed here today and paraded through the principal streets. Chinese crowds lined the route of march. There was some hissing.

The steamer Suiwo arrived today bringing 170 refugees, the majority of them American missionaries, from Szecwan Province. The Suigo normaly carries only 22 first-class passengers.

Arrivals on the vessel included Dr. Joseph Beech, President of West China Union University at Chengtu, who described a recent incident at Ichang in which an America destroyer threatened to fire on Chinese troops who were attempting to commandeer a refugee ship. Dr. Beech said the Chinese soldiers boarded the refugee ship and demanded they be taken back up the river. A detachment of American soldiers from the destroyer Elcona attempted to put them of, but failed.

The commander of the destroyer then trained his guns on the ship and declared he would open fire unless the Chinese left it; which they did.

Misisonaries Return

MANILA, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—Approximately one hundred missionaries who came here from China as refugees are considering plans to return to their field. They have received word that the Chinese Government will guarantee them protection. Most of them came from Foochow.

THE WEATHER

Between Saturday night and Sunday morning the temperature was down to 6 degrees belo zero. This Monday morning showed 10 degrees above as the lowest point reached. Some snow was falling. The snowfall this winter has been lig not only locally, but in practically all sections of the Dominion. In places in Quebec where three feet or more of snow on the level is usually seen at this date, there is insufficient for sleighing.—W. P.

Turkish Women Bootleggers Hide Bottles Under Shawls

CONSTANTINOPLE, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press). — Many surprises have come about during the brief period of emancipation of Turkish women, but the most spectacular is the discovery of a group operating as bootleggers.

Inspectors of the Government alcohol monopoly unearthed a clandestine distillery whose products they charge are being marketed by Turkish women wearing belts filled with bottles, hidden by the demure shawls and veils of the traditional Moslem costume. The voluminous effect did not arouse suspicion as most Oriental beauties have ample waistlines.

SHIPS COLLIDE IN DENSE FOG

Much Damage Wrought By Fog Continues Over English Channel.

NO LOSS OF LIFE.

FOLKESTONE, England, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—A continuance of the dense fog in the English Channel which set in Saturday caused several shipping collisions but so fa as reported has resulted in no loss of life.

The British steamer Nebraska, bound for Rotterdam, crashed with the British tanker Cleander and both were badly damaged.

Two small coasting vessels, the Spanish steamer Gordejula and the Norwegian steamer Raa, also collided and this resulted in an annual incident of the sea. The Raa, from Aalesund, Norway, was vitally hurt in the crash, but the crew of sixteen escaped to the Spanish steamer in small boats. In their haste to leave the Raa the crew left

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE AT BANGOR

Finally Brought Under Control After Destroying Four Buildings.

MORE THREATENED.

BANGOR, Maine, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—A million dollar fire which threatened the entire business district of this city and destroyed four large buildings was brought under control early today after a four-hour battle in which calls for assistance were sent to many surrounding cities and towns.

SCHOONER ASHORE.

Gloucester Fishing Vessel Runs Aground During Snow Storm.

TRURO, Mass., Feb. 14 (Canadian Press). — The two-masted Gloucester fishing schooner Elsie G. Silva went ashore on Cape Cod during a blinding snowstorm today. Captain Silva and four men were taken off. Four dories with twelve men were sighted making for Province Town, and one was missing.

STREET RAILWAY MAY WIND UP SERVICE APRIL 1, MEN ARE TOLD

Notice Posted at the Barns Asks For Conference With Men.

SYSTEM UNDER FIRE.

Council's Deputation Received Similar Hint From Hydro.

Peterboro's street railway employees have been notified that the service may be discontinued after April 1st. The notice from the management, the Hydro-Electric Commission, was posted on Saturday at the car barns, and with it was the request for a meeting with the men at an early date.

"And I haven't seen traffic as good in ten years as it has been this last month or so," said one of the men.

The intimation of a possible abandoment of the system by the Ontario Government, for whom the Hydro-Electric operates it, re-echoes the proposal or threat of last year when the Commission and Peterboro's City Council were discussing this same problem. It recurs also with the protests from Central Ontario cities and towns against the recently increased power rates, their chief complaint being that deficits in the Peterboro street railway, gas plants, pulp mills and other industries that are bound up in the Central Ontario system are partly the cause of the higher rates.

Thursdays meeting of municipal representatives in Cobourg will no doubt ring the charges once more on this much thumped subject, but if the criticism is directed at the Hydro this conference may be no more effective than the others. It is recognized that the Hydro-Electric Commission absorbed the old demands which might have been more resultful if they had been carried straight to the Government.

Oshawa is also inclined to call for a recapitalization of the Central Ontario system, striking out what they call the dead wood, such as street railways, etc., and also writing off an idefinite amount which one member suggested would represent suspected "PAP", to use his own expression.

Question To Be Settled?

The closing down of the street railway was mentioned by the Commission to Peterboro Council's deputation in Toronto a few days ago, and from all accounts the local transportation question is about to move toward some definite settlement. At the Oshawa meeting ten days ago, a Hydro engineer apparently had the impression that the Commission was not contemplating the drastic step of tieing up the cars, but that was one of the suggestions made to the Peterboro deputation at the Hydro headquarters last week.

The Council may ask the Commission for a definite offer, covering street railway and gas plant, with a detailed evalution. Local opinion in the past has gone so far as to insist on the Hydro practically handing these utilities to the city as a gift. At any rate, the street car men are wondering what is in the air, and some of them contend that the system is not the hopeless liability it has been commonly branded.

NEW YORK LEADS IN MOTOR DEATHS

Almost One-sixth of U. S. Fatalities Occur in Metropolis.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(United News.)—New York has achieved another distinction—almost one-sixth of all the fatal automobile accidents in the principal cities last year occurred in New York city. One hundred were killed there last month, the Department of Commerce reports.

Buried 8 Days, Miners Demand 24 Days' Pay

HAZLETON, Pa., Feb. 14.—(Associated Press).—If a man is entombed in a coal mine for eight days, is he entitled to pay for two shifts of eight hours a day or three shifts?

This question has caused a dispute between the United Mine Workers and the Lehigh Valley Coal Company. It arose as a result of the entombment, for eight days, of five miners in the Tomhicken Colliery by a flood last November.

The men were rescued on Thanksgiving Eve. Andrew Mattey, district president of the mine workers, announced that they had been paid for two shifts a day without notification and that the money was in their pay envelopes when the first regular wage distribution was made after their rescue.

Mr. Mattey maintains the men are entitled to 24-hour shifts.

FRENCH REPLY WILL REJECT COOLIDGE PLAN

Will Point Out Complications of Proposed Course.

IN LEAGUE HANDS.

Document Being Prepared For Consideration By Cabinet To-morrow.

PARIS, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press) —France's reply to President Coolidge's naval armament memorandum will reject the proposed method of procedure, it is said in the best informed circles. Foreign Minister Briand and his collaborators are working on the reply to have it ready for the Cabinet meeting tomorrow.

The reply will omit reference to the merits of the disarmament question, being limited to discussion of the complications which, it is contended, would result from taking the matter out of the hands of the League of Nations and objections to separating naval disarmament from the general disarmament scheme.

KING PRESENTS FINE ALMS DISH

Makes Contribution To Furnishings of Cathedral of St. John.

TOKEN OF INTEREST.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (United News).—A silver alms dish was presented to the Cathedral of St. John the Divine in the name of King George V. yesterday. The presentation was made by the British Ambassador Sir Esme Howard and the gift was received for the church by Bislicp Manning.

"It is presented to the Cathedral by His Majesty as a token of the deep interest which he takes in this noble building which is being constructed with the help of subscriptions drawn from all parts of the United States and is thus in truth a national monument erected to the glory of God," the Ambassador said in presenting the alms dish.

The gift was designed and made by Omar Ramsden. It is sixteen inches in diameter and two inches deep. The centre is occupied by a boldly designed rendering the royal arms in repouse and chiselled work with an inscription in Latin.

Postmen Pleased With Revision Of Anglican Prayer Book St. Valentine Left Out and Annual Burden Decreases

LONDON, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—Britain's postmen rejoiced on this St. Valentine's Day for the Saint was banished by the Anglican Bishops from the new Prayer Book Calendar. Postmen remember, but not fondly, the day when lovers' hearts and darts were mailed in such numbers as to nearly break their backs.

The Bishop's action came just as strenuous efforts were under way to bring the Valentine custom back to the favor it enjoyed in the time of Charles II. The fashionable men of that sovereign's court gave jewels to the ladies of their choice on St. Valentine's Day.

NEW LIQUOR ACT NOT CONSIDERED BY THE CABINET

Important Discussion Before Ontario Cabinet Is Again Postponed.

DECKS CLEARED.

Departmental Estimates and Preparation of Budget Under Discussion.

TORONTO, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press). — Departmental estimates and preparation of the budget were under discussion by the Ontario Cabinet in Council Saturday. No attention was given to the bill for government control of the sale of liquor, according to Premier Howard Ferguson, and it now becomes apparent that the Government intends to postpone introduction of the legislation until after the conclusion of the debate on the address to the Speech from the Throne and consideration is given the budget by the House.

Debate Nearly Ended.

It is expected that the debate on the address will wind up before the end of this week, and then the budget will be brought down.

Premier Ferguson Saturday refused to "make a guess" as to when the liquor bill would be introduced, but the action of the Cabinet in "clearing the decks" of minor legislation and hastening the budget, indicates that the measure will wind up the session of the Legislature.

J. R. COOKE AT CAMPBELLFORD LEFT NO VALENTINE FOR BYGOTT

MENTIONS HIGHWAY.

Route To Be Chosen This Year, But Not Started.

(Special Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 14. — Hon. J. R. Cooke, Hydro-Electric Commissioner and Cabinet Minister, passing through town to Stirling on his way home from Toronto, forgot to get out at the C.N.R. station and present to Reeve Bygott, who was all set to receive him, a decorative Valentine with the words:

"Roses are red and lillies white,
I'm working for Campbellford with all my might."

It was a lovely Valentine, the legend inscribed around a miniature road map tracing a provincial highway from Peterboro to Belleville, and it ran through Hastings, Campbellford and Belleville.

"Big Bob" developed faint-heartedness as the train pulled up, and though the wistful Bygott waited expectantly on the platform, the Valentine was undelivered. "J. R." let the chance go by, musing perhaps of his old friend, Major Belford, political uncertainties in Northumberland, the vicissitudes of talented men like the Major, and comforting himself with the thought of the political certainties in North Hastings.

Did The Examiner ask Hon. Mr. Cooke if he intended to approve the highway up the Trent instead of around by way of his own Marmora? Not quite. The Reeve himself probably hasn't the temerity to put that question, even as a joke, and "J.R." likes a joke like that as well as the next man.

But the Hydro Commissioner did say that applications would of course be made to the Highways Department, and after due consideration the route would be finally determined. And that's that. Nothing there to ease the doubts of those citizens who see the value of the projected highway and who fear that "J.R." as a member of the Cabinet can pick off the political plum for Marmora in spite of all the attractions and representations in behalf of the Trent route.

The Minister hinted that the work would scarcely be undertaken this year, but would doubtless be included in the 1928 programme.

Former Operator Recalls "Firing" Of Tom Edison

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 12. —John R. Pepper, Memphis capitalist, was reminiscing of his telegraph operation days fifty-nine years ago in the local office of the Western Union. "Just before I got on," he recalled, " a young operator got fired by the night manager because he kept his desk cluttered with batteries and chemicals.

"That fellow was twenty-one years old and his name was Tom Edison. He went to New York and I guess he must have made good because I saw something in the papers about him," Pepper said with a smile to his friends.

OLD MASTERS

A child's a plaything for an hour;
Its pretty tricks we try
For that or for a longer space—.
Then tire and lay it by.

But I knew one that to itself
All seasons could control:
That would have mocked the sense of pain
Out of a grived soul.

Thou straggler into loving arms,
Young clumber up of knees,
When I forget thy thousand ways
Then life and all shall ceasee!
When I forget thy thousand ways

Japan Will Sink In Sea 10,000 Years From Now

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 14.—The island empire of Japan will sink into the Pacific, according to Dr. Levi F. Noble, of the United States Geological Survey. But it will take 10,000 years.

Japan is slowly crumbling, according to Dr. Noble, falling off along the east coast. Periodic cataclysms such as the upheaval of 1923 are to be expected in Japan, he said.

SHIPS COLLIDE

her engines racing and the steamer without a soul aboard, soon was lost to sight steaming at random in the fog, and thus becoming a menace to navigation in the Channel.

The crew of the Raa, after being refreshed with food and drink left the Gordejula again in their boats to look for the steamer but their search was fruitless and then they lost the Gordejula. After hours of rowing they succeeded in landing at Sandgate exhausted and almost frozen. They believe the Raa must have sunk as she was in a sinking condition when abandoned.

The steamer City of Tokyo which grounded Saturday near Margate with a number of passengers aboard was safely floated yesterday.

Raas Lost

FOLKESTONE, Eng., Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—The question as to whether the Norwegian steamer Raas is lying at the bottom of the English Channel or cruising about in the fog, a menace to other vessels and without a human being on board, is causing considerable anxiety in shipping circles. The crew of the Raas took to their boats after the ship had been badly damaged in collision with the Spanish steamer Gordejulia. The Raas was then apparently sinking by the head but as her crew boarded the Gordejulia they saw their vessel right itself and forge ahead into the fog. It was ascertained afterwards that the engines had been left running. A search made in the vicinity in which the crew of the Raas left the vessel failed to discover any trace of her.

NEW PRAYER BOOK NOW BEST SELLER

Presses Working Overtime in Effort To Meet Public Demand.

LONDON, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—The new book of common prayer, recommended by the bishops of the Church of England, has been by far the week's best seller.

Fiction and other books have been relegated to a back shelve place in bookshops handling the paper covered eight by five 373 pages of the Bishop's proposals at half a crown (about sixty cents). Groaning presses, disregarding the eight-hour law, have been unable to meet the demands. Women have been the chief buyers.

Cable orders for the book are coming from various parts of the world and in one instance an order from America was made by the new wireless telephone.

Prayer book revision was the subject of numerous sermons yesterday.

While friendly and favorably received generally the Protestant Alliance and the League of Loyal Churchmen are continuing their campaign against the proposed changes by arranging a mass meeting to air their views.

East Australia is getting worried about the prickly pear cactus, which is spreading so rapidly that it threatens to kill out other plants. Experts are seeking insects that will destroy it.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

SUCCESS

I used to dream about success,
Of wealth that could be won,
And yet I've got 'em both, I guess,
Though little I have done.
The man who puts some kids through school
Ain't called no wonder, as a rule,
But there are lots of dividends
The Lord and not the banker sends.

I used to think a fellow'd need
A hundred thousand cash;
I know I never will succeed
In making any splash.
But when I'm old and when I'm through
I won't need do like some folks do,
And my estate, although it's small,
Will have enough to pay 'em all.

I know of bigger shops than mine,
And bigger men than me,
Yes, factories a lot more fine
Than mine will ever be.
But there is one thing certain sure:
When I say something's pure it's pure;
And, when I take a dollar in
For silver, then it isn't tin.

REEVE OF PERCY.

WILLIAM HERBERT NELSON,
Elected by acclamation in January as Reeve of Percy Township, succeeding ex-Warden McCubbin. Reeve Nelson was appointed Northumberland chairman of the Roads Committee of the Counties Council of which he is a prominent member. He has been well trained in municipal work and possesses a natural ability for the duties of his position. Reeve Nelson is widely known throughout Northumberland and the Trent district as a cattle buyer in business with his brother.

WEDDING BELLS.

CREASOR—BURRITT.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 14.—A wedding with a strong local interest took place in Ottawa on Saturday afternoon, January 29th, in All Saints' church, when Miss Jean Burritt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Burritt, was united in marriage to John Alfred Creasor, of Lakefield, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Creasor, of Owen Sound. Rev. Channel G. Hepburn officiated. The church was decorated with palms, ferns and spring flowers, and the wedding music was played by the organist, Mr. J. L. Bearder. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory white velvet, simply made, with a long train of old Limerick lace, lined with white georgette, which fell from the shoulders. A veil of white tulle edged with Limerick lace, was held on her head by a semi wreath of orange blossoms.

Miss Elsie Burritt, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and was prettily gowned in a two-toned yellow georgette, a French felt hat of the same shade and carried an arm bouquet of roses, violets and fushia. Mr. Hugh Wallis, of Montreal, was groomsman, and the ushers were Messrs. Meredith Jarvis, Alex. Burritt (brother of the bride,) E. Bouchette and William Heney.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the bride's parents. The happy couple left for New York and Florida, where the honeymoon will be spent, the bride travelling in a smart dress of blue wool repp with grosgrain ribbon trimming, a ribbon hat of the same shade and a muskrat coat.

OBITUARY

MRS. PETER YOUNG

HAVELOCK, Feb. 14 — The death of Mabel McQuigge, beloved wife of Peter Young, occurred at her late home, 5 Railway Avenue, Smith's Falls, on Monday noon, January 31st.

The late Mrs. Young was born at Blairton forty years ago. She received her education at Blairton Public School and Campbellford High School. She taught school in the vicinity of Havelock and Marmora for several years and won many friends by her kindness and helpfulness. On March 1, 1915, she became the bride of Peter Young and since then they have resided at Smith's Falls with the exception of one year when they lived in Taymouth, N.B.

She had been a patient sufferer for a number of years.

Service was held at her late home Tuesday evening at 8.30 and the remains were taken by way of C.P.R. to Havelock to the home of her brother Stephen McQuigge, George street. The funeral took place on Thursday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Archer officiated and Rev. Mr. Lougheed assisted. Interment was made in Maple Grove cemetery.

She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, her adopted daughter, Wanita Hovey, her mother, Mrs. Janie McQuigge of Havelock, three sisters Mrs. Robert Dixon of Kingston, Miss Jessie of Havelock, and Mrs. Hubert Hill of Smith's Falls, and two brothers, Steve and Howard of Havelock.

MRS. ANDREW HOGG.

The death occurred on Saturday at her home in North Monaghan of Catherine Hogg, beloved wife of Andrew Hogg.

The funeral took place this afternoon at 2.30 from the family residence in North Monaghan, with interment in Little Lake cemetery.

BABY CROWLEY.

Mary Teresa Lorine, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Crowley, Otonabee, died yesterday aged five days.

The funeral will take place this afternoon to St. Peter's Cemetery.

If a barrage were thrown across the Bristol Channel, near the mouth of the River Severn, in England, it would produce nearly twice as much electric power as is obtained from Niagara Falls.

MILITIA OFFICE NOT YET FILLED

No Successor To Major-General MacBrien Is Yet Named.

RUMORS AT OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press). — No appointment has yet been made to the post of chief of staff of the Canadian militia, which is soon to be vacated by Major-General J. H. MacBrien. Since General MacBrien made known some time ago that his resignation had been tendered, many rumors have been circulated connecting various militia leaders of the Dominion with the past, but it was definitely stated at the Department of National Defence that no decision had yet been made on a successor to the chief of staff.

NEWS BRIEFS.

Property Damaged.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Feb. 14. — (Canadian Press).—A hurricane and floods have caused damage estimated at $5,000,000 in Cairns, Queensland. Several buildings in the down town district collapsed, and one-fifth of the town's structures suffered damage. No loss of life has been reported.

Arrives at Morocco.

RABAT, Morocco, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—Commander de Pinedo, on his trip to South America, landed here at 3.23 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was cheered by large crowds.

He then proceeded to the residency to pay his respects. The time of his departure has not been fixed.

The temperature of the moon's surface, at its noon time, rises to 250 degrees Fahrenheit.

THE ORIGIN OF VALENTINE DAY

By W. E.

St. Valentine was a Christian missionary of the third century who had two distinguishing characteristics—his fervent love of his fellowmen, and his intense zeal in propagating the Gospel. An old legend relates that in his early youth, Valentine was depressed by the consciousness that he lacked the personal magnetism and intellectual gifts of his fellow laborers, and while sadly pondering over these things, a mysterious voice from Heaven bade him cultivate the virtues of humility and self-sacrifice and devotion to the welfare of others. From that time he gave himself up to his labors with renewed energy, until his activities came under the observation of a heathen Emperor and Valentine sealed his testimony with his blood, being beaten with clubs and finally beheaded. His remains were later transferred to the church of St. Praxedes in Rome, and the gate in the Eternal City now known as Porta del Popolo, was for many centuries called Porta Valentini—the gate of Valentine.

Pagan in Origin.

It is difficult to trace the affinity between the martyr missionary and the many tender whimsicalities that have become indelibly associated with his name, but there seems good reason to believe that, like many other customs prevalent in Christian countries, the Valentine ceremonies are pagan in origin, and modified to bring them into conformity with the Christian system. During the month of February around the date later set apart for the commemoration of St. Valentine, pagan Rome celebrated Lupercalia—feasts in honor of Pan and Juno—at which, among other practices sanctioned by immemorial usage, the names of young Roman ladies were placed in boxes, from which they were drawn as chance directed by the members of the other sex. The pastors of the early church, ever on the alert to root out the relics of paganism conceived the idea of grafting this custom among the Chritsian fetivals. Lupercalia became St. Valentine's day and for the names of young women were substituted those of saints. The innovation apparently was not wholly successful, for, by the era when feudal chivalry was in full bloom, February 14 was a carnival time, when knights took part in tilts and tournaments and each "faire ladye" selected her chevalier (usually no saint) who bound himself for the ensuing 12 months to be her champion, to perform all her wishes, and to celebrate her praises in tender rhymes. A further stage was reached when the practice of choosing names became reciprocal—the gallant drew a lady's name from the box, while his own name in turn might be drawn out by another lady. No true knight, of course, could stoop to insult a lady by offering her an allegiance thus divided, so the practice of "relieving" came into vogue; the knight remained the champion of the fair one who had drawn out his name while on the lady whose name he had taken from the box, he bestowed a kiss, no doubt with great avidity, and afterwards gave a ball or held a feast in her honor. The earliest Valentine rhyme which has come down to our day is one that was written by the unfortunate Charles Duke or Orleans, who was captured by the English at Agincourt. Written in Old French, the ducal lines, pleasing in sentiment, and easy flowing, compare very favorably with much of the "poetry" of present day Valentines.

Valentine in Literature.

The literature of the later Middle Ages, particularly of France and England contains numerous allusions which show how widespread was the adherence to the time-honored rites of Valentine, Shakespeare, Drayton and Ben Jonson make many references to the Valentine customs of their day. Samuel Pepys in his diary, which is the truest mirror of the later Stuart period, after recounting in an entry the numerous and expensive gifts which his wife received from her Valentine, congratulates himself on the fact that he has been the Valentine choice of a very young girl, who,the frugal diarist opines, would not expect so much as would an older lady of fashion.

Superstition.

Always on the look out for evidence of the occult or unusual our ancestors, or rather our ancestresses pretended to be able to forecast the future from signs on St. Valentines day, particularly with regard to that most important matter, the choice of a life partner. Young damsels, exercised over this matter, wrote the names of "probables" on paper which they enclosed in little clay balls, placed in water overnight. If one of these balls had risen to the surface on the morning of St. Valentine's day, it was hailed as a good omen.

Custom further decreed that the first lady, whom a young bachelor met on St. Valentine's morning, was destined to be his bride—a belief which led to the common practice of love-lorn swains, sitting all night underneath the window of their beloved. To catch one's lover asleep on the morning of February 14 was considered a particularly fortunate omen.

With the coming of this more material sceptical and possibly more irreverent age in which we live, St. Valentine's ceremonies degenerated considerably and all kinds of pranks were indulged in, and many uncouth missives passed through the mails. Finally, the customs fell almost entirely into abeyance and today the ceremonies of St. Valentine are practically extinct in Scotland, and are much less popular in England and France than in the United States and Canada.

CLARKE-HUGHES WEDDING

The wedding in Lindsay on Saturday of Aleen Victoria Hughes, youngest daughter of the late General Sir Sam Hughes, K.C.B., and Lady Hughes, to James Freeman Clarke, of Boston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Eliot C. Clarke, was a memorable event in the history of the town. The main street was alive with motors and the hotels were filled with out of town guests, numbering about two hundred, while crowds assembled at the church hours before the commencement of the ceremony. In the crush which followed the opening of the doors, several women fainted, and the police had difficulty in preserving order. The interior of the church was packed to capacity with the people from Lindsay, the auditorium, reserved at first for the invited guests, being used later for the overflow from the gallery above. A carpet of jute was laid for the bridal procession and a long awning extended from the road to the entrance of the church. A beautiful crisp February day, with clear sunshine, made an attractive setting for the event.

The First United Church, the edifice in which the ceremony took place, was profusely decorated with masses of spring bloom. The entire organ loft was covered with flowers in varying shades of orchid and purple. Shading from pure white to deep purple, cinararia were used, the pretty flowers of the primula family with their wide-open faces, the little flower pots being laid on their sides to give an effect of firmly massed bloom. There were tall standards containing pussy willow, Easter lilies, calla lilies and daffodils, with huge palms and ferns adding a note of green. The lovely soft malachoid ("Maid of the mist") was used in large bowls, and pink tulips were in pink reed holders. The gallery railing was covered with sprays of tinted green oak leaves, while the pillars were entwined with Canadian and southern smilax, and wall brackets held yellow daffodils. The guest pews were tied with sprays of white hyacinth and lilies, with white tulle. Above the organ loft were triple flags, the Union Jack, the Canadian ensign, and the Stars and Stripes, the latter in deference to the nationality of the bridegroom.

At three o'clock, the bridal party arrived, the bride entering the church to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, played by the church organist, C. F. Liddle. She was given away by her brother, General Garnet Hughes, C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., of London, England.

The bride's Paris gown was very beautiful, in brocade of white and silver, with long sleeves, slightly fulled, and a short skirt, gathered in heavy folds at the front. The long court train was of the silver and white brocade, embroidered in a raised design of lovers' knots, done in silver sequins. The same design appeared on the front of the bodice. A voluminous veil of white tulle was worn, with a soft Juliette cap, caught delicately with tiny orange blossoms. A fine spray of Easter lilies depended from the left side, and silver embroidery formed a design from the shoulders to the waist. Silver slippers were worn and a shower bouquet of white orchids and lily of the valley was carried.

The matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Byron Green, of Toronto, and there were six bridesmaids, the four seniors being Miss Phyllis Edwards of Lindsay, Miss Alice de V. Ware, of Boston, Miss Margaret Rispin, of Chatham, and Miss Aleen Green, of Toronto, while the two junior bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Ware, of Boston; and Miss Mary Green, of Toronto, a niece of the bride.

They were gowned alike in pink georgette, posed over satin crepe of the same shade, embroidered with silver leaves in a circular design which extended over the shoulders to the waist at front and back. The gowns were sleeveless, and short white, frilled gloves, were worn. The skirts were scalloped, with the silver embroidery outlining the edges. Silver girdles fastened in front, and silver underflouncing showed under the soft material. They wore long strings of pearls and carried old fashioned nosegays with paper frills surrounding sweetheart roses and forget-me-nots. Their hats were of pale green and pink braid, faced with pink taffeta, the soft crowns banded with alternate folds of pink and green.

Mr. Phil Tobey, of Boston, acted as best man.

The ushers were Messrs. Charles E. Ware, Junior, Henry Parkman, Junior, J. H. C. Penhallow, George A. Parker, Reginald Bradlee, Chandler Hovey, Samuel Mixter, Charles L. Fuber, Horace C. Bright, and Welland D. Luther, all of Boston.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. E. Holling, B.A., pastor of the First United Church, assisted by Canon C. E. Marsh of St. Paul's Anglican Church, Lindsay.

During the signing of the register, Mrs. Walter E. Reesor, in a smart costume of black and white, sang "Because," and the bridal party left the church to the strains of the Mendelssohn Wedding March.

After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Lady Hughes, where decorations were carried out with snapdragon, roses, carnations, daffodils, tulips and lily-of-the-valley. Lady Hughes wore a gown of orchid crepe, with train of purple cut velvet and hat and short feather boa of pansy purple. She carried a bouquet of mauve orchids. Her sister, Miss Burke, was in hydrangea blue, with fox scarf, and Mrs. Eliot V. Ware, of Boston, sister of the bridegroom, wore black crepe, with gold lace yoke and picture sleeves, and carried a large bouquet of yellow roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke left by special car for Toronto in the evening, en route to New Hampshire, to spend a week at the home of the bridegroom, before starting for Vancouver, to said on the Empress of China for India, Japan and French Indo-China, for a big game hunt. After four months' holiday, they will return to Boston to reside.

The bride travelled in a gown of violet blue crepe de chine, with a pink satin vest, with taffeta hat of the same soft blue, appliqued with blue and violet flowers. Her fur coat was of caracul, trimmed with kolinsky.

Many beautiful gifts were on view at the Hughes residence, among them a quantity of crested silver, a dinner set of Coalport china presented by Lady Hughes to her daughter, and made to order in England; a solid silver cigarette box of newest design, brought by General Garnet Hughes from London; a complete silver coffee service, presented by General Drain of Washington, an old friend of the late Sir Sam Hughes; gifts from Sir R. Borden and Hon. Arthur Meighen, and from Colonel Sohler of Boston, uncle of the bridegroom, and quantities of beautiful things in crystal, brass and pewter.

Among the guests who attended the wedding were Colonel Sohler, Mr. and Mrs. Eliot C. Ware, Junior; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Creighton, Mr. and Mrs. Willard Luther, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ware, Mrs. Richard Claflin, Mrs. Margaret Cameron, Mr. Erland Fish, all of Boston; General Garnet Hughes of London, England; Mr. and Mrs. Robert B. Frantz of Saginaw, Michigan; Dr. James S. L. Hughes of Toronto, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Morrow, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Fraser; Major John Murray, General Gunn, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Ellsworth, Dr. and Mrs. Wallace Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Byron M. Green of Toronto; Hon. and Mrs. Arthur Meighen, and Colonel Douglas MacAlpine and Mrs. MacAlpine of Toronto. Two uncles of the bride were unable to be present: General St. Pierre-Hughes of Ottawa, and General John Hughes of Bowmanville. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Ackerman and Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Roy were present from Peterborough.

An interesting feature of the decorations was the fact that the flowers used, exclusive of the bridal party's bouquets, were all grown in Lindsay greenhouses, the floral decorations of the church and house costing in the neighborhood of five hundred dollars, and supplied by a Lindsay firm. The catering was done by Toronto people

EYE COMFORT.

The eyes repay good care. Eyestrain causes nerve fatigue. Nerve fatigue causes headache and irritability, affects the appetite, and is generally depressing. Relieve all this trouble and our natural sense of well-being and self-confidence returns. See W. H. Lacey, Optometrist, 416 George Street. Phone 1140. 1084-J. for evening appointment.

TOPSY TURVEY TIBET SHOWN IN CAPTAIN NOEL'S PICTURES

Scaling of Still Triumphant Peak Is Pictured in Detail.

UNFRIENDLY LAND.

Everything in quaint old Tibet is topsy-turvey—rather than "hotsy-totsy"—to steal a phrase from a popular song. This fact is undisputably shown in the Mount Everest motion pictures which will be presented here on the evening of Feb. 25 at St. Pauls church when Captain J. B. Noel, official photographer of the expedition, appears here with his own remarkable "movies". The arrangements are being made by the Kiwanis Club.

Not only do the pictures show the actual work of the attempts to scale Mount Everest but they also visualize the people, customs and country of quaint Tibet, the land of Lamas, prayer-wheels, dirt, Polyamdry, Yaks and buttered tea, everything is topsy-turvey. A woman may have several husbands but a man can have but one wife. Here it is that women have developed a stronger character than men and here they manage the family business and training; here it is that where there are two sons in a family one of them must be given to the monastery and become a Lama. Here we find the land of sacred valley, "The Jewel of the Lotus Flower," the Mani stones, the quaint monasteries where the Lamas dwell in solitude and meditation. Here it is that life of no wild creatures, bird or even insect or fish may be taken—an admirable virtue of Buddhism, for the Buddhists believe that every animal is a reincarnated human soul. These are but incidental high spots.

Mt. Everest reigns supreme as the crowning glory of the Himalaya Mountains. It is venerated in "Lama land" as the "Goddess Mother of the World." It lies in parts of Tibet where prior to 1924 no white man had been permitted to enter and for that reason it remained unexplored.

To travel over Tibet—the Unfriendly—to visit the fortress monasteries of the Lamas to venture into valley, snowfields, and glaciers never before seen by man, and finally to climb to the top of the wonderful mountain, were the reasons for the 1924 Expedition.

In command of the Expedition was the Honorable C. G. Bruce, C.N., a man of wide experience in mountain climbing. General Bruce was the leader but left the actual climbing to younger men of which Colonel Norton was in command. Captain Noel as official photographer; Shebbard, in charge of transportation and luggage; Dr. Hingston, doctor and naturalist; the intrepid assistants, Irvine and Mallory, who now sleep in the snows near the top; and Odell and Mc Donald, Somervell and Beetham—these names are now gilt-lettered in the Book of Adventure, for they scaled to a height of 28,000 feet. Five hundred others took active part in establishinng food stations, camps and equipment relays.

MAKE SUBMISSION TO CUSTOMS BOARD

Regarding Export and Import of Liquor as as it Effects Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 14. Canadian Press. — A submission in regard to the export and import of liquor as they effect the Province of Manitoba, will it is understood, be made to the Royal Customs Commission when it meets here to-day.

Attorney-General R. W. Craig joined with the representatives of the other western provinces who appeared before the commission at Victoria to request the enactment of legislation which would practically close up the liquor export houses.

While the commission is here he will present a statement outlining the effect of these export houses on the province of Manitoba, and also touching on other phases of the illicit traffic in liquor.

It is expected that the submissions of the Attorney General will declare among other things, that liquor is shipped into the province of Manitoba in defiance of the law. Other provisions of the Canada Temperance Act and that seals of the Department of Customs and Excise are used to protect these shipments. He will also submit that in his opinion liquor released from bond in Manitoba, has been unlawfully shipped out of the province of Manitoba, and also that it has been sold within the boundaries of the province. He will it is understood, declare that stills are operating in Manitoba in defaince of the law. Other representations will probably be made, and it is suggested that certain witnesses may be summoned to substantiate declarations contained in the memorandum.

During the sittings here counsel for the commission propose to ask for certain findings in regard to the British Columbia export houses. Notice to this effect has already been given. While the suggested findings have not been made public it is expected that they will be drastic.

The commission proposes to take up all cases of commercial smuggling which it can find. While there were comparatively few complaits of commercial smuggling west of Winnipeg, every attention was paid to those which were made. Here, it is understood, there is more commercial smuggling going on, and consequently a larger number of complaints may be heard and investigated.

It is anticipated that the Winnipeg sittings of the Customs Commission will ocupy at least two weeks.

CHURCH COUNCILS BACKING COOLIDGE

Endorse Message Regarding Further Limitation of Naval Disarmament.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—The Federal Council of Churches in America has cabled to the churches of Great Britain, France and Japan a statement endorsing President Coolidge's message regarding further limitation of naval armament and announcing that the churches of this country "as a unit will stand resolutely behind the President."

The statement will be disseminated among the churches of Great Britain by the Christian conference on politics, economics and citizenship, familiarly known as "Copec," embracing all Protestant churches there. In France distribution will be made by the Federation of Evangelical churches, and in Japan by the National Christian Council embracing twenty denominations.

MISSING ROMNEY BELIEVED FOUND

British Treasury Officials Offering £65,000 For Missing Portrait

"LORD NELSON."

LONDON, Feb. 14. — British treasury officials have offered £65,000 for what is believed to be Romney's missing portrait of Lord Nelson, should it prove genuine. Its owner, Bernard Finnigan, formerly of a grocery firm in Dublin, is now in London negotiating for its sale. Finnigan bought it for a few shillings from a workman, now dead, who discovered the canvas beside a skeleton while excavating in the ruins of Kilmainham Castle. Experts are convinced that the picture is actually the missing Romney portrait, which was stolen from the castle, and it is believed that the skeleton was that of the thief.

MANDATE IS COMPLETE

GENEVA, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—From his villa where he is confined to bed by influenza, Chu Chao-Hsin, Chinese representative at Geneva, took occasion yesterday to issue a non-commital statement asserting that he is the representative of the League Council of the whole North and South China, and that his mandate is complete.

The issuance of this statement was probably due to the report published abroad that the Chinese ministers in the various European capitals were about to transfer their allegiance from the Peking to the Canton government. It is not clear, however, whether Chu Chao-Hsin means that he has obtained a mandate from Canton or whether he assumes that as the agent of Peking he necessarily officially represents all governments or pretended governments of China.

WASHINGTON IS ASSURED

communique issued last evening which emphasizes the difficulties that seem to justify scepticism, the American invitation, the communique says, is being studied personally by Premier Mussolini, with the aid of Admiral Acton, chief of staff of the navy, and other experts.

"Without intending to anticipate Italy's official answer," the communique continues, "it can be immediately affirmed that Italy in view of her modest naval programme, could never consent to measures endangering her vital interests. It is necessary, moreover, to point out that between 1922 and the present time several new facts have presented themselves, such as the failure of the Rome conference in 1924 of the small powers and the accelerated programme for naval construction of several of the large and small powers which face or can enter the Mediterranean."

The tone of the communique, which obviously is officially inspired, confirms the opinion in political circles that Italy is willing to show good will by accepting the invitation to discuss the proposal, but with absolute insistence on reservations protecting her vital defensive interests.

The Barrier to Health—Waste Matter in the System

London, Ont.—"I have never taken a medicine that is so good as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. For many years I was bothered with sluggishness. I would become constipated, have dull headaches, feel drowsy, sleepy and mean. I took different pills but without results until I began taking Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. Since taking them I have had no such trouble. I take them about twice a week and they keep my whole system in perfect condition. I am never without a bottle of the 'Pellets' and I highly recommend them—there is nothing better."—Mrs. Henry Dean (Picture above), 681 Lorne Ave.

"Beauty"

By Flossie Everson, Norham.

Her features are something we look at too much,
Her cheeks red with nature, you never saw such,
Her blue eyes in sunshine, contrast with her smile
And her charming red hair is always in style.

She goes out to parties with whom do you think?
Can you guess the lad? He has curly brown hair.

He dresses in blue, but so seldom in grey,
He's pretty good looking allow me to say,
His shoes are so polished, they sparkle like ice,
He thinks, he's really spiffy and she thinks he's nice.

She has won many friends, of beauty you see,
For she is far nicer than Mary or me.
Her dimples are scarce, but the one in her chin,
Is too much looked after and cared for by him.

The powder she uses for beauty is swell,
He thinks it far better than I here can tell,
The perfume, "Three Flowers," they call it by name,
To all her admirers, it smells just the same.

We need not admit that beauty means pleasure,
But we do think, it is fine in your leisure
To sit by a mirror, and polish your nose
Until you resemble a little sweet rose.

HOT DOG'

NEW LONDON, Conn.; February 14—Aldo Montall recently settled forever the question of whether he could eat more hot dogs than Jack Missmin, a sailor. Montall won after downing 42 of the dainties. Miss min was forced to pause at 38. Half an hour after the contest Montall declared he could even eat a few more.

Colourful Names Throng Canada's Pages of Sixty Years Ago

WHAT an inspiration to Canadians of today is the memory of these men, who welded the scattered communities of Victoria's subjects in British North America into one magnificent whole, and laid down the basic principles of the Empire's largest unit!

We honour their names now in this Diamond Jubilee year of the Confederation, which they achieved by forming a Dominion from "sea to sea."

Presiding over the Conference which resolved on Union was Etienne Pascal Taché, a veteran of the War of 1812, who expressed the loyalty of his fellow-countrymen when he said, "The last gun to be fired for British supremacy in America would be fired by a French-Canadian."

John A. Macdonald was a commanding figure in the Conference, with his insight into character and his knowledge of British institutions. By his side were George Brown, of the Toronto Globe, a "dyed-in-the-wool" Liberal who forgot party in his desire for Union; T. Alexander Galt, master of finance; Thomas D'Arcy McGee, poet, historian, orator; William McDougall, distinguished son of a loyalist; Oliver Mowat, a legal giant, who afterwards became Premier of Ontario; Charles Tupper, master debater; his political opponent, Samuel Leonard Tilley, a power in the Maritime Provinces; Adams G. Archibald, great parliamentarian.

These are the men who foresaw the necessity of a trans-continental railway that would connect sea with sea, and their vision became a reality in the subsequent achievement of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

...DEFENDER OF CIVIL LIBERTY... STRENGTHENER OF LOYALTY ... PILLAR AND STAY OF DEMOCRATIC GOVERNMENT.

SIR HENRY NEEDN'T WORRY.

Not much is gained politically or in any way by attacks upon Sir Henry Thornton, such as was made by T. L. Church, M.P., the other day.

The average Canadian, no matter what political views he holds, has the idea that Sir Henry is making good in a particularly difficult position.

Most people feel that the head of Canada's National Railways, through his own ability and driving power and the loyal co-operation he has been able to inspire in his subordinates, has made a remarkable showing since he took over the responsibilities of the office.

The inspiring record made by the Government railways last year indicates unmistakably that Sir Henry Thornton is the right man in the right place, and so far as his position in the estimation of the people of Canada is concerned affords an effective shield against the ill-advised attacks of the famous Mr. Church.

So long as the system continues to report such achievements Sir Henry has no cause to worry—were there half a dozen copies of Tommy Church in the House.

"THEY SAY."

During a recent election campaign in Northumberland the statement was publicly made in regard to one of the candidates that he had been found "dead" drunk in a ditch.

The sequel came last week when in The Examiner and other district papers appeared an abject apology from the man who made the statement.

The tone of that apology should cause a lot of other people to do some stock-taking as to their own tendency to spread gossip.

In the Northumberland case the offender admitted that he knew very little about the man whose reputation he assailed, but had merely repeated something he had heard from others and of the truth of which he had no evidence when the statement was made.

In every community there are too many people, not only willing to believe the worst about their fellow-citizens, but eager to see that the story of somebody else's slip is spread as rapidly as possible.

And usually the story grows rapidly worse in the spreading.

"They say" is the root of much evil.

BOILING THEM DOWN.

Not only in the Federal House but in the Provincial Legislatures, there are encouraging signs that our politicians are beginning to feel some of the resentment occasioned among Canadians generally by the tendency of all our Legislature bodies to waste time over trifling matters, and particularly in unnecessarily long speeches.

Newspapers everywhere have repeatedly urged upon our Federal politicians the desirability of confining their remarks in the House to things that matter and of checking the avalanche of words that daily threatens to overwhelm the Hansard staff, and there is reason to hope that the pleas for brevity are beginning to have some effect.

The art of boiling down a speech to its essentials, known so well by British political speakers, has not made much progress here, where from leaders down to back-benchers the mistake is made of confusing quantity with quality, and two hours are devoted to saying something that could be much more effectively said in twenty minutes.

Our politicians should study the technique of British Parliamentarians in this regard; they would find it helpful to themselves and beneficial to the country generally.

STATIC AHEAD—IF YOU'VE NO LICENSE.

Peterborough radio owners who have not as yet observed the formality of securing a Government license to operate their receiving sets would be well advised to invest a dollar in this way immediately and save themselves a fine.

The Radiotelegraph Branch of the Federal Department of Marine and Fisheries has launched a drive aiming at the rounding up of all set owners who have not secured their licenses, and already a number of offenders in the larger centres have been summonsed.

The Government radio officials have been decidedly lenient in their attitude on the license question, and as a large number of set owners have failed to appreciate this leniency and have not taken the trouble to buy a license, more drastic action is now being taken.

The fees received from the sale of licenses are used in the betterment of radio conditions, including the establishment of an "interference" service which is operated for the benefit of Canadian listeners-in.

Sources of interference are located and where possible removed, and in addition to local inspectors, the Radiotelegraph Branch provides a force of travelling experts who visit many centres each year when their services are needed.

Every set owner in Peterborough should protect himself by having a license ready to be shown when the officials happen to call.

A LITTLE CONSIDERATION.

Complaints are necessary at times, it would be ridiculous to claim otherwise, remarks an exchange. But nearly always the complaint is exaggerated in the making.

If, incensed, he explodes with even a single sharp retort, the kick that is made to headquarters magnifies that retort even to the claim of attempted physical violence against the kicker.

Why cannot people be fair and human in complaining?

Why exaggerate? Why lie?

The kick may result in the firing of an employee driven to distraction and sharp retort by troubles at home—such as illness of a wife or financial desperation.

Would you knowingly throw such a man into the breadline and deny his wife medical services?

Of course not.

Yet that is exactly what many of us may have done when we have "reported" an employee fairly.

These store clerks and conductors and others who serve us in our buying and travelling are human beings.

We might treasure them as warm friends if we knew them intimately.

A single moment's thought would enable one to stifle irritation, and give a little consideration to the other fellow.

A little laughter, and a bit of a joke would do both parties a whole world of good.

FRENCH IN CANADA.

Canadians of the French race have grown very tired of the oft-repeated statement that they speak a patois, a dialect different from "the real Parisian French." For this reason, the Government of Quebec has decided to take steps to dispel that idea. This decision of the Government Hon. Louis Athanase David, the Provincial Secretary, announced in a recent interview with Mr. Jean Charles Harvey of Le Soleil of Quebec. "Every year," said Mr. David, "eminent persons from other countries, after having made a rapid journey in our Province and having exchanged ten or twenty words with our cab drivers and chauffeurs, return home and proclaim that we speak an interesting dialect resembling French." The Government, Mr. David announced, was going to have written a readable book from which such persons might learn that "we are simply the French of Canada and that all Paris can understand our ordinary speech."

The Quebec Government, Mr. David said, had invited four prominent men of letters to act as a committee to study the speech of the French people of the Province and to make a report. These four gentlemen are Hon. Adjutor Rivard, a Justice of the Quebec Court of Appeal; Louis Philippe Geofrion of Quebec; Prof. Edouard Montpetit, K.C., LL.D., D.S.P., M.R.S.C., and Prof. L. J. Dalbis, both of the University of Montreal. Just how the committee will approach its task, Mr. David did not indicate. It will have to find standards upon which to base its judgments, because all French people, in this country and elsewhere, do not speak their language with equal nicety of pronunciation or of usage of words, and all do not possess vocabularies of equal extent. Of several members of the committee it is said that they have shown in their writings a thorough knowledge of the every-day speech of the mass of the French-Canadian population and of the spirit of which that speech is the expression. One member of the committee, Prof. Dalbis, is a native of France. Whatever opinion the committee may express upon the spoken French of Quebec, it must not be forgotten that the educational institutions of the Province have not been wholly cut off from intercourse with like institutions in France and from the influence of modern French culture. Quebec, too, has produced a long line of writers of French prose and poetry who have helped to preserve the purity of the French spoken in this country.

Furthermore, some French-Canadian authors and orators have been acclaimed in old France as masters of the French language. Louis Frechette was crowned by the French Academy for his "Legende d'un Peuple." Mr. Justice Rivard, now invited to join the Quebec Government's committee, has received the same high honor for his work, "Chez Nous, Chez Nos Gens." Prof. Edouard Montpetit, another member of the committee, was selected to deliver a course of lectures a year or so ago at the Sorbonne. When Hon. Raoul Dandurand, a member of the Canadian Senate, addressed the League of Nations Assembly, the Geneva correspondent of the French newspaper, Le Petit Parisien, warmly praised the speech. "It is the purest French, the most authentic and clearest of all French spoken," wrote the correspondent. "He (Mr. Dandurand) speaks a French that is not changed. It is our language in France that has been evaporated little by little and has become more or less sophisticated by the invasion of foreign words and argot. In Canada the French language remains unchangeable and without promiscuity." A recital of these facts should dispel the idea that educated French-Canadians speak a jargon incomprehensible in France. At the same time, it is scarcely conceivable that English-speaking Canadians who have some knowledge of French, who have listened to speeches by prominent French-Canadians or come into contact with educated French-Canadians could have entertained such a notion.—Mail and Empire.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 14 (Canadian Press) — Extreme dullness marked the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday, there being practically no demand from any source. The domestic trade was also slow but prices were firm.

The demand for spring and winter wheat grades of flour continued dull but values were steady.

The trade in all lines of millfeed was quiet but firm. The volume of business transacted in standard grades of rolled oats was small.

A moderate amount of business was done in fresh and storage eggs and the undertone was firm. The receipts were 768 cases.

Prices for butter were firmly maintained but the trade was inactive. The receipts were 366 packages.

A strong feeling prevailed in the cheese market and prices scored a fractional gain. The trade continued quiet. The receipts were 49 boxes.

RAISING MINK FOR FUR

VANCOUVER, Feb. 14 (By Canadian Press).—Raising mink for fur as a side-line to a general farming business is the pursuit of J. A. Ransford, of Lulu Island who several years ago brought two pairs of the little animals all the way from Quebec and now has a large colony of them. He finds the Quebec skins to be superior to those of the species indigenous to the Pacific Coast and he manages to obtain prices for them three and four times as high as those paid for other grades.

Mr. Ransford feeds his minks fish. He also breeds muskrats on an extensive scale and finds that the two species can be raised satisfactorily, even when comparatively closely confined. He has found that muskrats get along well without water to swim in and that unless natural conditions provide this facility, it is better to do without artificial provision.

WHAT'S IN BEAUTY AND WHY? AND HOW?

The Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—A thing of beauty is a joy forever
It's loveliness increases,
It will never pass into nothingness."

Those beautiful words of the poet express so much! Pages of prose might be written which would say no more!

Beauty is all around us, but some hearts are so attuned that they see it where another passes by unseeing. God, the all-beautiful, has surrounded us with beauty. It is everywhere. The sky in its lovely blue or in its wonderful sunset tints, the rainbow, the grass the brook, the mountain, the trees, the birds, the ligthning, and best of all, perhaps, the flowers! God has perhaps surrounded us with beauty, so that we will make our lives beautiful, and thus win an eternity of beauty.

Then there are the human beauties, a beautiful face, a beautiful form, a beautiful voice or a beautiful nature.

There is the beauty with which we can surround ourselves if we have the taste and the means. Beautiful architecture, beautiful furniture, beautiful paintings, beautiful sculpture, beautiful furnishings, clothings, jewelry, ornaments, etc.,

Those latter things have cultural value, but life can be beautiful without the luxurious beauties that wealth can bestow. John Boyle O'Rielly says, "There is nothing sweet in the city save the patient lives of the poor." Patience, unselfishness, charity, chastity, meekness are attributes of beauty also, and lack of those virtues can make unbeautiful and hideous souls.

Yours truly,
Virtue.

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

"You may not like a suit that is identical to the one we show in this advertisement; if so, we have plenty of other models," says a clothing advertisement.

The use of "identical to" affords another instance of poor "commercial" English. It should be "identical with." "Identical" means, according to Webster, "the same in kind, quality or characteristic; exactly alike or equal; as, many were sick with an identical disease."

The same authority says that "same" may be exactly synonymous with "identical"—that is, may have exactly the same meaning—but is often used more loosely. "Identical," however, is the strictest term for entire and absolute agreement or negation of difference. "No two leaves are identical." "The twins were dressed alike, even to the same shoes." It is evident that the shoes may be identical, without being the same shoes.

CAN AN ENGLISHMAN SEE A JOKE?

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Historical note.

The idea that an Englishman can't see the point of a joke is of long standing. It began when the second generation of Pilgrims began telling new-comers the one about the man who said: "No, that wasn't a lady, it was my wife."

Maybe it began even before that. At any rate, it is widely accepted today.

Stories of untold number have been retailed about the country concerning honest Britishers who burst into guffaws one day, two days, a week, even a month; honest Britishers who burst into guffaws one day, two days, a week, even a month after hearing a joke.

Many people in America even believe that a law had to be passed in London prohibiting the telling of jokes in vaudeville shows on Saturday night because so many people laughed out loud in church on Sunday.

As a matter of fact it seems that an Englishman can see the point of an American joke as well as anyone else.

But when he sees the point he doesn't see any humor in it.

He chuckles at a different brand of humor. What Americans think uproarious may not seem funny at all to him.

For instance, the old reliable one about the hunter who killed all the birds roosting on a quarter mile of zig-zag rail fence by bending the barrel of his gun to match the twisting of the fence, elicits no loud ha-ha on "The Tight Little Isle."

There it isn't a joke. It is just a lie.

Native American humor runs to absurdities and exaggerations; English humor to word-play, puns and personalities.

So when an Englishman doesn't laugh at an American joke it is not always indicative that he does not see the point; it just doesn't seem funny, perhaps.

Another source of the idea that the English can't see a joke is hinted at in the tale of the American who told "the latest from America" to an English friend.

When he finished he slapped his knee with glee, but his friend sat unmoved.

"Well, you will laugh at that next year," he said.

THIN HAIR NEEDS SILICON

A full head of strong hair has always been considered a mark of virility. Many methods have been tried by thin-haired people in an effort to grow luxuriant hair but tonics and massage will fail to bring about the desired result if the hair roots are not fed their life-giving minerals in the form of silicon and calcium.

Bobbing the hair has been found to be unsuccessful in most cases for the barber's shears cannot by any magic restore the silicon to an impoverished blood stream. For a short time after the hair is cut there may be a slight stimulation of growth but always at the expense of other tissues in the body whose silicon has been borrowed to feed the shortened hair. Thusthe rest of the bodily structures may be actually weakened to some extent, although this reason is not enough to account for Sampson's weakness when he lost his luxuriant tresses. Having strayed far from his native land and the coarse food he had been accustomed to from early youth, he suffered from a muscular breakdown due to lack of the organic minerals missing from the dainty food given him by his enchantress. As soon as he was put to work he was no doubt given the unrefined fare of the other slaves and soon regained his normal strength. If Sampson's captors had understood the part silicon played in his regeneration, they could have kept him as weak as our bakers are unknowingly keeping most people to-day with the sale of so many denatured white-flour products.

Why do you suppose we do not find a single bald head among primitive people? The answer is plain. It is simply because they use vegetables and grains in their natural state and are not so civilized or commercially interested in changing nature's foods into queer dishes.

Every bald man you see is starving for silicon and other organic salts. This is not only because they are lacking in his diet but also because of the fact that the blood suffering from a deficiency of alkaline properties, seizes upon the bones, hair and all of the strong tissues of the body and the result is a generally lowered resistance to disease.

The bald man is never a healthy man and can never become strong with abundant vitality unless the vital salts such as silicon are supplied to his system; then the use of such foods as the whole grains, milk, eggs and the succulent greens which are all so rich in the bone building and hair-building elements. If the hair roots have been entirely starved to death there is no treatment or diet which can restore life to them but the rest of the body will quickly respond as the hungry blood seizes upon these life-giving minerals.

BOY. 4 KILLED, DRIVER IS HELD

Motor Car Passes Standing Street Car at Toronto Corner.

HAMILTON FATALITY.

TORONTO, Feb. 14. — Struck down by a motor car driven by Morris Longboard, Clinton Street, at Huron and College Streets, about 2.30 yesterday afternoon, four-year-old William Studderd, 21 Glasgow Street, sustained such serious injuries, that he died in Grace Hospital about 6 o'clock last evening. Chief Coroner Crawford is investigating. Longboard was taken into custody by Detective-Sergts. Johns and Williams on a charge of manslaughter.

Eye-witnesses of the tragedy say that the boy, with his brothers, George, Roy and Walter, and his sisters, Dorothy and Myrtle, had started to cross College Street ahead of a street car which had halted there, when Longboard's car shot out and scattered the children. In the confusion William was struck. The boy was hurried to Grace Hospital, where an examination showed him to be suffering from seven fractured ribs and other internal injuries.

In their investigation of the affair the police learned that the motorman of the street car had taken on all his passengers at the stop and was ready to resume his journey, when Longboard, deeming himself within the law as the doors were shut, shot ahead. The auto caused the children to spread out. The boy, being the youngest, was left behind in the scramble and knocked down.

Killed By Truck.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 14. — Struck by a truck on Main Street, between Pearl and Locke Street, on Saturday afternoon, six-year-old Alex. Di Salvo, 20 Melbourne Street, suffered internal injuries which caused his death in a few hours. Charles Stewart, 912 Royal Avenue, West Hamilton, driver of the machine, was proceeding at about 12 miles an hour when the little fellow stepped from the sidewalk directly in front of the wheels. He was knocked down and the right front wheel passed over his body. He was unconscious when picked up and was rushed to St. Joseph's Hospital. Dr. L. Anderson Carr was called and announced last night that an inquest would be held on February 22. The father of the lad is well-known in Hamilton.

The world's largest machine, a turbine generator of 60,000 kilowatt capacity, has just been installed in the New York East River railway station. It generates enough energy to pull 47 trains.

ATTACKS ON QUEEN.

BUCHAREST, Feb. 14 (United Press).—Reports that Mme. Zizi Lambrino, morganatic wife of former Crown Prince Carol, planned to publish her autobiography caused extreme anxiety at the Rumanian court to-day. It was understood that Mme. Lambrino would call her story "Memoirs of an Unhappy Woman." Repeated efforts to obtain possession of the proof sheets have failed. The report said the volume would contain facsimiles of Carol's intimate letters and vigorous attacks on Queen Marie. Mme. Lambrino was believed to be in France, and it was expected the French Government would prevent publication of the book.

She recently sued Carol to obtain the use of his name for their son and for funds with which to support the boy. Carol won both actions.

Anne Nichols' riot of laughter, "Abie's Irish Rose," the play the whole world is talking about and which is now in its fifth year at the Republic Theatre in New York City, while five other companies have been smashing all world's records for lengthy runs and financial returns in other sections of the country, has been secured by the management of the Grand Opera House for an engagement of one night only, Monday next, local theatre-goers and those of the vicinity being given an opportunity of witnessing the greatest triumph in the history of the speaking stage, with a metropolitan cast and production, for the noted author-producer is sending her Toronto company and production to this city intact.

It is just recently that this company played a return engagement in the Canadian city, where some two years ago it astounded the theatrical profession and world at large by playing there seventeen consecutive weeks, something never before heard of in theatrical annals, but this is but what has occurred in every city it has been presented, and to-day "Abie" stands in a class by itself, as a record breaker and establisher of precedents, for the lengthy runs of the play everywhere will no doubt stand as a mark, for many years to come.

The sale of seats will open at the box office on Friday morning at ten.

"THE NERVOUS WRECK" SCREENED IN DESERT.

Picture Based on Famous Stage Success is Excellent Special Comedy.

Scott Sidney, ace director of the Al Christie organization, and McGrew Willis, scenario writer, motored through the deserts of the southwest for days to pick up local color for the filming of "The Nervous Wreck," a big Christie special comedy which comes to the Regent Theatre to-day. Harrison Ford, Phyllis Haver, Chester Conklin, Mack Swain and Hobert Bosworth are featured.

When the Christies some time ago acquired the rights to Owen Davis' sensational stage hit, it was decided to film it for the season of 1926-27 as one of two big specials which the Christie organization will make. The filming started in May, and Willis and Sidney made the adaptation of the original stage script.

"The Nervous Wreck" was presented on the stage in Los Angeles in May, 1922, with Edward Everett Horton in the role of the "wreck" and Mary Newcomb as the girl. It was produced the following season in New York with Otto Kruger as the funny hypochondriac and pill taker and June Walker as the girl who gets him into trouble with the "bad men" of the West.

In the Chicago company which started the next season Taylor Holmes and Vivian Tobin were the leads, while Lynn Overman and Mary Newcomb played in the London company. Everyone who saw the stage show will remember what a knockout it was, and it is said to be one of the biggest hits which Sam H. Harris ever sponsored.

It was really Lewis and Gordon, however, who were responsible for putting on the show in the East, after it had been presented in Los Angeles by Harris and Tom Wilkes. Lewis and Gordon had been Harris' partners with "Rain," and they were the ones who could see the great possibilities of "The Nervous Wreck," when Harris, despite the big business it had done at Atlantic City, Asbury Park and Long Branch, couldn't see the story. It is said that Harris made nearly half a million dollars with the show.

DOUBLE FUNERAL OF TWO SISTERS

Misses Bessie and Myra Henderson Die Within 48 Hours.

ONCE LIVED HERE.

TORONTO, Feb. 14.—The drama of sisterly devotion to the point of death itself will be illustratgd this afternoon when the double funeral of Bessie and Myra Henderson will be held from their late home at 24 Alhambra Avenue. Death had separated the sisters only some 48 hours yesterday morning, when Bessie, on behalf of whom Myra had already given her life, passed away. Both sisters will be buried together in the Oshawa Cemetery.

Miss Bessie Henderson, who was the younger of the two, had been ill for the past three years, and her death was expected. During that period she had the constant and untiring care and attention of her elder sister Myra, who ministered to her regardless of her own physical welfare. The consequence was that a breakdown ensued and pneumonia developed. Powers of resistance were weakened by her labors of devotion to her sister and Myra passed away on Friday. On Sunday morning then Bessie's illness had its inevitable termination, and she joined the sister whose devotion had ended in the great sacrifice.

Both sisters were active members of St. Jude's Anglican Church. Miss Bessie remained officially the church secretary until January 31st of this year. Myra was a member of the evening branch of the Women's Auxiliary. She was also a valued aid to the work of the junior branch of the Auxiliary, and a Sunday School teacher. Fitting reference to the deaths and to the sacrifice and devotion which they illustrated was made at yesterday's services by Rev. W. J. Spence, the rector. At the evening service the choir also sang an appropriate anthem.

The two ladies were daughters of the late Wilson Henderson, who was Superintendent for the Peterborough Waterworks Co. They lived here for a number of years and were well known in the city.

CONVENTION AT BETHANY

Rev. R. A. Clark To Be the Chief Speaker at Missionary Meetings.

ALL THIS WEEK.

The annual missionary convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance will be held in Bethany Tabernacle this week beginning Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, and continuing through the week, closing on Sunday evening.

A splendid corps of speakers has been secured for this annual event.

Rev. Ray A. Clark, pioneer missionary-explorer of the Indian tribes in the Amazon basin, of South America will be the missionary speaker. Mr. Clark's work among these unevangelized Indians, which numbers above several hundred thousand, gives him a knowledge of them that is probably above any other missionary.

Mr. Clark has a large number of colored slides made from pictures taken by himself, which will be shown while here. Mr. Clark will speak every evening.

Rev. D. N. Cameron, who was the speaker at the convention last year, will be present to give his inspiring messages from the Word of God. He will speak on the topics:

"Messages from the King."
"Studies in Matthew's Gospel."
"So Great Salvation."
"Bible Studies from I Peter."

Dr. Ralph Hooper will be present at these meetings as the speaker on Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Dr. Hooper was formerly an instructor in the Medical College of the Toronto University, and is now Dean of the Canadian Bible Institute, of Toronto. Dr. Hooper is an instructive speaker, and has an especial appeal to the young people. His school work has given him a close attachment to young people, and he understands their problems and is quite capable of helping. The young people are urged to hear him.

The convention will be under the direction of Mr. T. Watson, Assistant Superintendent of the Alliance work in Ontario and Quebec.

The re-arrangement of the seats and platform in Bethany has made it a delightfully commodious place of worship. The people of Bethany are expecting a splendid spiritual convention and they heartily urge everyone to attend these meetings.

30 OR 40 KILLED DURING CYCLONE

Great Property Damage in Cairns District of Queensland.

RIVERS OVERFLOW.

BRISBANE, Australia, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—Between thirty and forty persons are believed to have been killed in the cyclone which struck the Cairns district, on the east coast of Queensland, last Wednesday morning. All communication was interrupted by the storm and the only news received, by wireless is meagre. The material damage is known to be extremely heavy, particularly at Ingham, where numerous houses were washed away by swollen streams. Most of the damage ocurred in this district.

The rivers Herbert and Burdekin, near Ingham, rose amazingly, reaching from 60 to 70 feet above nomal. It is believed that the sugar crop was damaged to the extent of 150,000 tons.

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE — CII—How Science Aided Columbus. — by MAX HAHN

SCIENCE GAVE IMPORTANT AID TO COLUMBUS' DISCOVERY OF AMERICA. WHEN COLUMBUS PERSUADED QUEEN ISABELLA AND KING FERDINAND OF SPAIN TO FINANCE HIS VOYAGE HE BASED HIS ARGUMENT THAT THE ORIENT COULD BE REACHED BY SAILING WEST ON ARISTOTLE'S THEORY THAT THE WORLD IS ROUND.

THE COURSE WHICH THE NINA, PINTA AND SANTA MARIA FOLLOWED WAS DETERMINED BY THE MARINER'S COMPASS. THE INVENTOR OF THE COMPASS IS NOT KNOWN. THE CHINESE FOR CENTURIES HAD POSSESSED MAGNETIC NEEDLES WHICH AIDED THEM IN SAILING.

A MUTINY DEVELOPED AFTER THE EXPLORERS HAD BEEN OUT OF SIGHT OF LAND FOR 21 DAYS. THE CREWS WANTED TO THROW COLUMBUS OVERBOARD AND RETURN TO THEIR WIVES AND CHILDREN. JUST THEN COLUMBUS SAW A BIRD OVERHEAD, AN OMEN THAT LAND MUST BE NEAR. THE CRISIS SOON WAS PASSED AND THE VOYAGE CONTINUED.

NEARLY NINE WEEKS HAD ELAPSED WHEN THE CANNON ON ONE OF THE SHIPS BOOMED OUT THE GOOD NEWS THAT LAND HAD BEEN SIGHTED. COLUMBUS NAMED THE REGION WHERE HE LANDED SAN SALVADOR. DEATH PREVENTED HIM FROM LEARNING THAT HIS DISCOVERY WAS GREATER THAN THE MERE FINDING OF A NEW ROUTE TO THE ORIENT.

RETENTIVE MEMORIES OF DOGS COST PRECIOUS MINUTES IN RACE

Three Veterans, Each With Different Type of Dogs, Finish Close.

RETAINS LEAD.

Dogs Recall Barn Where They Were Quartered One Year Ago.

NORTH CONWAY, N.H., Feb. 12 (Canadian Press).—Three veterans of northern dog race trails, each with a different type of team, yesterday rattled over 52 1-2 miles of mountain roads from Ashland to this town to finish within 35 seconds of each other on the second lap of the second annual point to point race of the New England Sled Dog Club.

Francois Dupuis, winner of the International Derby at Quebec last year, managed to maintain the scant lead which he established on the first day of the race from Wolfeboro to Ashland, but last night he was a bare three minutes 50 seconds ahead of Leonhard Seppala, the Alaska veteran. Four minutes 40 seconds behind Seppala was Emil St. Goddard, 19-year-old racer from The Pas, Man.

Dupuis covered the course yesterday in 4 hours, 44 minutes, 20 seconds. Seppala was 10 seconds faster while St. Goddard mushed home in 4.44.45.

Dupuis covered yesterday's course with the handicap of a reduced team. Starting with seven dogs Thursday, one developed bad feet on ice-covered roads and the little Canadian was forced to continue yesterday with but six of his big mongrels. Seppala, driving seven Siberian malamutes, finished last night with every dog in excellent condition, while St. Goddard's seven greyhound husky cross animals showed signs of wear after the punishing uphill grind.

Dupuis and Channing both lost precious minutes near the finish line here due to the retentive memories of their dogs. Both leaders recalled the barn where they were quartered here a year ago, and both swung into the "home" driveway several hundred yards before the finish line, despite the frantic yells of their drivers.

Snow which threatened to develop into a storm at the setart petered out late yesterday and a clear sunset and brisk temperature last night gave promise of an ideal day for the final run of 44 1-4 miles down to Wolfeboro today.

THOMAS JEFFERSON A MASTER INVENTOR

Made Swivel Chair, Sod-Turning Plow, and Folding Carriage Tops.

Every time a motorist folds down the top of his roadster to give himself the full benefit of the rushing air, he can thank Thomas Jefferson for the invention which makes it possible to do so.

Every farmer who plows up an old meadow, turning the sod over upon itself, owes a debt of gratitude to Thomas Jefferson, inventor of the plow mold-board which makes modern grassland plowing possible.

Every desk worker tilting back in his comfortable swivel chair, or swinging easily around instead of having to get up and turn his chair, is under obligation to Thomas Jefferson, who invented this only improvement in seating devices since the time of the Pharaohs.

Every inventor who establishes in court his right to his invention against infringers can thank Thomas Jefferson for laying down the principle on which the United States Patent Office is founded, that the protection of the inventor is of more consequence than possible benefit to the State through the disclosure of his invention.

Any schoolboy knows of Thomas Jefferson, patriot, statesman, author of the Declaration of Independence, third President of the United States. Few, however, writes Frank Parker Stockbridge in the February Popular Science Monthly, have heard of Thomas Jefferson, naturalist, inventor, experimenter in every branch of the mechanical arts, patron of scientific research, and father of the United States Patent Office.

But the two Thomas Jeffersons are the same individual. Even a partial catalogue of his achievements in science and invention would occupy pages. His name is preserved in the annals of science in the Latinized technical name of an extinct ground sloth whose fossilized remains he was the first to describe, Megalonyx Jeffersoni. He introduced numerous European fruits and vegetables into the New World, and found new markets and uses in Europe for the products of America. When he was President, he laid the foundation for the modern system of Government crop reporting by personally watching the markets of Washington for eight years and recording the earliest and latest appearances of thirty-seven different farm products.

While taking one of the most active parts in the politics of the nation for more than forty years, he found time to carry on a voluminous correspondence with the foremost men of science in America; to devise numerous devices still in use, the need of which, like the folding leather buggy top and the sod-turning plow, were suggested by operations on his own farm; to design and build structures which still stand as among the most perfect examples of Classic Renaissance architecture, and in a hundred ways to promote the study of America's natural resources and encourage American inventiveness.

DIVORCES INCREASE.

Courts of Manitoba Busier in 1926 Than Previous Year.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 14 (By Canadian Press).—The sea of matrimony in Manitoba was a little rougher during 1926 and more domestic wrecks were tossed on the reefs of incompatibility than in the previous year.

This state of affairs is revealed by divorce statistics which show that while in 1925 83 couples were released from the marriage tie, in 1926 the courts gave 110 couples their freedom.

A comparison based on the fiscal year figures confirms the tendency toward an increased number of divorces in the province. In the year ending April 30, 1925, there were 110 applications for divorce, of which 66 were successful. In the twelve months, April 30, 1926, there were 145 applications, of which 95 were granted.

Without exception the courts of the province were busier in 1926 than in 1925. Suits entered in the 61 county courts of the province numbered 7,876, of which 3,627 were in Winnipeg.

Criminal statistics for Manitoba show that in the assize courts during the 12 months ending April 30, 84 cases were brought to trial with a total of 41 convictions.

C.N.R. HOTEL FOR TORONTO

ABOVE is an architect's drawing of the new Canadian National Hotel, which is to be erected in Toronto. The hotel will contain 700 rooms, and will have a frontage of approximately 336 feet. It is learned that the official announcement of the new venture was made by Sir Henry Thornton himself, from Montreal, following a meeting when final arrangements were concluded. It is understood that the necessary financing has been already arranged with New York banking houses. The railway is not itself holding a financial interest in the venture, but will give the new hotel a full measure of their commercial support. The land, most of which was formerly owned by Sir William Mackenzie, was strangely enough purchased by him for hotel purposes.

To have been recommended for the Victoria Cross "for valor" and distinguished conduct on the field of battle, but instead of receiving this outstanding award to have been reprimanded by senior officers, was the unusual experience of Colonel the Honorable James L. Ralston, C.M.G., D.S.O., and bar, present federal minister of militia, it has become known. Col. Ralston, who was four times wounded while with the 85th Battalion, Nova Scotia Highlanders, crawled out between the lines in the face of a devastating enemy fire with the help of another officer and carried in a wounded junior officer. Instead of getting the V.C. he was told it was not the duty of a commanding officer to risk his life in such a way.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story.

By Howard R. Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S FUNNY HAMMER

(Copyright, 1926, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"Here is the hammer," said Uncle Wiggily's wife to him one morning in the hollow stump bungalow, "and here are the tacks."

"Oh, very good. There is the hammer and there are the tacks," repeated the rabbit gentleman, laughing so that his upper lip curled almost high enough to hide his pink, twinkling nose.

"Well, take them," begged the rabbit lady."

"Do you mean for me to take the hammer and tacks back to the store?" asked Mr. Longears. "I suppose they give you these instead of the dozen eggs you ordered, and you want me to change them."

"Don't be silly!" said Mrs. Longears. "I want you to take these hammer and this tacks—I mean these hacks and this tammer!" She sat down in a chair and twisted, and very slowly said: "Please take this hacker and them rack——"

Up in the air she raised her paws despairingly, letting the hammer and tacks fall to the floor. Uncle Wiggily picked them up, kissed his wife and said:

"Calm yourself, my dear. You want me to do something with the hammer and tacks?"

"I do," she sighed, "but I'm not going to use the words or I'll get all twisted again. In the room where the bunny children are going to have their Christmas tree is a large cloth to spread over the carpet to keep it clean and——"

"You want me to tack the cloth down over the carpet before our bunnies have their Christmas tree fun—is that it?" asked Mr. Longears.

"That's it!" said his wife. So, taking the hammer and tacks, the rabbit gentleman went into the other room.

In this room, within less than two weeks, the Christmas tree would be set up. And you know how the green leaves fall off by New Years. So Uncle Wiggily began to tack the cloth over the carpet.

"Rat, tat, tat!" went his hammer. And then, all of a sudden, Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy heard Mr. Longears cry "Ouch!"

"What did you do?" asked the muskrat lady housekeeper.

"I hit my paw instead of a tack," howled the bunny.

"Which paw are you using for the hammer?" asked Nurse Jane.

"The right one," answered Uncle Wiggily. "I had the tack in my left paw and I hit it—I mean I hit my paw and not the tack," he said.

"Try the hammer in the left paw and the tack in the right," advised Nurse Jane. But when the rabbit gentleman did this he howled louder than before. "Wow! Ouch! Wow!" he cried.

"What's the matter now?" asked Nurse Jane.

"I hit my paw twice in the same place," answered the bunny. "Oh, why did I ever try to tack this cloth down over the carpet? Let the Christmas tree stuff fall if it likes! I'll hammer no more tacks!"

Nurse Jane heard the bunny gentleman hop out of the front door, and she and Mrs. Longears wondered how they were going to get the cloth tacked down when, a little later, they heard from the other room the sound of "Rat-tat-tat!" Very fast it was, too.

"Oh, Uncle Wiggily has come back," said his wife. "I am so glad! I guess he went out to get a pair of gloves so he wouldn't hit his paws any more. I must go in and give him a kiss."

But when she and Nurse Jane went toward the room, they saw Uncle Wiggily sitting outside the door, reading a book. But inside they heard the tap, tap, tapping sound of tacks being driven into the floor.

"Who is putting down the cloth?" asked Nurse Jane.

"Who is hammering?" asked Mrs. Longears.

"Ha! Ha!" chuckled Uncle Wiggily. "You will laugh when you see my funny hammer! Look!" He opened the door and pointed to a corner. There something red was going up and down very fast, like a hammer, and tacks were being driven into the floor.

"What sort of a hammer is that?" asked Nurse Jane.

"That's a bird hammer," laughed the bunny gentleman. "That is a kind red-headed woodpecker, who, instead of flying South, has stayed around here this winter. Woodpeckers have a strong beak to drill holes into trees. I happened to see him doing it when I hopped out with my sore paws, and I asked him if he would tap the tacks in the floor cloth for me."

"And I said I would be delighted!" said the woodpecker, "and so I'm doing it." They watched him hold a tack, point down, in his claw and then, moving his head and bill rapidly upside down, he hammered it in the floor. In a short time the cloth was fastened down and Mr. Longears didn't need to worry about hammered paws He gave the bird some cake crumbs for lunch and everyone was happy.

A BROKEN HEART

By L. H. G., Douro.

They had named her Winsome—Winnie for short—because she was such a pretty babe. As the days passed she grew prettier and prettier. Gilden curls, eyes as blue as the noonday sky, teeth of dazzling whiteness and features almost too perfect. Her parents were proud of her beauty and so was Heathside, her native village.

All through her High School days she was the envy of her chums and the object of the admiration of all the male students.

And as was to be expected she grew to be a vain, spoilt girl. Almost every youth she met became an admirer, and haughtily she made her choice of escorts. Some smitten youth would be raised to the seventh heaven when Winnie would accept him as an escort to a social or picnic or dance. But, each new escort was shortly superseded by another. She seemed to have no choice.

And then one night, at a dance in the neighboring town of Arbordale Winnie met Hugh Nelson. At once, he was struck by her beauty and sought her side again and again. And in the weeks that followed, it looked as if Winnie had made her choice. Everywhere she and Hugh were seen together.

And then suddenly a coldness came. Winnie's love of coquetry had somehow caused Hugh to realize how vain and heartless was her nature. In disgust Hugh turned from her. And only then, too late, did Winnie learn that all the love of her vain, selfish heart was lavished on Hugh.

She tried to win him back, debased her pride to draw him to her again, but in vain. Hugh avoided her whenever possible and showed his indifference quite plainly. Once his infatuation ceased he thanked his stars that his eyes had been opened in time.

After a few months Hugh became interested in Maisie Dean, a girl of much less beauty, but with a sunny and unselfish nature. They seemed made for each other and after a year of courtship they were married.

Winnie was stricken to the heart. Never till the day of Hugh's marriage did she give up the idea that Hugh would return to her. All her life she had found that her beauty could win anything she wished for. But now the thing she wanted most in the world, Hugh's love, was lost forever.

To hide her hurt, she threw herself into all kinds of gayety, but always the ache was in her heart. To various proposals of marriage which came later she gave a negative answer. Her life was lonely and embittered. Her beauty had spoiled her nature and broken her heart.

He Was Often Troubled With Rheumatism

Mr. Wilson Found Relief in Dodd's Kidney Pills

"My husband was troubled quite a lot with rheumatism," states Mrs. Wilson of 32 Pine St., Kingston Ont. "A friend advised him to give your Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial, which he did. After the first box he found a decided relief, so got two more boxes, with the result that he never feels rheumatism at all now."

Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate and strengthen weak kidneys. You will be surprised how quickly they begin to cleanse and purify, to soothe and heal the kidneys, at the same time backaches and rheumatism disappear.

HEAVY HAIL LOSSES.

Insurance Company Lose More Than Sum Total of Premiums Paid.

WINNIPEG, Man. Feb. 14 (By Canadian Press).—Heavy losses from hail on the western prairies during 1926 were experienced by the underwriters, according to H. H. Campkin, Regina, secretary of the Canadian Hail Underwriters. Some companies, he said, lost considerable more than the sum total of the premiums received. The worst pots were westernAlberta and south central Saskatchewan. Only in 1916 and 1921 was the damage by hail heavier than in 1926.

Mr. Campkin came to Winnipeg to attend an executive meeting of the Canadian Hail Underwriters in preparation for the annual meeting which took place in Montreal on January 25. At this meeting the hail rates are set. Those for 1926 ranged from 4-7 per cent in Manitoba; 4-9 per cent in Saskatchewan and 5-12 per cent in Alberta.

NEW ORIENT TRADE.

Cotton Wood Logs Sent To China To Make Into Matches.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 14 (By Canadian Press).—A new trade with the Orient has been started in British Columbia lumber, when a recent shipment of 500 cottonwood logs was sent to South China to be made into matches.

The initial shipment is being watched with interest, as it is considered a good market may develop in the Orient for this class of wood which meets with little demand in the building line.

Travelling salesmen make these their headquarters

IN many of our offices, Customers' Rooms like the one indicated above, are placed at the disposal of the Long Distance user. Writing material, maps, rate schedules, directories, timetables, calendars, etc., are provided. Here, in privacy and comfort, the salesman receives his calls as the operator completes them, writes up his orders, or makes reports.

Where customers' rooms do not exist, the Manager offers the visiting salesman the use of his office, and is ready to give him advice about surrounding territory, class of service to use, etc.

We hope that these additional facilities will make our service more valuable to the large body of travelling salesmen who use it so intelligently.

MODEL MAKING NEW PASTIME

AID TO INDUSTRY.

Model making is becoming an increasingly popular hobby throughout America. Almost every community has one or more followers of the pastime, and groups of them have clubs in all of the larger cities of the country. Canada, also, has several very active clubs, and in England model making is even more popular than here.

Models of almost every conceivable type of machinery have been built by members of these organizations. Railroad miniatures are especially popular, writes John E. Lodge in Popular Science Monthly for February, ranging from a tiny track measuring only five-eighths of an inch between rails to locomotives such as you see pulling trainloads of people at fairs and amusement parks.

Marine models also attract widespread interest. Tiny speed boats, which engage in thrilling contests, are one branch of the pastime. Thousands of model boat fans, too, are interested in duplicating in miniature other water craft, from the harbor tug to the ocean-going liner.

But it is in the building of a scale model of a steam locomotive that lies the greatest challenge to the skill of a competent workman. Many craftsmen do not stop with locomotives. They build and operate complete systems in small gage with every detail of equipment in miniature, including elaborate signal switching apparatus. Stationary steam engines are also popular, as are tractors and automobiles.

Model making has become an important factor in many lines of industry, because it is often possible to try out new mechanical ideas on a small model and save the expense of full sized experimental machinery. This applies particularly to complicated machinery of large size, where it is difficult to visualize the completed machine from the blueprints. A great tool works, for instance, recently used a model to determine the proper shape and proportions of a gigantic car wheel boring mill, and as a result saved thousands of dollars.

Women's Hygienic Advice

New way discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THERE is now a way in woman's hygiene that ends most of the bothers and worries of old ways. A new way called Kotex. 8 in 10 better class women have adopted it.

You dispose of it as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry or disposal problem.

You wear lightest, filmiest gowns in safety and without fear. For Kotex protects absolutely under all conditions. Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

You obtain it at any store, without hesitancy, simply by saying Kotex. Many stores have it already wrapped for you to pick up, pay for, and take home without even asking.

Package of 12 costs only a few cents. Once you try it, you'll never risk the dangers of old ways again. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

ADDRESS GIVEN ON BATIK WORK

Miss J. Bertram Tells Women's Art Association About Weaving.

EXHIBITS SHOWN.

An interesting talk and exhibit of batik work was the attraction of the Saturday afternoon programme of the Women's Art Association, in the studio of the Conservatory of Music. Miss J. Bertram of Toronto was the visiting speaker, introduced by the president, Mrs. William Blackwell.

Miss Bertram spoke on batik, studio weaving and outstanding examples of habitant work. Her talk was informal, and was illustrated by the numerous examples of batik on view. The origin of the art, as explained by her, was with the natives of Dutch India and Java, where the women use the material thus dyed as their one article of clothing, the sarong, a long scarf about two and one-half feet wide, and wound around the body. The manner of its tying indicated whether the wearer was married or single.

Miss Bertram showed two examples of the sarong, an older one made of cotton of cream foundation and heavy texture, dyed in blue in small and beautifully intricate pattern, the cream color obtained by dipping the material in oil and drying it in the sun, an operation repeated many times, and a modern example of lighter weight cotton, while in color and of less intricate design, showing the effect of the commercial trend of modern times.

The method of making batik was explained by the speaker, and aroused a great deal of interest. The work requires much time and careful planning of details. The silk used should be of good quality and light in color. The design to be kept white is traced and covered with melted wax poured from a small tin container, called a "tanting." The silk is then dyed, and when dry, another portion is covered by the wax and dyed again, in a darker shade. Seven or eight dye baths may be required before completion. Then by dipping in gasoline, the wax is removed and the design remains. A number of beautiful silk scarfs were shown, dyed by batiking by Miss Berlin, a young Russian woman from the Toronto Technical School.

Next, Miss Bertram showed some beautiful weaving done by Madame Simon, of Baie St. Paul, an old French lady, and also some old hooked rugs of lovely design and color.

Reference was made to other crafts fostered by the Art Association, in the obtaining of carved figures by Barbeau and a collection of weaving by early Canadians in the National Gallery and the Toronto Gallery, also of bookbinding and jewellery work.

Books recording advancement of Canadian art were mentioned; a folder of the "Group of Seven" and their work; the Canadian Artists' series of Chrismas cards which had a splendid sale this year; a History of Canadian Art by MacTavish, and a folder descriptive of the work of Canadian artists.

Miss Bertram, like Mr. J. W. Beatty, R.C.A., in his address on Friday evening in Reid Street Hall, deplored the fact that Morrice, who could not making a living in Canada, was forced to go to France, dying there. Now, his pictures are hung in nearly every art gallery in Europe.

Miss Bertram also spoke of the development of the Technical School and Ontario College of Art, whose pupils are trained to fill positions in manufacturing lines, as shown at the exhibition by the Toronto Chapter of Architects, when they invited all the applied arts in connection with house building to place exhibits of sculpture, silver, antiques, rugs, furniture, etc.

The latest step in applied arts will be demonstrated when Mr. Viggo Vihl gives a recital, to show how form in music can be used in connection with form in art.

At the close of the address, Miss Letitia Elliott moved a vote of thanks to the speaker, which was seconded by Mrs. V. Foster.

The musical programme of the afternoon consisted of violin numbers by Mr. Roy Rome, in the "Serenade Espagnole," by Freisler, and Raff's "Cavatina," with accompaniment by Miss Marguerite Rome. Afternoon tea was served later.

The president, Mrs. Blackwell, expressed her appreciation of the kindness of all who loaned shawls for the recent pageant of shawls.

Pussy Willows Found In Middle Of February

BURNBRAE, Feb. 14. — When will winter ever again compare with that of 1927? On February 11, Mrs. Robert Millar gathered a bunch of willow buds, commonly known as "pussy-willows," just ready to break into bloom. Is this a sign of spring or only a freak? In the second week of the usually coldest month of the year, motor cars are still running and the roads are in almost perfect condition except for some slight ruts.

Burnbrae people are taking advantage of the good roads to attend the hockey matches at Stirling and Campbellford. Sleigh-riding and skating are still popular with the fine evenings and plenty of moonlight.

Never before has there been a winter more ideal for working with wood. Farmers all over the district are well advanced with the winter's work and many have finished sawing and are all set for the coming of spring.

3RD PETERBOROUGH TROOP "VIMY"

How many Scouts in the 3rd have read carefully the programme each week, and how many have seen the first few words: "7.15, Scouts assemble; 7.20, Patrol inspection, collection of fees"? Not very many, to judge by the way these instructions are carried out. Perhaps the meaning of each is not clear. Well, at fifteen minutes past seven, all Scouts should be at the Troop Room. This does away with any lateness which would lose points in the Patrol Competition and enables a leader to know who will be present during the meeting. Five minutes later the patrol leader should blow his whistle, or give his patrol call or specially arranged signal and have his patrol line up in the patrol corner. He should go carefully over each Scout's uniform to see that everything is in order. He should see that shoes are shined, hair cleaned, teeth brushed, hair combed and that all his Scouts are ready for general inspection. Of course, he himself will be tidy and neat before he makes this inspection. Then he should collect the fees. When fees are collected before the meeting the matter is out of the way, and it is not necessary for the leader to go about asking each boy if he has his dime here, when they both should be working.

When the above programme is carried out, general inspection is only a matter of form. No points will be lost in the competition and each boy will be spick and span, like a real Scout.

After general inspection comes a period of work. Semaphore and Morse signalling were studied last Friday. The first two circles were to be reviewed in Semaphore and the letters E, I, S, H, T, M, O, A, N, R, K, F, L in Morse. These letters are the easiest to learn, all being simple dots and dashes or the easier combinations of same. Fifteen minutes were allowed for this review when the A.S.M. sent the following message to all the Scouts, using a flag: "He has an innate mania for tennis." That may or may not make sense, but it contains practicaly all the above letters and is good practice in Morse receiving. One of its best points is that very few Scouts can guess what letter is coming next.

Whip Tag was played next. It became very lively and interesting. Ten minutes were spent on it. A new game called "Slipper Shuffle" was tried. Instead of a slipper we had to use an indoor baseball, but it was just as good. The Scouts sat in a circle with feet flat on the floor and knees up as high as possible. One Scout was standing in the middle with his eyes closed. Someone touched him with the ball, then passed the ball under his knees to his neighbor. The Scout in the centre tried to locate it. If he called out the name of the boy who had the ball, they changed places; if he guessed wrong, he was "it" again. This is a good game which will be used again.

As many of our readers are well aware, we had a hockey game with the Fourth last Wednesday. It was a good game considering the terrible shape the ice was in. Nobody could play real hockey on such ice. After sixty minutes of hard play the game was called, neither team able to score. The return game promises to be a battle to the death, particularly if we have a fast sheet of ice. Several promising hockey players have been unearthed in each Troop and the game will be fast from the face-off. Arrangements have been made to have the game played at Mark Street Rink from seven to eight on Tuesday night. Everybody be on hand again. Every Scout who can skate, be there with a stick. Don't forget that we want to be the guests at the feed.

MISS DIX GIVES IMPRESSIONS OF THE HOLY LAND

Member of Public School Staff Gives Fine Address To Rotarians.

APT DESCRIPTIONS.

Large Attendance Featured To-day's Club Meeting.

Impressions of the Holy Land formed the subject of a most enjoyable address given by Miss Ethelwyn Dix of the Public School teaching staff at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club to-day.

Miss Dix was one of the party of Canadian teachers who participated in a Mediterranean cruise last summer, and her travelogue to-day was based principally on reminiscences of what she had seen in Palestine. She proved to have apt powers of description and her word pictures of the interesting places visited during her sojourn to the Holy Land were greatly enjoyed by the members of the Rotary Club. To some extent Miss Dix said it was a disappointment to find that it was not possible to definitely locate some of the places of Biblical days, and to be able to say that such and such a thing actually happened here, but at the same time there was the thrill of realizing that the events of the Bible stories had taken place in the particular neighborhood.

Much of her address was devoted to descriptions of the places visited in Jerusalem particularly the place of the Holy Sepulchre, the Mount of Olives and other sites of religious interest. Miss Dix described the Dead Sea, the River Jordan, Nazareth and points of similar historic importance, and her remarks were followed with close attention.

The speaker of the day was introduced by Rotarian Alex. Mowat and the thanks of the club were extended to Miss Dix, on motion of Rotarian W. R. Morris.

An effort was made under the direction of Rotarian J. A. Seels to have a 100 per cent. attendance to-day as a valentine for President C. H. Rogers. Every member of the club with the exception of Rotarian Barrie, who is ill, and Rotarians Dr. Morrison and O. DeGraw, who are out of the city, was in attendance. These may make up their attendance during the week but in any event next month will see another attempt to reach a perfect attendance.

U. S. BOOTLEGGERS IN NEW BUSINESS

Engaged in Smuggling Anti-Fascists From Italy To France.

NAPLES, Italy, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press). — United States bootleggers, with training gained on New York's rum row, are believed by the police to have participated in the organization of an elaborate system for smuggling anti-Fascists from Italy to France. The system was uncovered to-day by Fascist militiamen who had shadowed the leaders for several months. The militiamen, after holding up the sailing of the French liner Theophile for five hours, captured nineteen anti-Fascists stowed away in a tiny cubby hole in the bottom of the hold. They also arrested a young woman described as the leader of the gang, her assistant, and five other men, said to be returned bootleggers.

Father Kills Doctor When Little One Dies

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press)—Frank Caruso today confessed to the murder of Dr. Casper Pendola, physician to Caruso's six year old son, who died yesterday of diphtheria and for whose death the father held the doctor responsible. Dr. Pendola had administered antitoxin. Caruso was formally charged with homicide after making his confession. He was arrested at the home of his brother, Rosario at West New Brighton, Staten Island, where he had fled after the killing yesterday afternoon.

JOLLY JINGLES By Graham Hunter

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

Rev. P. Costello, speaking at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, reviewed the series of sermons which have been given on the First Commandment, outlining the various points taken up with regard to its observance and the errors which form sins against it.

Speaking of the virtue of love of our neighbor, which is a portion of the observance of the First Commandment, the reverend speaker recommended attention to the spiritual as well as the corporal needs, of our neighbors, and went on to outline the honor which should be paid to God alone.

Catholics pay a certain amount of honor and respect to the Blessed Virgin Mary and to the saints of God, revering them as special friends of the Almighty, but they do not adore them in any way. Their habit of praying before statues of holy personages is simply to bring to mind the special saint represented in the wood or stone, and to recall the virtues which made them near and dear to God. Just as the world honors its great men of science and Virgin Mary and to the saints of those who proved in their lives that they possessed sterling and outstanding virtues which gave them a place in eternity above the average. And just as a man or woman would resent insult to the picture of a beloved parent, so do faithful children of the Church resent aspersions cast on the images of holy and revered saints.

SALVATION ARMY TEMPLE.

(Contributed.)

Special services were conducted over the week end in the Temple by Brigadier Pinchen of Montreal, and the band had a major portion in all the services, it being band week-end. The family gathering in the afternoon was heartily enjoyed by all, and the evening service drew a large audience who were considerably interested in the words of Bro. Rose, the representative of the Bible Society, who has spent 25 years as a missionary in China. Brigadier Pinchen gave a very fine address, taking his text from the 1st chapter of John verse 29, "Behold the Lamb of God." He said that this was without doubt one of the most stupendous statements contained in the Word of God—probably the most wonderful statement ever recorded. It was the most triumphant moment in the life of John, who was able to say to the crowd: You asked the other day if I were Him—but here He is—I came only to warn and to urge you prepare the path for Him whose shoes I am not worthy to loosen—He who can take away all the sins of the world. It is hard to imagine there are millions in the world who as yet have never heard the story—never heard the name Jesus or of His wonderful love. You and I were cradled with the story ever ringing in our ears, yet there are many (even possibly in this temple to-night) who have heard and are turning a deaf ear, and will be shut out of eternity through their neglect; while, thanks be to God, many a poor heathen, who has heard, possibly through the medium of the Bible Society, whose work we have heard of to-night, will join that blood washed throng.

If you read carefully the chapter you will find that the first verses give reference to God, then follows the story of the coming of John, and his mission, and then the personal testimony of John.

Sin destroys one's happiness; it is not one's environment that is responsible, but sin. And what is sin? You may say the conscious knowledge of that which is wrong. Sin separates you from God—from friends—but by the sacrifice of Jesus Christ and His precious blood there is forgiveness. When he hung on that cruel cross he suffered every physical agony, to say nothing of the mental agony, that we might be participants in the glorious liberty of the soul that has sought and found salvation. A redeemed soul free through Jesus Christ—freed from the power of sin—from the sting of death. Think of the resolutions that Think of the resolutions that many people periodically make but they are useless. Chains or fetters of sins can only be broken by the acceptance of the shed blood of Jesus Christ. "Ye must be born again."

What is that which penetrates the mind of the most hardened sinner? Does not the word say, "If I be lifted up I will draw all men unto me. There is no one here who would say they were disbelievers. Those whose views are agnostic do not join this congregation.

One of the hardest things that the heathen who have heard the story of Jesus and His love, have to understand, that amongst the white people who have had the advantage of the wonderful story at all times, is the fact that there is so much wilful sin prevalent amongst them. It would seem sometimes that missionaries are needed most at our own doors. When it is remembered that following one ship with missionaries to some dark land is often followed by another ship loaded with liquor or even with weapons of war—contradictions entirely to the message that the missionaries will soon be preaching.

I heard once the story told by a West Indian Salvation Army officer of the morning of emancipation who said, if you could only have felt the thrill that we felt when on the wonderful morning the sun appeared over the hills—the dawn of our freedom, with what joy they loosed their chains, freed from physical slavery—but with the wonderful accomplishment of Wilberforce what greater freedom is given by the blood of Jesus Christ.

Jesus can take away the chains of sin that bind you. You who are unconverted here believe, but lack of courage holds you away. Remember, persecution cannot harm you—God will give you grace to overcome. He will give you salvation through the blood of Jesus Christ, just as soon as you realize your need and call upon Him.

Then not only will you have peace and justification but He gives satisfaction. There are crowds of people trying to buy satisfaction but it cannot be bought. Think of the crowds who come into Montreal and Quebec for the winter sports—home again—back for the summer holidays—lives given over to sport—useless spending of time and money seeking satisfaction, while possibly many of their compatriots are on straightened circumstances. Many first turn to the stock pages of their daily papers seeking satisfaction, many seeking sensations, but my investments are in this wonderful book—my Bible—32,000 promises, and to everyone of them I can sign my name and they are for you as well. Money does not satisfy; to many their money is a snare.

The lamb of the law was for the children of Israel only, but the Lamb of God is for the whole world. Some of you will be sitting here saying that you have heard this story so often and it may be old to you but remember it is true, and that you will hear it for the last time, but I beg of you to-night to start and serve God. You ask, how? By giving up sin and coming to God. How often have you heard the song:

"With a sorrow for sin,

Turn now, seek salvation. "For in such on hour as ye think not the Son of Man cometh."

These special band services will be continued to-night (Monday) with a band concert commencing at 8 p.m., when among the items of the programme to be rendered will be two written and composed by one of the Peterboro Temple bandsmen, Stan. Wheeler. Both are marches, one has been dedicated to Peterboro Band, and is to be called the Peterborough March, while the other has been given the title of 'Montreal March.' Other interesting items include a cornet solo, "Rule Britannia," and a trombone fantasia, "The Joy Wheel." This should not be missed by anyone.

LUCKY FORECAST.

Former Resident Here Wins £150 in Football Contest.

"One of the Sunday papers recently offered a prize of 1500 pounds for a correct forecast of twelve big cup matches. No less than 10 competitors succeded in giving all 12 correctly. One of the ten was Mr. J. Coleman, of Union street, who thus gets 150 pounds. It is only during the last few weeks that he has taken sufficient interest in the subject to send in a coupon."

Mr. Coleman is a brother of the confectioner and painters on George street, and has an interest in the Coleman property corner Brock and George street. Many in the city will remember him and be glad to hear of his good luck.

Convicts at Wormwood Scrubs prison in London are now given slippers to wear in their cells during the evening.

SEWAGE KEPT OUT OF RIVER

UP-TO-DATE SYSTEM.

In the last few years the Board of Health of this city has endeavoured to stop the pollution of the Otonabee river by large factories which dumped their sewage into it. In carrying out this plan most of the factories in this city have been connected up to the city sewer. Last week the final connections were made, whereby all the sewage from the Quaker Oats plant would go into the city sewer.

Up until last week the sewage of this plant had always been dumped into the Otonabee river. Many complaints were heard from residents who lived along the river, and from many people who used the Lake street bathing beach. The sewage from this plant alone meant more than 5,000 gallons a day, as there are 3 sinks, 52 basins and 43 closets in the factory. To look after this an automatic electric pumping station was put in at the bottom of Simcoe street, and from here it is pumped to the main sewer at the corner of Simcoe and Queen streets.

This new pumping station consists of two tanks, which are regulated by floats and are the latest equipment in sewage disposal machinery. This year the sewers of the Gas Works and C.P.R. freight sheds were also connected to the city sewer.

BIBLE SOCIETY HOLDS MEETING

J. M. Greene Elected President of Peterborough Branch.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

The annual meeting of the local branch of the Bible Society was held yesterday afternoon in the Y.M.C.A., with a large attendance, nearly every church in the city being represented at the gathering.

The following officers were elected: President, J. M. Greene; 1st Vice President, H. B. Cowan; 2nd Vice President, A. S. Zavitz; Secretary-Treasurer, G. H. Roper.

Representatives of the Bible Society of Canada who spoke in the city churches yesterday, explaining the objects and aims of their organization, met with appreciative audiences. The visiting minsters from Toronto were Rev. J. S. Harrngton, who spoke in St. Luke's Church in the morning and in All Saints' Church in the evening; Rev. Cuthbert Robinson, speaking at St. John's and St. George's Churches; Rev. S. G. Pennock, speaking at Murray Street Baptist Church and Mark Street United Church; Rev. R. H. Rhodes at Park Street Church and the Salvation Army Temple, and Rev. J. L. Harton at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church and at the Bethany Tabernacle.

TREE TRIMMER FALLS 15 FEET

Arthur Lloyd Lights On Head on Sidewalk—Is Recovering.

TWEED, Feb. 14.—On Tuesday afternoon, while trimming a tree near M. R. Kovitz's store, Mr. Arthur Lloyd, manager of the Tweed Branch of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, had a miraculous escape from a very serious injury. He was up in the branches about fifteen feet from the ground and due to some unknown reason, slipped or fell to the cement sidewalk, striking his head and shoulder.

Dr. Dales was summoned and Mr. Lloyd was at once taken to the hospital, where he was given immediate attention. His condition is improving and he was able to be taken to his home.

Blind Man Has $1,000; Won't Pay His Board

LYNN, Mass., Feb. 14 (United Press)—This city will go to court in an effort to collect $8 a week as board from Arthur Waite, blind inmate of the city home. Municipal authorities claimed that while Waite has $1,100 in cash he has declined to pay for his keep.

GOOD RESPONSE ABOUT AIR PORTS

Majority of Cities Show Interest When Questioned By Department.

FIELD INQUIRIES.

OTTAWA, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—The majority of Canadian cities have shown keen interest in the future of the airports of the Dominion, according to replies received by the Royal Canadian Air force headquarters to inquiries sent to the municipalities. Letters were sent to all cities recently asking about the possibility of setting aside land for municipal landing fields, and the response is regarded by the Air Force as very satisfactory.

BILL REPORTED.

Will Enable U. S. Secretary of Treasury To Permit Use of Liquor.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—(Canadian Press.)—A bill to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to issue permits to private companies for the manufacture of medicinal liquor was reported unanimously to-day by the House Ways and Means committee.

FOR five years Worthington travelled the highways and byways, setting his nets in the currents of business. And his catches were increasing in size and importance.

The clear head and steady hand of Johnson, his partner, put his orders through the factory for a profit. They were well on the road to prosperity.

But now Johnson is gone. The factory that worked smoothly under his guidance has lost something in efficiency. Someone must take his place.

Worthington decided to come in off the road and to hire someone to take the orders—to reap where he had sown. But the new man didn't seem to have any luck, so Worthington got another idea. He would spend half of his time inside and the other half on the road.

The latter scheme didn't seem to work either. The books showed losses week after week. Down, down went the business, and shortly the "Factory for Sale" sign was hung out.

Someone could have taken Johnson's place—no man is indispensable. Worthington knew of a good, proved man—but a high-priced one. "If I only had ten thousand dollars cash I could tempt him," Worthington had said. But he didn't have the ready money, the business went to smash and he had to start anew.

Business Life Insurance would have saved this business, as it has saved others. Ask us to send you our booklet which tells all about it.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"I'm going to phone the police station," Bob announced after his arrival early next morning. "They may have delayed letting us know. I hope Cherry gets back before the inquest, for she can clear up the whole business as soon as they let her tell her story."

He closed the door after him when he went into the hall to telephone. When he returned there was unmistakable relief on his tired face.

"They've located her—and Wiley," he added with an apprehensive glance at Jim Lane. "A country preacher had just phoned in to headquarters. Said he'd read the morning paper and recognized Cherry from her picture. They were married by him at ten o'clock last night, and they were going to drive to Chicago on their honeymoon. The night chief, who's still on duty at the station, said the preacher chap described them accurately, so there's no doubt about it's being Cherry and Wiley. He said Cherry seemed both happy and frightened, like any other eloping bride, and that Wiley was so elated he gave the preacher a twenty dollar bill."

"My girl married to a scoundrel," Jim Lane groaned.

"It's done now, Dad. There's no use grievin' over it," Junior spoke in a strange new voice. "If I know Wiley, and I believe I do, they can look for them near the preacher's—that is, if neither one knew they had anything to fear, and none of us believe they did."

"The police are already on their way to that locality. They were married near Minturn, forty miles east of here," Bob answered. "But I have hopes that Cherry and Chris will see the papers this morning. They'll know they're wanted and that it will be useless to try to go on. And since we all believe Cherry had nothing to do with this thing, we're pretty sure she wouldn't consider trying to escape."

"Guess we might as well take a squint at the headlines ourselves," Junior moved slowly toward the living room. "Guess we'll have to get used to being on the front page. Oh, Lord!"

Across the entire front page marched the tall, black letters of the headline:

FLAPPER BRIDE ELOPES; RALPH CLUNY IS SLAIN.

Continuing the sensational and tragic news, other headlines said, Maid says runaway bride quarreled with fiance; Garageman talked with Chris Wiley and eloping bride after slaying; Hundreds turned from the church when neither bride nor bridegroom appear for wedding.

In the center of the page was a picture of Cherry—the demure, wide-eyed, angelic likeness which Faith had given to the reporters, and beneath it was a portrait of Ralph Cluny—a picture at least twenty years old, showing Ralph Cluny as he looked in his prime, a virile, handsome, statesmanlike figure, with a thick mane of dark hair and a pair of piercing eyes, darker and brighter than the pale eyes of the waxen-faced old man that the Lane family had come to like and respect.

A laudatory biography of the state's most prominent criminal lawyer, set in black-face type, filled the rest of the space beneath the pictures and was continued on the second page, which was almost entirely devoted to the big story of the year. There were pictures of all the Clunys—Alexander and his wife and their daughter, Eileen, away at school, and their son, Ralph the second, now assistant district attorney; Mrs. Seymour Allbright, who had been born Alice Cluny, Mr. Allbright, and their daughter, Muriel. There also was a picture of bold-eyed, handsome Chris Wiley, and smaller reproductions of all the members of the luckless bridal party.

"No matter how innocent Cherry is, she's branded for life!" Jim Lane groaned and struck the paper.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1927

(Copyright, 1927, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Again the stars appear to frown upon human ambitions, according to astrology.

There may be rumors of war or of world troubles that are depressing while this configuration prevails.

Depression and despondency are supposed to be produced by the positing of the planets to-day and for that reason it is well to seek the society of healthy, cheerful persons.

The mind must be disciplined to see only the good and beautiful, if peace is to be maintained while adverse planets rule.

Scientists are to stress mental discipline as never before, it is foretold, for suicides are to be numerous.

Mars is in a place likely to encourage misunderstandings and quarrels and for that reason domestic harmony is menaced.

Introspection and self-pity should be avoided as never before, the seers warn, for there will be plenty of outside worries for the world, which will go through many strange and sensational experiences in 1927.

Women are likely to change their minds suddenly under this direction of the stars and engagements may be easily broken.

The rule is not beneficial for the aged who should not lament the prevalence of new ideas. They should safeguard their health.

Warning is given by astrologers that next June will see in the United States unusual speculation in wheat, for the nation's crop may be unsatisfactory.

India has little hope of anything like serenity, astrologers foretell. A plague and floods as well as political unrest will bring troubles.

Washington is to institute an aggressive foreign policy in the spring, it is prognosticated.

Persons whose birthdate it is should have a favorable year in which they attain the respect of all with whom they come into contact.

Children born on this day are likely to be reliable, sincere and very fortunate, for many favors and benefits usually come to those ruled by this sign.

Spinsters live longer than either married women or bachelors, according to one medical authority.

Little Tachouie Tasnjian, whose father and mother were killed in Armenia by the Turks, is shown above as she arrived in Toronto, having been brought out to Canada on the earnings spread over three years of her brother, Nathan, who is seen with her. He is 19 years old and working on a farm. She is 13. Also in the group is Rev. I. W. Pierce, general secretary of the Armenian relief association of Canada, to whom much credit is due in reuniting the surviving members of a tragedy-stricken family.

VALENTINE LOVE

(By Jeanette.)

He loved her madly. There was nothing he would not do for her, given the opportunity. But that was the trouble. He could find no way of expressing the devotion of his heart. She remained strangely aloof. There were moments when he fancied that she was about to turn to him, to reward him with a smile for the constant and fervent affection he showered upon her. But always he was disappointed.

They lived near each other, and he saw her always in the loveliest frock. It was a faint shell pink, with garlands of tiny rosebuds about the hem and lace at the neck. She had never adopted the new fashion of bobbing the hair. Hers was fair and shining, and she wore it with a long curl over one shoulder. He thought she was the loveliest girl in the world.

Then, one day, a rival appeared on the scene. He was a stalwart youth with black hair and a bold countenance. He wore golfing togs and gave the impression of being a great sport. He ogled her shamefully and finally established himself, by some means, directly beside her at a public exhibition which the trio of youthful lovers attended. But circumstances combined to take him away at an opportune moment, and once again the field was free for the devoted suitor.

For days he lived in an agony of expectation of fear or of joy—fear because of something that might happen to separate him from her, joy because of his anticipated meeting with the desire of his heart. But nothing happened. She pursued the even tenor of her way, apparently oblivious to his ardor. He began to fear that he would never, never be able to tell her of his heart's devotion.

Then the fateful day broke and matters took another turn. The public which had looked into the window so long had passed them both by. Her lace-paper loveliness evidently did not appear, and his handsome countenance evoked no wish in any breast for possession of a Valentine of a light-haired youth. Into a large box the clerks bundled them both. Side by side they met at last. With a relieved sigh, he realized that his moment had come. They would have a year of undisturbed peace in this quiet solitude before the Day would dawn again. None had bought them. Fortune had been kind to the lad and the maiden on the Valetnines.

Wash RAYON this safe way

RAYON is more sensitive to laundering than any other fabric—never wring it, never twist it, never rub it with cake soap. Rayon is most fragile when wet.

As you might expect, Rayon should be washed only in mild, pure Lux suds—dipping it gently up and down as you do silks.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

The woman who is thoroughly conversant with the work of the great French dressmakers prides herself on being able to tell on sight a frock from Worth, Callot, Paquin, Drecoll, Doucet, Cheruit or any of the other well-known designers. It is with them as it is with the students of painting who in visiting an art gallery can easily enough spot a canvas by Rubens, Rembrandt, Velasquez, Turner or any of the other great painters. No definite rules can be laid down in either case. The knack simply comes from long familiarity.

A good many women imagine they can spot a Lanvin very easily. Lanvin originated the "robe de style"—the period frock as we call it. It was because of her adaptation of the old-time bouffant-skirted frock to modern fashions that she rose from a comparatively insignificant position a few years ago to a position among the foremost French designers. Therefore, conclude some women, whenever you see a full-skirted picturesque frock that looks quite modern and at the same time suggests the fashions of the romantic past you are safe in assuming that it was made by Lanvin or was copied from a Lanvin model.

As a matter of fact, there are a lot of period frocks with which Lanvin had nothing whatever to do, directly or indirectly; and, on the other hand, there are a lot of characteristically Lanvin frocks that have no suggestion whatever of the historic about them.

Among the knowing ones in Paris Lanvin's name is closely associated with many of the most charming decidedly modern frocks of black and white. And her very simple magpie frocks are quite as much a contribution to present-day fashions as her "robes de style."

The sketch shows a frock of this description made of black satin with cuffs and collar of white ermine. It is a decidedly wearable little frock with the straight scant lines of the skirt relieved by the fan-shape insets of pleats at the sides. The idea of adding the ermine cuffs and collars is one that may well be copied. They provide just the touch of coziness that is needed for a spring frock. When warmer days come the ermine may be removed and collars and cuffs of fine lace or embroidery may be substituted. Of course one need not have real ermine. It is barely possible that in the original of this frock from Lanvin "ermine" was just a courtesy title applied to the white coney or rabbit that was really employed.

Don't Believe

Your teeth are naturally "off color"

You can give them dazzling whiteness and firm your gums by removing the dingy FILM that clouds them this NEW way

By right daily care you can work a great change in the color of your teeth. Can give them clear and charming gleam.

There is a new way in tooth and gum care. A way that removes the dingy film that clouds your teeth. A film that absorbs discolorations and keeps teeth dingy looking.

Just run your tongue across your teeth. And you will feel that film. It is the great enemy of pretty teeth and healthy gums.

It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It forms a breeding place for germs. It lets your gums open to bacterial attack, your teeth open to decay. Those germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Old-time methods failed in successfully fighting film. So ugly teeth were common. You must remove it. Ordinary brushing won't do it satisfactorily. Under it are the clear, whiter teeth you envy in others.

Now modern science has perfected an effective film combatant, called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film, then removes it. It firms and protects gums; beautifies teeth quickly and correctly.

What You Gain By Reading Advertisements!

When a merchant has a chance to buy something good at an especially low price, he is likely to order a large quantity.

That means that if he sells all he has, he can afford to sell at a low price.

But if he were not to advertise the fact that he has these goods for sale at the reduced price, no one would know of it.

You profit by reading of such bargains and by taking advantage of them.

WORLD RECORDS ARE BROKEN IN AMATEUR SPEED SKATING FINALS

Charles Gorman Wins International Championship, Tieing Record.

OVERCOME LEADS.

Ross Robinson Skates Five Miles in 14 Minutes 30 3-5 Secods.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 14 (Canadian Press)—Charles Gorman, of St. John, N.B., Saturday won the international outdoor speed skating championship when he won the 220 yard dash, after tying the world's record in the semi-finals. Another world's record was broken by more than forty seconds when Ross Robinson of Toronto won the five mile race in 14 minutes 30 3-5 seconds. The previous mark for this event was 15 minutes 11 1-5 seconds. In the first heat of the semi-final, Gorman skated the 220 yards in 18 2-5 seconds, tying the record.

The start of the second heat of the 220 yards was perfect, with the six contestants getting off together. About 40 yards from the start, Sheffield of Lake Placid began to inch into a lead which he held throughout the first and second turns and into the homestretch, but in the last few feet Gorman swooped forward and crossed the line ahead of Sheffield.

Facing the starter in the five mile race were 24 skaters. Nelson of Chicago grasped the lead at the start and held it for five laps. Lou Morris, New York, then wrested the lead from the Chicago man and held it through four fast miles. Seventeen skaters remained in the race at the end of the third mile and one less at the end of the fourth.

With four miles and a half covered, Gorman, who had been holding back throughout most of the race, broke into a sprint and took the lead for two laps at a pace that looked like a 440 yard dash. With half a lap to go, Gorman began to slow up and a skater from in back, hardly recognized by the crowd, but who proved to be Robinson, took the lead and held it across the finish line.

Close behind Robinson was O'Neill Farrell, Chicago, with Murphy, Chicago, third. Gorman and Bialis, of Lake Placid, were close behind Murphy. Sixteen of the twenty-four starters finished the race.

The Intermediate 18-year-old title was won by C. H. Smythe, of Moncton, N.B., with a total of 80 points; Donald Stack, of Johnson City, took the 16-year-old title with 50 points; Chris. Repas, Plattsburgh, won the 14-year-old title, and P. Nephew, of Malone, the 12-year-old title. John Duquette, Saranac Lake, carried off honors for the 10-year-old class, with Katherine Dewey, the only girl entered in the races, placing second.

The weather, which was stormy and windy during the morning, cleared in the afternoon and conditions were perfect with the thermometer about 20 degrees above and the ice metal hard.

ROVERS LOSE.

The Rink Rats met the Rovers in the Midget League on Mark Street Rink on Friday evening. Great interest was taken in the meeting of these teams as both had two wins to their credit. The Rink Rats, last year's champions, were in great form and put up the best game of the season and ran out winners by 6 goals to 1. W. Star and Norman Calladine were very prominent for the Rink Rats, while the Rovers were best served by Dallin, Weir and Le-Barr. The teams were:

Referee—Mr. Ewart.

The next games in this league will be played tonight. The Regular Fellows meet the Rink Rats on the Sacred Heart Rink, while the Rovers meet the Young Canucks on the P.C.I. Rink. Games called for 6.30 sharp.

T.C.C. BEATEN BADLY BY GRADS

Alumni Team Runs Up 14-1 Score on Paddlers on Saturday.

SUPERIOR CLASS.

TORONTO, Feb. 14. — Varsity Grads outclassed Toronto Canoe Club 14 to 1 in the Senior O.H.A. game at Arena Gardens on Saturday afternoon. The Red Ringers were helpless against the fast-breaking speed, spectacular combination, and deadly shooting as uncovered by the Alumni team, and at no stage of the one-sided contest were they in the picture even if they did try hard the entire sixty minutes. The Grades had the score 8—0 in the second period before Reg. Mills dashed in alone for the one goal scored by the Canoe Club.

The Grads have played wonderful hockey this season, but in no previous game did they display the class they showed against the Red Ringers. Their two and three-man charges on the Canoe Club citadel were brilliantly executed, while the individual runs of Dave Trottier, Hugh Plaxton, Red Porter and Ross Taylor tied the opposing forwards up in knots and spit the defence with ease.

OTTAWA WINS WITH ONE GOAL

IN OVERTIME.

TORONTO, Feb. 14—In a game that for one period provided the spectators with plenty of excitement Ottawa gained a 1-0 victory over St. Patrick's at the Arena Saturday night. The Arena held a capacity crowd for the game against the group leaders, and during the first period the crowd was provided with plenty of excitement. The teams started off at a fast pace, which was maintained for 20 minutes, but the last two periods were rather listless at times, the third period finding Ottawa playing a defensive game well known to them, protecting their one-goal lead.

During the the first session the local Irish played excellent hockey, and had equally as much of the play as their opponents. Both Roach and Connell were given plenty of work. St. Patrick's played a combination game which was far beyond a cellar position team, and several times the league leaders were lucky to escape being scored against. Roach, however, was kept busy, and Clancy, Denneny and Finnegan tested him frequently. He was forced to spectacular efforts on a couple of shots to save.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—The New York Americans, third place holders in the international section of the National Hockey League, brought the Chicago Black Hawks series of two straight wins this week to a close last night with a 2-to-1 overtime victory in a league game here. Laurie Scott, substitute forward, whipped the disc past Lerman for the winning counter after 6 minutes and 31 seconds of overtime.

Rangers, 3; Pittsburg, 2.

PITTSBURG, Feb. 14—The New York Rangers defeated the Pittsburg Pirates in an overtime National League hockey game here Saturday night by a score of 3 to 2. Bill Cook, who in the second period had scored twice for the New Yorkers, both times on passes from Abel, ended the game in the extra session when, after a brilliant combination with his brother, "Bun" Cook, he sent the disc into the Pirate net for his third tally. Darragh, Pittsburgh wing man, sent the game into overtime by scoring late in the third period.

DOES HAGEN FEAR JOHNNY FARRELL?

(By Jimmy Powers.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 14. — Keep the old lamps peeled for Johnny Farrell this year.

He is the one man Walter Hagen fears.

This tall, slender black haired, blue-eyed Irishman with a neat personality and every shot in the kit, is just about ripe for a sweet clean-up in the big golf and guff spasms carded for 1927.

I asked the Big Boy who he believed would give him his toughest run this year. Thought the answer would include Macdonald Smith, Joe Turnesa, Gene Sarazen, Leo Diegel, Al Watrous or Bill Mehlhorn. Figured the dapper Quaker Ridge pro was out like the bum's toe.

"Can't see it that way at all," says Hagen. "I fear Johnny more than any other golfer because I believe he has finally reached the stage where he can and will use the great game God gave him.

"Most everybody hoped he'd come galloping through long before this. When he lagged a bit they lost their interest and even if he did come close failed to get the credit due him. He's farther advanced right now than Gene Sarazen was at the same age.

"He certainly has the shots. He has a fine free swing with the wood, a crisp iron style, and there are not many better putters.

"And here's another thing — each year he's slowly and quietly forged AHEAD. All his changes have been for the better. I'd like to have a look at the year's tournament averages just to see if they don't bear out my opinion."

In 30 championship rounds in 1926 Johnny Farrell slugged the pill for an average of 72 11-30 strokes.

These figures take in only the leaders who have played 16 or more rounds in events of a major caliber.

Of the eight first places in the eight leading tournaments Hagen and Farrell together won two apiece or as many as the rest of the pros put together.

Farrell was tied for third in the U. S. open with 297; he was fifth in the Canadian open on 291; he was second in the eastern open on 284; he was first in the Shawnee open on 289; he was second in the Metropolitan open on 288; he was first in the P.G.A. qualifying on 142, leading Leo Diegel, Jim Barnes, Gene Sarazen and Joe Turnesa, and he was first in the Westchester open on 148.

Farrell, like the rent, will be very much due this year.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE — By Ahern

LES CANADIENS DEFEAT DETROIT

Score in Every Period in Saturday's Battle Against Cougars.

ROUGH GAME.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League flashed across Windsor ice for a 4 to 1 victory over the Cougars of Detroit Saturday night. The locals were fast but looked slow in comparison to the rushing midgets.

Les Canadiens scored in every period, Gagne making a goal in the first and second, while Lepine tallied in the opener also, and Gardiner made the last goal just two minutes before the game ended. Walker contributed the only score for Detroit. The game was rough. Sheppard and Lepine, Briden and Morenz and Keats and Leduc were separated in the midst of fisticuffs and sent to the penalty box, the first pairs in the opening period and the other men in the final. A policeman placed himself between Briden and Morenz when they continued their dispute verbally but hotly on the way to the "pen" and they kept muttering at each other throughout the time they were idle.

The Montreal team deserved their victory not only on account of the superior speed with which they baffled the Cougars, but because of the team work which so often brought a man just in front on the goal while defence was concentrating on a mate of the side. A pass, and only brilliant work by Holmes could prevent another score. The victors profited by keeping to their lanes and their first line again and again stopped Detroit's attacks before they were well under way with brilliant pokechecking.

Holmes got a hand early in the first period when he juggled the puck in front of the goal he was defending, then swept it through the air toward the stands with a tennis shot.

A moment later Gagne made a brilliant and unassisted goal, slipping past Arbour to crash the puck into the net. Lepine attempted to repeat the performance from the other side of the ice, and failed. Nothing discouraged, he made another attempt and this one was successful. Both defence men were busy with Gagne and the little forward shot to Lepine who slid the rubber in. Sheppard and Lepine got into a battle near the Cougar net and were banished.

Foyston nearly made a goal for Detroit but fell short when three Montreal men came on him at once.

Morenz picked up the puck as it slid out of the scrimmage and nearly netted it.

Then Walker took a pass from Briden and shot it under Hainesworth as the goalie was rising from the ice to which he had fallen as he saved a previous shot.

Morenz and Briden got into a fight, which a policeman throught merited his attention when they came to the bench.

Joliat was near a goal on a pass from Mantha in the early part of the second period. These two and Gagne gave Goalie Happy Holmes a hot time as the period started. Morenz sent a series of shots that crashed against the guardian's stick like pistol shots.

Detroit was having a little luck in getting near the Canadiens' goal in any kind of formation to score. One of their closest attempts was made unavailing when Gardiner struck Riley's stick, just deflecting a hard open shot.

Holmes was forced to miracles by the constant Canadien barrage. He failed once when Gagne brought the puck through the Cougars and sent it hurtling waist high past the goalie on an angle from the left. It struck the side of the net and the red light flashed.

The Detroiters were working hard as the period closed, and continued when play started in the final frame. Their efforts were not productive of goals, for they could seldom get into shooting territory without two or three Canadiens on top of the puck carrier, and tended too much to bunch themselves about the puck instead of spreading and passing.

Gardiner clinched the Montreal victory with a scintillating solo run down the ice which ended in a shot that whizzed into the net for the fourth tally.

The Cougars battled valiantly but without scoring in the two minutes that remained.

MAROONS LOSE TO THE BRUINS

Unable To Cope With the Speedy Plays Launched By Visitors.

DEFENCE CRACKED.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 14 (Canadian Press)—Boston Bruins displayed championship hockey in defeating the Montreal Maroons at the Forum Saturday night, 3-2. Rested since last Tuesday, the Bruins launched speedy thrusts from the start and had a somewhat jaded Montreal defence cracking at critical moments. But the Boston win did not come easily. Outplayed in the first two sessions and for a portion of the third, the Maroons fought wildly in the last five minutes of the game to overcome a two-goal handicap. With less than one minute to go they got the Bruins margin to one and in the dying seconds of the game had the puck at the Boston goal-line with Bruins massed in the goal mouth to stave off the tying tally.

It was an injury to Dutton in the main that started all the trouble for the Maroons. Boston had been pressing them more up to the time Dutton was injured, but the Maroon defence had held on one way or another and, when they faltered Benedict had arisen nobly to the occasion. The score sheets were clean. But when Dunc Munro saw Dutton amble back to the defence after a rush with his mouth bleeding he deliberately kicked the puck in front of his own goal that Dutton might be relieved.

Boston got its chance. From the face-off in front of the goal mouth the puck went back ten feet to speedy Oliver, who stopped it with his skate, took aim and let fly. Benedict saw it coming through a maze of legs and just blocked the shot. The puck fell on the edge of the goal line as the hustle started for the rebound. In the melee that ensued it was juggled over the goal line and Boston were one up.

The reverse flabbergasted the Maroons. Immediately after Nels Stewart was chased for tripping and before the Montrealers had settled down Eddie Shore had carried the puck in and burned a shot across Benedict to the corner of the net.

That two goal lead looked like more than enough, with the Boston defence playing the way it was.

Then Stewart flashed one of the plays which brought him glory last season. He rushed and gave Siebert the shot, boring in for the rebound. He trapped the puck after Winkler had saved, but could not get his shot away from the front. He twisted his stick around his back and let fly. Winkler was completely tricked and the Maroons were in the hunt one goal behind.

Back came Boston with a goal that had Maroon players dazed and the fans gasping. Oliver had taken a pass from Galbraith on the left side. He circled around the Maroon defence to the right and shot. Benedict dove and blocked and Oliver could just get his stick for a polite poke at the puck after the rebound. With no Maroon to clear it away, Benedict helpless on the ice, the puck started its slow way towards the goal line. It just had enough momentum to get over the line.

With but five minutes to go, Montreal's hopes were shattered, but the team kept battling along until the last minute when Stewart rushed and shot and Oatman bagged the rebound, fifty seconds from the end of the game.

Maroons launched a last desperate onslaught. They took the play to Boston's end and piled the Bruins into their own goal mouth to save, Winkler getting the puck in his hand and holding tight to keep out the tying tally.

It was a spirited ending to a fast, strenuously-fought game, but it came too late for the Maroons.

VETERAN WINS NEW ENGLAND DOG CLASSIC

Experience Tells, in Seppala's Victory Over St. Goddard on Saturday.

DUPUIS THIRD.

Finished With Full Team in 3 Hours, 56 Minutes, 50 Seconds.

WOLFEBORO, N. H., Feb. 14.—Canadian Press. — Experience born of 26 years with dogs in the frozen wastes of Alaska tipped the scales against the courage of youth to bring Victory to Leonhard Seppala, 50 year old veteran musher in the final stages of the New England sled dog club's second annual point to point race of 133 1-2 miles which ended here last Saturday night.

Emil St. Goddard, 19 year old youngster from The Pas, Man., fought him off for two days, once in the 36 1-2 mile run from this town to Ashland and again along the 52½ mile trek over the Sandwich Mountains into North Conway. But Seppala made his bid and earned his victory on the last 16 miles.

Giving his little Siberian Malamutes their heads and bringing into play the knowledge gained from ownership of more than 1000 dogs, the man who raced a diphtheria epidemic to Nome two years ago, brought his full team of seven dogs into Wolfeboro from North Conway in 3 hours 56 minutes and 50 seconds. The final dash gave him a total running time of 11 hours, 57 minutes, 45 seconds, just 12 minutes, 55 seconds faster than St. Goddard could urge the greyhound husky team that had brought him three victories in the annual derby at The Pas. The young Canadian's final time was 12 hours 10 minutes 40 seconds.

Twenty five minutes 5 seconds behind Seppala was Francois Dupuis, a former soldier, light keeper, and dog racer extraordinary, from Quebec. Dupuis had led the entire field for two days but his seven giant mongrels wilted under the pace set, and only five were left to pull his sleigh home.

Seppala's total prize money for the day was $1300. He won $1000 for finishing first. Kingoak brought him $100 for fifth place and the New England sled dog gave him $200 for bringing in the best conditioned team of the race. St. Goddard won $500 for second place, Dupuis $300 and Mason $200. Prizes, cups and ribbons went to the drivers at the annual race banquet Saturday night.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, Feb. 14.—The Second and Third Form pupils of Marmora High school were the guests of Deloro Sunnyside Club at a skating party at Deloro rink on Wednesday evening. Following the event, adjournment was made to Deloro Hall, where an evening's varied recreation was participated in. Mrs. R. Hunter was pianist for the evening and kindly chaperoned the party.

CITY BONSPIEL OPENS TUESDAY

Biggest List of Entries in the History of Peterborough Curling Club.

EIGHT FROM KEENE.

The open bonspiel of the Peterborough Curling Club, which opens to-morrow morning at 9 o'clock, promises to be the most successful the club has ever had. There are already sixty entries in the events, with the probability that a few more will drift in. The following places will be represented by one or more rinks:

Bobcaygeon, Cobourg, Cannington, Dunsford, Gravenhurst, Keene, Lakefield, Lindsay, Locust Hill, Millbrook, Oshawa, Orillia, Stouffville, Unionville, Claremont, Norwood, Hastings, Hamilton, Fenelon Falls.

Keene, always to the fore in curling, is extending itself this year, sending eight entries.

The first draw will take place at 9 o'clock sharp.

WATCH THE KIDNEYS

Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.

Mr. Arthur Finch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried.

Y.W.C.A. ACTIVITIES

This week's activities at the Y.W.C.A. include two big Valentine Parties. One on Saturday morning at 10 o'clock for Juniors, Babies and Intermediate Gymnasium Classes will be in the form of a fancy costume party, and the members are asked to bring 5 cents and cake or candy. On Saturday evening at 7 o'clock members of Senior Gymnasium classes are invited to a snowshoe tramp or if not enough snow to a mocassin tramp followed by refreshments and games at the Y.

Sewing for the Gymnasium Pageant begins this week and all leaders who would volunteer to help will be most welcome and their help much appreciated. The Pageant will take place early in May, and material for 500 costumes awaits the transforming touch of the sewing committee.

Members of the Wohelo Club are reminded of ractices each night at 7.30 for their play "'Neath the Sceptre of Susan," which will be presented March 8th, at the Y.W.C.A.

The Old Country Club extends a welcome to all girls from Oceseas to meet with them Thursday evenings for a social time. February 24 for next meeting.

AROUND THE CITY.

Twenty-three placements were made by the government employment bureau last week. There were 33 new applicants and at present there are 123 on the list.

The fire department received a call to an automobile fire on Hunter street west. The small foot heater had become very hot, setting the rug on fire.

Last night, for the second time within a week, the whole department was called out to a chimney fire on account of some one turning in the alarm through a box. Chief Gimblett wishes the citizens to refrain from this practice, as it looks foolish to see the whole department turn out to a chimney fire. A telephone call is sufficient and just as prompt service will be rendered.

Lunatic Attacks Deputy When Refused Pension

BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 14 (United Press)—A lunatic who wanted to be given a pension to study in Europe to become "the perfect ventriloquist" attacked yesterday Nemesio Camacho, Liberal leader, for failing to introduce such a bill at the last Congress. Camacho was slightly wounded in his left leg.

OBITUARY.

WM. W. JOHNSTON.

The passing of the late W. W. Johnston ,whose burial took place on Saturday afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery, removed from the city one of its oldest and best known residents. Mr. Johnston, who would have been 83 years of age in April, came to Peterborough in 1862 from Beauharnois, Que., where he was born and entered the dry goods business with his father, the late Robert Johnston, under the firm name of Johnston and Dixon. After his father's death he went into business for himself as the W. W. Johnston Company, in the old Crystal Block, nearly opposite the Examiner office. After retiring from this business he was the representative of the F. N. Burt Co., of Toronto in this district.

Mr. Johnston was a life-long member of St. Paul's Presbyterian church and it was mainly through his efforts and those of the late J. W. Bennett, that the Mission Sunday school on Aylmer street was founded.

The funeral service on Saturday was conducted by Rev. Mr. Allan, of St. Paul's. The pallbearers were Messrs George, Arthur and Walter Perks, grand nephews, and Thomas Perks, great great nephew, Mr. J. C. Smith and Mr. Hugh Bertram.

His immediate surviving relatives are Mrs. Perks, Gilmour street, niece, with whom he has resided; Mrs. Harold J. Muir, La Jolle, Cal., niece, and Mr. Frank H. Johnston, of Chicago, a nephew.

Mr. Johnston was a most pleasant and courteous gentleman, and much esteemed by many friends he had made during his business and church life in the city.

Mine Market Irregular; Laval and Hollinger Lead

TORONTO, Feb. 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Irregular trading was in evidence on the standard mining exchange to-day. Laval Quebec and Hollinger were the market leaders. The former remained firm at 40, but Barry Hollinger weakened five points under the selling pressure to 61. Duprat was active and sold off 1 7-8 points to 21. Hollinger Consolidated was a firm spot, selling upwards to 22.25, a gain of ten cents a share. McIntyre was down 10 cents a share to 26.40. Dome Mines sold off 15 cents a share to 9.10 while Victory Silver eased 1-4 to 10 1-4.

Increases In Dividends Send Prices Up Again

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).— Higher dividends and the dissemination of a bullish interview by William G. Durant, prominent market operator, provided the background for another advance in prices in today's stock market. Buying orders were spread over a fairly broad list, but speculative interest centred largely in the industrials and specialties.

The recent increase in the General Motors dividend, followed by the announcements today of an increase from $7 to $8 in the annual rate on Dupont and from $4 to $5 on Youngstown Sheet and Tube inspired hopes of other special distributions in the near future. Money rates continued relatively easy and business, as a result, was favorable.

Despite the recent softening of steel prices, shares of the leading steel producers found a good market. Gulf States was run up over four points, and Republic and United States Steel Common each sold two points higher. The prediction of President Vauclain of Baldwin that operations of his plant would average 50 per cent this year as against 40 per cent in 1926, coupled with reports of large railroad orders, accelerated demand for the equipments.

Low priced rails with merger possibilities, which were the feature of most sessions last week, were rather quiet, with the exception of New Haven and Wabash issues, which registered gains.

WRIGHT-HARGEAVES

Plans in connection with the expansion program of the Wright-Hargeaves Mines are proceeding well, and all indications point to greater things in the future for this enterprise.

The directors met last Thursday to approve the annual financial report which is being mailed to shareholders today and the board also approved of the officials to proceed at once to increase the mill to between 600 and 750 tons capacity.

The purchase for a new hoist was also ratified and the order for a new hoist has been placed, good for 3,500 feet for No. 3 shaft on number two or the south vein.

LAKE SHORE MINES.

Their mill is now treating 600 tons daily on which a profit of $10.00 per ton is being made. This rate of profit works out approximately $2,040,000 or better than one hundred per cent on the $2,000,000 stock outstanding.

The mill is being stepped up immediately to 750 tons for a brief period it was tuned up to carry this load. This tonnage on a profit basis of $10.00 per tons would yield total ne profits of $550,000 per annum. Equal to 125 per cent on the stock.

It is understood that preparations are being made to increase tonnage to 1000 tons daily by midsummer or autumn. In this case profits would be $10,000 daily or $3,400,000 for a year of 340 days. This equal to 170 per cent on the stock valuation of $24.00.

Lake Shore Mine while young is developing rapidly. It has some $30,000,000 in ore reserves down to 1000 feet and the potentialities above that horizon are not by any means fully exploited. If one stops to calculate what ore resources the company will have down to 3000 feet and even 5000 feet provided values hold the results would be startling.

There are grounds for calculating that Lake Shore will be treating 1500 tons daily, of ore, some time in 1927. This would represent profits of $15,000 daily or $5,100,000 per annum equal to 255 per cent on the stock or 7 per cent on stock with market value of $36.00.

Lake Shore has a length of 2800 feet on the main break of the camp while sinking is now under way down to 1500 feet depth. Its known resources occur in the two main ore bodies at 1200 feet and above. Several other ore bodies are known to exist which has not been touched on any level. From these a considerable additional tonnage may be expected above and below 1000 ft. level.

In the above calculations millheads are taken at $15 and costs at $5.00. This allows for mixing of any low grade materials.

Unlisted Section Active; Massey-Harris Up Again

TORONTO, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press)—Brisk trading amongst the unlisted issues, of which Petroleum, Noranda, and Hiram Walkers were most prominent in regard to activity, and a spectacular upward movement on the part of Massey Harris in the listed section were features of the trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day.

Massey Harris, in addition to being by far the most active stock, soared up 3 1-2 points at the opening. Later it receded to 94, but recovered at the close to 94 1-4, which represents a gain of 2 1-2 points over the close on Saturday. Seagram was the next most active issue and advanced 1-2 to 24 1-2. Arnold Bros. came in for considerable attention and scored a gain of 1 1-2 points at 20.

In the unlisted section, Walkers was up 1-8 to 39, International Petroleum up 3-8 to 34 7-8, and G. and W. up 1 to 48, while Noranda was off 30 to 20.60.

Wheat Prices Go Down After Strength At Opening

CHICAGO, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press)—Wheat underwent a sinking spell to-day. Initial prices had an upward slant but buying power was inadequate and the market quickly fell back. Increased quantities of wheat afloat for import acted as a weight on values. Opening at 1-4 to 7-8 cents advance, wheat dropped to well below Friday's finish. Corn, oats, and provisions also declined, corn starting at 1-4 cents off to 1-8 cent up and then receding.

Opening prices were — Wheat, 141 3-8, July 135 3-8. Corn, May 81 1-4, July 84 1-2. Oats, May 46 7-8, July 47 1-8.

City Council Approves Extension To Collegiate Institute

WITNESSES SAY THAT REDUCTION OF THE EXCISE DUTY ON LIQUOR PROBABLY CURB ILLICT TRAFFIC

NO LOSS IN REVENUE.

Attorney-General Presents Lengthy Submission on Import of Liquor.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—Two high officers of the Customs service in the Province of Manitoba declared to the Royal Customs Commission, at its initial sitting here yesterday, that a reduction in the excise duty on liquor would probably result in better observance of the law. Under questioning by Hon. N. W. Rowell, Commission counsel, Inspector A. Code, whose duties take him all over this province, expressed the opinion that if the excise was dropped from nine dollars to about $4.50 a gallon on whisky, there would be no loss in revenue because more of the genuinely manufactured article would be consumed. There would, however, be a decrease in the number of illicit stills in operation.

This view was concurred in by T. H. Verner, collector of Customs at Winnipeg, who stated that a lowering of the excise duty would tend to a better observance of law. The duty of nine dollars a gallon on liquor made it practically prohibitive to persons who were not well off, and consequently they were sometimes driven to purchase liquor which was manufactured in an illicit way.

In discussing the operations of illicit stills in the province, Inspector Code caused some amusement. He said that the last still seized in Winnipeg turned out an exceptionally fine product. If you and I saw some of the whisky turned out from this still on the table before us, we could hardly distinguish it from the genuine article," he said earnestly, addressing Mr. Rowell.

Presents Permission.

The Manitoba sittings of the Commission opened quietly. In the morning, Hon. R. W. Craig, Attorney-General of Manitoba, presented a lengthy submission in regard to import of liquor into the province, its illicit sale, and also its export out of the province. The presentation of this memotandum occupied the entire morning session. In the afternoon, Mr. Rowell turned to an examination of the Customs officials in the province. This will be continued to-day.

Mr. Code was the first witness called to the stand. He explained that his duties consisted in seeing that the revenues from the Customs in Manitoba were properly accounted for. He also conducted an inspection of all the ports and outports in the province at least once a year. He explained that his duties did not cover the port of Winnipeg, the inspection of which was carried out by the Department at Ottawa.

The inspection of plants enjoying excise privileges should be conducted more frequently than once a year, Inspector Code said. He pointed out, however, that the inspection of excise plants should be done by men with special training if it was to be of any value.

Asked with regard to commercial smuggling, Mr. Code said that the impression prevailed in Manitoba that there was not very much of this illicit traffic along the United States border in this province. He indicated the ports and preventive stations along the border for the benefit of the commissioners, and stated that there are 165 trails crossing the international boundary line in Manitoba and about 40 good roads. The use of fast motor cars had been of value in protecting the revenues of the country and suppressing smuggling. He did not think that conditions required the appointment of women Customs officers to inspect the baggage of female passengers on the trains crossing the line into Manitoba.

Mr. Code expressed the opinion that one reason why there were fewer seizures of stills was because less information came in to the Customs officers. Under the present system of paying moieties, there was not so much to attract the informer as had prevailed when he was paid a proportion of the fine levied. Now he had to wait until everything in connection with the seizure was sold, when he got 25 per cent. of the proceeds. He emphasized the importance of examinations in deciding on the best men to fill Customs and Excise vacancies.

Examine Customs.

Collector of Customs T. H. Verner gave the total of his staff at Winnipeg last October as 138. At that time the inspector from Ottawa had estimated that the least number required to run the office at Winnipeg property was 155. "I think we urgently require the 155 as estimated

Biggest Man Fined Too Big To Go To Jail

PROVIDENCE, R.I., Feb. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—New England's biggest man was fined one hundred dollars and costs for violating the Prohibition law. His attorney warned the court that if he were sent to jail a special appropriation would have to be made for feeding him. He is Nick Tartaglions, and he weighs 518 pounds avoirdupois.

Samarkand "The Golden" Capital Of New Republic

SAMARKAND, Uzbekistan Soviet Republic, Feb. 15 (Associated Press).—Samarkand "the Golden," as both natives and foreigners are fond of calling the new capital of the first Mohammedan Republic, is a paradise for women and a haven of rest for men.

The women do little else than attend to their toilet and dress, burnish their nails, dye their hair with henna, pay social visits, sip tea and gossip. Ordinary household duties are considered beneath their Moslem dignity.

The men, polite and gallant, do whatever light housekeeping there is and even look after the children. After their labors are finished they retire to the bazars, wher they sit, drink their sugaries, water-like tea and chatter.

KING URGED LORD BYNG TO SEEK LONDON ADVICE ON DISSOLUTION

Governor-General, Replying, Said Meighen Should Have Chance To Govern.

WAS SERIOUS STEP.

Refusal To Accept Advice Liable To Cause Constitutional Question.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 15. Canadian Press. — Premier King in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, revealed some secrets of the crisis in the closing days of the last Parliament, when Lord Byng, as Governor General, declined to grant him dissolution. The story is told in correspondence between Lord Byng and Premier Ki.., covering seven days.

In the first letter, Premier King tenders his resignation in view of the refusal of dissolution. He further suggests that Lord Byng before definitely deciding should consult with the Secretary of State for the Dominions. A refusal by a Governor-General to accept the advice of a Prime Minister is a serious step at any time, Premier King observes; and Premier King feared that by Lord Byng's refusal to accept the advice tendered (for dissolution of Parliament) a grave constitutional question would be raised without precedent in the history of Great Britain for a century, and in the history of Canada since confederation.

Lord Byng replied that to his mind there was really only one point at issue. "My contention is," said Lord Byng, "that Mr. Meighen has not been given a chance to try to govern, or saying that he cannot do so and that all reasonable expedients should be tried before resorting to an election.

"Permit me to say once more that before deciding on my constitutional course in this matter, I gave the subject the most fairminded and painstaking consideration which it was in my power to apply."

Premier King, in reply, recalls conversations he had with Lord Byng in regard to Mr. Meighen being given a chance of trying to govern. "I pointed out that at the commencement of the session," adds Premier King, "it had been left to the people's representatives in Parliament to decide as to who was to advise your Excellency, and that Mr. Meighen's chances to obtain the support of the Commons had been quite as good as my own; that the House of Commons having declined to place any confidence in Mr. Meighen throughout the entire session I could not see wherein there was any probability of the House giving him the support which would enable him to carry on the government, and that therefore I could not assume the responsibility of advising your excellency to send for him."

LISBON, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—The right to strike is abolished in Portugal by a decree promulgated by the Carmona dictatorship.

Dissolution of military units, which took place in the recent rebellion, is also ordered.

ALTER BUILDING FOR NEW GARAGE

C. Brewer and V. M. Eastwood Will Occupy Former Carriage Shop.

UP-TO-DATE FIXTURES.

The old Fitzgerald Building, at the corner of Water and Brock Street is being renovated these days into a first-class garage. Charles Brewer, who holds the agency for the Essex and Hudson cars and Reo trucks, will occupy these premises as soon as they are ready.

It will be a two-storey garage with the upper storey for used cars. The ground floor will be a repair shop and show room. The very latest equipment for the fixing and painting of cars is to be installed and the show room will be completely separated from the mechanical shop.

It is expected that V. M. Eastwood, Jr., will occupy part of the garage as he formerly did, so that the whole building will form a first class up-to-date Hudson, Essex-Dodge service station.

ARM BROKEN IN SAW PULLEY

James Humphries, of Asphodel, Hurt When Sleeve Becomes Entangled.

DOURO, Feb. 15. — James Humphries, of Asphodel, had both bones in his forearm broken as a result of being caught in the pulley of a drag saw at the farm of Bruce Kidd, Dummer Township, yesterday.

At the time of the accident the unfortunate man was engaged in oiling the saw when by some means his sleeve became entangled with the pulley. Dr. Munro of Warsaw was called in and attended the injured man.

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—While their parents were speeding southward on "the big adventure," as their mother described it, two little boys skated by moonlight on the home pond in Ontario with the prospect of a big supper of plain country fare before bedtime. They were the sons of Hon. Vincent and Mrs. Massey, who are en route to Washington to open Canada's first Legation there.

For the children, the night's fun was also "the big adventure." They had never skated by moonlight or risked their digestions with hot suppers at bedtime. It was recompense for being left behind.

The Masseys for a week or two will be living in hotels or travelling up and down the Eastern States on official business. Reluctantly they left their children in the care of relatives and retainers until something like a permanent home for them can be established in Washington.

COUNCIL ASKS FOR FIGURES FROM HYDRO

Aldermen Will Study Receipts and Expenditures of Local Utilities.

WANT PRICE, TOO.

By-law To Require Restaurants To Have Conveniences Considered.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission will be asked to quote the City a price on the street railway system and the gas plant, and to submit a statement of receipts and expenditures during the past year, in order that the aldermen may consider the matter thoroughly. This information, when received, will be distributed among the aldermen for study before they hold another meeting to come to a decision.

In introdcing the matter, which was quickly disposed of, the Mayor said that even if there should be a slight loss it might be advisable to operate the system to give service to the citizens. A letter was read from the chairman of the Commission, giving formal notice that service would be discontinued on April 1, unless something were done in the meantime.

Eating house licenses caused some discussion. Several of the aldermen favored passing a by-law requiring restaurants to have conveniences for their patrons, saying that people came into the city, used the lavatories of the hotels, and then went to the restaurants to eat. Alderman Denne said that he understood, too, that the employees of some of them slept in the basement. The landlords, he asserted, got high rents, and should be made give proper accommodation.

Alderman Phelan said that there had been too many licenses granted, but now that the City had the restaurants they should be made give proper accommodation, and his suggestion that the Finance Committee be given power to consider the matter was carried out.

The application of Louis Yeotes for reconsideration of the renewal of his license for an eating house was granted on condition that the premises were kept closed on Sunday. It was charged when the refusal was passed a week ago that the eating house, or lunch counter, served as a blind for the sale of tobaccos and the gathering together of loafers on Sundays, and Mr. Yeotes will be asked to give an agreement to close on Sundays.

Schoolboy Shot Himself To Ease Family Finances; Leaves Note Naming Chums To Act As Pallbearers

HEMPSTEAD, L.I., N.Y., Feb. 15.—Using an automatic pistol of Spanish manufacture, Thomas J. O'Donnell, 18-year-old High School student, shot himself through the head in the auditorium of Hempstead High School yesterday.

The weapon was similar to one he had employed in the star role in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," given by the High School dramatic Club last Saturday night in the Auditorium.

Notes found in one of his pockets said he had shot himself because he thought he was a burden on his mother, who had to support him.

O'Donnell, who was to have been graduated this term, won the 1925 prize awarded by Columbia University in a state high school oratorical contest.

The boy, in a note, named six of his school chums as pallbearers and named two others to sing "Abide With Me" over his grave.

Girl With Bobbed Hair Is Barred From School

PARIS, Feb. 15 (Associated Press).—Bobbed hair has barred Mlle. de Rohan, daughter of the Viscount de Rohan, from learning the art of wielding pots and pans. The directress of the domestic science school which the titled young lady sought to enter was of the old school, and did not realize that short locks have been fashionable in Paris for the last two or three years.

"Unless you wear a wig, mademoiselle," the stern directress remarked, "I cannot have you in the same class with my other young ladies. You may come back and learn cooking when your hair has grown out again."

Mlle. de Rohan has abandoned, for the time being at least, all efforts to become a culinary artist.

Many Buildings Collapse During 'Quakes—19 Shocks in 20 Minutes.

PEOPLE FRIGHTENED.

Refugees in Terrible Plight Without Food or Proper Clothing.

VIENNA, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—A despatch from Belgrade to the Graetz Tagespost says that the casualties of the earthquake which rocked Bosnia, Herzegovina, and Dalmatia are estimated at six hundred persons. These figures for dead and injured could not be confirmed.

The despatch says earth tremors were renewed last night.

The Hotel de la Ville at Raguma was reported to have collapsed, killing several guests, while at Popovopolis, a row of houses fell into the Trobianica River, drowning and crushing the inhabitants.

Many Shocks

BELGRADE, Feb. 14 (Canadian Press).—The 'quake was ushered in by a series of spectacular lightning flashes in a cloudless sky, which was followed by nineteen shocks in twenty minutes.

The widespread nature of the 'quake and the serious damage caused were indicated by reports coming in from various sections of the Balkins. In Metkovitch, Dalmatia, the post office, railroad station, and telegraph office collapsed, while the number of dead was not known. A tobacco factory in Ljuinje was utterly destroyed. All dwellings in Popovopolis and Perkovitch collapsed, burying the inmates. Shocks that lasted nine seconds occurring in Monstar caused the population to flee to the streets where the peas-

A boy of about 13, in a red and black wool cap, to-day played a trick on the engineer of the C. N. R. shunting engine, where the track crosses Smith street.

He stood on the track, holding his sled, until the engine was 50 feet away, then ran off laughing to join an admiring party of friends.

He did not think of what would have happened had he slipped, or of the mental torture through which he was putting the engineer, uncertain as to the boy's movements.

It is hoped that his father recognizes the description—and that he has a slipper handy.

THREE ARMIES IN OPPOSITION IN CENTRE CHINA

Marshal Wu Considering Whether He Will Help or Oppose Chang.

ULTIMATUM GIVEN.

Chang Will Brook No Delay in Marching Against Cantonese.

BULLETIN.

PEKING, Feb. 15. Canadian Press. — Chinese press reports received here to-day indicated that General Wu Pei Fu, central military leader, who has been standing between the opposing Cantonese and Peking forces in Honan Province has joined the Northern forces.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—A Chinese battle royal in Honan Province, with three separate armies as participants, was a step nearer realization to-day. The troops of Marshal Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian dictator and predominant figure in the Peking Government, completed occupation of the region north of the Yellow River yesterday. They poured into the territory several days ago, despite warnings from Marshal Wu Pei Fu, master of the province, and one of the ablest generals in China, and as a result Wu has gone into conference with his leaders to determine his course of action.

Wu has given no inlication of whether he will oppose the northern invaders or co-operate with them in the effort on Chang's part to crush the Nationalists and again bring China under one government. If he refuses to co-operate he is faced with the prospect of fighting both Manchurians and Nationalists or of joining the later in opposing the northerners, for Chang already has served an ultimatum on Wu that he will brook no interference.

From Hankow to-day comes the report that Eugene Chen, Nationalist Foreign Minister, has declared positively that there had been no rupture in the negotiations with Owen O'Malley over the British concessions there and at Kiukiang.

Aldermen Promise To Furnish Money For New Building

New Building Will Have 15 Class-rooms, With Workshops and Other Rooms Necessary for Vocational, Academical and Commercial Work.

GYMNASIUMS FOR BOYS AND GIRLS AND NEW ASSEMBLY HALL INCLUDED

Structure Will Cost $252,100, of Which City Will Have to Raise $155,000—Cost of Operation to be Little More Than That of Present Schools.

Peterborough is to have an addition to the Collegiate Institute to provide for vocational and commercial training. Work on the plans will start immediately so that actual construction can be begun in the spring. The City Council last night, after hearing the statements of different members of the Board of Education and Advisory Vocational Committtee about the need, the plans, and the cost, assured the Board that when the plans have been completed and tenders received, so that the exact cost will be known, the issue of debentures will be authorized.

Chairman E. B. Fowler explained the need for the new school and what is provided under the present plans. E. R. Wilson touched on the cost of equipment, and W. R. Tunrner Jr. went into the matter of finance. Other members of the Board answered questions asked by the aldermen. G. A. Gillespie and James Dutton of the Advisory Vocational Committee also spoke on the matter.

Mr. Fowler said that the information had been set out in a letter sent to all the Aldermen. He asked that they should forget that they were members of the City Council or of the Board of Education and think of themselves as representatives of the citizens of Peterborough. This city is a unit of Canada and it is conceded generally that there will be greater development in Canada than in any other part of the world during the next few years. Peterborough will share in the prosperity in proportion to the size and viewpoint of the men in charge.

Poor Accommodation

The law requires that accommodation be provided and that all children must go to school until they are sixteen. As conditions now stand, continued Mr. Fowler, one out of three is crowded out of the Collegiate. There are twelve class rooms with 400 scholars. Two hundred other pupils are in the Commercial department, housed in an abandoned public school building with poor ventilation, poor heating system, poor lighting, and poor sanitation. The health of the children is menaced and it is uneconomical to run the building. One hundred tons of anthracite coal at $16 a ton is required to feed it.

Hunger Striking Murderer May Be Fed Forcibly To-day

PORTLAND, Maine, Feb. 15 (United Press).—Forced feeding may be resorted to today in the case of Benjamin H. Turner of Mystic, Iowa, convicted murderer and hunger striker, who has taken no nourishment for more than ninety hours.

"Because of the prisoner's weakened condition we have decided that it probably will be necessary to begin forced feeding sometime today," officials of the Cumberland County jail, said this morning.

BRITISH DISCUSS MOVING BASE TO WEST INDIES

Reported at Kingston That Port Royal Will Be Naval Base.

NEAR PANAMA.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Feb. 15 (United Press).—Establishment of a naval base at Port Royal and the reduction in status of Bermuda, now the chief British naval base in these Atlantic water, were reported today to be under consideration by the British Government.

The reported shifting of the naval base from Bermuda to the Caribbean Sea would give Great Britain a naval station directly south of the American base at Guantanamo and in the pathway to the Panama Canal.

Plans called for the conversion of Port Royal into an airplane, hydroplane, and submarine base, it was said. All island forts would be manned by natives.

Boy Of 12 Shoots Storekeeper To Get Money To Buy Food Confesses to Police That He Ran Away From His Parents

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—A red checked, blond haired, blue eyed lad of twelve years, wearing knickerbockers and sweater—a runaway from home—was in custody today after confessing that he had killed a shopkeeper in a hold-up to get money to buy food.

He is Michael Ponkraskow, a public school student. Last night he walked into the feather goods store of Marcus Gold in Richmond Hill and asked to see a belt. When Gold brought it from the shelf he found himself facing a revolver, held in a trembling hand. Gold laughed and turned his back. The boy fired, the bullet striking him near the heart.

Gold staggered into the street and told a policeman. The patrolman, with drawn pistol, entered the store and was astonished to find that the supposed desperate bandit was a mere slip of a child, who was cowering in a corner.

Badly frightened at first, the boy later glibly related the details. "Yes, I shot him," he said, "but I didn't mean to. I came to rob the cash register to get something to eat. I ran away from home on Saturday and didn't have anything to eat until this morning."

EXAMINER HAS NEW EXHIBITS

Sheet Metal Products Follow Quaker Cake Flour in Display Window.

CAMPAIGN OPENS

The second national advertiser to take advantage of The Examiner's offer to use one of the new office windows for display purposes is the Sheet Metal Products Co. of Canada, exhibiting the famed S.M.P. pearl enamel washboard.

A "national advertiser" in newspaper language is a firm that places advertisements in newspapers in all parts of the country. Unlike the local advertiser, it has no window display space of its own, and must rely upon the displays given in retail stores where the product is handled. The Examiner, believing that national advertisers would appreciate the opportunity to provide widow displays of their own, and that the people who purchase these products would appreciate having them put on view independently, offered this window, with the result that it has been booked up for many weeks.

The washboards now on display during a special campaign in the city are noteworthy because the rubbing surfaces are the well-known pearl enamel, that does not chip, break or wear out. The board is so strong, the manufacturer claims, that an adult can stand on it without causing it injury.

The special campaign will continue for two weeks, the boards being displayed also in hardware and departmental stores.

INTRODUCE BILL TO AMEND THE MARRIAGE ACT

Clergyman From Any Part of British Empire Can Perform Ceremony.

ONTARIO HOUSE.

Raney Would Stop All Party Donations From Breweries.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 15 (Canadian Press). — In the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon Premier Howard Ferguson introduced a bill to amend the Marriage Act so that a clergyman from any part of the British Empire may perform the marriage ceremony in the province. The bill is designed to meet a situation such as arose last year when Right Rev. Arthur Winnington-Ingram, Bishop of London, while on a visit to Ontario, was prevented from officiating at the marriage of a relative because permission was not provided under the Act.

Stop Party Donations.

When the House opened W. E. Raney (Prince Edward County), Progressive leader, introduced a bill to prohibit political contributions by brewers, distillers, standard hotelkeepers and public corporations. Premier Ferguson asked Mr. Raney if his bill was an annual presentation as a similar bill was introduced by the Progressive leader at the last session. Mr. Raney replied that the bill might be called a second annual.

The Premier also introduced a measure consolidating Hydro-Electric legislation prepared by I. B. Lucas, K.C., solicitor to the Hydro-Electric Commission.

Bills Adopted.

Several bills were adopted by the House in committee, among them being one involving changes in the law in consequence of the revision of the statutes, another providing for amendments to bills of sale and chattel mortgage act and one respecting juvenile courts.

W. E. Sinclair (Ontario South), Liberal leader, took exception to a section in the bill changing the statutes which provided that the Lieutenant - Governor in Council might make regulations for the enforcement of all Acts of the Legislature, prescribe forms where there was no provision in the Act and fix fees to be charged by all officers and persons by whom anything was required to be done.

Mr. Sinclair thought that too much legislation was being left to the Lieutenant-Governor in Council instead of being left for the Legislature to deal with.

Another section of the bill will give permission to persons not British subjects to be admitted to the bar in Ontario provided they have taken the oath of allegiance and stated their intention of becoming British subjects.

The House also approved an amendment which stated that a married woman shall have and hold as her separate property and dispose of it as such, the wages, earnings, money and propery gained or acquired by her in employment, trade or occupation in which she is engaged and in which her husband has no proprietary interest.

Debate Continued.

The debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne was continued this afternoon by Karl Homuth (Labor, Waterloo South), who moved the adjournment on Thursday last. It was hoped by the Government that the debate would end this evening, but this is not probable from present indications. It is very likely that the Progressives and the Liberals will present several more speakers in the debate which will carry the discussion over till Thursday, unless the Premier decides on a night session. The Progressives have R. H. Kemp (Lincoln) and W. G. Medd (Huron South) on the list, with F. G. Sandy (Victoria South) in reserve, while Dr. G. A. McQuibban (Wellington, North-East) will speak from the Liberal benches and A. R. Nesbitt (Bracondale) from the Government side of the House.

PAPERBOARD CO. SEEKING POWER

Company Applies To Campbellford Commission For Large Block.

NO ACTION TAKEN.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 15.—J. McCalmont, and W. Robinson of Montreal, representing the Canada Paperboard Company, whose plant is located on the Trent below the town, have applied to the Water and Light Commission for a block of power representing practically the Commission's entire surplus. They appeared before the Commission on Thursday night, explained their requirements and tentatively discussed the detail of price. No action resulted but the company's representatives were advised to submit their proposal in writing.

SHOUT OF 'FIRE' ALARMS PEOPLE

Eighteen Hundred Quietly Leave Montreal Movie Theatre.

POLICE INVESTIGATE.

MONTREAL, Feb. 15.—(Canadian Press.)— Eighteen hundred persons marched in safety from the Theatre Francais, when a shout of "fire" rang through the packed house during the showing of the feature picture last night.

With the memory of 78 deaths in the Laurier Palace theatre fresh in their minds, the ushers acted instantly in opening wide the exits. One minute and a half sufficed to clear the theatre of an excited though orderly throng of women, men and children, and not a single person was hurt. After it had been established that there was not a vestige of fire in the house, they returned to resume their enjoyment of the film.

Police are investigating the matter in an effort to establish the identity of the alarmist.

ANOTHER STUDENT TAKES OWN LIFE

PRINCETON, N.J., Feb. 15. — Another college student has been added to the list of those who have taken their own lives in the past month.

Martin Arthur Gearhart, student at Princeton graduate college, whose home is in Batavia, Iowa, was found dead in his room here Sunday from asphyxiation. A note established the fact that he had committed suicide, authorities said, but its contents were not made public.

Gearhart was a graduate of the University of Iowa, and had studied at the University of Chicago. He was attending Princeton under a fellowship given by the Princeton graduate college.

He was married.

High School Boy.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Feb. 14.—Leaving a note expressing belief he was embarking on a "glorious adventure," George Cannon, 14-year-old high school student, committed suicide by asphyxiation. His body was found in a room in his father's home yesterday.

"To die will be a glorious adventure, for I have been so lonely," a note left to his mother said.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

"DON'T WORRY"

A bit of brotherly advice
A fellow gave to me,
A fellow who was cool as ice,
As anyone could see:
"To live until a ripe old age,
And always wear a smile,
Don't every worry, ever hurry,
It isn't worth the while."

I took his lesson much to heart.
Next morning I arose;
I didn't hurry to depart;
(I used to, I suppose.)
I took my time to eat my toast,
I strolled along the lane.
I didn't worry, didn't hurry—
And didn't catch my train.

I lost an hour to start the day,
My seat amid the mob,
I lost a dollar of my pay,
I nearly lost my job.
Although it's nice to take your time
And smile the whole day through,
It's much less worry just to hurry
And fret the way I do.

SPEED IS OBJECT ITALY'S AVIATOR

Francesco de Pinedo Made Long Preparation For Notable Air Voyage.

PLANS SECRET.

ROME, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press) —Italy's great aviator, Commander Francesco de Pinedo, is speeding on his journey to America. His flight may prove to be a classic, for speed is his object, and he has made long preparation for this notable air voyage.

Through the wall of secrecy which surrounded the preliminaries, as well as the actual start from Cagliari, Sardinia, Sunday, of the commander and his crew aboard the all-Italian - hydro - airplane, "Santa Maria," there is discernible an attempt to bring home to Fascist Italy the crown for speed and distance, for 24 hours after the start the valiant flying men have already covered approximately 2,200 miles. Their first flight was from Cagliari to Rabat, 1,300 miles, and from the latter point they reached Villa Cisneros, Spanish territory in West Africa, another 1,000 miles.

When Major Mario de Bernadi won the Schneider cup at Baltimore for Italy, representing speed supremacy, Commander de Pinedo resumed preparation for the present race, which will carry him as far south as Buenos Aires, Argentina, then northwards to New York and return to Italy.

He covered the second lap at an average speed exceeding 100 miles an hour. His next jump will be across the water, but the landing place he had selected has not been indicated.

The latest Fascist slogan—"Facts must speak louder than words," particularly in the matter of physical achievement, dominates the Italian Government's attitude toward de Pinedo's flight. Not a single newspaper in Italy prints comment on the venture, indicating official orders, against such publications.

The only reason for the secrecy being maintained by those having knowledge of the flight plans, is believed to be the desire of the Government to have the trip across the South Atlantic carried out in a fashion never before attempted, leaving the announcement of the feat until it has actually been accomplished.

ALDERMEN PROMISE TO FURNISH MONEY

five furnaces during the winter and even then there are days when it is necessary to send the shildren home because the rooms are so cold. To fix it up would cost $30,000 and even then it would not be passed by the Government inspectors.

In thh main building there are no gymnasiums and it is necessary to make arrangements for the use of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. facilities. The assembly hall is on the third floor and would be a menace is case of fire. There is no provision for manual training and household science, and most of the pupils have to be denied these subjects.

The fact that pupils living outside the City cannot be admitted develops a social cleavage between city and country which should not exist. Most of these people are economically and socially allied with the citizens. If they could be admitted the County would have to pay 80 per cent of their proportion of capital and maintenance costs. At present the pupils that are admitted pay a little over one third of the cost.

There is no provision for vocational classes. Those who wish to enter professional or commercial life are provided for but not those who wish to learn a trade.

Inspector's Report

Mr. Fowler quoted from the report of Prof. Husband, inspector of Collegiates, who paid his first visit to Peterborough last week. He gave credit to Mr. Kenner's organizing and administrative ability and the support of the teachers for the work done. The accommodations, however, are not so satisfactory as they might be, and the teachers are handicapped while the spirit of unity is not developed. The Commercial department suffers most because the environment is poor and the classrooms are dingy.

The members of the Board, continued Mr. Fowler, had gone to different places to see their schools and to find out about costs and plans. They could not recommend the most costly nor yet the cheapest, but had made a memo of their conclusions and submitted it to various architects, asking for sketch plans and rough estimates. The estimates of all these varied only a few thousand dollars, and the plan submitted by W.F.L. Blackwell of Peterborough was accepted.

The building as planned will be a three storey, semi fireproof structure something like the Prince of Wales school. It will contain five academical class rooms, ten vocational class rooms (including commercial), machine shop, electrical shop, woodworking shop, draughting room, lecture rooms, agricultural, household science rooms, type writing room, gymnasiums, assembly hall, offices, and board room.

The cost of the new building will be $252,100, while necessary alterations to the present school will cost $8,000. Government grants are estimated at $86,100, making the net cost to the city $175,000. The pupils from the country would produce a revenue reducing the net cost to $155,000.

To avoid spending the City's money unnecessarily the Board came to the Council, said Mr. Fowler in conclusion, for some assurance that when money had been spent on confirming the plans and getting tenders, the Board would be placed in a position to start work.

Ald. Greene asked if the figures quoted included equipment. Mr. Wilson answered that they did not, and that the equipment needed to start would cost the City possibly $15,000, a share being paid by the province.

Asked by the Mayor about providing accommodation for country pupils, Mr. Fowler said that 150 pupils from outside would be as good as a factory. They would come here to deal and would help to create a good feeling between City and country.

Finances Explained.

Trustee W. R. Turner explained the financial side of the matter. Last year the Collegiate cost the City taxpayers $68,370. There were 600 pupils, 560 of these being city pupils, making the cost $121.50 per pupil. The new school he estimated, will have 700 pupils, 600 from the City and 100 from outside. These will be divided 400 academical, 200 commercial, and 100 vocational. Other cities, he said, had pushed the vocational end, possibly for the increased grants, and Kitchener reported 250 in each of the three divisions. The cost would be $82,748, while $9456 would be the amount collectable from the County, leaving $73,291 or $122 per pupil for the City. This would mean that forty more City pupils would be educated at less than $500 increased cost. One mill on the school assessment produces $22,800 taxes, so the increased cost would be .216 mills, or 56 cents on the city's average home, which is assessed at $2,600.

If the new school were not built, continued Mr. Turner, the South Central School would have to be repaired at a cost of about $25,000, which would cost $1750 a year to carry, and on which there would be no grants. The City would have to meet the full salaries of the commercial department teachers, as at present, instead of getting a large grant on them.

G. A. Gillespie.

G. A. Gillespie, chairman of the Advisory Vocational Committee, said that the members of that committee were behind the proposed school. He had been in Renfrew recently, attending a convention held in the school there, and he had seen it work. The agricultural classes in particular served to create a better feeling between city and county.

James Dutton.

James Dutton, a member of the committee, said that the aldermen had seen that the Board of Education had gone carefully into the matter, trying to solve this problem, which had been long faced, in the best way to serve the public. The lack of accommodation at the Collegiate had been the cause of some inefficiency and while the citizens were proud of the results achieved they felt that they were not all that could be attained.

The separation of part of the scholars from the life of the school also had a tendency to breed snobbishness among those attending the Collegiate proper, making them inclined to look down on the others. The condition of the South Central building made it a menace to health and made efficiency impossible, which was not fair to the ratepayers.

It would seem, too, said Mr. Dutton, that there was nothing for the young man not fitted for professional or business life to do but to enter the ranks of the unskilled laborers, as at present the young people were being forced into these lines of endeavor, there being no provision for those who wished to study that would help them in following some trade. Those wishing to do this, he held, have the right to equal opportunity in their own sphere.

Ald. Denne said that they were all familiar with the matter. He understood that $170,000 was required. He had opposed the plans submitted before on the ground of luxury, but would move that the Council go on record as favoring the construction of the school according to the new plans.

Ald. Greene said that he had gone into the information submitted to him, and thought that the matter had been settled in the best interests of the City. He seconded the motion.

Ald. Fife asked if it was necessary to come to a conclusion immediately. The new Board had cut $100,000 off the cost, and possibly another Board could take off another $50,000. He had failed to hear any of the trustees now supporting this plan condemn the plan submitted before, which he had supported.

Ald. Greene said that it had not been a new Board that had reduced the cost but the members who had been on before, and they in their experience had gone into the matter and presented this new plan. They could search the City without finding men better fitted for the work.

Other Schools Cost More.

Trustee Reid referred to the fact that the school erected in Sarnia and Kitchener had cost respectively $750,000 and $400,000. Trustee Craig said that he had supported the plan a year ago. Part of the saving had been made through changes in the grants offered and in changing from fireproof to semi fireproof.

Mayor Holloway proposed that the motion be withdrawn and the matter discussed at the meeting of the Council to be held immediately after, so that unanimous opinion could be presented. Ald. Denne said he saw no reason to withdraw as he was satisfied that the members of the Board had done their work. Mr. Fowler said the Board had a great deal of work to do before construction could be started and would like the assurance of the Council's support as soon as possible. Ald. Stocker supported his contention that the need was urgent.

Ald. Fife said he did not want to obligate the City without a definite agreement, and Mayor Holloway said there were a number of other demands such as the purchase of the street railway and the gas plant and the provision of a new wing for Nicholl's Hospital to be considered right away. The matter would be taken up at once.

Ald. MacDonald could see no value in delay, urging that all the members were in favor of the plan and the vote should be taken immediately. Ald. McIntyre said the Board of Education was a responsible body elected by the citizens and he favored acting on their advice.

Trustee McNabb said he went on the School Board to oppose the school at that time planned. The Board must have something now worth while when its members were 100% behind it. The City Council should not oppose it but should give the assurance right away.

Principal H. R. H. Kenner referred to the significance of 1927 in Canadian History and said that it also marked the centennial of the commencement of secondary education in Peterboro. He thought the laying of the corner stone of this building would be a fitting celebration.

Ald. Fife moved that the decision be deferred but could get no seconder, so the motion of Aldermen Denne and Green was carried, followed by one from Ald. Cotton thanking the Board for the way in which the information had been presented and congratulating its members. This was seconded by Ald. Stocker.

OLD MASTERS

As slow our ship her foamy track
Against the wind was cleaving,
Her trembling pennant still looked back
To that dear isle 'twas leaving.
So loth we part from all we love,
From all the links that bind us;
So turn our hearts, as on we rove,
To those we've left behind us.

As travelers oft look back at eve
When eastward darkly going,
To gaze upon that light they leave
Still faint behind them glowing,—
So, when the close of pleasure's day
To gloom hath near consigned us,
We turn to catch one fading ray
Of joy that's left behind us.

British Exhibitors To Boycott Famous Players Protesting It Seeks To Control Movie Theatres

LONDON, Feb. 15.—The General Council of Exhibitors' Associations has resolved to boycott the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation in protest against the alleged policy of that organization to obtain control of British picture theatres.

The Famous Players Corporation is the leading American film-renting concern in London and issues about seventy pictures yearly. It owns the Plaza Theatre in London, and recently acquired two of the leadig Birmingham houses to give premieres for its own products. It explained this action by a statement that its films would not get a good showing in Birmingham otherwise.

The reply of Birmingham exhibitors generally was to refuse to book Famous Players films, and this resolution has now been approved by the General Council of the Cinemetograph Exhibitors' Association, which recommends its other branches to give similar support.

The Famous Players, in a statement, claimed that the two theatres in Birmngham were purchased only because they were necessary for first runs; that one theatre had already been turned back to its former management, and that the company would willingly sublet the other.

SIX RESCUED FROM CAVE-IN Three Still Entombed in Gangway of Raven Run Mine.

ARE UNHURT.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 15. — (Canadian Press).—Six of the nine men caught behind a fall of coal and rock yesterday in the gangway of the Raven Run Mine, 15 miles from here, were rescued unhurt, and three were still entombed last night.

A large squad of men worked heroically to reach the entombed miners, but six hours after the accident their fate remained in doubt. Oxygen was pumped through pipes into the pocket where they were cut off, but no communication had been established with them. Ambulances awaited at the mouth of the mine and doctors and nurses in a specially improvised hospital were ready far underground to give first aid should the entombed men be found alive.

Every official of the mine and all available miners and laborers were engaged in the rescue work. They wielded picks and shovels in cutting away at the fall of coal and worked in short shifts.

A little group of women and children, families of the trapped miners, clung to the sides of the hill arqund the mine in suspense. Some wept. Rescuers were unable to estimate how long it would take to reach the entombed men.

OBITUARY.

EAST EMILY, Feb. 15. — The death occurred in East Emily on Monday morning, Feb. 7, at 4.30 a.m., of Elizabeth Jackson, widow of the late John Elliott, in her 88th year. She has lived on the same farm for many years. Her husband predeceased her some years ago.

The deceased lady has been confined to her bed for some time through a long and lingering illness.

The funeral took place on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her late residence to the Emily Cemetery for interment. Rev. Mr. Weir, of Omemee, officiated.

She leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Mrs. Fred. Magee and Mrs. Walter Magee, both of East Emily, and two brothers, Thomas Jackson, of Ida, and James Jackson, of East Emily.

The pallbearers were Walter Magee, William Finley, Herbert Jackson, Arthur Jackson, Stanley Magee and James Elliott.

MRS. NEIL McNULTY.

NORWOOD, Feb. 15.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Neil McNulty took place from the family residence, Lot 16, Concession 5, Asphodel, on Thursday morning, and was very largely attended.

The deceased, whose maiden name was Mary O'Leary, was 88 years of age and had resided on the farm where she died for the past 70 years. Her husband, the late Neil McNulty, predeceased her a number of years ago.

Left to mourn her loss are one daughter, Miss Mary McNulty, and four sons, Rev. Father Neil McNulty of Owen Sound, Joseph of Toronto, Patrick and Charlie of Asphodel.

Requiem mass was celebrated by her son, Rev. Father McNulty, assisted by Rev. Father McCarthy, of St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church, Norwood, of which deceased was a faithful member. Interment took place in the R. C. Cemetery, Asphodel.

MRS. JOHN HERRING.

NORWOOD, Feb. 15.—The funeral of Mrs. John Herring, a former resident of Norwood, whose death occurred in Winnipeg on Saturday, Feb. 5, took place on Sunday on the arrival of the C.P.R. noon train. Rev. R. F. Stillman, pastor of the United Church, officiated.

DE COURCY CUTCLIFFE.

NORWOOD, Feb. 15. — De Courcy, the twelve-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Cutcliffe, passed away on Sunday morning at the family residence, Belmont street, after an illness of five years' duration.

AUBREY MORGAN

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 15. — Mr. Arthur Morgan, Rear Street, received the sad news on Wednesday of the death of his brother, Fireman Aubrey Morgan, of Harlesden, N.W., England. The following is a report taken from The Daily Mail, London, England:

"One of the best loved men in the brigade, was the unanimous opinion of the fifty London firemen and Salvage Corps who walked beside the coffin of Fireman Aubrey Morgan, as it was carried to the cemetery at Willesden, N.W., on Saturday, Jan. 22nd.

Fireman Morgan, who lived at Harlesden, N.W., and had been five years at the Euston fire station, died from anaemia at the early age of 26. Thirteen of those 26 years were crammed with adventure as a Royal Marine, policeman and fireman. He was the youngest soldier at the renowned defence of Antwerp in which the Royal Marines took a part in 1914. He was then only fourteen but displayed great bravery. When his colleagues were ordered to Dunkirk in August, 1914, Bugler Morgan was told that he was too young to go, but his entreaties to his commanding officer were so persisten that at last, he was allowed to accompany the Royal Marines. An account of his conduct at Antwerp issued in November, 1914, read:

"His bravery was marvellous. He ran over the firing zone, taking every manner of risk and not a whit perturbed by the shells bursting around him. At last a fragment hit him in the leg. He was nursed in Antwerp by the Belgian Countess Gonsloser, who wrote to the boy's mother "God bless your dear, brave son."

At the immortal attack on Zeebrugge, Morgan, then only 18, again covered himself with glory. When the King inspected the men before they left for their great adventure, he remarked that Morgan looked very young. "But I am 19 and old enough to go," proudly replied the youth. He was brought back next day badly gassed.

One of the most prized possessions was his certificate of service which read: "Participated in ballot for award of Victoria Cross granted for operations against Zeebrugge and Ostend on the night of 22nd to 23rd April, 1918."

He left the Royal Marines in 1919 becoming a policeman for two years and then joining the London Fire Brigade, where he was up to the time of his death.

He leaves a young wife and two-month-old baby to mourn his loss."

MRS. THOMAS ODDIE

BURNBRAE, Feb. 15. — There passed away on Thursday, Feb. 10 an old and highly respected resident of the Burnbrae district in the person of the late Mrs. Thomas Oddie, who was just over 80 years of age. For more than sixty-three years the deceased has been the wife of Thomas Oddie, who with a large family, survives. Their life together was blessed with much happiness, and the family of eleven children have all taken a prominent place in the life of this and other communities. Until less than a year ago, the deceased enjoyed wonderful health, but prolonged illness finally reduced her vitality until life could no longer be sustained.

The late Mrs. Oddie was a woman of sterling Christian character, who by her word and example exerted a great influence for good over all with whom she came in contact. In religious belief she was a Presbyterian and a member of St. Andrew's, Burnbrae, until June, 1925, when she, with several others from that congregation, went with their church into Union. Since that time she has been a member of Stephen's United Church, Hoards, where she was as usual prominent in the missionary work of the congregation.

The funeral services were held on Sunday, February 13th, at 2 p.m., from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Thompson, Menie, to Burnbrae Cemetery. The service was conducted in the auditorium of the church by Rev. C. D. Daniel and Rev. D. A. McKenzie.

Besides the aged and sorrowing husband there remain to mourn the loss of a loved and loving mother, five daughters, Mrs. John Thompson and Mrs. John Rannie of Menie, Mrs. A. T. Donald, Burnbrae, Mrs. Varcoe of St. Catharines, and Mrs. Ingram in British Columbia; five sons, Percy R. and John of Burnbrae, William, Bertram and Melville, all in the United States. One son, Alex. of St. Catharines, died almost a year ago.

The pall-bearers were three sons of the deceased, Messrs. Will, Percy and John Oddie, and three sons-in-law, Messrs. John Rannie, John Thompson, and A. T. Donald.

WEDDING BELLS.

DALLIN—SAUNDERS.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Monday, February 7 at 3 p.m., when Florence Violet, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Saunders, 13 Monaghan Road, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Percy S. Dallin, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Dallin, 705 Water street, Peterboro.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. Harold Young of Toronto, formerly of George street United church.

ASSELSTINE—SHARPE.

WOOLER, Feb. 15.—Miss Jessie Sharpe and Arthur E. Asselstine were united in marriage at Napanee by the Rev. R. J. Merriam. An unique feature of the occasion was the witnessing of the ceremony by the parents of the groom, who thus celebrated the forty-third anniversary of their own wedding on Feb. 5, 1884. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Asselstine will reside on a farm near Frankford.

THE Y. L. MISSION CIRCLE OF ST. JAMES' UNITED CHURCH WILL PRESENT THEIR PLAY ENTITLED "A KENTUCKY BELLE," ON THE EVENING OF THURSDAY AND FRIDAY, FEB. 17TH AND 18TH, COMMENCING AT 8 O'CLOCK. ADMISSION 25 CENTS.

FISH AND GAME MEETING HELD

F. L. Roy Elected President —More Game Wardens To Be Asked For.

JACK MINER COMING.

The annual meeting of the Peterboro Fish and Game Protective Association was held at the Empress Hotel on Friday evening and the president for the year will be Fred Roy who was unanimously elected. Chris Graham will act as his right hand man by being secretary-treasurer. Herb Routley, who has been a capable secretary-treasurer for the past two years, asked to be relieved owing to business reasons and was appointed first vice-president.

Following is the list of officers:

Honorary president, Perry Alexander.

President, Fred L. Roy.

1st Vice-President, Herb S. Routley.

2nd Vice-President, F. Barrett.

Sec.-Treasurer, C. G. Graham.

Executive officers, Messrs. C. Wood, F. N. Wetton, F. L. Bradburn, C. Rogers, R. B. Rogers, Dr. Dowell.

A number of matters of importance to the fish and game protection in this district were taken up and the meeting went on record as being opposed to fishing through the ice and a petition has been forwarded to the Government to prohibit same as a great many reports have been coming in of illegal fishing during the past winter. The game wardens of the district claim they are very much handicapped by this law, and its being discontinued will mean a big saving of the game fish.

The Association is making extra efforts to have special overseers put on during the coming season, and the co-operation of all members is asked in the protection of the fish during the spawning season. A deputation has been appointed to wait on the Provincial member, Mr. Bradburn, as well as Mr. Peck, the Federal member.

Arrangements are being made to entertain Jack Miner on his visit here Monday, Feb. 21, which will be of interest to all lovers of game and fish.

WITNESSES SAY

by the inspector," said Collector Verner. He gave the commission a list of the outports and preventive stations which come under the jurisdiction of Winnipeg, the farthest north of which was York Factory on Hudson Bay.

"Is the preventive service adequate?" Mr. Rowell asked the witness.

Mr. Verner replied that it was not organized sufficiently or numerically strong enough. He thought the control of the preventive service in Manitoba should be centred near the border, and that it should be operated from that place. If necessary, there might be a headquarters in Winnipeg for the province.

When the collector produced a list of Customs seizures at the port, Mr. Rowell commented on the fact that a large number of them were automobiles. Mr. Verner explained that the great majority were cars of tourists who had, for some reason forfeited them, as well as smuggled cars.

Mr. Rowell asked if he thought that it would be wise to extend the length of permits issued to tourists who visited Canada over the period of one month. The witness saw no reason why this should not be done in the case of bona fide tourists. Mr. Rowell commented on the fact that seizures have been dealt with promptly at Winnipeg, and the collector explained that this office took the matter up with Ottawa if decision was too long delayed.

The totals of excise seizures, as given by Mr. Verner, were as follows: 1923, 65; 1924, 41; 1925, 3; 1926, 10. Counsel asked him to explain the decrease of late years. One reason was, said the collector, that owing to shortage of staff he had transferred excise seizures to the preventive service whenever possible. Also, a number of the seizures in the heavy years were made during the time when the transfer was being made from the old system to Government liquor control. He favored the doing away with the payment of moieties to officers making seizures, but pointed out that better salaries must be paid if such action was taken. In Customs, as well as excise, seizures, cheques should be made payable to the informer for his share of the moiety.

He did not think there was organized commercial smuggling in Winnipeg, said Collector Verner. He thought there was a certain amount of undervaluation, incorrect invoicing, etc., but his discussion with commercial bodies led him to the conclusion that there was no organized smuggling on a commercial scale.

Permits issued for the manufacture of home brew in the province he gave as follows: 1921, 2; 1922, 30; 1923, 12; 1924, 4; 1925, 19; 1926, 39. He thought that it would be a good thing if home brew manufacturers were forced to get official permits, instead of, as under the present system, informing the Customs that they desired to manufacture home-brew and receiving approval by letter.

To-day, James McConnell, chief appraiser at Winnipeg, will be examined.

Don't Be Skinny

Gain Pounds of Weight in 2 Weeks with Yeast and Iron—or pay nothing

It seems incredible how fast IRONIZED YEAST adds pounds of good firm flesh—on women and men, children and old people. Doctors know the value of vegetable iron and yeast in building up and improving the body. IRONIZED YEAST, in a highly concentrated form, contains all the blood building properties of vegetable iron with yeast. It is nine times more effective than a cake of ordinary baker's yeast of iron alone.

Sickening Oil Unnecessary.

IRONIZED YEAST gives you all the weight-building benefits contained in cod liver oil without the sickening, fishy taste or "repeating" afterward.

New Complexion For You

People ask — what is the magic in IRONIZED YEAST that transforms sallow, lifeless, faded complexions into the fresh, smooth, lovely skin of early girlhood? Wrinkles disappear. Hollows fill out. No wonder thousands of women pour in letters to us in praise of the marvelous, youthifying effects of IRONIZED YEAST!

Yet the answer is simple. Vegetable iron and yeast have been used for years to vitalize the body; to make rich, healthy blood; to improve digestion and bowel action and add weight. In IRONIZED YEAST these two valuable elements are combined in a special formula that is nine times stronger than yeast and iron used separately. That's why IRONIZED YEAST works so quickly. 60 tasty tablets to a package. No nasty, pasty taste. —Safe to take—contains no harmful drugs.

ROVERS DEFEAT CANUCKS 3 TO 1

Secure Second Victory Over Rivals in Ragged Game on Heavy Ice.

LEAGUE MEETING.

Rovers won the second victory over the Canucks last night on the Collegiate Rink by the score of 3 to 1. The game was very ragged on account of the heavy snow on the ice. One of the umpires was ruled off also, it being charged that he showed favoritism to the Rovers by keeping down his hand when Canucks scored twice. The teams lined up as follows:

Rovers.—Goal, LeBarr; defence, Johnson and Dorrington; centre, Weir; wings, Dallin and Saunders; subs., Jones and Tranter.

Canucks. — Goal, Creighton; defence, McGrath and Campanara; centre, Roach; wings, Meagher and Burke; Subs., Blodgett and Jones.

The game was handled by B. Jones.

There will be a meeting of the league on Thursday at 8 p.m., at the H.N.S. rooms.

The next games in this league will be played on Friday, the 18th. Rovers vs. Regular Fellows, Sacred Heart Rink at 6.30 p.m.; Canucks vs. Rink Rats, at Mark Street at 7 p.m.

ORILLIA WINS NEILL-SHEPPARD

Well Ahead on Tenth End When Dr. Harvie Is Injured.

SHOULDER HURT.

Orillia won the Neil-Sheppard trophy by defeating Peterborough last night in the final game. Dr. J. N. Harvie of Orillia skipped the winning rink which was leading by six points over W. R. Widdess at the end of the tenth end. In the home and home games last week, Orillia had a lead of six points and was well on the way to lengthen their lead last night when Dr. Harvie tripped over a stone and dislocated his shoulder. He was carried to the White House where a doctor was called.

The opening of the bonspiel this morning found the doctor out ready to play again. Dr. Harvie is an old curler and has played in many Peterborough bonspiels.

COMPETITORS TIE IN SKATING MEET

Gorman and Nelson Each Have Gain of Eighty Points.

LAKE PLACID, N.Y., Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—Charles Gorman, new international champion, and Harry Nelson, of Chicago, went into a tie yesterday for the national outdoor speed skating championship. Each has 80 points.

In races at Saranac Lake, a continuation of the events in Detroit, Gorman annexed 50 points by winning the 40 yard dash and finishing second in the mile.

Nelson added 20 points to his total by placing third in the 440 and third in the mile. Gorman won 30 points at Detroit and Nelson took 60.

Gorman broke the world's record for the 440 held by himself and established at Saranac in 1924. The Canadian champion's time for the event was 35 3-5 seconds, and the former record was 36 3-5 seconds. In the first heat of the semi-finals, Gorman skated the dash in 36 4-5.

In the final, Gorman had the pole and took the lead, setting a terrific pace. He was pressed closely by Nelson and Logan, his team mate from St. John, but Gorman held the lead throughout the race. Logan took second place and Nelson third.

In the mile event, Gorman skated well back with the rest of the contestants for the first five laps and then took the lead with half a lap to go, but in the stretch Valentine Bialis, former international champion, passed the Canadian with a fine burst of speed.

Gorman finished second and Nelson third. The time was 3:06 4-5.

Jaffe of New York won the five mile event after the lead had changed hands often. Searles of New York finished second, and Bialis third. The time was 14.45.

Gorman 80; Nelson 80; Bialis 70; Searles 50; Jaffe 40; Forsman, New York, 30; Farrell, Chicago, 30; Perlsberg, Cleveland, 30; Logan, St. John, 20.

Rules of the International Skating Union provide that in the event of a tie, the two leaders must skate three additional races. No arrangements have been made, however, and the skaters were reported leaving Saranac Lake last night.

GATHERING OF CURLING CLANS MARKS OPENING DAY OF 'SPIEL

Sixty-six Rinks Compete For Trophies of Peterborough Club.

RECORD ENTRY.

The annual open Bonspiel of the Peterborough Curling Club has come into its own. It opened this morning with the largest list of entries in its history—66—with many towns sending several rinks to compete for the trophies and prizes.

Among the old-timers are many who are visiting Peterborough this year for the first time, and on every hand was heard commendation of the splendid arrangements made by the local club for the comfort and entertainment of visitors. Twelve ices are being used, seven at the Curling Rink on Charlotte Street and five in Brock Street Rink, all in good condition. Owing to the moderate weather, the ice was not very keen to-day, and games were proceeding fast.

When the first draw was made at 9 o'clock this morning, His Worship Mayor Holloway, in a very short address, extended the welcome of the city to the visiting curlers, and promised them that the Peterborough rinks would put up a strong fight to hold the cups. He closed by hoping that the best team would win and that some of the cups would go outside the city.

Ira D. Moore, president of the local Curling Club, welcomed the curlers to the Bonspiel, and bespoke for them a good time while in the city with plenty of sport and fun.

W. G. Morrow, chairman of the Bonspiel Committee, announced that it was the biggest 'spiel ever held in this city and the largest one in Ontario so far this year. Dr. Henry of Oshawa was called upon to make the draw, and the first name drawn was R. M. Waddell of Peterborough.

The following are the draws and the games decided up to press time:

ROUTINE MEETINGS BOARD OF HEALTH

Decided To Put Burnall Attachment in Queen Mary Hospital.

Business of a routine nature was all that came before the members of the Board of Health in a meeting held this morning.

A motion was passed authorizing the placing of all outstanding accounts of the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital in the hands of the city solicitor for collection and a detailed report.

It was decided to instal a burnill attachment for reducing the fuel consumption at the hospital at a cost of $145. In order that a test may be made under favorable conditions the attachment will not be installed until September 1 next.

The Chairman of the Board was authorized to write to the Canadian Woollens asking them to send a representative to the next Board meeting in order that the matter of sewage disposal in the Auburn mills might be discussed.

Raising Call Money Rate Halts General Advance

NEW YORK, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—Hardening of the call money rate from 4 to 4½ per cent., the first change in about a month, induced sufficient selling to check, at least temporarily, the general upward trend of prices in to-day's Stock Market. Recessions in the popular rails and industrials were held to a point or so on the first wave of selling, with operators for the advance struggling to retain control of the price movement by bidding up special shares.

A moderate reduction in brokers' loans last week tended to stimulate bullish enthusiasm in the early trading, more than a score of issues again touching their highest prices since 1925, or longer.

It was apparent, however, that resistance to the rising tide of prices had stiffened materially.

Revival of speculative activity and strength in the oil shares was one of the features of the session. Colorado Fuel moved up three points to a new peak on rumors of an early declaration of dividends.

United States Steel Common was unable to break through its record high in the first half of the session, although it approached within a small fraction of that level. A brisk demand for Wabash, which advanced over three points to a new peak above $61 a share, featured a series of bullish demonstrations in the early afternoon.

Most Mining Stocks Show Weakness To-day

TORONTO, Feb. 15. Canadian Press. — Irregular trading featured the proceedings on the Standard mining exchange to-day. With few exceptions the tone of the market was weaker. Victory Silver was the feature of the transactions. In addition to being the market leader this issue was also a strong spot, advancing a point to 11 1-4, Laval Quebec was prominent in the selling, but weakened 1 3-4 to 37. Lakeside Lorrain, Duprat, Keeley, Cons. W. D. Lake, and Tough Oakes Burnside, were other active stocks to recede fractionally.

Mining corporation was a firm feature, advancing five cents a share to 3.20. Amulet featured the business in the unlisted section and gained a point at 139.

Massey Harris Active; Closes Four Points Down

TORONTO, Feb 15. Canadian Press. — A generally weaker tone prevailed on the Toronto stock exchange to-day and the majority of the more prominent isues experienced declines. Massey-Harris, second in regard to activity, was an outstanding weak spot, selling off 4½ points to 91½. This stock opened at 92 1-4, a loss of 3 1-4 points from yesterday's close. It continued to sell down, and reached a low point of 88 before it rallied to partially recover to its closing price of 91½. Barry Hollinger, the market leader, displayed a nervous and unsettled condition, selling down 5 points to 60. Arnold Bros. third in activity, was an exception to the general trend and scored a gain of 3 1-4 points. Imperial oil was a firm feature, advancing 1 1-4 points to 45 3-4.

Wheat Prices Firmer On Gains At Liverpool

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—(Canadian Press.)—Wheat developed an early upward trend to-day, sympathizing with Liverpool quotations that were firmer than expected. Liverpool reported consumer demand large and that unsold quantities afloat were only nominal. Starting at 1-8 cent off to 3-8 cent up, Chicago wheat soon gained all around. Corn and oats liekwise advanced, corn opening at a shade to 1-4 cent decline and sagging a little more, then turning up grade. Provisions were easy.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 139 7-8; July, 134 1-8. Corn, May 80 1-2; July, 84. Oats, May, 46 1-8; July 46 3-8.

NEWS AWAITED BY GOVERNMENT

No Official Word From O'Malley In Past 30 Hours.

CABINET ANXIOUS.

LONDON, Feb. 15. Canadian Press —With no official despatches from China in the last thirty hours, the British government was to-day anxiously awaiting news of the fate of the critical negotiations at Hankow.

There was a tense moment in the House of Commons this afternoon, when Philip Snowden, Labor, asked Austen Chamberlain whether the negotiations between the Cantonese foreign minister, Eugene Chen, and the British Charge dAffaires, Owen O'Malley, had broken down as was stated in the press.

"Up to the present moment I have received no information," answered the Foreign Secretary gravely.

Rifle Goes Off, Sending Bullet Into Boy's Brain.

FRIEND SUICIDES.

SODUS, N.Y., Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—A double tragedy in which Rosscoe Duffee 25, accidentally shot and killed his youthful companion, William Smith, 15, and then turned the gun on himself, came to light last night when their bodies were discovered in their overturned car near here.

According to the coroner, the Smith boy was driving a light car belonging to Duffle, and they were returning from Sodus High School. Duffle was seated in the rear seat, his rifle across his knees. Skidding in the slush that covered the pavement, the car swerved from the road and overturned. Duffle's gun was discharged, and Smith collapsed with a bullet through his brain. Duffle, crazed by the accident, turned the rifle on himself and sent a shot through his forehead. The bodies were discovered in the overturned car some time after the tragedy.

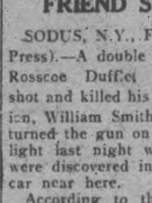
Refugees' Plight Pitiful

The plight of those who escaped is pitiful. Many of them were forced from their homes into snow filled streets, some with only hastily snatched coats over night clothes to protect them from cold. Doctors with medical supplies are being rushed into the earthquake zones as fast as modern aeroplanes can take them.

No authentic figures of the loss of life and the number of injured are expected for days, because of the breaking of wires and the utter confusion in the widespread area affected by the convulsions. Troops are working desperately to restore railway communications to allow the passage of trains bearing relief supplies. Thousands are homeless and will soon be in urgent need of food.

"EVERY BONE ACHED" SAYS WM. LEE



Mr. Lee lives at 565 St. Patrick St., Ottawa, Ont. "If I live to be 100," he said recently, "I'll praise Tanlac for the great boon of health it brought me. It stopped nine years of awful suffering for me.

"Every bone in my body ached and often for 3 or 4 nights at a time I could not close my eyes in sleep. Indigestion upset my nervous system and kept me in constant pain. Bloating and cramps were chronic.

I spent hundreds of dollars for treatments and remedies during those nine years, but none of them gave me any real help. But Tanlac helped me from the very first and soon put me back in excellent condition. I gained 17 lbs. weight and have enjoyed the finest health since then."

BANFF, Alta., Feb. 15. (Special.) —The Westminster choir boys now touring Canada in song recitals and church services, were greeted here yesterday by a crowd of Indians in colorful costumes, who mounted on spirited ponies, charged up to and around them. Later at night the Indians gave a special war dance in their honor. The choir boys repaid the Indians' song of welcome with an English Scout song their sweet voices giving the onlookers and the Indians an unwonted thrill.

The Rockies are a great success with the boys and during their trip from here to Revelstoke their cameras were continuously clicking, taking shots for mementoes.

HOW TO HAVE A CLEAR HEAD

End Stuffiness, Sneezing, Huskiness, Inflammation.

Do you get up in the morning with a stopped-up nose? Are your breathing passages clogged with a cold? Are you subject to catarrh, bronchial irritations, asthma or hay fever? Have you that mean, low-spirited feeling which comes from lack of proper oxygen? If so, here is a pleasant, harmless cigarette that will clear out the head, nose and throat.

These cigarettes are the formula of Dr. J. W. Blosser, and are composed of medicinal flowers, herbs and berries.

Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes contain no tobacco, no cubebs, nothing habit-forming, and are entirely harmless. They are used by women and children as well as men.

It is so simple to inhale this pleasant and soothing smoke. Much more convenient than using sprays, washes, douches, etc.

If you suffer from any catarrhal trouble, catarrhal deafness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations or frequent colds, get from any druggist a convenient, pocket-size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes, and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effects.

SPEEDING UP.

The process of speeding up the proceedings of the House of Commons is gaining momentum, and the appointment of a special committee of members to study the whole question of how time may be saved and to make recommendations in this regard to the House will be hailed as a very material step toward better conditions.

The committee will doubtless be able to agree upon many means of saving time.

Mr. Guthrie, in fact, suggested one the other day when he pointed out the advisability of adopting a quicker method of registering votes in the House, the system now used requiring much more time than the British plan, although the British Parliament has nearly three times as many members.

The main saving of time, however, will come through an elimination of unnecessary speeches and a general cutting down of oratory, and it is hoped that the committee will be able to make material progress along such lines.

WE'RE GLAD TO SEE YOU ALL.

We have with us today from practically all centres in this portion of the Province representatives of the curling fraternity, who are paying their annual visit to Peterborough's bonspiel.

Some of them have been coming for years, and even to the large number of citizens who do not come into close contact with curling their names are well known.

The fact that so many of these visitors return year after year and new rinks are constantly being attracted to Peterborough speaks volumes for the hospitality of the local curlers, and for the atmosphere of good sportsmanship that has always distinguished the Peterborough bonspiel.

The Examiner trusts that this spirit will continue to dominate the annual competition, and that Peterborough will each winter play host to such splendid gatherings of Ontario's curlers as that assembled here today to commence the long grind for the premier honours.

May good sport, good ice and good fellowship combine to make this years spiel as successful in all other respects as it is undoubtedly from the standpoint of attendance.

MAKE IT A SAFETY YEAR.

Statistics compiled by the Ontario Safety League in regard to automobile fatalities in Ontario last year indicate that to some extent the efforts to promote safer driving have succeeded.

The death toll in Ontario as a result of automobile traffic did not, it is true, show a decrease as compared with 1925.

In fact, the victims in both years numbered the same—there were 298 people killed in each year.

But last year's showing is an improvement, inasmuch as the number of cars in commission was much greater than in 1925, and the number of deaths per 1,000 cars was, therefore, materially lower than during the year previous.

However, it would be well before becoming too enthusiastic over this better showing to realize that there is still great need for improvement, seeing that the number of non-fatal motor accidents last year was 202 higher than in 1925.

For the first time, too, the number of motor fatalities was greater than drownings; Ontario's waters claimed 297 people in 1926, while the automobile snuffed out one more life.

The fact that from these two causes nearly 600 people met death in this Province last year should lead to a general resolve that 1927 shall be a safety first year both on the highway and on the water.

There is little doubt that ordinary carefulness would have averted a very large proportion of these fatal accidents.

THE TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM.

The intimation given employees of the local street railway that the service is likely to be discontinued after April 1st indicates that the City Council in a short time will be called upon to face the whole transportation problem.

It, in fact, is likely to be the most important question to be dealt with by the Council this year, and at present there is no sign that the city fathers have anything in the form of a solution to the problem.

The other municipalities in this section of Ontario which are supplied with Hydro power are loud in their insistence that the Hydro should cease to operate the local street railway, maintaining that their citizens are being called upon to pay higher rates to provide Peterborough with transportation facilities.

The Hydro contention that it is more economical to maintain than to scrap this and other services that are being operated at a loss is not entertained for a moment by these municipalities.

They are unanimous in demanding that the losing services be cut off, and their stand in this regard may eventually have some effect upon the Hydro Commissioners.

It would be interesting to know just how the street railway system here fared during the past year; there is reason to believe that the increase in business since inauguration of lower fares and the addition of motor buses has very materially decreased the annual deficit.

However that may be, the transportation problem is rapidly coming to a head, and before long the City Council will have to deal with the question from all its various angles.

"FOREIGNERS."

Largely, no doubt, as a result of unemployment, suggestions have been heard recently that all "foreigners" in Canada be deported to the lands of their birth.

Such a plan, of course, is entirely out of the question, and the reasons must be evious to anyone who gives the matter a moment's thought.

In the first place, Canada needs additional population and has spent large sums of money to bring people to this country. It would be the height of folly, indeed, to get them here and then tell them they could not remain.

Further than this, it is rather difficult to define what "foreigner" means. Strictly speaking, a foreigner is anyone not born in this country, or who, if born elsewhere, has not yet taken out citizenship papers. Persons born in the British Empire, of course, do not have to become naturalized here as they were British subjects before coming to Canada. Outside of the native-born, however, everyone in Canada is really more or less a foreigner, and those of us who were born here are the sons, grandsons or great grandsons of men who came from elsewhere and who were foreigners, too—in the sense, of course, that they were natives of some other country.

Canada, with barely nine millions of population, cannot afford to spend much time discussing the question of who is a foreigner and who is not. With the exception of the Indians, we are all foreigners or the descendants of foreigners. In these circumstances, then, it behooves us to talk not of sending people out of the country but of getting more to come in. This for the reason, of course, that the more people we have, the more employment there is for everyone. This point is often overlooked but it is true nevertheless. We are apt to forget that a million additional population added to Canada tomorrow would create work for at least as many heads of families as would be represented in that total.—Border Cities Star.

TRIFLING WITH THE COAL RATES.

It is a year since the Order-in-Council was passed calling for a hearing by the Dominion Railway Board on the question of freight rates on coal from Alberta to Central Canada. When at last the case came up on Thursday it developed that the parties interested did not have necessary statistics prepared. Adjournment had to be taken until June 7. If at that time a favorable rate is granted, coal from the Western mines cannot be moved east before February of next year, which means two years from the date of the Order-in-Council. Thus the ponderous machinery of rate investigation drags itself along.

Possibly it has not been forgotten that an insistent demand for Alberta coal arose in Ontario during the course of the United States anthracite strike, when a temporary rate of nine dollars a ton was allowed. This, the railway experts contended at the time, was an irreducible minimum. There was no doubt in their minds about it. Presumably they were speaking from knowledge of statistics. Both Alberta and Ontario disputed the figures, but the railwaymen stood pat. Yet on Thursday representatives of both the C.P.R. and C.N.R. revealed the fact that they had no data available from which to present arguments, and that the necessary information could not be compiled in less than two months.

This looks pretty much like trifling with the whole question. Granted that the general freight rates question occupied much time, could not the railways have been prepared to meet the Provincial representatives on Thursday if they were really anxious to do so? Are they of the opinion that delays and adjournments will push the coal question into the background until another strike brings it to the fore? There seems no good reason for this, nor is there any reason for believing that the interested Provinces are going to let the matter drop until they know what it should cost to lay Western coal down in this Province. The consumers here want to know, and the dealers want to know. If the cost is satisfactory it will be good business for the country to have this outlet for the Alberta product. Would it not be equally good business for the railways?

Mr. J. Earl Lawson, for Ontario, was ready to present his case, according to Ottawa despatches. A formula had been prepared and his brief was drawn up. The railways are responsible for any further delay. The hearing is now scheduled for another date. The general rates inquiry will then be out of the way, and there may be some action on the coal question. This certainly ought to be the final adjournment. The question should be settled one way or the other. If Ontario cannot buy Alberta coal at a desirable price, it is well to have the fact known. If it can, the sooner both Provinces are aware of this the better. There should be no more temporizing with the question.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

We refuse to get excited over the announcement of an American scientist that Japan will sink into the sea in 10,000 years. What is going to happen in China is what matters just now.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for Canadian grain showed some improvement on the Montreal market yesterday, but the volume of business transacted was small.

A moderate trade was done on the domestic market and prices were unchanged.

Only a small trade was done in all lines of millfeed but the undertone to the market was firm. The demand for standard grades of rolled oats was also limited and prices were unchanged.

The egg market was moderately active and prices ruled steady. The receipts were 279 cases.

The market for potatoes was without any new feature to note, prices being steady under a limited demand. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.75 to $1.80 per bag of 90 pounds, and Quebec White stock at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-store.

The demand for butter was confined to broken lots and the feeling was firm. The receipts were 21 packages.

Extreme dullness marked the cheese trade and values were fractionally reduced. The receipts were 26 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—With timely snowfalls protecting domestic winter wheat and with the United States wheat visible supply total showing an unexpected increase, wheat values yesterday headed down grade. Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 3-8 to 1 1-4c net lower; corn 3-8 to 3-4c off; oats 1-4 to 5-8c decline, and provisions showing 12 cents to 55 cents drop.

Except for a few minutes at the start, wheat had a downward trend all day. Increased quantities of wheat afloat for Europe acted early as more than a counterbalance here for small upturns in price at Liverpool. Then selling which appeared to come from the northwest and from European sources was quick to reveal that buying orders in Chicago were of inadequate volume and that plentiful snow giving needed moisture as well as protection to most of the winter crop in this country had encouraged the bear side of the market.

Enlargement of the United States wheat visible supply total led to increased selling pressure on wheat as the day drew to an end. The total supply is now 55,354,000 bushels, against 42,830,000 bushels a year ago. Some notice was also taken of liberal country marketings of wheat in Canada, but the Canadian visible supply decreased for the week and is about 1,000,000 bushels less than the corresponding total a year back. Export business in North American wheat yesterday was practically all Canadian, with cash premiums at the Gulf of Mexico easy, 8 cents over Chicago May.

Corn and oats gave way with wheat. An increase of 1,093,000 bushels in the corn visible supply was also a bearish factor.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 20,000; best yearlings $12.25; bulk fat steers $9.25 to $11.75; stockers and feeders $7.25 to $8.50; light vealers $11.00 to $12.00; shipper kinds $14.00 to $14.50; few closely sorted kinds upward to $15.00.

Hogs 45,000; uneven; choice 200 pound averages late downward to $11.60 or below; bulk butchers, 210 to 300 pounds, $11.50 to $11.65 on closing market; few loads heavy bacchers below inside price; bulk packing sows $10.60 to $10.85; strong weight slaughter pigs upward to $12.10; shippers took 11,000; estimated holdover 13,000.

Sheep 14,000; bulk desirable lambs $12.75 to $13.35; heavy lambs $12.50 to $13.10; few extreme weights $11.60 to $12.00; sheep steady; fat ewes $7.50 to $8.50; desirable lambs $12.50 to $13.00; top $13.10; few sales around $12.25.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

(By the McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

"FAIR" or "FAIRLY"

A correspondent writes:

"I have read the following in the New York Times, and should like to know whether the word 'fair' is used correctly, or whether it should be 'fairly:' 'It is well to treat the strikers fair, but it is also well to let them know the exact truth'."

The correspondent is needlessly worried by this use of "fair" as an adverb. It is perfectly good English, according to Webster and other authorities. Webster defines "fair" as follows: "In a fair manner; specifically, in an attractive or agreeable manner; gracefully; pleasantly; as, the sun shone fair; graciously, as to speak one fair; in an equitable manner; formerly, fitly; as, to play fair; auspiciously; prominingly; as, events promise fair; the day breaks fair; clearly; plainly; as, to write fair.

RE TROLLING FROM MOTOR BOATS

Editor, The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—The writer having visited Rice Lake for a few days' fishing, and striking a windy day, resolved to engage a motor boat for the next trip. The motor boat was on hand in the morning and we trolled over the weed beds and around them until noon, never getting a strike, but the boatman stated that on the opening of the fishing season he caught and landed twelve lunge and twenty-eight pickerel. The legal limit is a joke in our opinion, and the spearing done in the spawning season is one cause of the scarcity of the lunge. Another cause is the lowering of the water at spawning time, which leaves millions of spawn drying up on the shores of the marshes and creeks.

Yours truly,

FISHERMAN

THE LATE MR. W. W. JOHNSTON —AN APPRECIATION

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir: Last Thursday there passed on one of our most highly esteemed citizens, Mr. W. W. Johnston. Although he had outlived the allotted span of life, and some years ago ceased to participate in active business, his apparently vigorous health and wonderful energy caused the announcement of his death to come as a great surprise, and it has occasioned widespread sorrow. After a long and singularly unselfish life, devoted to the good of others, he has been called to his reward.

Our late friend talked much of religion, for it is natural for a man to talk of something that is the greatest thing in his life. But he did not speak of himself; he preferred to let his life do the talking. In this material age, when we sometimes think that we are almost overwhelmed by conventional religion, he impressed us as one who, while of course acknowledging the form did not deny the power. In his theological and religious idea he was conservative, was a great reader of the best books, and he was remarkable for the firmness with which he affirmed his belief in the fundamental principles of the Christian religion.

But, while holding tenaciously to what he believed to be the truth, he was broad in the true sense of that much-abused word. No one church or denomination was big enough to compass his sympathies. Mr. Johnston was nearly all of his life a very faithful Sunday school teacher, and for years was superintendent of the South Ward Sunday School, and for many years an elder in St. Paul's church. His sympathies were with every organization that is really working to make the world better. The sympathy of this whole community will be given to his immediate relatives upon whom the sorrow presses very heavily, and also to the minister and congregation of St. Paul's church in the loss of such a staunch supporter.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. McCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER

EARN MONEY BY DIETING

It has been said that a dollar saved is a dollar earned. There is no doubt but that most people literally throw away good money every day by practicing bad dietetic habits. Two or three times as much food is used as the body by any means can convert into normal tissue. This is of course a direct loss, greater than if the excess of food were thrown into the garbage can; as the body is consequently weakened by the useless effort made in attempting to digest more food than needed. Enervation is the natural result with a loss of time and energy from useful daily work and more doctors' bills.

You only live on one third of what you eat and the doctors and undertaker live on the other two thirds.

The daily cost of food used by the average person is sometimes between two and five dollars, and of course a great deal more than this to those who give feasting parties once or twice weekly. If only the essential foods are used the actual daily cost cannot exceed $1.00 for the child or adult. This diet would include eggs, meat, fruit and all of the vital vegetables. For example a breakfast of two eggs, toast and stewed fruit could not cost over 25 cents at the most at the present prices.

For luncheon, a meal of whole wheat bread with a choice of such cooked vegetables as spinach, string beans, asparagus, carrots, turnips, beets, parsnips, summer squash, chard, etc., would be satisfying and thoroughly nourishing. Add a salad to this of the leafy vegetables. You could not eat over 25 cents worth of these vegetables if you tried too, as they are very "filling" but equally vital.

At dinner if you use the same kind of vegetables and ¼-pound of beef or fish, you will have a dinner which, if prepared properly, is fit for a king.

These meals do not include pastries, ice cream, candy, puddings, cakes, lobster, shell fish and such unwholesome and expensive food which is likewise as indigestable as it is costly.

If you have been spending two to five dollars daily for your food you see you have been spending two to five times too much! You could buy something you need each day for the money you waste. You could buy a good book daily from the money thus saved and even though you couldn't read all of them, you would never suffer from mental indigestion in trying to do so.

If you have been suffering from any chronic illness, a fast from all food for a week or two would add a tidy sum to your bank account.

In France a doctor has recently proposed that all Frenchmen should fast one day a week and thus be able to pay off the national debt and restore the Franc, which seems to have fallen below all help. He suggested closing all food stores, restaurants and cafes one day a week, but his advice did not strike a happy response from his comrades who were so willing to march to the trenches for France, but unwilling to fast for the Franc when it would mean so much for the future of their beloved country. But you to whom this writing may come can help yourselves both financially and physically if you will eat less and fast more, and also add this to your new rules of life—March More.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

CURES

By Dr. Frank Crane.

There are no cures.

A movement is on foot, which will be vigorously combatted by interested parties, to stop the advertisement of all cures.

The human frame is a monstrously complicated piece of machinery. It requires special training and much experience to understand even the first principles of its working. Its cure should be in the hands only of qualified parties.

Every once in a while some man or cult springs up and announces a cure. There are cures for diabetes, bright's disease and every ill from housemaid's knee to dandruff.

One trouble with all of these cures is that they prevent people from consulting the proper authorities, someone who understnads them.

Carried away by the advertisements of the proposed remedy, the patient may delay too long in calling in the proper medical assistance.

There is a widespread prejudice against physicians. Some well-meaning people, including the late Elbert Hubbard, have done much to assist in this prejudice against the medical profession. But when all is said and done, what is this profession?

It is composed mostly of men and women who have been carefully trained and are properly experienced in the cure of the human body.

One of the principles of this profession is that there is no cure for disease. Nature does all the curing and the physician can only remove the obstacles that get in nature's way.

Most so-called cures alleviate pain or estop certain symptoms. They do not get to the root of the disease. It is one thing to have the pain in some part of your body cease and another thing to remove the cause which produces that pain. It is the latter object which is the aim of the medical profession or should be.

Of course doctors are like all other groups of people and include the good, the bad and the indifferent. Some doctors are ignoramuses and some of them are slaves to prejudice, but as a rule they are more fair and open-minded than any other class of people because they are scientifically trained.

They represent no sect or cult or belief. Truth has no sect. It requires an open and hospitable mind.

The medical profession is as anxious to find out what will relieve suffering humanity as those outside of it could possibly be. But they will not put their stamp of approval upon anything that has not been carefully tested and tested in the open daylight.

Doctors are naturally skeptical, that is, they are slow in lining up in favor of anything that has not been carefully tried out.

And a good doctor is not in his business solely to make money. There is a system of ethics in the medical profession and service to humanity is placed before gain.

Banting, who discovered the use of insulin, gave his discovery freely to the world. He did not ask one cent for it and it was worth a billion dollars.

So anyone that has fallen upon something that is a boon to humanity is not liable to make of it a money-making device. People are properly skeptical of those propositions which are put forth for revenue only.

If you have any trouble go and see a regular physician. At least he is probably an honest man and will give you an honest opinion, and he will say probably that he cannot cure you, but he may be able to help you.

First-class publications should not publish cures. It should be recognized that anything that advertises itself as a sure-cure for any disease is very probably a fake.

Up to date nothing has been found of more benefit to humanity than a knowledge of its physiology and an honest effort to put the human frame in normal and natural order.

MEN OF TRINITY ARE ORGANIZED

I. D. Moore Elected President —To Give Leadership in Church.

ADDRESS GIVEN.

At a very enthusiastic gathering of the men of Trinity Church, held last night in the Reid street hall, an organization was formed to give leadership to some of the programmes now before the church. The executive of this organization consists of Ira D. Moore, president, Charles D. Cooke, vice-president, N. Staples, secretary, and Messrs. Harry Huff-Charles Cummer, Norman Hambly, Norman Seaton and Norman Moncrief, as members of the executive.

Mr. Moore presided over the gathering, whose aims and objects, and the programme the men of the church are undertaking, were explained by the pastor. The next meeting will be of the nature of a comradeship meeting, to which the men and their comrades are invited when Rev. F. E. Mallott of Belleville will be the speaker.

The Rev. R. J. McCormick was the guest of the evening and gave a very inspiring and helpful message. Mr. McCormick has a very splendid reputation as a successful pastor in men's work, and his address last evening revealed many of the secrets of this success. He spoke on "The Man of Three Dimension." In a very close-fitting address, he talked to the men about the man of purpose, culture and devotion. The great problem of living was life's supreme test, and the finding of the avenue through which men could best serve their day and generation, was the task of the church of to-day. Mr. McCormick employs many methods but the purpose of all methods is eventually to lead men to Christ. It was a very practical and impressive message, replete with illustrations gleaned by the speaker in his many years of intimate fellowship and work with men. The message of the speaker was greatly enjoyed by all men present and they will look forward to a return visit from Mr. McCormick.

The men of the church were greatly encouraged in their venture, and look forward with great enthusiasm to the service they hope they may be able to render to the church and the community.

Crawford Recital

(By Jeanette.)

A very interesting organ recital was given in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last evening by Thomas Crawford, Mus. Bac., F.R.C.O., F.T.C.L., of Toronto, assisted by his wife, Gertrude Ramsden Crawford, in violin solos and the choir of the church. It was a very satisfying programme of pleasing length, with a variety of music in the selections, which ranged from popular favorites to renditions of the heavier music of the old masters.

Mr. Crawford plays with a bland smoothness of tone and an evident technical proficiency which makes his music entertaining in the extreme. An artistic treatment of varying types of composition was noticeable throughout his programme, particularly in the soft work and his selections were calculated to display a wide range of study. He opened with a concert overture by Alfred Hollins, a brilliant piece, which demonstrated the various facilities of the fine new organ, and followed this with two brief bits, in charming style, the Liszt arrangement of a 16th century "Ave Maria," and Hanels famous "Largo" in G, the latter evoking much applause. Both of these brief numbers utilized the echo, the first introducing the chimes and the last the harp effect.

Then came a masterly rendition of Bach's Toccato in C Major, with much demonstration of the varied tonal qualities of the instrument, and a long solo for the feet only, showing especially fine pedal work.

A brilliant number was the overture, "Ruy Blas," by Mendelssohn, a florid, showy thing with much contrast in the forte and piano passages. An "Evening Melody," an original composition of the player, was softly played, with the vox humana stop much in evidence, and a Tone Poem entitled "Finland," by Sibelius, was a dramatic affair, with massive sections contrasting strongly with the milder folk melodies employed in its composition.

Two charming and ever popular morceaux, the "Traumerei,' of Schumann, and the "Humoreske' of Dvorak, followed, the organ recital ending with Gounod's vivacious "Marche Militaire," a fine conclusion for a splendidly-played programme.

Mrs. Crawford's playing of her finely-toned violin was of an interesting and somewhat unusual type. Absolutely free from mannerisms of any sort, yet playing with free, unstrained grace, with a beautiful clear singing tone and composed, assured manner, her music was a charming addition to the evening's entertainment. In an organ and violin duet she played Svendsen's "Romance in D," a flowing, legato melody, in which the cantabile effect of the strings had a lovely background in the soft tone of the organ. In the same effect, was played Mackenzie's 'Benedictue," also of the smooth graceful type of music, and two violin solos, with organ accompaniment, were Cesar Cui's "Berceuse," the soft lullaby played with muted strings, and the dainty 'Minuet" of Beethoven.

The choir of St. Paul's church, robed and capped, gave two well-rendered numbers, under the direction of Martin B. Chenhall, who also played the organ accompaniment for the second selection. Miss Muriel Bridge played the piano accompaniments for the two choral renditions.

4TH PETERBOROUGH TROOP

Well, the hockey game's over and nobody won, the score being none all at the end of sixty minutes' hard hockey. This game will be replayed tonight at the Mark Street Rink from 7 to 8. The 3rd think they are going to be the guests, but they won't at the end of the game.

The troop meeting last Thursday had a pretty poor attendance, but this will be changed this Thursday Mr. Hope, Cubmaster of the local pack, was an interested visitor at the meeting, and it is hoped he will pay another visit soon. He showed the Scouts a fine game in which nearly everyone participated. As the game is one for the loose-jointed, Mr. Hope did not compete.

All the Scouts formed up on a chalk line, each with a large sheet of paper in his hand and another at his feet. At the sound of the whistle each Scout stepped on to the paper on the floor and placed the other sheet in front of him on the floor. He then stepped onto this, turned around and picked up the other piece and placed it down ahead and stepped onto it, and then repeated the above performance. The first Scout to reach the other line, which was about 20 feet away, won the game, also the points for his patrol.

Some more games were played, after the patrol instruction. A number of tests were passed since the last meeting. Second Class First Aid, Compass, Signalling, Kim's Game, and First Class Signalling being some of these.

To pass Second Class Signalling a Scout must be able to signal by semaphore over long distances, while in First Class Signalling he must be proficient in both semaphore and Morse. As points in the troop competition are now being given for tests passed there ought to be a raid on the Scoutmaster to pass them soon.

The troop competition is still being led by the Kangaroos with 112½ but this will be changed when the points for tests passed are added. The Owls, who now have 112, will then be quite a bit in the lead.

At the meeting of the leaders after the Scouts had been dismissed, it was decided to start a troop library. All Scouts who have any books they wish to lend are asked to bring them to the next troop meeting. It was also decided to have the meeting start at 7.30 sharp; all Scouts coming after this being late. As late Scouts get but one point in the inspection, there should not be very many late.

Fog is stated to have no appreciable effect in the death rate from respiratory diseases.

THREE ARMIES IN OPPOSITION

Despite the Foreign Minister's assertion, a firm belief prevails that a serious hitch has occurred which is likely to prevent the signing of an agreement.

Cruiser's Crew Strengthened.

PORTSMOUTH, Eng., Feb. 15.—(United Press).—The cruiser Yarmouth sailed for China to-day with 450 sailors aboard, in addition to the crew.

No Report of Breach.

LONDON, Feb. 15 (United Press) —The Foreign Office to-day had no information in support of the report that Anglo-Chinese negotiations at Hankow regarding the status of British concessions at Hankow and Kiukiang had been ruptured.

"We have been without news from Hankow since Saturday," the Foreign Office spokesman told the United Press.

"It is impossible for us to deny or to affirm the reports that the negotiations between Eugene Chen, Cantonese Nationalist Foreign Minister, and Owen O'Malley, representing Great Britain, have terminated, although we presume that if the negotiations had been broken off O'Malley would have notified us."

A despatch to the Daily Mail from Hankow to-day said there were indications that the negotiations had been broken off and that a statement would be issued on Tuesday.

THEATRE

PICTURE FANS LIKE BIG OUTDOOR FILMS

Surveys conducted all over the country, including exhibitors in both large and small cities, have conclusively proved that outdoor pictures and feature comedies hold big box office records.

Now for the first time, the motion picture public is given a big special production which is both an outdoor western with an Arizona locale and a comedy of the first water, in the new Al Christie special, "The Nervous Wreck,' featuring Harrison Ford and Phyllis Haver, Chester Conklin Mack Swain and Hobart Bosworth, which will be on view at the Regent theatre to-day.

Mr. Christie expended more time and money to make this western-comedy or comedy-western a success than on any of his previous offerings.

A huge Spanish hacienda was built in the Santa Monica mountains as a location for much of the action. This hacienda differed widely from the average western home, being a replica of the palatial residence of a large western landowner whose property is nearly as extensive as some of the smaller eastern states. The corresponding interiors, erected at great cost in the studio, are lavish reproductions of this Spanish property.

Following the completion of Marie Prevost's star farce, "Up in Mabel's Room", "The Nervous wreck" was the only one to occupy the attention of Mr. Christie and his production forces for a period of about five months. No effort, time or money was spared to make it the outstanding comedy of the year.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"NEW YORK"

There was a good crowd at the Capitol Theatre last evening for the opening night performance of the picture, "New York," which has an atmosphere and setting appropriate to its name. The loves and fears, the passions and struggles, of the dwellers in the huge metropolitan centre are screened in this big production, which progresses from a panorama of the East to the West side, with human passions at their height throughout the entire picture.

There is a powerful cast in "New York," including Ricardo Cortez as the hero, with Lois Wilson as his sweetheart and Estelle Taylor as the woman who loves and pursues him. The intriguing William Powell, who plays "bad man" roles so successfully, is the man who loves Estelle, and she marries him, after several attempts to capture Cortez' affections. Knowing that he is in love with the society girl, Marjorie, Estelle comes to his apartment one night and is discovered there by her husband, who, before Cortez' arrival, accidentally shoots her and conceals her body in a neighboring room. Ignorant of the tragedy, Cortez arrives and sits down to an hour of music.

The developments which ensue include a theatrical court-room scene and the conviction of Cortez for the murder. But Fate intervenes, as usual, and he is finally freed.

It is an interesting picture, with the mighty city as an ever-present background, the hectic emotions engendered by its form of life playing havoc with the characters of the quartette of youths who have been pals in youth and take such differing ways in later life. An interesting part is that of "Skeets" Gallagher, playing the role of "Buck," the Bowery pianist.

THE EVEREST FILM.

Some press comment on the Epic of Mount Everest film, to be shown under Kiwanis auspices on February 25, follow:

"Prince Henry said: The expedition was indeed fortunate to have so experienced and able a photographer as Captain Noel. Under the most trying conditions he had taken those marvellous photographs which gave some idea of the obstacles faced and of the hardships endured. Their efforts had had most interesting scientific results. Captain Noel has enabled us to get a glimpse of the most marvellous views of this summit of the world."—The Times (London).

"Captain Noel struggled with a heavy kimetograph camera to 29,000 feet (more than four miles) and by means of telephtoto lenses recorded the progress of the climbers to nearly 27,000 feet. The results he achieved are strikingly beautiful. Amid frost and blizzard he recorded an unforgettable picture of the play of the clouds, their shadows and the sun upon Everest's upper slopes."—The Westminster Gazette (London).

"There has never been a travel film more realistic in its reproduction of the hardship and heroism of the little band of explorers who set out with the roof of the world as their goal."—The Daily Mail (London).

"It would be impossible to overpraise Captain Noel's marvellous picture, a sweeping triumph for British cinematography with its awesome panoramas of Everest's stupendous crags, ice cathedrals and glaciers and its skilful 'assembly' of the peak from every conceivable angle."—London Daily Express.

"Wonderful pictures they are, some of them of a beauty to be dreamed of."—Western Daily Telegraph.

"As an example of a film in which impressions of natural beauty and grandeur and of the highest tragic dignity are conveyed through the cinema with an effect utterly impossible through any other known medium, one could not do much better than point to The Epic of Everest."—The Sphere (London).

"Here is a story of pluck and endurance in a setting of wild and unique beauty without a touch of the 'highbrow', unfolded in a way so simple that any child could follow it."—The Outlook (London).

THE ROAD OF TRAVEL LUXURY

OUTLINE OF SCIENCE CIII—Proof that Earth is Round. by MAX HAHN

AS A BOY OF 15 FERDINAND MAGELLAN, A PORTUGUESE, WAS A VICTIM OF THE EXPLORATION FEVER THAT FOLLOWED COLUMBUS' WONDERFUL DISCOVERY. MAGELLAN'S LONGING TO SAIL WAS CLIMAXED 25 YEARS LATER BY ONE OF THE GREATEST VOYAGES IN HISTORY.

© McClure Newspaper Syndicate

YOUNG MAGELLAN PROBABLY WAS FAMILIAR WITH ONE BIT OF EVIDENCE THAT THE EARTH RESEMBLES A BALL. THERE IS INDICATION THAT THE SURFACE OF THE EARTH IS CURVED IN THE FACT THAT AS A SHIP SAILS AWAY FROM PORT ITS SAILS MAY BE SEEN LONG AFTER THE HULL DROPS BELOW THE HORIZON.

ALTHOUGH FIVE SHIPS AND 234 MEN SAILED FROM SPAIN SEPTEMBER 20, 1519, THE PRICE OF VICTORY WAS THE LOSS OF FOUR SHIPS AND 214 MEN, INCLUDING MAGELLAN. THE SAILORS LOST THEIR LIVES IN MUTINIES, TO DISEASE OR IN BATTLES.

NEARLY THREE YEARS HAD ELAPSED BEFORE THE VICTORIA, ONE OF THE FIVE ORIGINAL MAGELLAN SHIPS, WAS WELCOMED BACK TO SPAIN BY THE BOOMING OF CANNON AND THE SHOUTS OF ENTHUSIASTIC SPANIARDS. THE CIRCUMNAVIGATION OF THE GLOBE CONVINCED THE UNEDUCATED MASSES OF THE ROUNDNESS OF THE EARTH.

ODDFELLOWS HOLD 'AT HOME'

Annual Concert and Dance Given in Stirling Town Hall.

STIRLING NEWS.

STIRLING, Feb. 15 (CP).—The Oddfellows' Annual "At Home," held in the Town Hall on Wednesday night last, was attended by a large crowd, the building being filled to capacity.

The programme was furnished by the Madoc Dramatic Club and consisted of a comedy/drama in five acts, entitled "Married in Thirty Days." Between acts, solos, quartettes and other features were introduced by members of the club, which maintained the interest and kept the audience in good humor from start to finish.

Mr. F. T. Hulin, N.G. of No. 239 I.O.O.F. performed the duties of chairman in a very efficient and pleasing manner. Mrs. V. Reid of Madoc and M. Fraser of Glen Ross furnished music for the occasion. Lunch was served at the close of the program, after which many stayed to enjoy dancing for a couple of hours.

St. Andrew's Guild.

The Guild of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church on Monday night last, gave a very interesting programme. Miss Frieda Matthews, the president, had charge, and gave a short reading on the Lord's Prayer. Miss Helena Fargey gave a sketch of the life of Mrs. C. F. Alexander, the writer of the hymn, "There is a green hill far away." Miss Helen Montgomery a reading on "Hypocrisy," Mrs. Nolan and Miss Margaret Anderson sang a duet.

The topic for the evening, "The History of the Presbyterian Church," was ably dealt with by Mrs. A. G. Mackenzie.

St. Paul's Y.P.S.

An interesting programme was given on Monday evening by the young people's society of St. Paul's United Church, under the direction of the Christian Endeavor Department. After the opening exercises, the leader of this department took charge. Mr. Sam Handy gave a reading on one of Thomas Hood's poems, entitled "Jean Arab." Mrs. Jack Butler sang a solo. The topic, "Cameos from Calvary" was well given by Miss Gladys Joblin, which was appreciated by the large number present.

The monthly meeting of St. Andrew's W.M.S. was held on Tuesday last at the home of Mrs. Vernon Matthews, second concession of Rawdon. The Scripture lesson was read and explained by Mrs. Joseph Reid. Review of the Glad Tidings by Mrs. M. W. Sine. The topic "Moslem Women," was in charge of Mrs. Hoard and Mrs. J. M. McGee, assisted by Mesdames McCaughen, McIntosh, Baker, Ward, Matthews and Miss Gena Spry. A request was received for reading matter from some of the lumber camps in North Hastings. This matter will be in charge of Mrs. M. W. Sine, and Mrs. J. M. McGee, and a quantity of magazines and other literature will be forwarded. The roll call answer was texts of Scripture bearing on faith. Lunch was served by the hostess. Messrs. Fargey, Hoard and Henry Reid, furnished conveyances for the ladies to and from the place of meeting, for which they were very grateful.

School Nurse Considered.

Mrs. A. F. MacDonnel and Miss Bessie Conley attended a meeting of the Women's Institutes of West Hastings at Wallbridge on Thursday evening and assisted in the programme. The former gave several readings and the latter sang in her usual pleasing manner.

The primary object of this meeting was to consider the advisability of engaging a school nurse for Sidney township. The principal speaker was Dr. Faires of Toronto, who by his address enlightened the minds of those present. The Sidney township council was present in a body. The matter will be considered by tha proper authorities, and no doubt good results will follow.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Agricultural Society on Thursday night, committees were appointed and plans discussed to further improve our grounds, and have a "Best Fair Ever" this year.

Personals.

Mr. J. B. Belshaw, president of the Stirling Horticultural Society is attending the Annual Provincial Convention of Horticultural Societies in Toronto this week.

Miss Meiklejohn of Seattle, Washington, is a visitor at the home of her nephew, Mr. R. W. Meiklejohn.

Mr. W. S. Stiles has been transferred to the Warkworth branch of the Royal Band as relieving teller.

Mrs. F. A. MacDonnel will spend the week end in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sine had dinner on Thursday with Mrs. and Mrs. W. T. Sine, it being the birthday anniversary of Mrs. M. W. Sine and Mr. W. T. Sine.

Joseph Reynolds was appointed to fill the office at a salary of $20.00 per year.

On motion the Chairman was authorized to procure a suitable box for keeping the papers of the School Board, the box to be placed in the village vault.

The following accounts were passed for payment:

Norwood Register, $11.69; R. G. Lawlor, $4.00; W. J. McLaughlin, $1.00; J. L. Squire & Sons, $8.50.

Barn Burned.

The barn of Mr. Joshua Allen, of Asphodel, was burned on Wednesday morning. The fire was caused by an upset lantern.

BETHANY INSTITUTE WILL HOLD SOCIAL

Ladies Decide to Have Entertainment on St. Patrick's Day.

BETHANY, Feb. 15.—The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Flack on Friday afternoon. Nine members and one visitor was present. The President, Mrs. S. Jemison, presided. The ladies decided to hold an entertainment in the Town Hall on March 17. Mrs. Ona Thorndyke, Mrs. I. Carscadden, Mrs. Fred. Reynolds and Mrs. Arthur Flack were named as a committee to arrange for the programme.

The February meeting of the Young Ladies' Mission Club was held at the home of Miss Marian Fallis on Tuesday evening when a pleasant time was spent.

Rev. and Mrs. Fierheller and daughters entertained a number of their friends at a social evening on Friday.

Although it is the middle of February, the roads through the village to Peterborough and Lindsay were never in better condition for motoring, and automobiles outnumber the usual winter conveyance, the horse and cutter, on the highways and byways.

The Nestleton hockey team met the local team here on Thursday evening. The score was 3-3. This means that a third game will be played in the near future.

HAD BAD SPELLS WITH HER HEART

Mrs. R. G. Hall, Bolton Centre, Que., writes:—"Some time ago I had bad spells with my heart which I believe was caused by nervousness. I tried everything I could think of, but could get no relief until one of my friends persuaded me to get a box of

After I had taken a few boxes I got wonderful relief.

I now weigh one hundred and thirty-five pounds where, before, I never went over ninety."

Price 50c. a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SERMON ON CHINA GIVEN AT BETHANY

Rev. F. J. Reid Addresses United Congregation on Present Situation.

BETHANY, Feb. 15.—On Sunday Rev. Fred. J. Reid, who has just recently returned from China, spoke in the United Church in the evening. Mr. Reid put the Chinese situation in a very realistic manner. He said that while just at present the missionaries felt it better to leave the country, yet he felt that the Christian Chinese would carry on the work to the best of their ability, and that at some not far distant date the missionaries would be able to return and again take up their work.

Mr. Reid also spoke at the Sunday school session and told the children and adults of the terrible effect of opium on the Chinese and how even small children were addicted to its use.

Both addresses were listened to with interest by both old and young.

The choir sang two appropriate anthems at the evening service.

MURRAY COUNCIL REGULAR MEETING

Resignation of E. M. Wessels as Clerk Received and Successor Named.

WOOLER, Feb. 15.—Murray Township Council met with all members present. Reeve Elliott presided. A motion that the resignation of E. M. Wessels as clerk and treasurer be received, was passed. It was moved and adopted that Edward Nelson be appointed clerk at a salary of $300.00.

Moved and adopted that C. F. Wessels be appointed treasurer at a salary of $150.00.

Reeve Elliott is to be the delegate to the 13th annual conference on road construction, in Toronto February 21 and 22.

Mrs. Hattie Marsh of Trenton is the guest of Mrs. Esli Terrill.

Mrs. Frank Morgan and son, Frederick, York Road, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Rowe.

The "Trail Rangers" group arranged for a sleighing party to leave the village on Friday evening at 7 p.m. for Frankford. There were two sleigh loads with eighteen boys and girls in each sleigh.

Reaching Frankford they stopped at the skating rink and enjoyed a skate, being entertained by Frankford Band and meeting with others. The bright moonlight added to the pleasure on the return drive.

The W.F.M.S. met on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Nelson.

Dr. and Mrs. Hess of Hastings spent Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

Around a garage you're bound to get hurt

CRIPPLED BY PAINFUL SWELLING IN HIS LEG

Trouble gone after few applications of simple remedy

As he came in from work in the evening, a garage worker of Shreveport, La., felt a pain in his left leg above the ankle, and the next morning it was badly swollen and worried him when walking.

"I applied Sloan's Liniment to it that night," he writes, "and the pain nearly all left. I applied it again and the next day the swelling was all gone. For all aches and pains I find nothing to beat Sloan's Liniment. I keep a bottle in the garage where I work."

Sloan's gets results because it stirs up the body's own powers to heal itself. Just pat it on, and at once you can feel the fresh blood tingling through the sick tissues. Inflammation, swelling, stiffness, pain, begin to give way at once.

Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—35 cents.

EARLY OPENING OF NAVIGATION

CHANNEL OPEN.

MONTREAL, Feb. 15.—(Canadian Press).—Probabilities of the early opening of the St. Lawrence navigation season are being discussed locally and although predictions as early as this are thought premature, the unique conditions of the channel now suggest a likelihood of early navigation. As far as Sorel the channel is free of ice. This is almost unprecedented. A local pilot of considerable experience stated that he had never known anything like the present conditions of the channel and he considered it was very reasonable to expect that this would have an important effect in helping to free the St. Lawrence of ice at a date earlier than usual.

MONEY FROM SHEEP

Bank of Montreal Has Instructive Booklet Issued.

The Bank of Montreal has had published a booklet entitled "Sheep for Mutton, Wool, and Money," which is being issued for free distribution to all who are interested in the subject.

The booklet is intended mainly for the farmer who wishes to keep a small flock of sheep as a profitable side line, and for this purpose it constitutes a reliable and handy guide to the various breeds and types, and to the most approved methods of rearing them and making them pay.

Something like 150 photographs, with diagrams and descriptions covering every phase of the subject, are comprised within the 50 pages of the booklet. The introduction is written by the Dominion Animal Husbandman, G. B. Rothwell, of the Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa. He summarises the essentials of profitable sheep keeping, and incidentally remarks that at the present time there is possibly no more profitable line of live stock or one in which less labor or equipment is involved than sheep raising, particularly as it applies to the small farm, or as part of a mixed farm. The booklet was originally issued by the International Harvester Company for distribution in the United States. Recognizing its value, the Bank of Montreal secured the rights for Canada, and had a new edition revised and prepared by Canadian experts to make it suitable for Canadian conditions. Copies of this edition are available to all, whether customers of the bank or not, upon application at the local branch of the bank.

ENGLISH LINE

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 14. — The league on Tuesday evening was well attended. The programme was interesting and instructive. The Bible lesson, Eph. 1:3-12, was read by Mr. Sam Diamond. The devotional talk on this passage was given by Mr. Ernest Craighead. A reading by Miss Alice Parker was much enjoyed. Rev. C. Daniel led in a discussion on "What Our Church Teaches About Us in Relation to God," drawing from the meeting in their own works the meaning of sin, atonement, repentance, justification, regeneration, and sanctification.

A solo, "I Hear the Voice of Jesus Say," by Rev. Mr. Daniel followed.

The service closed with a hymn, and all joined in the Mizpah benediction.

On Tuesday evening a very happy and enjoyable time was spent when the Tabernacle league played host to Stephen's league. About 100 people gathered and all enjoyed the evening. Tabernacle league, under the leadership of Mr. Herbert Tinney, directed the opening services. Then Stephen league, led by Mr. Frank Heagle, produced the following programme: Bible reading by Mrs. A. Parks. Devotional talk, "The Test of Discipleship," by Mr. Daniel. Mrs. Charles Hoard read an interesting paper. Recitations, Jennie Willis, Everett Parr, Barbara Semington. Violin solo, Fern Wetherill. Organ selection by Mrs. P. Heagle and Miss Edith Gunning. A chorus by a group of girls. Current events by Reginald Parks. Solo, "Sing Me to Sleep," by Mr. Daniel. Critics' report by Mrs. Thomas Weatherill.

A very good contest was then entered after which the Tabernacle league served a sumptuous luncheon. After the usual complimentary voting of thanks, the league members departed to their respective homes.

The late ice storm, followed by the light snow fall, has put the sleigh-riding hill in good shape again. On Monday evening the largest crowd yet gathered to participate in this pastime. However, the enjoyableness was somewhat marred by the approach of a K. K. K. cross in full flame, which was pushed over a nearby hill and left to send out its message of light. But as the cross burned low, the spirits of the party seemed to return to normal and the sleigh riding continued.

SALVATION ARMY BANDSMAN'S COMPOSITIONS PLEASE CROWD

Two Marches Written By S. Wheeler Feature Concert.

A NEW RECRUIT.

Came To Peterborough Temple Band Only Recently.

Two selections of his own composition won for Bandsman S. Wheeler a glowing tribute at the musical festival by the Salvation Army Band at the temple last night. One was a march entitled "Peterboro Temple," and was played by the entire band; the other was also a march, "Montreal Citadel," written for saxaphones and presented for the first time in public last night. The band is planning a rather extended trip about Dominion Day, with engagements in Belleville, Kingston, Ottawa and Montreal, and the "Montreal Citadel" number will be a feature of their programmes in the Quebec City. It incorporates with striking effect "O Canada" and "La Marseillaise" which are woven into the original melody with a flowing smoothness that characterizes both these compositions. The 'Peterboro Temple" march shows an abundance of musical ideas without triteness, and with a scoring that brings out the resources of the band to a marked degree. The piece is constructed along customary march lines, but only in that respect is it conventional. Bandsman Wheeler has a third creation to his credit, is an accomplished trombonist, and clearly reveals the artistic temperament. He came to Peterboro only a few weeks ago from Toronto, and is not long out from the Old Country. Undoubtedly he should be a decided acquisition to the Temple Band. Bandsman Wheeler is one of a number of musicians who have enrolled under Bandmaster Robinson of late. They have brought a welcome ability to the organization, and their addition to the ranks is due to the improved industrial conditions in Peterborough as a result of which work was readily available for them.

Brigadier E. J. Pinchen of Montreal, presided last night, and incidentally congratulated the corps upon having in their midst a young man of the talent and modesty of Mr. Wheeler.

Bandmaster Robinson provided a rich range of harmony to the audience that comfortably filled the auditorium. Some of the more robust and sonorous climaxes threatened to raise the roof of the comparatively small assembly hall, but the new building apparently survived once more the blast of the most brilliant fortissimo. The pillars of the temple were seemingly unshaken, but that band certainly packs at times a tremendous volume of tone within those four walls. The director presented his programme with confident control, and was especially convincing in the mood and manners of "My Jesus" "Adoration," and "American Melodies."

The programme was as follows:
March, Peterboro Temple (composed by Bandsman S. Wheeler), Temple Band
Vocal solo, Hold Thou My Hand.... Bandsman A. E. Moynes
Cornet solo, British Grenadiers ..... Deputy B. M. A. Austin (Saxophone accompaniment.)
Selection, "My Jesus" (1st prize selection 1926) ..... Temple Band
Selection, Moonglade ..... Saxophone Party
Trombone solo, Joy, Wheel ..... Bandsman S. Wheeler
Selection, Adoration .... Temple Band
Vocal solo, In the Secret of His Presence ..... Temple Band
Instrumental quartette, Winter ..... Bandmaster Robinson, Dep. B. M. A. Austin, Band Secretary Richardson, Band Librarian M. Shadgett.
Selection, American Melodies ..... Temple Band
Bible reading.....
March, Montreal Citadel (Composed by Bandsman S. Wheeler)..... Saxophone Party
Hymn Tune, Hursley.... Temple Band
Sketch ..... Saxophone Party
March, 1st Prize, 1926 Temple Band

AFTER 9 YEARS SHE EATS AND SLEEPS

"I had stomach trouble for 9 years, and the gas pressure in my stomach made me restless and nervous. Adlerika helped me so that I can eat anything and sleep good. I don't suffer any more with gas."—Mrs. E. Touchstone.

Because Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, it gives the system a REAL cleansing, and clears out old poisons which usually cause sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. Just ONE spoonful stops GAS, and relieves that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never guessed was in your system and which may have long caused trouble. No matter what you have tried for stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In Peterboro at McDermid & Jury and other druggists.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE

MINER TO SPEAK HERE NEXT WEEK

Famous Naturalist To Give Two Lectures Next Monday.

Jack Miner on a tour will visit Peterborough and give a lecture to school children in the afternoon and adults in the evening, on Monday, February 21st.

Jack Miner, the Napoleon of conservation, has launched a new campaign and thereby enlarged his field of activity. His works on behalf of the birds and trees are well known. Now he has taken the childhood of Canada under his wing, so to speak.

Jack is in the midst of an energetic lecture tour throughout Ontario, appealing to both parents and children. Conservation of the birds, the beasts and the trees is the bait to catch the crowds, but his concern is that of a "fisher of men," only he believes in catching them young.

In Woodstock the other day Jack got the impulse to see how quickly and orderly the opera house could be cleared. He had an audience of 30 adults and 1,300 children. He told them where the exits were located; how he wanted the audience to divide and depart, and cleared the auditorium in four minutes. He said the theatre might have been cleared within three minutes, but for the fact that the adults crowded about the exits after they had got out and congested the lines.

Mr. Miner is going right through Ontario, speaking in Weston, Kingston, Brockville, Belleville, Prescott, Peterborough, Ottawa, Lindsay, Paris, Kitchener, St. Catharines, Toronto (two days in Massey Hall), St. Thomas, London, Chatham and Brantford, before he concludes his tours.

He tells the youngsters how to get acquainted with the birds and animals, revealing that the so-called "wild" creatures are not wild; that only man is wild. In the evenings he discourses to grown-ups on the general theme of the intelligence of birds and conservation of both animal and plant life.

Mr. Miner carries with him two reels of motion pictures, including action scenes of the famous crow-trap, showing just how he made the record catch of 510 at one haul, in a season in which more than 2,000 "black marauders" were dispatched.

1876 COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING

Members of George Street Men's Association Give Interesting Programme.

SETTLE BUSINESS.

Father Time re-visited the locality last night and gave an evening of interest and fun to a capacity audience in the George Street United Church School Hall. The first part of the programme dated back 50 years, when Peterborough was a town and Ashburnham had not come within the limits. On the evening of February 14, 1876, the Town Council met and the actual proceedings of this meeting were the basis of the presentation and discussion of the tableaux put on by twelve members of the men's organization.

The second part was the convention of Wearie Willies under the direction of J. H. Renwick. These Wearie Willies represented a band of hoboes from all corners of the earth, and they delivered a programme of songs, music and speeches which was full of fun and caused many roars of laughter.

In the Council of 1876 was Mayor William Toole, Councillors Thomas Cahill, William Helm and William Taylor from Ward One; Daniel Hopkins, Walter Paterson, Jr., and John McClelland from Ward Two; John Douglas, Arthur Rutherford, and T. Thornton from Ward Three; and J. Dixon, Thomas Elliott and John Cooke from Ward Four. R. L. Dobbin represented the worthy Mayor, and other members of the organization represented the Councillors. The Council was dressed in old-time costume, each member having heavy long whiskers and long swallow-tail coat.

Matters discussed by this Council, which had been elected on a money-saving platform were: Whether the western end of Murray Street should be given to the William Hamilton Foundry Company, the Downie Street creek, the caretaking of the town clock, the report of License Inspector Thomas Davis, a grant to Mrs. Maggie Doolittle who wanted to go to Paris to train her voice; rebate of taxes for Timothy Tiny, and a $90,000 grant for rebuilding the drill shed which was solicited by Col. J. W. Miller.

Many interesting little quips were put in by the various speakers when they discussed the questions. Councillor Dixon was not in favor of giving any city property to the William Hamilton Company, as he thought some one might come along and want to buy the market square for a cow house. Stories of floating rails, logs, and chicken-houses down the Downie Street drain during the spring freshets were told, and it was decided to deepen this drain and to grade Murray Street so as to give work to the unemployed, as $200 had been spent in feeding the unemployed.

Councillor Douglas, one of the new members on the council, made charges of graft against some of the old councillors and after a heated discussion he withdrew in a rage.

In discussing the license inspector's report, members of the council were anxious to go around with the inspector as it was reported he sampled drinks in the 32 premises which he visited.

The new town council had just been installed and Councillor McClelland wanted the job of looking after it at $7.50 a year. The matter was left over and it was decided to ask the village of Ashburnham to contribute some or there would be no east face to the clock.

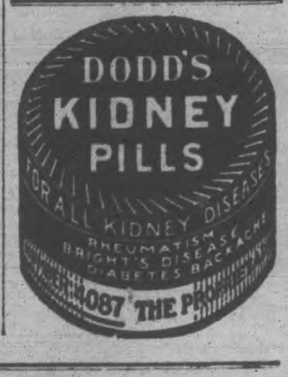
Mrs. Maggie Doolittle appeared before the council and asked for $500 so she might go to Paris to train her voice. She gave a singing exhibition which made the members readily grant the money, as they thought she would be a good advertisement for the town. The money was to be raised by issuing debentures.

Timothy Tiny, a little man with a big family, appeared and asked to be allowed to do municipal work in order that he might pay his taxes, which was granted.

Col. J. W. Miller, then head of the regiment, appeared with a huge petition, signed by 75,000 people, he said, asking that a grant of $90,000 be made for the rebuilding of the drill shed, which had been blown down. Col. Miller made an eloquent appeal and the matter was left over, to be taken up with the Department of Militia.

The forty-second convention of Hoboes opened to the weird strains of the bagpipes played by Lorne McDonald. The men were dressed in various colors and looked and acted the part of hoboes. They gave a programme which was full of fun, songs, music and speeches.

Those taking part in this were: Vernon Morphet, Roy Thornton, Fred Skitch, Harry Northrup, Edwin Rowe, Roy Rome, J. W. Bryan, J. W. Reene, A. V. Lillow, W. H. Cunningham, Lorne McDonald, Frank Clark, D. Munro, Rock Gordon, Dick Lush and J. H. Renwick.



EXPLAINS HOW ENLARGED VEINS CAN BE REDUCED

Oftentimes Veins Burst and Cause Much Suffering, Expense and Loss of Employment.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country; is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years any one who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Bond's Drug Store tell lots of it.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Young Men's Christian Association were hostesses at a charming Valentine tea held in the reading-room of the Y.M.C.A. yesterday afternoon. The decorations were exceptionally attractive and were carried out under direction of the president, Mrs. G. H. Roper, who, with Mrs. J. J. Turner, received the ladies at the entrance to the reading-room. Festoons of linked hearts, of cupids and true lovers' knots, in gay red cardboard, decorated the window curtains, the mantelpiece, the piano and the Cluny lace draperies of the table, which was centred by a miniature ship with spreading sails, holding a cargo of asparagus fern and spicy red carnations, with a red Cupid at its prow, and a banking of soft red tulle. Red carnations were in specimen silver vases, and silver candlesticks held red candles. From the electrolier above the table depended long red streamer shades, and daffodils decorated the mantelpiece and piano, also the table of home-made cooking, which was in charge of Mesdames T. Brown, J. Trussler and A. Moir. Mrs. P. Fitzgerald assisted at the entrance to the tea-room, which was cozy with a bright grate fire. The table was presided over in turn by Mrs. D. Jordan, Mrs. B. Shortley and Mrs. M. A. Morrison. Tea-room assistants were Mrs. T. H. Hooper, Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle, Mrs. D. A. Loomis, Mrs. B. Jackson and Mrs. J. Detcher. During the afternoon, vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. H. F. Doig and the Misses Daisy Murray and Daisy Davidson, with accompaniment by Miss Gwen Donley.

Yokes are Modish on the New Afternoon and Evening Frocks

This charmingly dainty frock is suitable for daytime or evening wear. The front and back are quite plain and the shirred side-sections add grace and fulness. View A shows this design made of one material. The long sleeves are gathered to narrow wrist-bands, and the neck and lower edge of the applied yoke may be simply bound with a contrasting shade. View B shows the same style with the sleeves omitted and the yoke and side-sections effectively fashioned of lace or figured material. NO. 1525 is for misses and small women and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. View A size 18 (36 bust) requires 3½ yards 40-inch material, or 2¼ yards 54-inch. View B requires 1⅞ yards 40-inch plain material and 1¼ yards 40-inch figured. Price 20 cents the pattern.

The designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book are advance styles for the home dressmaker, and the woman or girl who desires to wear garments dependable for taste, simplicity and economy will find her tastes fulfilled in our patterns. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"Oh, it's so vicious! Vicious!" Faith stared at the paper and its glaring headlines. "They don't give her a chance! They've tried and convicted her right here in print, without giving her a chance to say a word for herself. I thought Chief Morehouse was kind, good, and that those reporters would be fair—"

"They are being fair, in their opinion". Bob Hathaway replied. "Don't you realize, dear, that it does look bad for Cherry? There doesn't seem to be a shred of evidence to connect anyone else with the crime, unless—" and he frowned and caught back the words he was about to utter.

"Do you know something you haven't told me, Bob Hathaway?" she demanded.

"I'm afraid it won't help much right now," he admitted ruefully, as he kissed her by way of apology. "Morehouse scouted my theory. I could see he thought I was clutching at any straw to help Cherry's case, for your sake."

"Well, when I found Uncle Ralph's body lying on the floor almost directly beneath an open window, I was so stunned that it didn't occur to me to look out of the window and see if his assailant could have entered that way.

"When I went back to Uncle Ralph's house, after bringing you home, Morehouse let me go up with him to hear Dr. Murchison's opinion on how long Uncle Ralph had been dead. I went to the window, which some idiot had taken the liberty of closing—I suspect it was Mary, but we won't know until the inquest—and asked Murchison's permission to open it. He looked pretty cheap when I reminded him it had been open when I discovered the body, a fact which I certainly mentioned to him. We both looked out the window and down upon the ground.

"Well, the terrace on that side of the house comes up almost to the second story, just a few feet below the west window of Uncle Ralph's bedroom. And there, in the soft snow, almost filled up, were two sets of footprints. One set led toward the window, one away, to the porte cochere, which begins just beyond Uncle Ralph's bedroom windows and extends to the rear of the house, all along that west wall. The concrete driveway near the wall is so protected by the roof of the porte cochere that no snow reaches it, and there the footprints were lost. Just below the terrace and thick all over the lawn were thousands of newly made footprints, which of course had obliterated any trace of this particular pair of feet."

"I warned him! I begged him to look everywhere for clues!" Faith began despairingly. "What kind of footprints, Bob? A man's?"

"Yes, and there was something funny about them, too. Only the toe half of the left foot showed, in both sets of tracks. There were not more than three sets of each—going toward the window and away from it. There's a big drain pipe there, extending almost to the surface of the terraced ground, and just a foot away from the window that was open when I discovered the body. Morehouse didn't take much interest in the footprints. Said his men would have found them, if they'd been there when the police arrived, and that they had undoubtedly been made by some cop or detective, going thoroughly over the ground.

"Oh, he took the measurements, but a couple of cops swore they'd seen an officer there by the window. Only half a left print each time, as if the foot that made them walked on its toes. I couldn't find a cop in the whole bunch who walked like that."

The shrilling of the telephone penetrated to the kitchen.

"Oh!" Faith's hand went to her throat. "I'll bet they've found Cherry!"

THIS CANADA OF OURS

HOW CANADA GOT ITS NAME.

Q.—How did Canada get its name?

A.—It is credited to the late Sir Leonard Tilley that he suggested the name "Dominion" when a title was being sought at Confederation, and that he got the idea from reading Psalm 72, verse 8, which reads: "He shall have Dominion also from sea to sea and from the river unto the ends of the earth." This verse is engraved on the Memorial Tower of the new Parliament Buildings at Ottawa.

Disapproves Scheck Test Because She Read the Book

HARRISON, N.J., Feb. 15 (Canadian Press).—School children of Harrison must take the Schick test, although one mother wrote that she had read the book and seen the play, and did not approve of either. The Board, denying that the test had anything to do with deserts or movies, says it is useful in discovering susceptibility to diphtheria.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY FEBRUARY 16 1927

Astrologers read this an evil day in which it is wise to let the usual order of things proceed without attempting any sort of changes.

There is a threatening sign for those who travel by water, for severe storms appear to be forecast.

This is a day most threatening to persons who exercise governmental powers, for their best intentions are likely to be misrepresented.

Under this direction of the stars Europe will meet problems that threaten to overthrow thrones, the seers prophesy.

Mars is in an aspect exceedingly menacing today and news of a sensational nature from abroad appears to be indicated.

Jealousy and envy are supposed to be unusually prevalent under this sway. It is well to cast out all suspicions, if one could make the best of today.

The seers point out that under this direction of the stars leaders of men will pass away or will be deposed.

Great storms are again indicated, and they will be especially destructive on certain parts of the Atlantic coast, it is foretold.

Ancient factories are to close in Europe, if the stars are rightly read, and new industries will arise in the United States, which is to make great progress in artistic products.

In England the Labor party is to ga n great power and to enjoy new benefits, it is prognosticated.

This is not an auspicious rule for quick-tempered persons, whether they live in Europe or America. Divorces may be easily caused at this time.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year in which they are assailed by conflic ing interests.

Children born on this day probably will be forceful and determined. These subjects of Aquarius usually have interesting careers.

"Hoofers" Will Breed Real Hoofs By 2000 A.D.

CHICAGO, Feb. 15.—(Canadian Press.)—The "hoofers" of to-day will breed ladies with real honest to goodness hoofs by 2,000 A.D., chiropodists of Illinois aver. These six inch heels, they asseverate, will eliminate the heel and callous the ball of the foot into a regulation hoof.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Five yards of fine old cream Swiss lace were turned to account to trim this spring frock of navy blue georgette.

Fashions nowadays do not lend themselves so well as they once did to the utilization of odd pieces of fine old lace. There seems to be very little to do with the yokes and collarettes that were once so much admired. Once small lace insets could be laid on stiff little yokes where they were shown to good advantage.

Perhaps the fact that fashion has little use for these precious tid-bits of old lace has something to do with the fact that not long ago a well-known American bishop had the task of dedicating an altar cloth to be used in a great cathedral. It was entirely made up of pieces of very fine lace that had been contributed by women of wealth and presumably of fashion. It contained collars, cuffs, barbs, and precious bits of old lace that had once been used on wedding gowns and veils and christening robes. The value of the lace contained in that altar cloth was estimated at a figure exceeding a hundred thousand dollars, for practically every piece was exquisitely fine and many of them were very old.

Once women of fashion who possessed such precious bits of old Duchesse, Valenciennes, Venetian point would have had them displayed on a formal reception or ball gown to show them as they would diamonds or other precious stones.

Many of us have pieces or lengths of old lace that are probably not quite precious enough to be used for an alt r cloth, but are still too attractive to be allowed to lie forever between sheets of tissue paper in a trunk. And though we cannot make use of them in quite the way that was formerly the custom there are ways of using them even now. The sketch shows how five or six yards of fine cream Swiss lace were used to trim a frock of navy blue georgette. Lacking enough for the trimming on the skirt and down the front of the bodice you might use a shorter piece of lace in the same way to make collars and cuffs. Lace is frequently used to trim the lower parts of bell sleeves this year.

Lace is used with chiffon or georgette in many of the new frocks and it may be possible for you to edge and trim a tunic of one of these light materials with your bits of lace. To give a note of unity the lace and chiffon or georgette should be of the same tone. You can have beige or cream material and have the lace dyed to match. Lace may be dipped in strong coffee to give it an attractive ecru or beige tone and the other material may be chosen to match this shade.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster, without the burn. You feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu."

MILLINERY CLASS FOR GIRLS BEGINS

Forty-two on Roll of Dressmaking Class Just Closed.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 14.—The Girls' Class in connection with the Agricultural Course which has been held in the school room of Knox United Church closed on Friday afternoon, and the Millinery Class opens on Monday in the same place and continues for two weeks.

Miss Seabrooke is in charge of the dressmaking class which has forty-two on the roll, and has been a remarkable success. Beginning with stitches and continuing with neck and pocket finishings, all the class will complete one dress and will make two. The scene is of greatest activity with the humming of the sewing machines. Cutting out and other parts of the work are done at long tables. The room is well lighted and kept beautifully warm and comfortable, and the girls and older women are unanimous in their verdict of approval of the class and of appreciation for the opportunity afforded them.

It has been felt that a branch of the Woman's Institute would be a forward step for the women and girls of the community, both village and country, and an effort will be made to organize. A flourishing branch was in existence about twenty-five years ago, but for about twenty years it has lapsed and nothing has taken its place. It would be indeed an evidence of the success of the classes if this splendid organization could be revived.

Birthday of Oldest Resident.

On Friday last Miss Jane Gordon celebrated her ninety-seventh birthday at her home in the village and the occasion brought together the group of neighbors and friends who honor annually the birthday of their dear friend and kind neighbor. A beautiful birthday cake was made and decorated by Miss Mary Adams and was accompanied by the following address:

Lakefield, February 4, 1927.

"To the Misses Gordon:

We, your friends and neighbours, deem it a great privilege and honor to meet with you and your sister in your home and to extend congratulations on this, the anniversary of that day so long ago when God sent you to this earth a little babe, who breathed with your nostrils the breath of life and you became a living soul.

Doubtless, as is common with each of us, you have had your days of sorrow, as well as those of gladness, but we feel sure that, as you review the memories of the past, your heart will go up in gratitude to God for sparing you with so many of your faculties yet unimpaired, surrounded by members of the family whose joy it is to attend to your every wish.

We pray that the remaining years of your life may be the brightest and best, and when at last your sun may set, may there be just enough cloud to make the sunset glorious and you may be able to say with Paul—'I have fought a good fight, I have kept the faith: I have finished my course; henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors:"

Mrs. D. Simmons.
Mrs. C. Thomson.

A social hour was spent with the Misses Gordon and their niece, Miss Shields, and the ladies dispersed to their homes with life sweetened by contact with them. Miss Jane Gordon, the elder sister, is nearing the century mark, and is Lakefield's oldest resident, taking a keen interest in the village and its affairs, and in her home and garden. The sisters with their quiet lives are an example of their earnest Christian faith, and around them has grown up a neighborhood spirit which is beautiful to see and ideal to live amongst.

The Library is open every Tuesday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. and every Friday evening from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

The reading room is open from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m. every day.

The Public Library Board would be pleased to receive donations of books from anyone wishing to help them Helen A. Burgess, librarian.

Monday evening was magazine night in the A.Y.P.A. and most of the members present had brought contributions on the parts assigned them. As the magazine was read there was much applause and a good deal of laughter, for there were some telling local hits. The editorial was read by the editor, Mr. E. J. Robertshaw, who commented on the work done in the past, and what was hoped for in the future of this annual issue. Mr. Walter Chappell contributed the police court news, Miss Graham, the A.Y.P.A. news, Miss Winifred Payne the news summary, Mr. Laurence Charlton the social events, Miss Grace Watson the fashions, Mrs. Millage, a short story, Miss Odell Watson and Mr. Roger Stenner the hockey news (these games were realistic in their thrills), Mr. T. Simpson the sleigh drive, Mr. Stenner the market notes, Mrs. T. Waldon the advertisements, Mrs. Chappell, radio notes; a cartoon of the hockey match described by Mr. R. Stenner was contributed by Mr. George Stenner.

Women have invaded all but thirty-seven occupations of the world. So far as known there are as yet no women locomotive engineers.

ST. PAT'S HOCKEY CLUB SOLD FOR $160,000 TO SYNDICATE

Toronto Maple Leaf Hockey Club Limited Takes Over Franchise.

NEW MANAGER.

N. H. L. Officials Hold Conference at King Edward Hotel.

TORONTO, Feb. 15.—St. Patrick's Hockey Club is under new ownership. The deal was put through yesterday afternoon. The changes takes place Wednesday night, when Alec. Rommerill will assume the management. Charlie Querrie will accompany the team to Detroit tonight, which will be the last game under his management.

With the change in ownership, St. Pat's disappear and the Maple Leafs take their place. The team will sport new and distinctive sweaters when they take the ice on Thursday night against N.Y. Americans.

"Pete" Campbell had a great deal to do with the negotiations. J. P. Bickle continues his connection and will be a director of the new club, and N. L. Nathanson also retains stock in it.

N.H.L. In Session.

Toronto had a feast of hockey activity. At the King Edward Hotel the National Hockey League officials held a conference. And in another part of the city the owners of the St. Patrick Hockey Club conferred with those who intend to purchase the club. President Calder occupied the seat of honor at the league meeting, and all the clubs were represented. Leo Dandurand, dapper Montrealer, and part owner of Canadiens, was in attendance. Dandurand has given little attention to hockey this winter, having turned the duties over to Cecil Hart. Leo was down in Tampa trying out the racing game, but legislature troubles forced a cancellation of racing, and Leo is now returning to Montreal for the balance of the winter. Asked about the Tampa racing troubles Leo replied: "Dont ask me. I want to forget." Meaning that it was a disastrous venture.

Territorial Control.

The morning session of the league was occupied fully with the clearing up of details in regard to the granting of a second franchise in Chicago. That was the real reason for the calling of the meeting. It turned out that Detroit were in the same boat at Chicago, and so both cities came into the discussion. All the teams in the league with the exception of these two have control rights in their cities and their consent must be first given before another team can be placed in that locality. In order to give Chicago and Detroit the same authority the meeting passed a resolution to this effect. There is no indication at present to anyone wanting to invade the Chicago or Detroit fields, but it was thought wise to have the thing settled for the future.

That was the total of the morning business. An afternoon session was held, but it was started late and it was reported that nothing but purely league business of a private nature would be discussed.

DESERONTO WINS HIGH SCHOOL GAME

MADOC, Feb. 15.—On Friday evening Madoc High School boys played their first game in the Interscholastic League against Deseronto before a large crowd of interested spectators, the result being 3-2 in favor of Deseronto.

From the beginning the game went with vim and energy, with Madoc leading until the last ten minutes. Soon after the opening Don Whytock scored the first goal for Madoc. In a few minutes Deseronto evened. This was followed by a scrimmage around Madoc goal, the visitors striving to score again, but Goalie Cam. Wallbridge was ready for them and no more scoring was done during the period.

During the first period a good deal of the play was around the Madoc goal, but in the second it was more evenly divided. Back and forth the players went, now keeping Madoc goalie busy and now Deseronto. During this period Madoc was deprived of Nickle, who had been playing hards and well, but who was unfortunate enough to get knocked out. The boys redoubled their efforts, and Whytock, with a splendid lone rush, again found the net, and amid wild enthusiasm scored again for Madoc. Deseronto tried hard to equalize, but were checked, and the period ended 2-1 in favor of Madoc.

The third period found Nickle back on the ice, but scarcely equal to his usual good game. One minute after the period opened Deseronto succeeded in slipping one past Wallbridge. The play again centred around Madoc goal, and in a scrimmage a dispute arose over a second shot, which the goal umpire claimed found its way into the net. A new umpire came on. The rest of the period was hard and fast, but no more goals were scored, and the game ended 3-2 in favor of Deseronto. Both teams played well, and Madoc's goalie, C. Wallbridge, did excellent work in stopping the many shots the visitors directed at the Madoc net. Ross and Rupert also did excellent work in checking. Deseronto boys played clean fast hockey, Whiton, their centre, being a regular whirlwind on skates. The team showed skill in their fine combination work.

The line-up:

Madoc—C. Wallbridge, goal; C. Phillips, defence; A. Ashley, defence; D. Whytock, centre; T. Nickle, wing; A. Rupert, wing; R. Dafoe, sub.

The return game will be played in Deseronto on Friday evening.

BEAU BRUMMEL OF THE RING

He is the Beau Brummell of the ring. Clothes? Say, he has enough glad rags to outfit the Prince of Wales, Lew Cody and Adolphe Menjou all in one night.

He's a good-looking duke—not too sheiky—just downright handsome. He kayoes the girls with his doggy dress and he kayoes the gents with his mule-like fists.

He's a new character stepping into the big time spotlight of pugilism all because of his sensational one-round knockout of the famed Joe Dundee.

"Who is this egg, Roberts?" many a fan is asking since he tumbled the Dundee silks into San Francisco's resin dust. Few had heard of him nationally, but the boy appears to be some shucks on his own stomping ground.

Here's the lowdown: About five years ago a youngster walked into a Tacoma gymnasium looking for Jack Connors, the Tex Rickard of the village. The young fellow said his name was Eddie Roberts and that he'd like awful much to take up boxing.

Connors took him in tow and got him a few fights, all of which he won. Then as his skill increased, so did his punching ability. He got so he could slap the boys down on almost any or all occasions. He had 71 ring battles and ended 31 of them by naively poking his opponents silly.

He is 23 years old and has been fighting since he was 18. He is well built, of average height.

He hits with short, snappy punches, but he also is adept at fighting long range, holding off his opponents withh is left and then firing the right.

He smacks with either hand, but his pet blow is a short left hook delivered at short range. It travels scarcely a foot, but with it he can, and has, knocked men out.

Failure to take the game seriously handicapped him about a year ago and he suffered a pair of reverses.

But after a furious battle with "Lefty" Cooper, another coast welter, in which he was floored twice in the first round and Cooper was floored five times in the rounds following, ending up for keeps in No. 4, Roberts took on a new interest and swept through the coast welter list impressively. He wound up with his big victory over Dundee.

Forest fires annually waste more timber acreage than the lumber industry cuts.

Last year 85,762 forest fires in the United States reduced 26,000,000 acres of timber to ruins.

The oldest couple in England is believed to be Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Taylor. Each is 102.

LEAFS ADD TO PITCHING STAFF

Two New Southpaws Accept Terms With Little World Champions.

STRENGTHEN FIELD.

TORONTO, Feb. 15.—"Lefty" Faulkner will not have the port side portion of the Leafs' pitching staff entirely to himself, as was intimated some time ago, despite the departure of Carol Hubbell and Wally Stewart. The eminent southpaw survivor of the all-star curving crew, which pitched Toronto into the little world championship last fall, will have plenty of opposition if Messrs. Fohl and O'Hara are to be believed.

Manager Fohl sent in the contract of Fred Bohnslaw, a college pitcher of repute around Cleveland, whom he thinks will prove quite an acquisition to the staff. Bohnslaw, he writes, was a consistent winner with the University of Ohio in 1925, and ranked with the best semi-pro. lefthanders in the Forest City last season. His contract, along with that of Fred Jauff of Philadelphia, another southpaw who is recommended by scout Bill O'Hara, are in Secretary Art Leman's strong box.

The other youthful twirling prodigies have also signed. They are: L. S. Bobo of Etherbridge, Tenn., a six-footer, who made a name for himself in U.S. navy circles; Charles Hardin, a semi-pro. from Akron, Ohio, who lacks one inch of being six feet, and who is only twenty-one, and W. J. Lucas of LaGrange, Ala., who hails from the Eastern Shore League. He is twenty-five, and stands 5-9 in his spiked shoes.

Nothing has been heard from the major league additions to the club secured in the deal which took Miller and Stewart to the Browns. It is not considered likely, however, that Les Burke, Bob Lamotte and Bill Hargrave, the players in question, will look askance at the terms offered them. It is understood that the contracts forwarded to the smart trio carried increases over their major league ones.

Several of the players who are expected to be of much assistance to the club next summer, Billy Webb, Lena Styles and G. Rensa have come to time. Webb, who will fight it out with Andy Harrington for the third base berth, expresses his pleasure in landing with the champion Leafs, and says that it will not be his fault if the Leafs do not repeat. Styles is also pleased at coming back, and is confident that he will give Hargrave a battle for the first string job.

Rensa is the youngster who batted .388 in the Eastern Shore League, and who is said to be a real catcher. He is most enthusiastic over his advancement, and is extremely anxious to get into action.

M. F. Noonan, eighteen-year-old shortstop fram Wyoming, and Out-Ohio, and R. C. Holland from Augusta, Ga., have accepted terms. Hogan is a protege of Manager Fohl.

The advance guard of the Leafs, under Bill O'Hara, will leave for the training at Augusta, Ga., in a little over two weeks' time.

CLERKS TIE UP LEAGUE RACE

Defeat Hydro 9-4 in Campbellford League Game.

GOALIES STAR.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 15.—The Clerks drew up on even terms with the Hydro in the Town League race, when they beat the Electric boys 9 to 4 at Covert's Arena last night.

It was one of the best games of the season, and the large crowd was treated to a little bit of everything that goes to make the popular game so attractive. The rival goaltenders made many sensational saves when a score looked certain., fast rushes from end to end, and good checking by the defences of both teams and a fistic encounter between McArthur and Saunders. The pair drew five-minute panalties, and Labrush collected a pair of counters for the Clerks while Cowell was substituting for the clever Saunders in the Hydro net. The Clerks took the ice without Wood, their good left wing, but the loss apparently only spurred the others on to greater efforts, and they cut out a fast pace from the face-off, and with the generous use of subs., were able to maintain it beter than the Hydro.

McArthur and Labrash were largely responsible for the Clerks win. They collected three goals each, and their back-checking had the Hydro pretty well tied up. On one occasion Labrash came from far behind to steal the puck away from Cowell just when the Hydro sharpshooter was about to fire, and McArthur's great poke check was much in evidence all night.

The Clerks deserved their victory, not only on account of their superior speed with which they baffled the Electric boys, but because of their better team work. They played better combination than the Hydro, and made much more use of the blue line, many times a wing man taking a pass at the blue line and leaving his check far behind.

The Hydro have played better games than they did last night. They had practically as many shots on goal as the Clerks, but they lacked their usual steam, because the marksman was hardly ever allowed to get his shot away unchecked, and Fox was performing brilliantly in the Clerks net. At the other end the Clerks were working in close before shooting, and with the exception of Slogget's goal from the blue line, Saunders had very little chance on any that beat him. "Doug." Runions was used quite a lot, and the midget got his first goal in senior company when he checked a Hydro player at the blue line and sailed in alone. The Hydro and Clerks appear to be the teams to fight it out for the championship, and hockey fans are assured of a couple of tidy struggles.

The Tigers appear the best balanced outfit in the Midget series, with Blute, George Runions, Stocker and Wilks outstanding.

"Doug." Runions played fine hockey for the Bear Cats, but with the exception of McPherson he had little assistance from his team mates. He got one goal by going through the whole Tiger team.

Line-up: ....

Clerks.—Goal, Fox; defence, McMullen and Sloggett; centre, McArthur, Lebrash and Atkinson; subs, D. Runions and Lee.

Hydro.—Goal, Saunders; defence, Beatty and Brunelle; centre, Cowell; wings Johnston and Watt; subs., Keller and Free.

Referee—Charles Holmes.

Bear Cats.—Goal, Peake; defence, Free and Maybee; centre, D. Runions; wings, Bush and McPherson; sub., Henson.

Referee—H. Lambert.

OSHAWA WINS ROUNDS EASILY

Motor City Teams Eliminate Brockville and Lindsay.

LARGE MARGINS.

OSHAWA, Feb. 15.—Winning last night from Lindsay by 8 to 4, Oshawa made the score on the round 16 to 7 and qualified to meet Cornwall or Belleville in the next round of the O.H.A. intermediate series. Little interest was shown in last night's fixture in view of the fact that the Motor City won so decisively away from home.

The score was 2-1 in favor of Oshawa at the end of the first period and 4 to 3 at the end of the second. For Lindsay Coombs was the shining light, while for Oshawa Rowden, Houck, Lott and Averyy stood out.

Lindsay—Goal, Oliver; defence, Carew and Killen; centre, Coombs; wings, Williams and Wilford; subs., Reeves and Davis.

PLAY PRESTON.

KITCHENER, Feb. 15. — The Twin City Greenshirts concluded the home O. H. A. group schedule here last night with an 11-to-0 verdict over the Galt Terriers ,this being the third straight shut-out scored by the Kitchener and Waterloo team. The victory also assured the homesters of finishing first in the group race apart from the play-offs, regardless of the outcome of Friday's game in Preston, which concludes the season.

The contest was a clean, fast, open game of hockey with the Terriers trying hard, but they were outclassed by the Greenshirts who played some clever combination hockey. The visitors trotted out a mixed senior and junior club, with Orton, a junior, between the posts, but the kid was the star of the Terriers and it was his good work that kept the score down to eleven.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

THE BANKRUPTCY ACT
NOTICE TO CREDITORS

In the Matter of the Bankruptcy of R. A. Irwin, trading as R. A. Irwin and Company, of the City of Peterborough, in the Province of Ontario.

Authorized Assignee.

Notice is hereby given that the above named debtor R. A. Irwin, did on the ninth day of February, 1927, make an authorized assignment of all his property for the benefit of his creditor and that Geo. J. Sherry, Esq., Official Receiver, has appointed me to be Custodian of the estate of the debtor until the first meeting of creditors.

Notice is further given that the first meeting of creditors in the above estate will be held at the office of George J. Sherry Esq., Official Receiver, at the Court House, Peterborough, Ontario, on Thursday, the twenty-fourth day of February, 1927, at the hour of one-thirty o'clock in the afternoon.

To entitle you to vote thereat proof of your claim must be lodged with me before the meeting is held.

Proxies to be used at the meeting must be lodged with me prior thereto.

And further take notice that at such meeting the creditors will elect the permanent Trustee.

And further take notice that if you have any claim against the debtor for which you are entitled to rank, proof of such claim must be filed with me or with the Trustee when appointed, otherwise the proceeds of the debtor's estate will be distributed among the parties entitled thereto without regard to your claim.

Dated at Toronto this 14th day of February, 1927.

HOCKEY RESULTS.

Hockey games played last night resulted as follows:

Senior O.H.A.

Kitchener 11, Galt 0.

Intermediate O.H.A.

Cornwall 3, Belleville 2. Cornwall wins group.

Oshawa 8, Lindsay 4. Oshawa wins round, 16 to 7.

Port Colborne 5, Paris 2. Port Colborne wins group.

Guelph 3, Kitchener 1.

Junior O.H.A.

St. Michael's 4, Moose 0. St. Michael's wins round, 10 to 0.

Oshawa 4, Brockville 4. Oshawa wins round, 12 to 6.

Oshawa, 4; Brockville, 4.

BROCKVILLE, Feb. 15.—In the O.H.A. junior playdowns, Brockville was held to a 4-4 tie by Oshawa here last nigh, and Oshawa won the round, 12-6. Brockville, working under a handicap of six goals, carried the play to Oshawa, but the later's defence was hard to solve. Leveque, in goal for Oshawa, turned in a winderful display, and saved his team from defeat.

Eleven penalties were handed out by Clair Devlin, Kingston, who officiated, but play was clean throughout.

Brockville—McMahon, goal; Dexter and H. McInrue, defence; Walsh centre; Garand and Levis, wings; Shorey, Hy. McInrue, subs.

SUGAR BOWL WINS.

Last night at the Collegiate ice box a hectic struggle took place between the Sugar Bowl team of the Hot Stove League, and the Examiner, in which the former came out victorious. The score was 5 to 4.

Condition told on the Examiner crew, because they were leading 4 to 1 at the end of the first period.

Dugan, Hartley and Scates starred for the Examiner. G. Dormer, for the Sugar Bowl, was the hardest worker on the ice, while Hall and R. Baker contributed some pretty stick handling.

Jack Hall, of the Sugar Bowl squad, was the high scorer, getting three to his credit. The line-up:

Sugar Bowl—Goal, Wyman; defence, C. Baker and Graham; wings R. Baker and Hall; centre, G. Dormer.

Referee—Marvin Baker.

MAPLE LEAFS EVEN SERIES

Defeat R. G. C. Team in Second Game at Mark Street Rink.

SCORE 5-2.

In the second game of a series of three, the Maple Leafs defeated the R.G.C. hockey team by a score of 5 to 2, at Mark Street Rink. In comparison with the first game, the exhibition was slower and of a lower grade, and the ice was not as good.

Jack McWilliams was the outstanding player for the R.G.C., and Cadd and Begley starred for the Maple Leafs.

Both teams lacked practice and combination The teams were.

R.G.C.—Goal, M. Clarke; defence, Cheu and D. Best; centre, J. McWilliams; wings, M. Ruiter and B. McWilliams; subs., W. Turner, D. Roseborough and J. Turner.

RINK RATS WIN

The Regular Fellows met the Rink Rats in the League on the Sacred Heart rink on Monday evening. Last year's champions were again in fine form and ran rings around the Regular Fellows defeating them to the tune of 11 goals to none. Anthony in goal put up a great fight and saved his side from a much heavier defeat. For the Rink Rats it would be unfair to single any one player out as the team worked like a machine.

The teams were:

Regular Fellows—Goal, Anthony; defence, White, I. Carroll; forwards, Fitzgerald, Archambault, Hoolihan; subs, Carroll, Jones.

Rink Rats—Goal, N. Calladine; defence, I. Playford, W. Star; forwards, Cuthbertson, Ellis, McCullough; subs, Merritt, Francis.

Referee—Mr. O'Connell.

The net games in this league will be played on Friday evening. The Young Canucks will meet the Rink Rats on Mark street rink while the Regular Fellows meet the Rovers on the Sacred Heart rink. Mr. J. Ward will officiate at the Sacred Heart and Mr. Ewart at Mark St.

You will find many things in the Classified Ads. of the Examiner.

TRUTH VERSUS ERROR.
Satan's lie, "Ye shall not surely die," is still preached by many preachers of to-day. When they absurdly say, when a man is dead he is more alive than ever, they must find some place to put him, hence the preaching of endless torment.
Death is an awful reality. When a man dies, he ceases to live; he is dead, and would remain dead everlastingly, if there was no resurrection. The gospel of the Kingdom will bring comfort to all those who mourn. Jer. 31, 16, 17.
Even the people of Sodom and Gomorrah whose lives were destroyed by fire; (they did not go into endless torments as the preachers tell us.) they shall be brought back to their former estate, resurrected as human beings on the earth for the purpose of being given a trial. — Ezekiel 16:55.
During the millenial reign of Jesus he will give life to all the willing and obedient and the curse of sin and death will be rolled away. — M. T. Butcher. 1d-39-2927

Lost Diamonds

You may be able to replace the Diamond you lose, but why take needless chances? Have your rings examined and we will tell you if they are secure or not. If you wish to have them made over in the newest designs ask to see the new box settings, very artistic and very secure.

There are a great many different designs. The above cut is very new and beautiful for a single stone, in green or white gold at a low price.

You are under no obligation when you bring your rings in to be examined. It is Absolutely Free Service.

CARS COLLIDE; LITTLE DAMAGE

Two cars going in opposite directions grazed each other on George street, just in front of Nugent's Drug Store yesterday.
The driver of the car going north stated that the driver of the other car came south from Hunter street and drove between a Hydro bus that was stopped at the intersection of George and Hunter and the east curb of George street.
Fenders and bumpers were damaged as a result of the collision.

IN MEMORIAM
JOHNSTON—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Frederick Wilmer Johnston, who died February 15th, 1922.
This day brings back a memory,
Of a dear one laid to rest;
And those who think of him to-day
Are those who loved him best.
Folks may think that we forget him,
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the heartaches
That our smiles hide all the while.

OBITUARY.

MRS. W. LEHANE.

The funeral of the late Mrs. William Lehane took place on Tuesday morning from the family residence, Glenelg street, to St. Mary's church, Lindsay, where requiem mass was chanted by Rev. Father Black, in the presence of a large gathering of friends of the deceased. The cortege afterwards proceeded to Downeyville, where a large number of the parishioners followed the remains to their last resting place in St. Luke's cemetery. The prayers at the grave were recited by Reverend Father Galvin.
The pallbearers were Messrs. Cyril James and Michael Lehane, sons of the deceased, and Messrs. Bartholomew Downey, of Downeyville, Eugene Downey of Peterborough, and John Downey, of Chicago, brothers of deceased.
The late Mrs. Lehane was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew Downey, of Downeyville, her grandfather being the first settler of the parish, and from whom it obtained its name. The deceased was a devout member of the congregation of St. Mary's church and the Catholic Women's League.
Besides her husband and three sons mentioned above, two brothers, Alexander and Charles, reside in Detroit and Downeyville, respectively. There are also two sisters living, Mrs. John Murphy of Toronto and Mrs. S. Malone of Toronto, three daughter, Misses Mary, Bernardine and Anna, also one other son, Fergus, in the west.
Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Sister Camilla of St. Joseph's Convent, North Bay, a stepdaughter, Mrs. P. J. Hayes, of Toronto, and Miss J. Lehane, of Toronto.—Lindsay Post.

BESSIE AND MYRA HENDERSON.
TORONTO, Feb. 15. — A large host of friends crowded the little house at 24 Alhambra avenue yesterday afternoon to pay a last and loving tribute to the two young girls, Bessie and Myra Henderson, who passed away within forty-eight hours of one another during the week-end. The double funeral was conducted by Rev. W. J. Spence, rector of St. Jude's Anglican church, of which both girls had been members, who also gave a short address emphasizing the devotion which both girls had displayed in the work of the church, and expressing the hope that their lives would be an inspiration to others to step into the gap. The girls had formerly lived in Peterborough, and Ven. Archdeacon Davidson, their rector at this time, assisted in the service. The great fight which had been waged in this home, he pointed out, against disease and sorrow, and the undiminished faith in a loving God which had been apparent in both girls was a great example to the people of the church. Following the service the caskets, covered with floral tributes, where taken to Oshawa, where interment took place.

SHANGHAI IS THREATENED BY ONRUSHING SOUTERNERS AFTER IMPORTANT VICTORY

Defender of City Defeated on Southern Battlefront, Says Report.

DEFENCE BROKEN.

British Negotiations Continue —United States' Plan Is Rejected.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press).—This city, goal of the Cantonese armies, apparently again is threatened by the sudden and unexpected defeat of the forces of Marshal Sun Chuang Fang, defender of the city, on the southern battlefront.

Two additional battalions of British Punjab troops arrived here today.

Confirmation Received

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press).—The downfall of Hangchow, capital of Chekiang Province and chief outpost of Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, is imminent as the result of a major defeat suffered by his troops on the southern battlefront. Confirmation of the report that the troops of Marshal Sun, defender of Shanghai, had been pushed back by the onrushing Southern army was received here today.

British Considering

LONDON, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press).—Although official advices from Hankow are incomplete, the Foreign Office stated this morning there is no indication that negotiations concerning the British concession there have broken down. After conversations on Monday, Cantonese Foreign Minister Eugene Chen raised new points. British Charge d'Affaires Owen O'Malley asked London for further instructions and they today were under consideration by the Cabinet.

American Plan Rejected

SHANGHAI, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press).—The proposal of the American Secretary of State for exempting Shanghai from the war area in the present struggle between north and south came to naught today, when Commissioner of Foreign Affairs of this (Kiengsu) Province issued a statement in the name of Marshal Sun Chuang Fang, Shanghai defender, declining to accept it.

Death-Dealing Epidemic Creeping Across Africa

LONDON, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press).—At least 60,000 deaths have been caused, says a Cairo despatch to the Daily Express, by a virulent epidemic of relaxing fever, which has been creeping across the continent of Africa from west to east the last few years. The disease, which is carried by vermin, appeared at Wadai in 1921 and spread over an area of 3,000 miles in western and central Africa. The despatch says it is now extending into Kordofan and central Soudan. Quarantine stations have been established and other measures taken to curb the fever but with little success.

FRANCE DECLINES TO TAKE PART IN NAVY PROPOSAL

Says Proposal Would Risk Compromising Success of League's Work.

VIOLATE PRINCIPLE.

Reply Says Armament Can Be Considered as a Whole.

PARIS, Feb. 16. — (Canadian Press.)— The French government has politely declined President Coolidge's proposal for a new naval limitation conference.

The French reply, made public last evening, says that the government is convinced that following the United States' proposal would risk compromising the success of the work which the League of Nations already has undertaken.

The reply, which was written by Foreign Minister Briand and approved by the entire cabinet, takes the position that the circumstances of to-day are different from those in 1921 when the Washington conference will be restricted to naval limitation of a few powers.

To-day, the note says, armament can be considered only as a whole.

The note says that in the eyes of the League of Nations there is the principle that all states, small and large, alike, are on an equality.

For France to enter a limitation agreement of a selected few powers would not be true to this principle, the note contends.

To limit efforts to holding down armaments to a few powers and a few types of fighting machines would, it is argued, enfeeble the authority of the league and at the same time violate the principle of equality of all nations.

"It is to the interest of all the navies of the world," the note asserts, "to be associated in the deliberations on such an important problem."

M. Briand takes several occasions to hammer home the point that the league is the place to talk disarmament and put such words into actions. He concludes by expressing hope that the United States would continue to associate itself with the preparatory commission of the league in making a study of armaments.

FORTY HOLD-UPS LAID TO YOUTHS

EARLY 'TEENS.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press).—Two youths, still in their teens, ordered a pistol from New York, and it arrived a week ago. Since that time they have shot and killed one policeman, taken another's pistol and shot at him with it, and committed more than two-score of hold-ups, in one of which they shot and wounded their victim, they confessed Monday night.

The youths, William Gall, 19, and Victor Walinski, 18, fell into the hands of the police accidentally when the automobile in which they and three girls were riding figured in a collision Monday night.

Sets Fire To Victim After Stealing Money

MONTICELLO, Ind., Feb. 16 (United Press).—After robbing John Baker, 70, of his money, a holdup man yesterday saturated his victim's clothing with gasoline and set fire to it.

Baker is near death from burns suffered before the flames were extinguished. He was able to give authorities only a meagre description of his assailant. Sheriff I. M. Stanley, of White County, and posses of farmers are searching for the bandit. Baker, a bachelor, lived alone in a farm house near here.

U.F.O. CLUBS HOLD BANQUET

NEED CO-OPERATION.

The anniversary meeting of the U.F.O. Clubs of Peterboro was held last night in Victoria Hall, when nearly three hundred sat down to a banquet. E. A. Scott, President of the U.F.O. Club, presided, and the address of the evening was given by W. Amos, President of the U.F.O. organization for all of the province. Several musical numbers added greatly to the enjoyment of the evening.

Mr. Amos described in interesting language the benefits of organization, especially as related to co-operative marketing through the U.F.O. channels. Butter, eggs, and hogs are now being disposed of in this way, and the grain pool will soon be introduced in this district. The great necessity for the farmers, as Mr. Amos sees it, is not the mere joining with these movements, but the staying with them through the short period of testing until they have displayed their true worth. Efforts are being made, apparently, to lure away the farmer from his organization by offering higher prices for commodities in other markets, and some have been tempted to sacrifice their ultimate good for the immediate benefit of a few cents. In co-operative marketing through the U.F.O., the speaker pointed out, the advantages cannot be figured alone on the price obtained for goods, but must be taken into account the dividends, which will bring the gross receipts up to a considerably better price than that obtained in other markets.

Another point made by the speaker was the necessity for farmers taking a greater interest in legislative enactments to which they have hitherto paid little attention, to their detriment. Immigration, the functioning of the Canadian National Railways, and other public affairs of moment were cited as examples of fields in which the farmer might with advantage make his voice heard. It does not pay, Mr. Amos declared, to be lackadaisical and allow legislation go through without study when that legislation may affect the farmer adversely.

FOUNDER OF ORDER MAY BE BEATIFIED

Sacred College Considers Case of Montreal Sister of Charity.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 16. — (Canadian Press).—The beatification of Sister Marie-Marguerite de Lajemmerais, founder and first superior of the Sisters of Charity, also known as the Grey Nuns, (Montreal), is now before the Sacred Congregation of Rites of the Roman Catholic Church, in Rome. it became known in Montreal recently.

The name of Sister Marie-Marguerite was first brought to the attention of the Vatican for beatification in 1890. The Archbishop of Montreal was then ordered to study the merits of the recommendation. His findings were approved by Rome in 1909.

The case was then transferred to the Sacred Congregation. This body, after long and minute investigation into the religious standings of a candidate's activities, determines whether meetings should be held which would lead to the beatification of the person under consideration. A meeting towards this end (the selection of Marie-Marguerite) was held in Rome.

Sister Marie-Marguerite died in Montreal in 1771.

CITY COUNCIL COMMITTEES ENDED 1926 WITH SURPLUS

Balance of $8,501 Remained in Treasury Out of Appropriations.

CHAIRMAN LAUDED.

The City of Peterborough experienced its best year financially during 1926 for a period of over 20 years, Alderman N. E. Phelan, chairman of the Finance Committee, told The Examiner to-day

The sum of $806,702.41 was appropriated for the use of the various committees, but only $798,201.20 was used, leaving a surplus of $8,501.21.

Mr. Phelan stated that the chairmen of the various committees had excelled in the manner in which they had paid attention to the details in connection with their tasks. Even the Board of Works Committee which operates under special difficulties, owing to unforeseen circumstances, such as snowfalls, etc., showed a surplus, the first in a long period of time.

Will Investigate Jail After Verdict On Girl

TORONTO, Feb. 16.—(Canadian Press.)— Hon. Lincoln Goldie, provincial secretary, announced to-day that an investigation would be held into the administration of the Chatham jail, following the verdict of the coroner's jury here which held that Gladys Closson, who died in hospital, had not received proper examination while confined in Chatham jail. Miss Closson was found to be suffering from tuberculosis.

METAL CITY.

NEW BRAUNFELS, Tex., Dec. 16.—This is a metal-covered city. Sparks from chimneys have little chance of doing harm. Ninety-five per cent of the roofs are of sheet steel. A fire chief 30 years ago began outlawing wood and gradually the city has become almost fireproof.

SEEK INSPECTOR OF ASSESSMENTS

Deputation Visits Premier Ferguson Asking For Appointment of Such Official.

REDUCE INCOME TAX.

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press). — Headed by President Nugent of Belleville, the Ontario Municipal Association Executive today waited on Premier Ferguson, requesting the appointment of a provincial inspector of assessments.

K. W. McKay of St. Thomas pointed out that equalization as between ratepayers required the assessment of land at actual value, together with income and business assessment and return of assessment roll under oath. Mr. McKay said that the law relating to the tax rolls was the expropriation of the property for unpaid taxes. Procedure was in the hands of many inexperienced officials, especially in Northern Ontario and in view of the proposed radical changes in the Assessment Act, an inspector of assessment would appear to be necessary.

Premier Ferguson also made reference to the proposed change in the income tax exemptions and stated that he did not care very much what method was adopted but that he had made up his mind he was going to reduce taxation on the low salaried man.

MUSSOLINI GIVES ITALY SQUARE DEAL

Has Done More Than Any Italian in Years, Traveller Says.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 16 (By C.P.)—"Mussolini has done more for Italy than has any other of her native sons for generations." Mrs. Henry Joseph referred to the Fascist leader in this way when she addressed the Outremont and North End Women's Club. As one whose own family connections see at first-hand what she termed the "inner workings of Italy," she referred to the Socialists and the Fascisti as she had studied them on a trip three years ago and again last spring. She pictured Mussolini, "the man of a 100 wounds," firstly as a former Socialist.

"Because those of his own political belief," said Mrs. Joseph, "behaved so badly, he repudiated them, and, in doing so, took his own life in his hands. He linked his fate with the fascisti. Italy has not had a fair deal for generations, but now Mussolini is seeing that she gets it, and matters are growing better and better. Mussolini has been misrepresented a great deal over here, but we must appreciate the good work he has done and the love he holds for his Country.

Church Uses Fireworks To Rid Tower Of Birds

READING, Pa., Feb. 16.—In a battle against starlings, a Reading church is having workmen climb its spire nightly and set off Roman candles. Firemen, with chemical extinguishers, guard against any chance blaze. The Roman candles cause a great commotion in the lofty steeple and the air is black with birds from the time the first is set off. The campaign will be kept up until the steeple gets a reputation in bird circles as an undesirable home.

TWO MEMBERS WILL BE BUSY

Bradburn and Anderson Have Received Many Committee Seats.

OPPOSITE SIDES.

In the allocation of places on the various committees of the Legislative Assembly for the present session, Peterborough City and County have been accorded generous representation. W. H. Bradburn and W. A. Anderson are both included in the Private Bills Committee and the Committee on Agriculture and Colonization. Mr. Bradburn is also placed on the Committee on Railways, Municipal Law, Public Accounts and Labor, and Mr. Anderson on the Fish and Game Committee.

In addition to considering in greater detail measures which in principle have been approved by the House on a vote after the second reading, members of committees are expected to devote themselves to intensive study of the subjects dealt with by the committees of which they are part, and opportunities for such study are readily available in the form of frequent lectures and discussions by recognized experts in the subject under consideration and in all the latest and best works of reference. The number of members from each party on each committee is determined by the party complexion of the entire chamber, each group being represented on the committee in strict proportion to its strength in the House.

Mr. Bradburn has been allocated a seat in the second row on the government side on the right of the Speaker. Mr. Anderson sits in the third row of the Opposition benches, on the sixth seat from the Speaker's chair.

Homuth Favors Sale Of Beer in Hotel Bars To Suit Workingman

Tells Legislature That No System of Government Control of Sale of Liquor Will Be Successful Unless Provision Is Provided For Workingmen.

ONLY LABOR MEMBER URGES CHANGES IN MOTHER'S ALLOWANCE LEGISLATION

South Essex, Liberal Member Complained That Speech From Throne Did Not Contain Much To Aid Agriture—Urges Government Intervention in Pelee Island Situation.

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press).—No system of Government control of the sale of liquor will be successful in the Province of Ontario unless it includes a provision whereby the workingmen will be able to obtain beer by the glass in hotels, Karl Homuth (Labor, Waterloo South) told the Ontario Legislature in continuing the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne yesterday afternoon. Mr. Homuth, who is the only Labor member of the Legislature, stated without hesitation that he was prepared to support the Government on its government control measure and on all other planks in its platform. Further, he was willing to do all possible to maintain the Government in office so that the new system of liquor legislation would have a fair chance of success.

Mr. Homuth was certain that Labor would have more representation in the Legislature if the Labor candidates at the last election had supported the temperance policy advocated by the members of the House in the past—a policy of Government Control of the sale of liquor. But unfortunately some Labor men had linked themselves up with the Prohibition policy and the two did not mix, and never will. Those who supported a change in the existing law during the last election campaign had been told that they were associating with the lowest type of citzenship and were prepared to jeopardize their children and sacrifice the youth of the province. The fact that those who supported the Government policy had children of their own and were as much concerned about the youth of the province as the Prohibitionists, had been lost sight of, however. So far as he was concerned he did not want his children to 'grow up" under such conditons as exist under the Ontario Temperance Act." Let them do away with "cant and hypocrisy and perjury in the courts" and bring liquor out of the alleys and byways and into the light of Government Control.

Mr. Homuth regretted that the church had been brought into politics—"at least certain portions of a certain church"—in order that Prohibitionists might be elected. He also regretted the "sinister scheme" to try and organize the youth of the province to defeat the Government on the liquor issue. The speaker believed that as the only Labor member of the Assembly he knew what was in the best interests of the workingmen of the Province and he desired to state that the Government Control system would not be the success it was hoped it would be unless it provided for the open sale of beer, and that the workingmen of the Province could obtain it by the glass in hotels and not be compelled to have to purchase it by the case which would be, in many cases a hardship, because of the price.

Mr. Homuth asked that the Government return the administration of the Workmen's Compensation Act to the Labor Department from the office of the Attorney-General. He hoped that the Government would see its way to bring industrial hernia under the compensation law, and urged changes in the Mother's Allowance legislation which would include a widow with one child, and the introduction of legislation providing for Old Age Pensions and industrial disputes. Speaking of Old Age Pensions, Mr. Homuth declared that the greatest fear of the workers today were old age and unemployment.

Pays Tribute

Dr. G. A. McQuibban (Liberal, Wellington North-East) in speaking on health matters, paid a tribute to the discoverers of Insulin and declared that they had erected a monument not only to the possibilities but to the abilities of the medical men of Canada. In his practice, he complained, he had found it difficult at times to obtain Insulin and at a reasonable price. Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, asked the member to supply him with the reasons for not obtaining prompt service, and he would see that he got Insulin—and got it free. The member for Wellington N.-E. reviewed the work of education and

SNOW HAMPERS COMMUNICATION

Sleet and Rain Add To Trouble in West and Centre.

SWEEPS TORONTO.

TORONTO, Feb. 16. — (Canadian Press.) — A whirling snow storm early to-day, followed by rain and sleet throughout Western and Central Ontario, considerably handicapped telegraphic communication between various centres of the province.

In Toronto, the mercury dropped considerably last night, but early to-day rose, bringing promise of inclement weather in its wake. A heavy snowfall started at eight o'clock, and continued unabated for an hour, when it changed to sleet, causing miserable conditions under foot. The storm passed over Toronto and swept through Western Ontario, where a heavy snowfall is greatly desired to protect the crops.

PETERBOROUGH BOYS NAMED IN SCHOOL SHOOT RESULTS

Collegiate Team in Thirteenth Place in Senior Class.

INDIVIDUAL AWARDS.

The awards in the Cadet Shoot in the Laura Secord competition this year place Peterborough Collegiate first team in 13th place in the Senior group and King Edward School first team in the 6th place in the junior group.

The special medals given by Capt. V. W. S. Heron to the best shot on each team were won as follows:

They Thought It Unwise To Continue Raided Play

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(Canadian Press.) — Shortly before the time for the legal curtain to rise on the "Court-room Matinee" of "Captive," one of the three plays raided in last week's stage clean-up, the producers announced that they decided it would be "unwise and impolitic" to continue the run of the play.

De Carey, Superintendent Engineer of the Province of Quebec has been elected President of the E. I. C. for 1927, and that R. L. Dobbin has been elected to the Council of the E.I.C. for the sixth successive year.

Would Shoot Socialists

LONDON, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press Cable). — "Certain Socialist leaders are reported to have said that if Britain was involved in war with China they would do their best to prevent British troops being assembled," said Right Hon. Sir William Mitchell Thomson, Postmaster-General, speaking at Croydon. "If they do that, they will end up with their backs against a wall, facing a firing party. It is just as well that they should know that from the start."

COMMERCIAL SMUGGLING NOW BEFORE ROYAL PROBE SITTINGS

Liquor Question Cast To One Side at Yesterday's Session.

BAD WAREHOUSES.

Varied Methods Used By Companies To Import Goods.

WINNIPEG, Man. Feb. 16. Canadian Press. — Commercial smuggling or rather under-valuation of goods imported into Canada for commercial purposes, shouldered liquor from the centre of the stage before the Royal Customs Commission yesterday. Both morning and afternoon the affairs of the Superior Clothing Company of Chicago, which operated throughout the Dominion of Canada last year, until the Customs Department held up four shipments, were aired.

Inquiry into the methods employed by the company was varied by investigation into the importation of farm tractors by the John Deere Co., of Winnipeg and also into the way in which consignments of books from Querry and Company of Chicago, passed the customs.

The methods employed by the Superior Clothing Co., were explained to the commission by Hugh Mackenzie, who manages the Winnipeg Storage Company. In April of last year, said Mr. Mackenzie under examination by Hon. N. W. Rowell, K. C. ,the company had written asking another Winnipeg storage firm to handle their parcel post shipments. The proposition was that the Chicago Company would ship to themselves in Winnipeg, at the address of the storage company, and th the storage company would reship their goods by parcel post C.O.D. to buyers all over Canada. Mr. Mackenzie said that the storage company first communicated with had passed on the proposal to him, and he had accepted the work.

Explains Methods.

The first shipment had come through in June, 1926 and showed a list of goods to be reshipped to persons all the way from Vancouver to Montreal, said the witness.

In addition to the list of persons there was a list of accounts which were to be collected from them.

Mr. Rowell asked if Mr. Mackenkenzie had checked up the amounts given on the list to see that the invoice presented to the customs and on which duty was paid was correct.

"No," replied the witness.

Mr. Rowell informed him that the value of the shipment as estimated by J. A. McConnell, chief customs appraiser at Winnipeg, was $489, while the amount entered for duty purposes on the invoice presented by the company was $116.

"Did it n. occur to you that the invoice of the Superior Clothing Co., was ridiculously low?" asked counsel.

Mr. Mackenzie said that his company accepted the amount placed on the invoice by the Chicago company. He admitted that he collected the C.O.D. amounts from the purchasers, which were remitted to the company in Chicago.

"Well, then, you must h . known that the invoice price on which duty was paid was ridiculously low," said Mr. Rowell. The price paid by the purchasers was three times the amount on which duty had been paid, counsel said.

Colonel W. G. Bell, the Winnipeg customs broker, who made the entries for the clothing, explained that it was impossible to go into the books of the shippers and find out the real value of the shipments, as the Superior Clothing Company shipped to themselves in Winnipeg. They alone knew the correct value of the goods shipped. Mr. Rowell pointed out that the invoiced value for duty purposes of suits of clothes was given at $4, $5 and $6, and that the broker had sworn that this was correct.

Colonel Bell was examined in regard to the importation of two farm tractors by the John Deere Co., of Winnipeg. In this case, according to evidence previously given the tractors were imported as being for "farm purposes," while in reality they were sold to golf clubs in the vicinity of Winnipeg. Col. Bell said that he knew that tractors for farm purposes were admitted free while those for any other purposes had to pay duty, but he had assumed because of the way the invoices had been made out that the two in question were to be used on farms.

Then Mr. Rowell took up the importation of books, which according to evidence, the Quarry Company of Chicago shipped in to the H. L. Perry Co., a Winnipeg storage firm, at a very low undervaluation.

H. Feely, manager of the Perry Company explained that his firm was used merely as a clearing house for the books which came in packages, and were shipped out without being opened.

"Did it never occur to you that $10 a package was a very low rate for these books?" said Mr. Rowell.

"No," replied Mr. Feely.

It had previously been brought out the value of the books ranged from $58 a package to nearly $100.

Mr. Feely said he thought the Canadian headquarters of this company was in Toronto.

"We will have to look them up there," commented Mr. Rowell.

KILLED IN WRECK.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 16 (Associated Press)—One man was killed and an unknown number of persons were injured last night when the Los Angeles Limited, a fast eastbound Union Pacific passenger train, plunged through a culvert at Montebello, about 15 miles east of here, and the Continental Limited, also eastbound, crashed into the stalled cars.

The man killed was an engineer on one of the trains. A dining car cook, a fireman and three other train workers were taken to a Whittier hospital. Police said that other injured persons were taken from the scene of the wreck by automobiles and no check was possible on the number of injured. A report to the Los Angeles police station said 20 persons were in-

OLD MASTERS

When she comes home again! A thousand ways
I fashion, to myself, the tenderness
Of my glad welcome: I shall tremble—yes;
And touch her, as when first in the old days
I touched her girlish hand, nor dared upraise
Mine eyes, such was my faint heart's sweetness.
Then silence: and the perfume of her dress:
The room will sway a little and a haze
Cloy eyesight—soulsight, even—for a space:
And tears—yes: and the ache here in the throat,
To know that I so ill deserve the place
Her arms make for me: and the sobbing note
I stay with kisses, ere the tearful face
Again is hidden in the old embrace.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

THE SUNDAY LETTER

Can't think what to do
On Sunday afternoon?
How long since you wrote the folks
You won't be seeing soon?
Find a quiet spot,
Fill the fountain pen,
Sit and talk a little while
To those you love again.

There's a boy in school,
There's an girl who's wed
With another busy week
Waiting right ahead.
Why not write the word
That you long to speak,
Send the Sunday letter that
Will help them through the week?

There's an absent friend,
There's a sister far,
There's a brother in the west
How a word of love
Sets the world attune!—
When you can't think what to do
On Sunday afternoon.

FORCES PREPARE FOR WAR ALONG YANGSTE VALLEY

War Lords Gather, With Hankow and Kiukiang Probable Objectives.

ADD REINFORCEMENTS.

Wu Pei Fu Considering Whether To Help or Oppose Chang.

PEKING, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press)—Movements of troops are taking place in preparation for the coming struggle between the Peking and Nationalist (Cantonese) governments for domination of all China. The Yangtse valley is planned as the battleground, with Hankow and Kiukiang as probable objectives. Both northern and southern leaders are hurrying forward heavy reinforcements.

The alliance of northern war lords backing the Peking government have started Manchurians southward into Honan province. They have penetrated nearly to Chenchow, while their forces from Shantung province moving along the Lunghai Railway have approached Kaieng, Honan's capital city.

Troops of Marshal Wu Pei Fu, who formerly were north of the Yellow River, have all withdrawn southward or westward before the advancing northerners. Whether Wu Pei Fu will support the Peking government is not known. One of the most powerful figures in China, his action may have large effect in determining the result of the struggle, between north and south China.

Some of Wu's lieutenants were reported to have declared allegiance to the northern war lords, but whether with consent of their chief was not known. Wu lost control of Hankow and the Yangtse provinces last August largely because of insubordination within his ranks in the face of the Cantonese attack, and there have been rumors recently of dissension among his officers. It is not believe that the Manchurians would have advanced on such a large scale without assurances that they would not be opposed.

Chang Hsuh Liang, son of Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian dictator and head of the Northern Alliance, departed for Honan last night to direct the reorganization of northern forces and attempt the enrollment of some of Wu Pei Fu's units into the northern armies.

To strike at the Cantonese in another sector, Shangtung province troops under General Tsung Chang, are reported rapidly concentrating in the region of Anking on the province of Anhwei, for a drive upon Kiukiang, the northern Kiangsi city on the Yangtse from which coolie mobs drove the British out of their concession early last month. This is one of the chief bases of the Cantonese froces.

The threat of the Cantonese against Shanghai has been allayed, say reports from Chekiang. The southerners are believed to be withdrawing large numbers of soldiers from their Chekiang-Kiangsi provinces front to defend Hankow the drive of the northern alliance.

Nationalist troops also are pouring northward of Hankow to defend that city from the northern enemy. Fifty thousand men recently brought down the Yangtse from Chekiang and other upriver points have been placed at strategic points, a large number of them being landed at Wusueh, about thirty miles from Kiukiang.

All of these major movements are taking place in the interior of China, hundreds of miles from the coast.

VALENTINE SOCIAL.

Campbellford Ladies Hold Enjoyable Function on Tuesday.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 16. — The ladies of Ward 1 and Ward 2 held a Valentine Social in the Sunday School rooms of St. John's Church on Tuesday evening. The rooms were prettily decorated in true Valentine form. Rev. Mr. Elliott acted as chairman and the following interesting programme was given:

Piano trio, Misses Irene Stephens and Cherrie Turner, and Mr. A. Hazel; Violin solo, Mr. Ronald Hazell, accompanied by Mr. A. Hazell; "John and Libby's Quarrel," by Mrs. G. A. Kingston; Solo, Mr. G. W. Lucy, accompanied by Mr. A. Hazell; Solo, Miss Nellie Hoover, accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Turner; Solo, Mr. Hazell, accompanied by G. W. Lucy; Solo, Mr. Hazell.

The audience enjoyed the community singing, led by Mr. Hazell and Mr. Lucy, and all sang with heart and voice the old time songs.

Mr. Elliott gave a brief sketch of the missionary work being done in China, Japan, India, Korea and Africa.

Mrs. A. Haig, as president of the W.M.S., thanked all present for their attendance and co-operation in making this social such a wonderful success.

Drown In Their Homes Like Rats In a Trap

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Feb. 16. (United Press.) — Terrible losses in life and property have been experienced in the great floods following in the wake of a cyclone which swept the Queensland coastal district near Cairns, during the last 24 hours.

Already the death toll is estimated at 40, with many persons still missing and others marooned. Whole houses were swept away and the imprisoned inmates drowned before they could make their escape. In some instances complete townships are under water. The banana crops have suffered a disastrous blow.

HOMUTH FAVORS

concluded with a few remarks on the temperance question, some of which were in an ironical reference to defence of Rev. Dr. Cody by W. G. Martin (Conservative, Brantford). He did not think that the "human dam" which had been formed in the personnel of the Ontario Liquor Commission would stay the consumption of liquor or aid temperance for "Prohibition and Control are gone just as soon as the cork is drawn from the bottle."

A. R. Nesbitt (Conservative, Bracondale) expressed regret that the Progressive leader did not like Bishops or Archbishops as he knew of no one who had had more to do with ministers of the church than Mr. Raney. And when he heard Mr. Raney quoting the Ten Commandments, it struck him that he had in mind a clergyman whom he had once promoted to a position under the Government of which he was Attorney-General—Rev. Mr. Spracklin. The clergymen of the Church of England to which denomination Mr. Nesbitt belonged, ever since the signing of the Magna Charta, had been free to take part in any discussion by pen or voice and never hid "behind their sacred desks to shoot their poison."

The member for Bracondale went into a review of the work of the administration and especially Hydro development, the Provincial Secretary's Department and Publicity for the Province.

He moved, seconded by E. C. Graves (Conservative, St. Catharines) the following amendment to the amendment of Mr. Raney which expressed the hope that the new liquor legislation would protect the youth of the province:

"That all the words after the word 'that' in the second line of the amendment be omitted and the following be abstituted therefor: "This House assures Your Honor that the proposed measure for improvement in the method of control and administration of the sale of liquor will receive its most earnest and thorough consideration in order that it may advance the interests of true temperance and afford additional safeguards to all classes of the community against the evils of intemperance."

Aiding Agriculture

At the outset, C. G. Fletcher (Liberal, Essex South) complained that the Speech from the Throne did not contain much fare for agriculturists and he thought that there should be consideration of two principal means of aiding agriculture, the basic industry of the Province. First as the application of scientific methods, and second, the taking of further steps towards the standardization of products and the finding of new markets. He referred to a problem which faced the farmers of South-west Ontario—the corn borer—and felt that the Government could press its attack on this menace. Mr. Fletcher urged Government intervention in the situation at Pelee Island, where, he said, sand-suckers were slowly eating the island away. He was of the opinion that the Government should make a protest against the issuing of permits to these boats.

Premier Ferguson told the speaker the great difficulty was that a certain patent on freehold rights at the bottom of the lake had prevented any interference by the Government and that those who had invested in these freehold holdings claimed the right to take what sand they desired.

Mr. Raney said the island was being carried away for American use and he thought that through legislation or a test case in the courts there should be some valuation set and those holding the rights compelled to accept it.

Mr. Fletcher, continuing, said there was no doubt the Government had received a mandate on the liquor question, but that the mandate did not meet with the wishes of the people in the manner a referendum or plebiscite would have done. He was prepared to pledge his support to the Government measure in any way that would make for its creating the least possible harm.

Regret was also expressed by R. H. Kemp (Progressive, Lincoln) that meagre mention was made of agricultural matters in the Speech. He repeated his declaration made last session that there was "more dishonesty in the handling of fruit in the City of Toronto than in the whole of the Niagara Peninsula." If he was Minister of Agriculture he would have a Provincial officer on that commission market to see that the farmers and the growers got that to which they were entitled. Mr. Kemp spoke of the destructive work of the Oriental peach moth in the Niagara district and made the prediction that in four years—unless the menace was controlled in some fashion—the peach crop would be a thing of the past.

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, told the Progressive member that the Government realized the seriousness of the situation and that research work was going on at the Government fruit station at Vineland, but that so far no spray had been found to kill the moth.

Jury Scores Jail Authorities For Sending Ill Woman To Reformatory.

TORONTO, Feb. 16—Scored by Chief Coroner M. M. Crawford as derelict in their duties, the jail officials of Chatham, including the doctor treating inmates of the institution, were also condemned yesterday by a Coroner's jury investigating the death of Gladys Slosson, aged 19 years, which occurred in the General Hospital, Toronto, on February 7, for failure to exercise proper precautions to ascertain her condition before allowing her removal to the Mercer Reformatory. The jury also recommended that local authorities should be responsible for a thorough examination of prisoners before permitting their removal to Provincial institutions.

According to the evidence, the young woman was arrested in Chatham in November as a vagrant, and was incarcerated in the local jail until Dec. 30. Her removal was authorized by the Provincial Secretary's Department on the strength of a report from a Chatham doctor that she did not appear to be in good health.

FREE-FOR-ALL AT WASHINGTON

Sunday Blue Law Bill Starts Fist Fight Between Congressmen.

KICKS AND BLOWS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16 (United Press) — A congressional hearing on peaceful celebration of the Sabbath in the district of Columbia yesterday broke up in a free-for-all fight in which Representative Blanton, Democrat, Texas, grabbed Representative Bloom, Democrat, New York, by the throat and choked him and blows and kicks were freely distributed in a crowded committee room.

In the midst of the melee, while a shrill feminine voice prayed to the Almighty to end the fight, the hearing was adjourned and spectators separated the tangled pugilists.

The battle occurred at a hearing of sub-committee of the house district of Columbia committee on the Lankford bill providing Sunday blue laws for the district of Columbia.

The fight started when Representative Blanton accused Representative Bloom of opposing the Sunday closing law because he represented motion picture interests.

"That is a deliberate falsehood," said Bloom.

Blanton dashed around the committee table and, according to spectators, seized Bloom by the throat and started to shake him.

GEORGE YOUNG TO ARRIVE HOME SATURDAY NOON

Will Be Tendered Civic Banquet By Toronto Officials.

GIVES DEMONSTRATION

How Long He Will Remain in Home Town Not Certain.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press).—The home-coming welcome of Toronto for her most recently distinguished citizen, 17-year-old George Young, the Catalina Channel prize-winner, has been set for next Saturday at 1.38 p.m.? the young swimmer was advised yesterday.

How long he will stay in his home town and where and when he will return to the United States to resume his exhibition tour, he said he did not know, but he looks forward with great interest to his visit to Toronto.

A few months ago he left there on a decrepit motorcycle, with little in his baggage but the ambition to win the $25,000 Catalina prize. When he passed through Chicago he succeeded in borrowing $25 from William Wrigley, donor of the purse. Yesterday he returned to Chicago in the drawing-room of the Gold Coast Limited as a budding capitalist.

Wrigley yesterday emphasized his welcome of the young swimmer by offering to back him for $25,000 more, against any swimmer in any water at any distance from twenty to thirty miles.

"The only conditions I make," said Mr. Wrigley, "are strict supervision of the competitive conditions of the contest, provision for disinterested observers and boat convoys. I know George will win.

George took his daily training swim yesterday in the tank of the Chicago Athletic Club, where he will give the A.A.U. competitors to-night a demonstration of his Channel style.

While visiting Mr. Wrigley, Young's manager, Ralph Levy, said their plans are somewhat indefinite but they probably will leave Chicago Thursday morning.

CATHERINE LYONS.

OMEMEE, February 16. — The sad death of Catharine Lyons, beloved wife of John Beatty, occurred on Thursday evening, following an illness that extended over a period of several months, but not until about five weeks ago did her condition become alarming. Deceased was suffering from sugar diabetes and although she received the careful nursing from her daughter, who is a graduate of the State Hospital, Rochester, she peacefully slept away without any suffering.

Left to mourn the loss of a loving wife and mother are her husband and two daughters, Mrs. T. E. MacPherson of Omemee, and Miss Lyla Beatty, of Rochester.

Many beatuiful floral tributes graced the casket and expressed in a mute way the high esteem in which Mrs. Beatty was held.

The funeral was held on Sunday afternoon from her late residence on Mary street, where many old friends had gathered to pay their last tribute of love and respect to the deceased lady.

The service was in charge of Rev. E. W. Rowland, who having known Mrs Beatty since a boy, paid a tribute to her worth as a wonderful mother and home maker.

The remains were tenderly borne to their last resting place in the Emily cemetery by six old friends, Messrs. R. J. Cornwall, George Fee, Charles Ivory, Thomas Ivory, Isaac Fee and J. J. Williams.

JOHN REYNOLDS.

MARMORA, Feb. 16.— The demise occurred on Sunday at his home in Marmora township of John Reynolds, aged 75 years. Deceased had spent practically all his life in this community and came of an old stock of pioneers.

Besides his widow, he leaves to mourn his loss four sons and four daughters. These are Sidney of La Salle, N.Y., Arthur of Marmora, Louis of Belleville, Murney of Western Canada, Mrs. J. Stewart of La Salle, N.Y., Mrs. Reddick of Toronto, Mrs. J. Caut of Stoco, and Mrs. John Johnson, of Marmora. A son, John, predeceased him some six years ago. Also surviving him are several brothers and sisters, among whom are Nelson of Marmora township, Will and Samuel of Madoc township, Louis of Marmora and Mrs. John Neal of Hillier.

The funeral took place at Marmora on Tuesday, Rev. C. J. Beckley, of the United church, officiating.

JOHN CHITTICK

OMEMEE, Feb. 16.—John Chittick passed away in the Ross Hospital, Lindsay, on Monday morning, following a brief illness from pneumonia.

Mr. Chittick was born in Ireland but had come to Canada many years ago, and had made his home in this vicinity for years gone by. He was unmarried. Two years ago he erected a small home for himself in the village of Omemee, and previous to his death was in the employ of Mr. Douglas at the Omemee elevator.

The remains were conveyed to the home of Mr. William Magee, on Monday, and the funeral was held on Wednesday afternoon to Emily Cemetery, where interment took place; the Rev. A. T. Weir of Christ Church, Omemee, officiating.

VICTOR JOHNSON.

OMEMEE, Feb. 16.—The sudden death of Victor Johnson, of Coldwater, came as a shock to his numerous friends in Omemee, who sympathize with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Johnson, and other members of the family in their loss. The deceased had been sick for five days previous to his death, which resulted from meningitis.

The funeral was held in Coldwater on Thursday last, under Masonic auspices. The service at the home was conducted by the Rev. Mr. Atton, pastor of the United Church, assisted by Rev. Mr. McConnachie of the Anglican Church, while the service at the grave was in charge of the Masons.

Deceased was born 82 years ago in Stayner, and when twelve years old came wih his parents to live in Omemee. Later he learned his trade as a baker, and had worked in that capacity in Coldwater for several years, and during that time had made many warm friends. He was a member of the Masonic Order, the Orange Lodge, a member of the fire brigade, and also belonged to the Curling Club.

Many and beautiful were the floral designs sent by sorrowing friends, a partial list of which follows: Compass and square, Masonic Order; wreaths from the Orange Lodge, Curling Club, father and mother, Coldwater A.Y.P.A., Mr. and Mrs. P. Hanson, Gravenhurt, Mrs. Higginson and son, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mackenzie of Toronto; pillow from Mrs. Carnell and son; sprays from Mr. and Mrs. Harry Stinson of Oshawa, Mr. and Mrs. J. Day of Toronto, Mr. Roy Johnston of Detroit, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. T. E. MacPherson of Omemee, the Young People's League of Omemee, and numerous others.

Left to mourn his loss of the immediate relatives are his young widow and two-year-old son, his parents and four sisters: Mrs. Day of Toronto, Mrs. H. Stinson of Oshawa, Miss Eileen of Toronto, and Miss Helen of Omemee, also one brother, Roy, of Detroit.

PROPERTY DESTROYED

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Feb. 16 (Canadian Press).—A tornado, striking Taft yesterday afternoon following a deluge of rain, ripped roofs off buildings and numerous homes on the west side. Losses have not yet been estimated, but the terrific blast of wind ripped the roofs from the Hippodrome Theatre, Security Trust Building, and numerous dwellings and crashed to earth half the radio aerials in the town, as well as the billboards.

No deaths are so far reported.

BRACKEN PLANS TAX REDUCTIONS IN REBATE FORM

Outlines Application of Government Earnings During Fiscal Year 1926.

MANITOBA HOUSE.

Will Use $500,000 of Surplus on Supplementary Revenue.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press)—Application of the $600,000 earned by the Manitoba government in the fiscal year which ended April 30, 1926, to tax reduction in the form of rebates for 1927 on supplementary revenue and income taxes, was indicated by Premier John Bracken in the course of a budget speech delivered before packed galleries in the legislative chamber. In effect approximately $500,000 on the surplus will go as rebate on supplementary revenue, according to the premier's proposal, the remaining $100,000 being applicable to income tax. Provision would be made at the current session of the house, the premier said, for the application of future surpluses toward reduction of these two levies in the proportion of 80 per cent. to supplementary revenue, and 20 per cent to income tax.

Government Proposals

In announcing the proposed tax reductions, the premier stated that it was the government's intention to place amendments before the house to provide for:

1. Removal of the succession duties on bequests to charitable institutions.
2. Removal of the amusement tax on tickets of less than 25 cents to places of amusement and the removal altogether of the tax on admissions to chautauquas, toboggan slides, musical recitals, miscellaneous pleasure attractions, picnics and amateur athletics.
3. Reduction of the general tax on property (supplementary levy) by 37 1-2 per cent. for 1927, or from two mills to 1 1-4 mills.
4. Reduction of the income tax for the same year by approximately 20 per cent.
5. Application of future surpluses toward the reduction of the supplementary revenue tax and the income tax in the proportion respectively of 80 per cent. and 20 per cent. of such surpluses.

Estimates for Year

The premier said that expenditures for the ensuing fiscal year were estimated at $10,095,641, as against $10,780,066 in the current year, the increase being due mainly to heavy increases in institutional grants to doubling of the proposed expenditure on maintenance of good roads, and to a $15,000 increase in the half share of fines to be funded.

Estimated revenues for the ensuing year were placed at $10,784,425, as against the $10,602,765 estimated for the current year ending April 30, 1927.

VALENTINE TEA.

Queen Alexandra Home and School Association Enjoys Evening.

The Valentine tea held under the auspices of the Home and School Association of the Queen Alexandra school was very enjoyable. The decorations of the kindergarten room were in Valetnine novelties, the table being very prettily arranged for the occasion. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. H. G. Walker, assisted by Mrs. S. F. M. Touchburn and Mrs. C. H. Cheverill. Arrangements were in charge of the convenor of the Social committee, Mrs. C. Staunton, assisted by Mrs. Parnall and Mrs. A. Giles. The prettily decorated tables, done with red candle and hearts, were in charge of Mesdames Emmerson, Tremain, Vance, Hagerman, Hales and Armstrong. Tea was poured by Mrs. A. Mowat and Mrs. F. H. Dearborn and was charming with Valetnine novelties, tulle and candles. Mrs. J. T. C. Lang assisted at the door. A musical programme, in charge of Mrs. C. H. Cheverill, included vocal solos by Mrs. V. Walker and Miss Alma Blanchard, and instrumental numbers by the Misses Purdy and Huey and Mr. Howden.

WAS FRIGHTENED.

PORT HOPE, Ont., Feb. 16.—In order that he may be placed under mental observation, George Ryan, Sullivan Street, was yesterday remanded for two weeks by County Judge J. E. McGlade on a charge of attempting to apply chloroform to his wife, Annie Ryan, on the night of January 19th.

Ryan, who was the only witness placed in the box by the defence, admitted that he had purchased an ounce of the drug at a local drug store, and while his wife was sleeping dropped some on a cloth and placed it above her nose and mouth. Mrs. Ryan awoke and went to the home of a neighbor, where she spent the night. Ryan told the court that he was unable to read and had never been told that the effects chloroform might be dangerous. He said that he had used it without any malicious intent. He was more scared than his wife was.

Ryan corroborated the evidence of Fred Lewis, a Crown witness, who stated that on the night of the chloroforming attempt Ryan went to a tree near his home, placed a rope over a limb and threatened to commit suicide by hanging. "I just did that to scare Lewis," Ryan told in court. "I just put the rope around the limb and over my shoulder, but it was not around my neck when I jumped down." Ryan, who is a well-digger by trade, has been married 14 years and has three children. He was represented by W. F. McMahon, Port Hope, and W. F. Kerr, K.C., Cobourg, prosecuted.

MUST RUN PLANT OR LOSE CONCESSION

Seaman Kent Co. Given Ultimatum By Renfrew Council.

RENFREW, Ont., Feb. 15.—By unanimous vote of Town Council, Seaman Kent Company, of Toronto, have been notified that unless their large plant here is put in operation by April 1, the fixed assessment of $5,000 and free water will be withdrawn. The property is valued at $330,000, and ordinarily it would assessed at about $250,000, at present rate of 44 mills the town would receive $11,000. The plant has been idle for many months and no indication can be obtained, as to when it will again operate.

"IT DOES MY HEART GOOOD TO WATCH THAT KID EAT"

Three months ago he was thin and frail—he had no appetite and didn't want to play with other children.

So his wise mother gave him McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets and now the whole family is happy.

Give your child McCoy's Mother if he is weak and thin—it is rich in just the kind of vitamines he needs to build him up and if by any chance they don't help him, get your money back. 60 tablets 60 cents at McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Drug Co. and druggists everywhere.

HUGHES-CLARK WEDDING

With 800 invited guests the wedding of Miss Aileen Hughes on Saturday to Mr. James Freeman Clark of Boston was one of the most brilliant social events of the season in Canada. To the upper left is a picture of Miss Hughes. Upper centre shows the Hughes home in Lindsay, Ont. Lower left is the First United church at Lindsay, where the ceremony took place. Upper right is Miss Alice Ware, of Boston, while below her is her sister, Miss Elizabeth Ware, both of whom were bridesmaids. Lower centre shows Mr. Clarke and Miss Hughes, the picture having been taken when they were on a hunting trip in Africa. The groom is shown with the two lion cubs the party brought back from Africa. Miss Hughes took one of them to Lindsay.

RETAIL MERCHANTS WANT TAX PLACED ON MAIL ORDER HOUSES

Claim Cash Sent Out Restricts Growth of Communities.

LEVY ON BUSINESS

Municipalities Would Receive Money — Retail Bureau Suggested.

Claiming that mail order houses make no contribution to local communities in any way for the privilege of carrying on their mail order business, while at the same time they use many of the public utilities paid for out of taxation on the other classes, the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada have petitioned the federal government to enact legislation whereby every establishment of such nature shall be taxed on the amount of all sales made by them in the provinces and that moneys received from this source be distributed to the provinces, according to the sales made therein, and to be redistributed by the provinces to their various municipalities on equitable basis.

It is declared by the merchants that the mail order houses have not only the advantage of low rates on their parcels sent through the Post Office Department, but have the advantage over local merchants of selling their merchandise in all the various communities without making any contribution in any way towards the maintenance and development of these communities. They pay no local taxes, they do not assist in the social life. They take away rather than add to the community.

The question of this alleged unfair method of competition with the local retailers has been for years considered by the association, not only in the interest of the retailers, but in the interests of community development, and in order that the local merchant might be placed on a more fairly competitive basis.

Cash Sent Out Restricts Growth.

"This is a matter which is engaging the earnest attention of the business people of Canada who are interested in its future development," says a memorandum presented to the government this week. "The cash sent out of the various communities to mail order houses, to be employed by them is restricting the growth and prosperity of the smaller towns, villages and rural communities, by taking from those communities the opportunity of employing the operating cost of distribution and profits within their districts.

"Towns or villages, through this lack of development, lose their prestige as live and attractive centres and property values, of not only the merchants and residents of these communities, but farmers as well tributary thereto, are much reduced in value. Of the dollar spent with the local merchants, the money is left in the community to help build up its social and economic life.

"Successful development of the community is dependent upon the promotion of those enterprises within that community which provide such employment for its citizens that it will give them a fair remuneration in proportion to service rendered, permitting them to enjoy many of the privileges of more modern methods of living.

Sixty Classes of Retailers.

"An investigation of the retail trade situation shows that there are over sixty different classes of retailers in Canada selling exclusive lines of merchandise, and that altogether there were over 140,000 merchants or firms engaged in the retail business of this country, who distributed over $4,000,000,000 worth of merchandise, or an average of approximately $443 for every man, woman and child. By making a comparison of the value of export and import trade which amounted to a little over $2,000,000,000 last year, one is able to get some idea of the importance of the domestic trade of this country, and yet when compared with some of the single line industries, such as agriculture, which last year produced approximately $1,712,000,000, forestry $436,000,000, mining $232,500,000, even greater differences are apparent. These comparisons will give you some idea of the importance of the domestic trade of Canada and the service rendered to the public of this country by the distributors.

Operating Costs High.

"It is estimated that the retailers, together with their employees, represent as much capital invested and pay as much taxes as any other class in the Dominion of Canada. They are large contributors to the development of the communities in which they are located and are, in most instances, the promoters of community development. A large portion of the cost of maintaining schools, churches, hospitals, good roads, and other public utilities, as well as charitable institutions within the community is paid for and maintained by the merchants residents in those districts.

"The beginning of community life and development is centred around the community store, just as the fireside is the centre of the family. For the privilege of doing business in that community it has been estimated by the Harvard Bureau of Statistics that the operating costs of the local merchant are, for a grocery store approximately 18 per cent., the shoe store 23 per cent., clothing store 23 per cent., drug store 25 per cent., dry goods store 23 per cent., hardware store 20 per cent., furniture store 26 per cent., department store 26 per cent., automobile dealers 24 per cent., jewellery store 27 per cent.; these expenses being returned to the community in the way of taxes, salaries, advertising, heat and light, delivery, office supplies, insurance, general expenses and depreciation. The return of this money to the community assists in building it up to the benefit of not only the merchant but all its citizens.

"The towns and villages can only be made attractive and business opportunities provided by the investment of money, and the re-investment of the earning power of that money within these communities. A dollar spent within the community is estimated to circulate fifteen times before its earning power has been used up."

The association admits that mail order houses serve a purpose, but if the local consumer would give the local merchant the same opportunity to secure the merchandise which cannot be purchased from the local store, as he gives to the mail order house, by purchasing from the catalogue of the local retailer, the community store would be able to supply all the requirements of the consumer in that locality and, in many instances, at a lesser price than is being paid the mail order house.

Government Bureau Advocated.

Establishment of a retail department within the Department of Trade and Commerce is also advocated by the Retail Merchants' Association to make an investigation of the domestic distribution business of this country, as it is felt that if a complete investigation was made, the Department would undertake to see that some of the unfair methods by which goods are being distributed were discontinued, and that every merchant should not only be given an equal opportunity of fair competition with his fellow merchant, but that these losses which are not only serious for those who have failed, but reflect back upon the community, and in turn are reflected in the price of goods generally, would be reduced.

Such a department within the Department of Trade and Commerce would have a tendency to stabilize business conditions in this country and would as a result of the investigation and the reports which would be submitted thereon, not only show conclusively that mail order houses are keeping back the proper development of community life, but that they should be placed on a fair competitive basis and should be required to pay for the privilege of doing business in these various communities in proportion to the average legitimate operating costs of the merchants located there.

BROKEN VEIN CAUSES DEATH

Aged Owen Sound Man Found Dead in Home—Lived There Alone.

DEAD TWO DAYS.

OWEN SOUND, Ont., Feb. 16.—Samuel G. Britton, 71 years of age, was found in his cottage at 836 Third avenue west here yesterday by a neighbor, Wesley Gowens, who had suspicions that everything was not right. When found the body was frozen stiff, but it is not thought that death was caused by the cold, as there was plenty of fuel in the house. He was clad in his underwear, showing that he had been in bed, but his ears and nose were clotted with blood, indicating the bursting of a blood vessel.

He is thought to have been dead about two days. He was well-known in the city, where he had resided for a great many years, but for the last 15 years had resided alone, his wife, one daughter and three sons having removed to London, where they still reside.

TAIL OF COMET TO CROSS EARTH

Pons-Winnecke Will Pass Close, in June, Says Scientist.

NO DANGER.

CHICAGO, Feb. 16.—The Pons-Winnecke comet, which caused a furore in 1921 because of its proximity to the earth, will make a closer visit next June, when it again will appear at a distance of 4,500,000 miles from the earth. This is the closest approach to the earth by a comet ever recorded.

When the Pons-Winnecke traveler was visible in 1921 many people prepared for the end because of the reports that gasses from the comet's tail would wipe out all life on earth.

Professor Harvey B. Lemon, of the University of Chicago, announced yesterday that after three years of research he finds traces of a deadly gas in the tails of two comets, the Daniels and Morehouse, which made their appearance two decades ago.

The Pons-Winnecke comet will come so close to the earth next June that the earth will pass through its tail, according to the announcements of astronomers. Whether carbon monoxide gas is present in the tail of the Pons-Winnecke comet is not known, but Professor Lemon says there is no danger.

"Do not worry," said Professor Lemon, "for if the comet's tail does come in contact with the earth, there would be no harmful results due to the presence of a poisonous gas."

CANADA IN FRONT IN PUBLIC HEALTH

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 16 (By C.P.) —That Canada has no cause to be ashamed of her standing with other nations of the world or of her contributions to the cause of public health and that the League of Red Cross Societies, representing 56 countries, with headquarters in France is doing an indispensable and invaluable peace-time work are the considered opinions of Dr. F. W. Routley, Director of the Ontario Division of the Canadian Red Cross Society, who has just returned from a three months' sojourn in Paris, where he was in charge of the Health Division of the Red Cross Secretariat.

Dr. Routley said: "I was highly gratified to find that Canada occupies a front rank with the four or five foremost nations of the world in matters of public health. We cannot hope to do on so large a scale the things done in Great Britain and the United States, but in our standards methods, and some accomplishments we are second to none.

"I found the Europeans intensely interested in the Red Cross Outpost Hospitals in our frontier sections; in our Junior Red Cross and in our Visiting Housekeepers' Centre as seen in the Toronto Branch of our Society." These activities of the Canadian Red Cross were serving as models for the Red Cross Organizations in other countries, he added.

OPINION IS DIVIDED.

Naturally the action of the Ontario Legislature in passing a resolution urging the Dominion Government to reduce the excise duty on liquor is not meeting with unanimous approval.

Strong prohibitionists can see nothing in it but a lowering of the price of liquor and a consequently greater consumption.

On the other hand, there is a very strong expression of opinion in favour of a reduced excise duty as an effective means of checking smuggling and curbing the illicit sale of liquor.

The Royal Customs Commission, carrying on its investigations in the West, is continually being informed by witnesses that a lower duty would be of a very material assistance in bringing about better observance of the law.

Thus on Monday Inspector Code of the Customs Service in Manitoba and T. H. Verner, Collector of Customs at Winnipeg, both declared emphatically that with a lower excise duty the incentive to smuggle would be very largely removed.

COURTESY TO TOURISTS.

The Examiner is in receipt of a letter from a local merchant in which he advocates the extension of every possible courtesy to tourists this summer, even to the extent of being lenient with motorists who may violate some of the traffic regulations through lack of knowledge of the local rules.

His letter is as follows:

"During the coming season there will undoubtedly be thousands of tourists travelling through our fair Dominion, and we should extend to them in every way possible the same extra courtesy as extended to Canadian tourists in many of the larger cities of our neighbor.

"For instance, the writer, while travelling through the States, experienced something that seemed very unusual, and was most highly appreciated by said writer.

"The city official in charge of the traffic at that particular intersection jumped on the running-board of the car and enquired whether or not there was any information we desired, and he most courteously gave us the required information, at the same time informing us that as a visiting car we were privileged to turn any direction we wished, regardless of traffic regulations. (No doubt he assumed we would use every precaution in doing so.) As we all know, there is no uniformity or standardization of regulations governing traffic rules in all the cities, and this official certainly appreciated that fact.

"In conclusion, I think that every courtesy should be shown visitors to our city, and errors on the part of said visitors should to a very great extent be overlooked by our authorities, and create a good-will during this and coming seasons."

The Examiner feels that the local police can be counted upon to be helpful and tactful in their treatment of tourists, and to treat minor errors with consideration.

The visitor who drives recklessly, of course, waives all claim to leniency, but the careful driver who through lack of knowledge of the regulations makes a mistake is not likely to have any reason to complain.

THE COLLEGIATE EXTENSION.

The City Council in approving the building programme of the Board of Education in regard to increased Collegiate Institute accommodation and in deciding to issue debentures as soon as the plans are completed and the exact cost known, has taken the only position that was possible under the circumstances.

The necessity of the proposed extension has been proved up to the hilt.

The arguments advanced by the Board of Education on behalf of their programme were unanswerable.

Representatives of the board were able to show nearly one out of every three pupils crowded out of the present Collegiate building because of insufficient accommodation.

Two hundred pupils in the commercial department thus shut off from the main school are housed in a building discarded years ago as unfit for public school purposes, a building that in spite of the use of five furnaces and over one hundred tons of coal each year is so cold that in extreme weather the pupils have to be sent home.

The equipment at this South Central School is kept in repair at a cost six times greater than that of all the other public schools combined.

To put the building in proper condition to be used would necessitate the expenditure of $30,000, and even then the requirements of the Department of Education could not be met, and then there would be no Government grant.

In addition to being housed in a building unfit for the uses to which it is being put, the pupils of the commercial department are cut off from the corporate life of the Collegiate and are deprived of such advantages as the school library, cadet corps and similar departments.

As to the main Collegiate building, it is, of course, without a gymnasium, the only high school in the Province to have such a distinction, and has no rooms nor equipment for manual training and household science.

In addition, the fact that the majority of non-resident applications for admittance into the Collegiate have necessarily been refused because of lack of accommodation is a matter worth consideration.

The few pupils who can gain admission at present pay a little over one-third the cost of their tuition, whereas if there were provision for county pupils the county would be required to pay 80 per cent. of the cost in their case.

The new wing proposed by the Board of Education and approved by the Council would include ten class-rooms for vocational training, five for academic purposes, a library and board-room, boys' and girls' gymnasiums, and an auditorium on the ground floor with a seating capacity of 1,000.

Altogether the enlarged Collegiate would contain 25 class-rooms and accommodate 700 pupils. It would be capable of taking care of academic, vocational and night classes, and would meet the requirements of the Department of Education, thus earning the Government grant.

As to the cost, the total is estimated at $261,000, which includes $9,000 on alterations to the old building.

Of this sum it is anticipated that the Ontario Government will pay $86,100, leaving the net cost to Peterborough at $175,000, which, of course, would be reduced materially by the amount chargeable to the county when there is room for all county pupils who apply.

The programme has the unanimous support of the Board of Education, and the unanimous endorsation of the Vocational Committee.

Monday night's meeting and the assurance of the Council that debentures will be issued when the exact cost is known mark a very important step forward in the history of education in this city.

THE FRENCH LANGUAGE.

Most persons will find it difficult to understand or appreciate the objections raised by Mr. Walter Stannard to the proposal to teach the French language in Grades 7 and 8 of the Windsor Public Schools.

The Board of Education decided some time ago that conversational French should be provided in the grades mentioned. The proposal was laid before the Minister of Education, Premier G. Howard Ferguson, and his official approval secured this week. Preparations are going forward to inaugurate the classes. Now Mr. Stannard comes along and tells the school trustees that the Premier is not qualified to give such permission and that if the board persists in its intention to commence these classes, an injunction or something of the kind will be sought.

The first answer to the threat of Mr. Stannard is the fact that French lessons are to be optional. No child will be forced to receive the instruction. If parents object, the child will not be included in the French classes. Surely this proviso should meet the objections of anyone.

The Border Cities Star finds it difficult to believe that any considerable number of citizens agree with Mr. Stannard's attitude in this matter. Why should anyone endeavor to keep Windsor children from an educational opportunity that has never been offered them before, and the announcement of which has been received with the highest commendation from many quarters? In the opinion of The Star there isn't a single, solitary reason why pupils in the last grades of the Public Schools should not be given the opportunity to acquire a working knowledge of the French tongue—one of the two official languages of the country. Thousands of parents who had no such opportunity in their youth wish that the educators of other years had been as far-sighted as the school trustees of the present. These parents, regretting their own inability to use French, are delighted by the announcement that their own children will not be so handicapped. Only yesterday one of Windsor's most prominent business men remarked: "I think it's a wonderful idea. I am only sorry that someone did not think of it when I was a boy at school. I would give almost anything now to have a working knowledge of the French language, but I am now too old to learn."

"Windsor got proper authority from the Minister under the regulations for the teaching of French in the fourth grade of the Public Schools there, and if Mr. Stannard, or anyone else, wants to raise a fuss about it, then it's up to them. I'm not interested.

"The teaching of French under this system has nothing to do, not even remotely, with the general bilingual problem. There must be some misunderstanding of the whole situation, and I would like this statement correctly reproduced as misunderstandings may create trouble.

"French has always been an optional subject in secondary schools and fifth forms of public schools.

"There are about 40,000 pupils in high schools and fifth forms of bilingual schools, studying French. The Windsor School Board asked to be allowed under the regulations to experiment with it in the fourth term of the public schools there."

The Premier's words should be an effective answer to all objections.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Housewives are doubtless busy estimating the amount of sweeping that is going to waste during the Peterborough bonspiel.

It looks as if the construction of the addition to the local Collegiate Institute will yet get started before the Toronto Union Station is ready for use.

Conservatives and Liberals in the Federal House have both taken the same stand on a question, thus proving that nothing is impossible.

Longer days and fewer hockey teams left in the running are both reliable signs that spring is near.

The case on behalf of increased Collegiate Institute accommodation is overwhelming. The addition approved by the Council will prove of the greatest benefit to the community.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 16 (Canadian Press) — Extreme dullness again marked the export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday, there being little or no demand from any source.

The trade in cash grain in the domestic market was also quiet but the undertone was steady.

The local and export demand for spring and wheat grades of flour continued dull but values were firm.

Prices for all lines of millfeed were well maintained under a moderate enquiry. A steady feeling prevailed in the market for standard grades of rolled oats, but the demand was limited.

A weaker feeling developed in the egg market and prices scored a decline of one cent per dozen. This was attributed to the liberal offerings. The receipts were 2,465 cases.

The potato trade was quiet but firm. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.75 to $1.80 per bag of ninety pounds, and Quebec white stock at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag of ninety pounds in bulk.

A feature of the local butter situation was the easier feeling that developed and prices declined 1-4c to 1-2c per pound, which was attributed to the increased offerings. At the lower levels the demand showed a slight improvement. The receipts were 24 packages.

The demand for cheese was again dull, but values were unchanged. Receipts were 789 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press)—With world stocks of wheat showing 5,591,000 bushels increase, wheat prices yesterday reacted from an early advance. Suggestions that shipments of wheat to Chicago are not unlikely, counted also as a late bearish influence. Wheat closed irregular, 3-8c net lower to 3-8c up; corn 1-8 to 1-4 at 3-8c down; oats a shade to 3-8c at 1-2c off, and provisions varying from 30 cents decline to five cents gain.

There was an apparent dearth of trans-Atlantic demand to-day for North American wheat, although some talk was heard of Canada having done a liberal business direct. Meanwhile, foreigners were on the selling side of future deliveries here and doubt was being expressed in some quarters as to whether expected heavy arrivals of wheat in Europe during the next few weeks would continue to be readily absorbed.

Corn and oats turned easier with wheat in the late trading. The cash corn trading basis was one cent lower to one cent higher.

Provisions averaged lower with scattered liquidation on in lard.

RECEPTION HELD FOR NEW PASTOR

Marmora United Congregation Welcomes Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Beckley.

MARMORA, Feb. 16.—On Thursday evening, a reception was tendered Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Beckley in the United church. The duties of chairman fell to Mr. G. B. Airhart, who presided in his usual genial way. After introductory remarks, the Rev. C. W. Barrett, of Stirling, was called upon for an address. He expressed his pleasure at being able to do his part in the appointment of the minister to Marmora United church and referred to the good impression which Rev. C. J. Beckley has already made not only in Marmora but in the Bay of Quinte Conference. He concluded a breezy address by mention of the part the church should take in communal life for which social endeavours should not be substituted. A trio, composed of Mesdames F. R. Wells, D. E. Bell, and E. C. Prentice then rendered "In the Garden."

Rev. Mr. Beckley, called upon to speak, gave a very earnest address, the main theme of which was the functioning of the church, and its prior claims upon human lives.

Rev. A. B. Caldwell then welcomed Rev. and Mrs. Beckley on behalf of the Anglican church, following which Mrs. Prentice gave a pleasing solo. Messrs. F. S. Peave, H. W. Sabine, W. I. Rigg, W. A. Sanderson, and T. E. Laycock briefly spoke in response to the chair. W. M. Lester followed with a solo, after which a curio contest was held.

A delightful supper was served at the close. The night will be long remembered by those present as one wherein the spirit of true fellowship was predominant.

A Thought For To-day

THE OUTDOORS CURE

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

Sheriff William I. Traeger of Los Angeles County announces that the County is to have the first open air camp for the treatment and cure of narcotic addicts.

The camp will be the first of its kind in the country and will be located in a mountainous section where there is plenty of fresh air and wholesome surroundings.

This is a step in the right direction.

There is nothing so good for every kind of malady as to get people out in the air.

Most diseases are diseases of the house.

The Indians have suffered from decimation since they have been compelled to live in houses.

The treatment of insane patients by putting them in some open-air retreat instead of locking them up in cells has been beneficial.

Tuberculosis would not be a serious disease if you could induce those who are in incipient stages to get out of doors and live there, especially in a dry climate.

There is hardly any kind of trouble that out doors will not cure, and California is to be congratulated in contemplating this step.

Sheriff Traeger says:

"More confinement of dope addicts in the county jail does not help them, for as soon as they are released they return to their old haunts and habits."

The camp will be constantly attended by physicians and its inmates will be engaged in healthful occupations, and by this means the majority of these unfortunates can be salvaged and sent back to the world as useful citizens instead of broken-down men and women and dependent upon society.

The country wishes success to this enterprise and recommends that its example be followed by other sections as it is a movement in the right direction.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

TO "ADVISE"

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

The verb "advise" is sometimes used incorrectly, as in the following sentence:

"We beg to advise you that your shipment of the tenth was received to-day."

This should read, "We beg to advise you of the fact that your shipment of the tenth was received to-day." According to the dictionary and other authorities, "advise," when used in this sense, must be followed by "of." The dictionary defines "advise" as follows: "To give information or notice of; to apprise; inform; with 'of'; as, 'We were advised of the risk.'"

The common use of "advise," in the sense of "to give advice to or counsel to," is well known. There is another sense of the word that is not used so commonly, meaning "to take counsel or consult," followed by with, as, "I will advise with my friends concerning the matter."

HEALTH DIET ADVICE

"The Best Way to Health"

QUESTIONS ON HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. McCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER

STARVING FOR LIME

Every tissue of the body contains organic calcium which is also known by the name of lime. The hard tissues such as the osseus or bony structure and the firm tendons and ligaments contain the largest proportion of this valuable element but no cell of any other part of the body can live for very long unless calcium is included in its mineral composition.

The blood is predominately alkaline and death ensues as soon as this alkaline balance is lost and the blood becomes over-charged with acids. Judging health as 100 per cent, if the blood contains only one-half as much alkali as it should, the health of that individual so deprived of alkaline bases is certainly not over 50 per cent of the normal. Calcium stands as the greatest source of this blood supply of alkaline salts. Efforts are being made by chemists to develop some method of supplying this lime to the tissues through artificial means but their efforts have so far completely failed and we are forced to fall back upon the natural source so obvious at all times. This natural supply can come only from the use of food which is rich in calcium and which has not been de-mineralized by too much preparation and changing by food merchants.

Whole grains include calcium in abundance in their chemical composition but this element as well as many others are completely lost in the roller-mill process used by the white flour makers. The valuable parts are taken out in the first few minutes and the utterly useless "pure" starch is sold by millers who advertise their flour as being whiter and purer than others.

Cows need the whole grain to remain in health and give life to their calves. If fed on white flour they sicken and die within a few weeks. This is because of starvation for the necessary organic minerals of the whole grain. If the cows are only fed partly on white flour, their calves will be born dead or only live a few hours. What chance do human mothers have to be healthy or bring into the world vigorous offspring when over 50 per cent of their diet during the gestation period is composed of victuals made from bolted flour. If a sufficient supply of the leafy green vegetables is used, the loss of the whole grains will not be felt but if the excesses of pure starch are used, the blood will be robbed of its reserve of calcium and the cells must suffer from such loss.

People who use an excess of decalcified foods will always complain of being "run down." If they ever expect to "run up" again this can only be brought about by the use of unrefined foods which will "run up" their calcium units in the cells.

Calcium-starved patients cannot digest food properly as this element is in dispensable in making the digestive ferments without which the chemistry of digestion and assimilation cannot take place.

If you have enough calcium in your blood when a wound is accidently made the blood will coagulate quickly in the wound. Whereas those known as "bleeders" show a sure evidence of being calcium starved.

The use of over-refined foods of any kind is the direct cause of decaying and crumbly teeth.

Resistance to disease is also made less and less as the alkaline balance of the blood is lost and the tissues develop a more acid reaction.

You cannot get your lime out of the rocks as the plants do but you have always for your use the vegetables which have converted the mineral lime to organic calcium to be used by the body as nature intended.

All the cooking an egg needs in Death Valley is to snatch it from the ice box and peel it quickly.

There's hope, though. A chamber of commerce could go out there and cut the temperature so quickly that old residents would get chills and move out.

Many a cheque written on a bank really belongs in the library.

NEW YORK ASKS MILK BILL VETO

Health of City Will Be Affected, President is Told.

CANADA CUT OFF.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Dr. Louis I. Harris, Health Commissioner of New York, requested President Coolidge yesterday to veto the Lenroot-Tabler Milk Bill on the ground that it constitutes a danger to the public health of New York.

The Health Commissioner discussed the measure, which has passed both Houses and Congress, with Mr. Coolidge, and left at the White House a written statement of his views in which he explained New York requires 3,000,000 quarts of milk daily. Of this amount Canada supplies an average of 190,000 quarts, and is an important factor in the New York supply during the Fall and Winter shortage.

Dr. Harris pointed out that the bill at times restricts the Canadian supply, and consequently means New York, Boston and the various New England cities will be compelled to go as far south as Virginia for their milk. He felt the measure would result in milk "bootlegging."

The President did not make known his intention about the measure.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

BREAK-UP REPORT IS NOT CONFIRMED

Great Britain Still Uncertain As To Negotiations at Hankow.

LONDON, Feb. 16. — Canadian Press. — Great Britain last night was still without confirmation or denial of newspaper despatches of Monday which said that the negotiations at Hankow between the Cantonese foreign minister, Eugene Chen, and British Charge d'Affaires Owen O'Malley, had broken down.

As if perhaps preparing for unfavorable news, official circles maintain that whatever the immediate fate of the Hankow parley, the British government's policy toward China will stand the test of time and endure difficulties such as it appears to be encountering just now. Whether within weeks, months or years this policy is expected to bring about a settlement of all the outstanding Anglo-Chinese problems.

Philip Snowden, Laborite, caused a tense moment in the House of Commons yesterday when he asked Foreign Secretary Chamberlain whether it was true that the negotiations at Hankow had broken down

"Up to the present moment I have received no information," the foreign secretary replied gravely.

The House was crowded and the Laborites were sitting on the edges of the benches ready to start a storm of criticism of the government if Sir Austen had confirmed that the negotiations between Chen and Charge O'Malley had broken down.

They maintain that the despatch of the British defence forces to the Far East injected a new problem which made Charge O'Malley's task more difficult, and has already wrecked, or is likely to wreck, the British government's Chinese programme which until the troops were despatched had had the almost unanimous support of the Laborites.

AT THE CAPITOL

"DESERT'S TOLL" POSSESSES NOVEL WESTERN ANGLES

No style of motion picture entertainment has yet met with the tremendous popularity ever accorded the western feature. The public seemingly never tires of this form of entertainment, and happy, indeed, is the producer who hits upon something new and novel in a western story and presentation.

"The Desert's Toll", a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production starring Francis McDonald, which will be the feature attraction at the Capitol Theatre tomorrow is without doubt something new in western production.

No pains were spared to make this one of the most novel pictures of the year as regards story, settings, and general treatment. It was directed by Cliff Smith, recognized as one of the greatest of directors of this particular type of motion picture, and Smith transported his company from Los Angeles to the Big Horn Ranch in Nevada, and thence to perhaps the most scenic portion of the State of Utah, Bryce Canyon, to stage this beautiful out-of-door drama.

Francis McDonald is starred in this great drama of the West, with Kathleen Key as the fair lady. Tom Santschi registers as the villainous corner of the triangle.

The action of the gripping story was laid in the most beautiful settings imaginable. The countless spires of Bryce Canyon add an inviting air of mystery to the development of the plot. It is a region hitherto untouched by motion picture producers, and will awaken great interest, no doubt, in the scenic marvels of this particular section.

Smith, who directed "The Desert's Toll," was responsible for the direction of most of William S. Hart's great successes. He has more recently been Hoot Gibson's director. He knows the West as few motion picture directors will ever know it, and he gives of this knowledge freely in interpretations of the drama with which the West abounds.

THEATRE

AT THE GRAND

ABIE'S IRISH ROSE.

An event of more than ordinary importance in the matter of theatricals is the forthcoming engagement of Anne Nichols' laughing comedy success, "Abie's Irish Rose" the play that has for the past five years had the entire world talking of its phenomenal runs and financial returns, and which will be the attraction at the Grand next Monday.

This riot of laughter was originally produced in Los Angeles, California, for one week, but owing to the tremendous crowds it drew, was extended from week to week, until it piled up a record of forty-two weeks; it was then taken to San Francisco, where it astounded every body by remaining thirty-two weeks. It was then that the now celebrated author-producer decided to bring the play to New York City.

It was produced in the metropolis on May 22nd, 1922, where it is still running at the Republic Theatre on 22nd Street, and will celebrate its fifth birthday on May 22nd next.

Miss Nichols is sending to this city, her production and company which has just recently finished an engagement in Montreal, where it added a new page to the theatrical history of that city.

Mail orders accompanied by remittance are now being filled in the order received, the regular box office sale opening on Friday morning.

AT THE REGENT

X-COUNTRY RACE IN LANGDON FILM.

"Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" Shows Comedy King in Walking Joust. Hockey Week.

Harry Langdon, First National comedy king, engages in a transcontinental walking race in 'Tramp, Tramp, Tramp,' his initial feature-length comedy for First National release. Harry Edwards directed. The picture comes to the Regent Theatre here to-morrow.

The story of "Tramp Tramp, Harry and one which he has had in mind for many years. The theme permits of innumerable comedy episodes.

According to the story Harry enters a walking race sponsored by a prominent shoe manufacturer in order to lift the mortgage from the house. The real reason, however, is to win the hand of the daughter of the manufacturer. He has fallen in love with her picture on the billboards that adorn all the highways.

After a series of harrowing experiences in which he encounters almost all the misfortunes that can possibly fall to the lot of a cross-country walker he crosses the line a winner. Harry promptly lifts the mortgage and marries the beautiful girl.

LAKEFIELD HAS GOOD CARNIVAL

MANY SPECTATORS.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 16.—The Annual Masquerade Carnival was held at the Lakefield Skating Rink on Thursday evening and was attended by a large crowd, the spectators naturally predominating, although there were a large number in costume, both fancy and comic. The rink was decorated with flags and streamers of pennants, and was in gala attire and, with the various costumes gliding past, the spectators had a busy and entertaining evening. The Citizens' Band furnished music which added an extra touch to the festivity, and made the evening more delightful for skaters and onlookers alike.

About eight forty-five the judges assembled in the stand, and the work of judging the costumes began, which was a very difficult task, especially in some of the classes.

The following were awarded prizes:

Lady's Fancy Costume: Miss Mary Tanner, representing Flame.

Lady's Comic Costume: Miss Helen Burgess, representing Simple Simon.

Special prize for the best comic costume for a boy or girl under ten years of age: Mr. Bobby Lennox, as a Negro Minstrel.

Among the other costumes worthy of mention were the Dutch boy in a delft blue outfit, a diminutive "grandma" in a bustle and draped skirt, tight basque and spotted veil; a stately Brittania in white, with the traditional shield and helmet; a petite Bo Peep, who was dainty in baby blue and white, and a trim young lady who was loyally representing a home product, the Lakefield News, and very cleverly, too. A cowboy in leather leggings and hat had a good costume, and if he had carried a rope would probably have won a prize; a courtier in red velvet coat and white satin knee breeches and cocked hat was a favorite. A tiny Jackie Coogan was a prime favorite as he manfully skated round and round. Originality in the costumes was not remarkable, and the proportion was not as large as usual. The "Rise" and the "Bag of Potatoes" were the most original costumes on the ice. The number of pierrots, niggers, Jews and comics, who apparently were arrayed in the family ragbag was large, and girls dressed as boys and boys dressed as girls, numbered perhaps a dozen. One feels that the line between fancy and comic costume is not closely enough drawn.

A comedy touch was given by the antics of Simple Simon, who acted the part of fishing in the pail and the innocent glee of the catch very cleverly winning shouts of applause from the galleries. In the men's comic contest the capture of a suspicious looking green bottle led to a chase in which several took part, amid the laughter of the crowd.

After the judging the ice was open to all skaters and was soon thronged with skaters who had been anxiously waiting for the opportunity, the band struck up a merry tune, and the skaters got away to a fine night's fun.

Among those in costume were:—Mrs. J. H. Payne, winter queen; Mrs. W. Millage, Dutch boy; Mrs. A. Hunter, pierrot; Mrs. R. C. Chittick, valentine; Mrs. Sam Trude, little girl; Mrs. A. C. Carveth, night; Miss Merle Webster, old lady; Miss Thelma Carveth, angel; Miss Edith Spence, grandma; Miss Maxwell Hamilton, pierrot; Miss Greta Trude, Rube McNutt; Miss Barbara Dench, gipsy; Miss Helen Burgess, Simple Simon; Miss Helen Porter, Bohemian girl; Miss Cora Charlton, Little Red Riding Hood; Miss Constance Stuart, Mexican bull fighter; Miss Lillian Stuart, page; Miss Dorothy Sutton, pirate; Miss Reba Preston, Red Cross Nurse; Miss Elsie Northey, valentine; Miss Olive Northey, shiek; Miss Mary Tanner, flame; Miss Margaret Tanner, Mother Goose; Miss Phyllis Lake—Queen of hearts; Miss Ethel Lake, clown; Miss Lulu Smith, old Dutch Cleanser; Miss Etta Garbutt, gipsy; Miss Rosetta Frankish, old Dutch Cleanser; Miss Alice Dench, toy soldier; Miss Helen Everitt, witch; Miss Hazel Darling, Britannia; Miss Mae Dever, highland lassie; Miss Eva Hendren, Hallowe'en; Miss Lilian Mason, bell hop; Miss Beatrice Charlton, winter; Miss Jean Blewett, Little Bo-Peep; Miss Grace McIlmoyl, Lakefield News; Mr. John Brown, pierrot; Mr. Jack Hendren, Tkey; Mr. Harry Northey, jack tar; Mr. Thomas Chappell, valentine; Mr. Douglas, cowboy; Herrick Brown, clown; Stanley Darling, clown; Victor Brown, clown; Kenneth Kemp, clown; Mr. Joe Blewett, Paddy from Cork; Mr. George Chappell, spud; Mr. Bob Lennox, nigger minstreal; Mr. Gray Kemp, rose; Mr. Charlie Tanner, Jr., Little Boy Blue; Mr. Ralph Bickell, C.G.I.T., girl; Mr. Alex. Sutton, bag of potatoes; Mr. S. Trude, grandma; Mr. Kenneth Morris, Jackie Coogan; Mr. Willie Pearson, Uncle Sam; Messrs. Teddy and Harry Hunter, Gold Dust Twins; Mr. Douglas Smith, rooster; Mr. Harry Sherrin, Jr., a distinguished crook; Mr. William Hendren, a Jew; Mr. Frank Payne, a gentleman of fashion.

FINE CARNIVAL AT MILLBROOK

Many Attend Masquerade on Cosmos Club Rink.

GOOD COSTUMES.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 16.—The second carnival of the season, under Cosmos club auspices, was successfully carried through at the open-air rink on Thursday evening, a large attendance, and a number of very good costumes featuring the event.

Instead of the band, music was supplied by an orthophonic victrola, through the courtesy of Mr. H. R. Armstrong, the innovation proving, on the whole, satisfactory. A different location for the victrola, on the next occasion it is used, will make it possible to hear the music from any part of the rink.

Messrs. J. N. McGill and R. J. McKnight acted in the capacity of judges, and the prize winners were:

Best speed skater, gentlemen—Lawrence Ingram.

Best speed skater, boys—Ted Budd.

Best speed skater, lady—Miss Rogers (Peterborough).

Best speed skater, girls—Miss M. Russell.

Best lady skater—Miss Ella Elson.

Best gentleman skater—Jas. Morton.

Best representation costume—Miss S. Muir (calendar).

Best comic costume, gentlemen—A. Thorne (hobo).

Best fancy costume, lady—Mrs. G. W. Sayles (Canadian-made goods).

Best fancy costume, gentleman — D. Rutherford (Valentine).

Best fancy costume, girls—Carmen Ingram (girl).

Best fancy costume, boys — George Sayles (royal page).

Best comic costume, boys—Buster Raper (clown).

A "darktown" hockey match, the players using a football and brooms in place of sticks and a puck, kept the fun at a high pitch during the fifteen minutes it lasted, a single goal being scored by one side before time was called.

WRIT INVOLVES MANY RIGHTS

Suit Against C.F.C.A. One of Many By Copyright Holders.

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (By C. P.).—Canadian Performing Right Society, Limited, in a writ issued here against The Toronto Star Printing and Publishing Company, Limited, "demands an injunction restraining the defendant, its officers, agents, servants and employes from performing in public any musical work or works, or any part or parts thereof, the sole right to perform which in public is owned by the plaintiff, and particularly a certain musical work known as "The Piper of Love," composed by Molly Carew, and from broadcasting any of the said musical works from the defendant's broadcasting station in the city of Toronto known as CFCA, or otherwise, and from infringing the copyright in any such musical works, and for damages for infringement of the plaintiff's copyright in the said musical work by the broadcasting thereof by the defendant."

The specific selection complained of in the writ was one of a number of items on a program prepared for The Star by local musicians and given by them, says The Star in its news columns.

The action against The Star is merely one of a number of suits already brought and being brought against other radio stations in Canada and is closely allied also to other suits taken and pending against theatres in Canada.

Performance of Music.

It is of great interest to the general public, for the claims involve an extension of the popular conception of copyright. It is not a question of reprinting alleged copyright material but merely the public performance of such material. The whole subject raises interesting legal points.

The radio stations, theatres, churches, concert halls and other places affected, dispute the claim of the Canadian Performing Right Society, Limited. If its contention should be proved to be correct, radio stations, theatres, concert halls, church halls and other places where music is performed would have to pay fees for the use of the repertoire claimed by the Canadian Performing Right Society, Limited, to be under its control. Either this would make musical entertainment of all kinds more expensive either to the promoters or the public, or to both, or it would lead to a change in the type of programme presented and the use of repertoires not controlled by the Canadian Performing Right Society, Limited.

Aims of Society.

The Canadian Performing Right Society, Limited, is the agent in Canada for the Performing Right Society, Limited, of Great Britain. According to its own literature, the parent body "is an association of authors, composers, publishers, and other owners of musical literary, or dramatic copyrights, established to protect and enforce their rights, to restrain unauthorized use of their works and to collect fees for permission to perform the same in public. Until the society was formed in 1914, British composers and others received no fees for performing rights in their works. The society controls approximately two million works; it embraces all the British Dominions and is affiliated to kindred societies in France, Italy, Spain, Sweden, Hungary and Czecho-Slovakia."

A short time ago the controller of the Performing Right Society, Limited, John Woodhouse, J. P., of London, England, was in Toronto and The Star took the opportunity then of interviewing him and also Col. John A. Cooper, who has been active in the dissent by the theatres from the Performing Right Society's claim.

From the interviews then secured it was apparent that the society intended to try to levy in Canada charges on music in their repertoire from radio, theatres, concert and music halls, fairs, exhibitions and generally wherever music was performed in public.

Mr. Woodhouse at that time made the claim that the purchase of a piece of music did not carry with it the right of performance.

"When you buy a song," he said, "you buy a piece of paper with marks on it which enable you to interpret the composer's idea. But you do not buy the song. You can use the song in your private capacity in any way you please, but you do not buy the melody or the right to use the melody outside the prescribed limits of the law."

Col. Cooper, dissenting from the claims of the Performing Right Society, questioned the fundamental legal rights which were claimed. "There has never been a decision in Canada," he said, "on this point and until a decision is given neither Mr. Woodhouse nor I can say what the rights are. But I don't think the Canadian government in any copyright act ever contemplated making Canadian performers of music pay taxes to British and foreign copyright holders. If the government had contemplated this they would have set a scale of fees in the same way as they have done with the phonograph records where there is a royalty of two cents a record."

Up to time of the recent demands of the Performing Right Society it appears to have been taken for granted, according to Col. Cooper, by those responsible for the public performances of music, that any payment to be made by Canadians to parties living outside of Canada should be governed by individual agreement or by terms, as in the case of the phonograph record, fixed by the Canadian government.

Recitation, "What His Mother Used to Do"—Gordon Buchanan.

Toast, "The Church."—Proposed by Grenville Rutherford, responded to by Rev. G. E. Lougheed, B. A.

Toast, "The Sabbath School"—Proposed by Melville Wight, responded to by Mr. Percy Yuill.

Piano solo—Frank McLaughlin.

Toast, "Our Fathers"—Proposed by Harry Anderson, responded to by Dr. A. S. Thompson.

Toast, "Our Sons"—Proposed by Rev. G. E. Lougheed, responded to by Mr. H. F. McNichol.

The thanks of the fathers and sons was expressed to the ladies for the banquet by Mr. McNichol.

Mrs. Lougheed replied on behalf of the Ladies' Aid and called attention to the silver that had been purchased by the Ladies' Aid and was being used for the first time, also that a tea towel shower had been held in the afternoon and twenty-five towels were displayed, and that they had enjoyed the music from the piano which had been purchased by the Y. W. A. and was used for the first time for this entertainment.

Mr. McNichol, as toastmaster, was then honoged by the singing of "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

In thanking the fathers and sons for their appreciation, Mr. McNichol said he hoped that the fathers and sons banquet would be an annual event in the life of Knox church, and another year would be even more successful than this year.

Closing number, "Auld Lang Syne."

The manufacture of shoes was introduced in Massachusetts as far back at 1629. Thomas Beard brought hides across on the Mayflower on his third voyage.

SILENT CYCLE.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—A new noiseless motorcycle will soon makes its appearance on city streets, that reduces the irritating putt-putt noise to a low murmur. A new feature is an entirely enclosed engine, which will help the silencing apparatus.

Druggist Gave Her Advice

Miss Ruth Horowitz, Bronx, N. Y., writes: "Having been troubled with indigestion caused by constipation for several months, my druggist advised me to try CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS. He said they are good for a hundred different ailments, if people only knew the value of them. I can safely say that since I am taking them, and only one each night, I feel like myself again and can eat most anything."

CONCERT HELD AT ST. GEORGE'S

Prizes Presented to Many Pupils for Regular Attendance.

SOCIAL EVENING

The scholars and teachers of St. George 's Sunday School, together with a few parents and friends, held a very enjoyable social on Monday night in the church basement. The room presented a pleasing appearance in keeping with the day of St. Valentine. During the course of the evening All Saints' Sunday School orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Goodley, rendered several musical numbers. Miss Edith Tucker delighted the audience with two songs, and Mr. J. Johns caused roars of laughter with his humorous recitations and stories. Nellie Butler, Marjory McCormick and Chrissie Milby, scholars, rendered pianoforte solos. Games and a contest for missing titles of songs in a "Musical Romance" provided further entertainment.

The ever-popular item of refreshments was certainly not the least, if the last, appreciated of the items of the evening.

The social was made the occasion for presenting to the successful scholars their prizes for attendance and home lesson work for the year 1926. Prize winners:

Boys—Frank Ferguson, Alfred Johnson, Stanley McCormick, Bernard King, Douglas White, Harold LaRoche, Stanley McBride, Fred. Field, Arthur Sowden, Thomas Monk, Reggie Stephenson, Ernest Gibson, Kenneth Gibson, Clinton Warren, Fred. Warren, Allan Warren, Harold Sowden, George Houghton, Clarence Hopkins, Jack Cuff.

The Rev. J. L. Hughes expressed his appreciation of the kindness of Mrs. Goodley and members of the orchestra, Miss E. Tucker and Mr. Johns in contributing to the happiness of the evening. He also referred to the splendid help of the teachers who had so successfully made all the arrangements for the social. The thanks of the gathering was accorded to all the above mentioned in the usual hearty manner.

DUMMER COUNCIL WANTS HIGHWAY

Petitions Province to Build Belleville Road East From Peterborough.

On motion by Councillors Tedford and Baptie, the following accounts were ordered paid:

J. G. Keefer & Son, $54.70; Municipal World, $23.61; F. G. Morrow, $3.26; J. A. Sargent, $5; Alex. Rose, $13; Municipal and Railway Board, $5; William Jackson, $1.50; John Payne, $30.

On motion of Councillors Darling and Drain, pay lists one and two for road expenditure were approved and signed by the Reeve.

On motion by Councillors Drain and Baptie, the Collector was instructed to collect all unpaid taxes and make his returns to the Treasurer by March 10.

On motion by Councillors Drain and Tedford, tenders for an engine and an engineer to operate the road machinery for the coming season will be received by the Council on or before March 15, such tenders to be considered at the next meeting.

On motion by Councillors Darling and Drain, the Reeve will discuss with the Road Superintendent the matter of his attendance at the good roads convention.

Owing to complaints being made that the cook-stove in the hall's kitchen is of no use, the Council instructed the Reeve to procure a new one.

On motion by Councillors Baptie and Darling, a petition of this Council will be forwarded to the Provincial Government in respect to the new Provincial highway, asking that this road be constructed on the boundary east from the city of Peterborough.

Bylaw No. 961 making provision for the expenditure of $5,000 on the township roads for the current year, and bylaw No. 962 authorizing the Reeve and Treasurer to borrow on the credit of the municipal corporation from the Warsaw branch of the Royal Bank the necessary sums of money to meet the current expenditure, till such time as the taxes are levied and collected, were passed.

A Smart Two-piece Suit

This attractive two-piece suit for the young boy will be found very simple to fashion yet a decidedly smart style. The tunic is quite plain and has a V-neck opening over a shield. Contrasting material is effectively used to make the shaped collar, patch-pocket, and cuffs finishing the long sleeves. The side-closing trousers are of the same material as the tunic. NO. 1499 is in sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. Size 4 years requires 1⅞ yards 36-inch material, or 1¼ yards 54-inch, and ¼ yard 36-inch contrasting. Price 20 cents the pattern.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Fewer Suicide Notes If More Musical Notes

To a group of women musicians who greeted her upon her arrival in Chicago Tuesday, she said:

"It would better if more young people love music as you do. There would not be so many suicides."

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

Faith's hands clung tremblingly to Bob's shoulders as he answered the telephone.

"Hathaway speaking. Good morning, chief. She's surrendered at Minturn? Will they be here in time for the inquest? That's good. See that the papers understand that she voluntarily gave herself up, won't you, Morehouse? Thanks."

"Oh, Bob," Faith flung her arms about him as he turned. "Poor little frightened Cherry! How dreadful she must be feeling now!"

"Morehouse says the sheriff of Minturn county has just called him up. Said Cherry and Wiley drove up to his office, Cherry clutching a morning paper in her hands. Said she declared her innocence, her complete ignorance until that minute of Uncle Ralph's death, and begged to be allowed to come straight to town to give herself up for questioning. It looks good for her, honey."

Before Faith could answer, the front door bell rang. It was the advance guard of the afternoon papers to get a new angle on the case. One of the reporters was a nervous, eager-eyed, thin young girl, who insisted upon seeing Cherry's room, and noting down details of the furnishings of the whole house.

"Our paper's running columns of them this afternoon," she told Faith. Of course we're playing up her romance with Mr. Wiley. Most of the letters were from him, and from a Mr. Ettleson, you know."

Albert Ettleson! Faith bit her lip to keep from screaming out the horror that that name conjured up. That foolish indiscretion of Cherry's would now be brought against her, used to blacken her character in the eyes of the public.

"I can't understand," she gasped, "why Chief Morehouse permitted the papers to use those letters. They are not evidence. They have no bearing on the—death of Mr. Cluny."

"The papers are lucky that they aren't real evidence; otherwise the chief would have had to guard them for the grand jury," Miss Nichols, the reporter, retorted. Then, at sight of Faith's tortured eyes, she put her arm around Cherry's sister and spoke soothingly. "Believe me, I'm sorry for you, Miss Lane. Don't blame the papers, though. The real truth can't hurt Cherry, and the public must have the news."

"I suppose so," Faith said dully, hopelessly, as the two girls went back into the living room to join Bob and the men reporters.

"I've been telling the boys, dear, what I told Morehouse last night—that we are engaged to be married," Bob took her hand.

Faith and Bob consented to be photographed and the dull boom of the flashlight had hardly died away when Mrs. Lane, her kimono wrapped about her huge body, came waddling hurriedly into the room.

"What do all these people want, Faith? Where's Cherry? Dr. Atkins said she'd be home today. Where's Cherry?" her voice rose to a scream, as the reporters stared at her blankly.

"Good Lord! The old dame doesn't know a thing about it," one reporter breathed audibly to another.

Faith turned to them imploringly. "Please, won't you all go now? My mother isn't well—she has heart attacks. Please! Mr. Hathaway and I will see you all again at the—later, at Mr. Cluny's," she amended, growing even paler at the narrowness of her escape from using the dread word "inquest."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

THURSDAY FEBRUARY 17 1927.

Until late in the evening this is an unfavorable day, according to astrology. Again caution in business and pleasure should rule.

Discontent and unrest may be apparent while this rule prevails, for it is supposed to encourage double-dealing and deceit.

There is a sign read as indicating a tendency on the part of men as well as women to be indirect in their dealings with one another and exceedingly unreliable.

Friends may be tempted to betray one another while the baleful influences of today's malefic aspects have power.

Contention between labor and capital is foreshadowed and there may be a strike of some sort in which mines are involved.

Saturn frowns on landholders todya, and it is well to defer important real estate transactions.

Age may suffer, under this rule from lack of attention from the young, who will incline toward selfishness.

All the aspects appear to favor the care of children and the progress of young folk.

Merchants may have rather dull trade under this rule, but they have the forecast of improved trade.

Competition between Great Britain and the United States for East Indian trade is foretold by a London astrologer.

The states of Oregon and Washington probably will be affected by this configuration, for the signs indicate unusual storms all through the coming spring.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of money which will come unexpectedly.

Children born on this day may be imbued with big ideas and able to realize them. Many financiers are born under this sign.

BEGONE, POISON IVY

CHICAGO, Dec. 16.—An iron compound known as ferric chloride is more than a match for poison ivy, according to Dr. James B. McNair, whose booklet has just been issued by the Field Museum of Natural History. It promises a sure check to the spread of the poisoning, and helps in effecting a quick cure.

How Women

Now keep fresh, charming under hygienic handicap—new way provides true security—discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THE uncertainty and insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended. Scientific protection now supplants it.

Wear sheer gowns, keep up with social and business requirements, at all times . . . without handicap.

"KOTEX" is a new and remarkable way . . . five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Absorbs and deodorizes at the same time. Thus ending all fear of offending.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." There's only one . . . only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex. Women ask for it without hesitancy.

Comes 12 in a package. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk. Try Kotex.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Deep scallops of black velvet give an unusual hem line to this frock of pink velvet dotted with black. The black velvet is also used to trim the bodice and to form the bow which, following the latest fashion, is placed directly in the front of the frock.

Some of the new frocks carry the burden of their trimming about the hem. This trick of adding some sort of trimming to the hem is especially effective in dance frocks as the slight weight of the trimming tends to give the skirt an attractive "swing" when the wearer dances.

Frocks of the new very light-weight materials if made with very short skirts need some sort of weight around the hem in order to keep them from floating up in a really alarming manner. Sometimes this weight is achieved simply by an edge of beads or sequins. A very attractive hem trimming for the chiffon dance frock is achieved by an application of artificial flowers all around the hem. Sometimes fairly large roses are chosen, but a newer trick is to use rather small flowers like violets or forget-me-nots. The girl who makes her frocks at home may buy a few bunches of flowers of this sort and sew them carefully around the hem of a chiffon or georgette frock. Sometimes lovely rose-like blossoms may be made by cutting out petals from the georgette or chiffon and sewing them together. If you like you may sew two or three crystal or pearl beads in the heart of each rose.

Children's frocks and coats are frequently finished with ornamental hems of some sort. A little coat may be finished with a two- or three-inch side pleating of the material which is sewed in at the hem and then turned up over the hem and stitched along the top a half-inch from the edge of the pleating to form a little fluting.

Scallops of contrasting material are used on many frocks and the sketch shows one of pink chiffon velvet dotted with black, with a deeply scalloped hem of black velvet.

Ribbon is used to trim some of the light spring frocks. A ruching of rather narrow picot-edged ribbon may be used about the hem to excellent advantage. Sometimes this is applied in the form of a scroll all around the lower edge of the skirt.

CARE OF RUGS

You can keep the corners of rugs from curling up if you sew some stiff material like buckram or haircloth on the underside of the corners. You can also sew on the small weights that are used by tailors and dressmakers to make material fall straight.

The Oldest Cocoa and Chocolate House in the World

St. John's Choir Concert.

(By Jeanette).

There was a splendid attendance in St. John's Parish Hall last evening for the annual choir concert, and an excellent programme was presented in choral numbers, selections rendered by sextettes and octettes and violin solos played by Miss Catherine Taylor.

Under the direction of the organist and choirmaster, F. G. Mann, A. Mus., the choir gave an excellent account of itself. A very high degree of proficiency in its training by Mr. Mann was manifested in every ensemble selection, the "a capella" or unaccompanied numbers, being particularly well done, with a crispness and precision of attack and release, a clear enunciation and strong volume of tone, that made the selections very pleasing.

The choral programme opened with "Old King Cole," a fetching thing in humorous mood, with Bob Moore's clear tenor in solo work. An unaccompanied number, "Come Again, Sweet Days," was well done, and "The Phantom Ship" was a descriptive selection, especially well rendered. An explanation of the tenure of this composition, also of another descriptive number, "The Lifeboat," was given by Mr. Mann, the latter rendition demonstrating the full force of the bass section, in its vigorous stanzas. Concluding numbers by the choir were "Now is the Month of Maying" and "Hail, Smiling Morn," in bright mood.

The choir boys sang the opening number on the programme, "Who Killed Cock Robin?" and joined with the men later in the breezy rendering of "O, Who will o'er the Downs?"

A sextette of ladies' voices gave a descriptive number, "The Song of the Bells," and an octette of male voices joined in the robust, attractive music of "The Old Brigade," and an unaccompanied rendition of an effective, jovial little piece, "Hob a Derry Dahno." An octette of mixed voice sang "Where are you Going to?" and a Brahms "Lullaby," the latter "a capella."

Miss Catherine Taylor, a promising youthful violiniste of the city, was accorded hearty and renewed applause for her skilful violin playing. Possessed of a fine technical proficiency, a graceful, free manner of bowing and expert fingering, she pleased her hearers immensely with her rendition of Viotti's "Concerto Number 22," designed to demonstrate the difficulties of the instrument. She also played a "Mazurka Fantastique" and Borowski's "Adoration." Miss Taylor was presented with a pretty bouquet of flowers.

During the intermission Rev. Dr. Blagrave extended thanks to all who had taken part in the programme, to Miss Taylor, to the Heintzman Company, and to the choir and choirmaster, expressing his appreciation of the faithful service rendered the church by the choir and their leader.

To the accompanist, Mrs. G. G. Evans, much credit is due for her painstaking pianoforte work through out.

Members of the choir are as follows:

Treble—M. Comstock, E. Davis, R. Darcy, L. Dyer, F. Ford, W. Howell, D. McPherson, N. Stanger, A. Pink, R. Pitchford, W. Wheeler.

Alto—D. Blagrave, W. Coleman.

Soprano—Mesdames A. L. Amys, H. Burrows, A. Gibson, A. J. Hayter, W. S. McWilliams, B. Willis, The Misses E. Bennett, H. Caddy, G. Caddy, A. Grimm, K. Edgar, M. Evans, G. Hill, M. Long, B. Massey-Cooke, R. Quartermaine.

Contralto — Mesdames D. J. Eldred, G. A. Wesley. The Misses H. Evans, F. Hutchinson, W. Melton, A. Price, F. Roberts.

Tenor — Messrs. C. H. Crowe, W. Gray, G. Gore, A. J. Hayter, W. Lloyd, R. Moore, H. W. Morphet.

Bass—Messrs. J. Emmett, H. Flowers, P. F. Hall, W. H. Lacey, P. Manning, E. Massey-Cooke, D. G. Melton, B. Pitchford and H. Spencer.

FOR CLEANING

You can make an effective scouring pad by making a strong suds of castile soap and mixing with enough Fullers' earth to make a fairly stiff paste. Work this into balls of convenient size and let them dry. They may be used on garments or in cleaning spots from carpets.

CHILDREN'S AID MEETING HELD

SOCIETY GETS $3,000.

The regular monthly meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held yesterday afternoon in the City Council Chamber, the president Rev. Dr. Blagrave, in the chair, and the following members present: Mesdames Welsh, Newhall, Wiggins, Fanning, Devey, Knox, Darcy, and Gibbs, Messrs. J. Edgar, J. Abraham, F. H. Dobbin, Rev. P. Costello, Mayor Holloway and Alderman Stocker.

The report of the purchasing committee was read by Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, and the agent's report given by Mr. Edgar, recording 4 applications for children during the month, 2 children brought to the Shelter (not wards), 47 children involved, 4 made wards and 1 sent to the Industrial School. Complaints numbering 11 were received and 11 investigations were made. Police court attendance, 4; wards placed out, 2; wards visited, 1.

Mr. Edgar informed the society of a bequest in the will of the late Mrs. Mary Jane Braden, by which legatees profiting in the residue of the estate will be the United Church of Canada, getting one half of such residue, and the Protestant Home and the Children's Aid Society, getting one quarter each. To wind up the estate, it is necessary to make some arrangement for property at 223 London street, and the Board was asked to pass a resolution with regard to accepting a proposition of $2500 for this house. The resolution was passed at yesterday's meeting, authorizing acceptance of the preferred price. The society will benefit to the extent of about $3,000 as residuary legatee.

The matron's report, also given by Mr. Edgar, showed 19 children in the shelter, with 3 brought in and 2 sent out. The Shelter will remain under quarantine for chickenpox for about two weeks longer.

The Board spent some time in considering applications for the position of caretaker and matron, five such applications having been received in answer to an advertisement in The Examiner. As the majority of the applications, one of which was from Vancouver Island, British Columbia, one from Frankford and three from the city, asked a joint salary of $1,300, the amount which is being paid by the Board now after the matron and caretaker have had some years' experience in the work, it was felt advisable to advertise once more for further tenders. A committee was appointed to consider the applications, composed of Messrs. W. Stocker (convenor), F. H. Dobbin, Mesdames Gibbs, Fanning, Welsh.

A suggestion made by Alderman Stocker, favoring the employment of two women to share the work, with a man as a part time helper, was given consideration, and voted down later, the majority of the members favoring the employment of a man and wife.

A vote of thanks was passed to the City Council and the City Trust, who were instrumental in the securing and the fitting up of the new office for the agent, and a motion was passed, fixing office hours from 9 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1.30 to 5 p.m. During the absence of the agent on business, the office will be locked and a sign placed on the door.

The donation of a neatly made pair of boys' trousers and mittens was received yesterday from "A Silent Worker."

The following accounts were passed and ordered to be paid: Examiner Printing Co. $3.45, C. E. Smith $4.45, E. F. Mason $18.24, Peterboro Milk Products $9.63 and $12.50, Grafton and Co. $10.00, G. H. Hutchinson $3.00, Gilgour and Son $8.17, R. Denne $2.75, G. J. Jopling $8.17, Telephones $3.99 and $4.78, R. J. Soden, $3.85, Giles' store 58 cents, M. T. Butcher $6.00; total $103.67.

MASSEY-HARRIS DIRECTORS

The Massey-Harris Company, Limited, has been the football of rival United States and Canadian interests who are seeking to capture control of the big industry, but according to latest advices Canadian stock holdings will remain supreme. Left to right are: T. A. Russell, Geo. Valentine, Hon. Vincent Massey, E. R. Wood, C. S. Blackwell, and at bottom C. L. Wisner, left, and Geo. McLaughlin, all directors, with the exception of Mr. Massey, who holds considerable of the stock in trust.

BANKER FACES FRAUD CHARGE

Manager at Arnprior Alleged To Have Forged Promissory Notes.

BAIL ALLOWED.

OTTAWA, Feb. 16. — Charged with forgery on four counts, E. D. Keaney, Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada branch at Arnprior, is out on bail of $2,000, awaiting preliminary hearing of the charges, which have been set for February 22.

Keaney, who prior to taking over his present position a few years ago was connected with the Home Bank in Arnprior, is one of the best known men in business and social circles in the Upper Ottawa Valley, and keen interest has been aroused in the case, not only in Arnprior, but throughout Eastern and Northern Ontario.

The charges were laid by J. G. Forgie of Pembroke, solicitor for the Royal Bank of Canada, after consultation with Crown Attorney Burritt, also of Pembroke. Arraigned before Magistrate David Craig, a remand was asked for and granted until Feb. 15, but by agreement between the Crown Attorney and Mr. Mulvihill, solicitor for Mr. Keaney, the case was further enlarged until Feb. 22.

It is alleged that Mr. Keaney forged four promisory notes in amount ranging from $100 to $200 and discounted them in the branch of which he was the Manager.

CROSS SERVICE.

Omemee Church Has Unique Service—Special Music.

OMEMEE, Feb. 16.—On Sunday evening a cross service was held in the United Church. A large cross had been erected on the platform, on the top of which rested a golden crown, and at its base a basket of beautiful crimson roses reposed. As previously announced, the theme of the service centred around the cross. "Down at the Cross, where my Saviour died," was used as the doxology. Other appropriate musical numbers included an anthem, "Am I a Soldier of the Cross?" with bass solo by Mr. C. R. Cornell and duet by Mrs. Cornell and Mrs. Mahood. Two beautiful old hymns, "When I survey the Wondrous Cross" and "I am Coming to the Cross." With the exception of a light at the foot of the cross, the auditorium was made dark and the service continued with the choir rendering a pretty carol, "The Old Rugged Cross." A short address then followed by the pastor, Rev. E. W. Rowland, who took his text from St. Luke ix., 23: "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me."

A male quartette, entitled "The Old Wayside Cross," was then rendered by Messrs. J. L. Brooks, F. Lowe, C. R. Cornell and E. W. Rowland, followed by a duet, entitled "Just Outside the Door," by the Harrison brothers of Bethel. The church was again illuminated and the service brought to a close by the singing of the old familiar hymn, "There is a green hill far away."

WANTS FRENCH NORMAL

Normal schools for teachers who intend to serve in the French-English schools of Ontario are sought by Aurelien Belanger, Liberal member for Russell, as intimated in the course of his first speech in the Ontario Legislature last week.

IN OTHER CITIES

A BIRDSEYE VIEW OF ACTIVITIES IN MANY MUNICIPALITIES

SAULT IN DIFFICULTIES

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 16.—An old sore, thought to have permanent healed long ago, was again opened up at the City Council meeting upon the receipt of a bill for $4,328.22 from the Treasury Department of the Provincial Government, said to be the amount owing by the city for fines collected by the Police Department up to June 28, 1922. The amount of the bill one time was around $9,000, but a Government representative inspected local police records, and the amount was pared to $4,382.22.

FOR NEW BRIDGE

PRESCOTT, Feb. 16.—W. Gilbert Freeman, promoter of the project to build an international bridge across the St. Lawrence near Fisher's Landing, has announced the completion of arrangements for financing the proposal. The bill authorizing a United States charter has been introduced in the House of Representatives, Mr. Freeman says, and an application for incorporation will also be made to the Parliament of Canada.

OFFICE AT KINGSTON

KINGSTON, Feb. 16. — Federal Department of Agriculture has opened an office in Kingston, with E. F. Montgomery of the Poultry Division and Eric Macgregor of the Sheep and Swine Division in charge. Their district will extend from Lansdowne and Perth on the east to Port Hope and Peterborough on the west.

WILL EXTEND PARK

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 16. — The Queen Victoria Park Commission has purchased 22 acres of land from the J. D. Larkin estate on the south side of Queenston Heights for extension purposes. Steady progress is being made on the Queenston-Niagara road, which is expected to be ready this season.

WILL DIVIDE PRICE

KINGSTON, Feb. 16.—At the meeting of the Kingston Health Association yesterday afternoon it was decided to divide the $150,000 to be received from the Ontario Government for the sale of Mowat Sanitarium, by giving $100,000 to the General Hospital and $50,000 to the Hotel Dieu Hospital. At the same time the Kingston Health Association decided to carry on as an association and continue their work for tuberculosis.

MISSIONARIES AT BETHANY MEETING

Convention is Proceeding in Tabernacle This Week.

The missionary convention at Bethany Tabernacle was opened with a splendid gathering last evening. The orchestra greatly assisted in the music of the service. Mr. W. Moon led the congregation in the singing. The pastor, Rev. R. K. Mills, offered prayer after the singing and Mr. L. Watson, Supt. of the Alliance work in Ontario, who will direct the convention took charge.

Rev. Ray A. Clark, missionary to the Indians of the Amazon Valley, South America, was the first speaker. Mr. Clark gave an introductory address, explaining the difference between the Mountain Indians and the Forest Indians of South America. Mr. Clark has travelled and labored in both these classes of Indians numbering into the millions, and has a full knowledge of their customs.

Mr. Clark stated that two weeks from New York he has found savage Indians using bow and arrow, with painted faces, and wearing feathers, and 50 miles from the place where he heard the hum of the motor car, and had electric lights in his hotel room, there were cannibal Indians eating human flesh.

The Mountain Indians—the remnant of the great Inca Empire, inhabiting the foothills of the Andes in Peru, Bolivia, Ecquador, and Southern Colombo, that was conquered by the Spanish four hundred years ago, will be the subject of Mr. Clark's address in the afternoon meeting. And the Forest Indians comprising the 400 savage tribes of the jungles of the Amazon, some very hostile, and some very friendly, but all pagan, will be the subject of this evening's address.

Mr. Clark has a large number of new lantern slides that will be shown on every evening this week.

Rev. D. N. Cameron of Toronto, brought an inspiring message from the 14th chapter of Matthew.

The meetings will continue the entire week. Services at 3 o'clock and at 8 o'clock. There will be a half hour meeting for prayer at 7.30, p.m., and a 10 o'clock prayer meeting each morning.

Dr. Ralph Hooper of Toronto, will be one of the speakers on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

All are urged to attend these meetings.

CORN EAR WORM CAUSES ALARM

Okanagan Valley Farmers Fear Corn Borer Has Arrived.

FRIGHT DISPELLED.

VERNON, B. C., Feb. 16 (By Canadian Press).—Considerable alarm was felt recently in the Okanagan valley by the discovery of some corn cobs that had suffered damage by an insect pest, and fears were entertained that the European corn borer, which has caused such havoc in Ontario, had gained an entrance into British Columbia.

Some of the damaged cobs were sent to Max H. Ruhmann, provincial entomologist, and after an examination he was able to dispel these fears with the announcement that the damage was done, not by the corn borer, but by the corn ear worm. This pest has been in evidence in the Okanagan district for several years, but has never done any appreciable harm. It has attacked tomatoes, tobacco, beans, vetches and alfalfa, but corn in the milk is its favorite food.

PENNY BOOK BRINGS $3,200

ONLY 250 COPIES.

NEW YORK, Feb. 16. — A book which once sold for one English penny, brought $3200 at auction yesterday at the American Art Galleries at the sale of the library of Major W. Van R. Whitall, Pelham New York. The three sessions of the sale to date have brought a total of $70,051.

The volume was a first edition of Edward Fitzgerald's "Rubaiyat of Omar Khayyam," published in London in 1889. The first edition of this poem has now become one of the rarest works of modern literature. Of the first edition only 250 copies were printed. All the publishers could get for them was one penny until Swinburne and other admirers of the poem came to its rescue. Since then it has passed through many editions. Yesterday's buyer was J. F. Drake.

NORTH MONAGHAN COUNCIL MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the North Monaghan township council was held at the Court House on Monday, February 14. All the members were present with Reeve Lillico in the chair.

WADDELL CUP TO STAY HERE

Twelve Peterborough Rinks Defeat as Many Visitors To-day.

PLAY-OFF LATER.

The Waddell Cup will remain in the city, as twelve Peterborough rinks defeated twelve rinks of the visitors by 26 points this morning. The winner of this trophy will be decided after the bonspiel is over.

The draw was made at 8.30 and playing started immediately afterwards. The first results gave the visitors a slight lead, but when J. Bacon came through with a margin of 19 points over R. McRae of Beaverton, the round was considered won by Peterborough. There was a stiff battle between Ira D. Moore and Dr. Harvie of Orillia with the doctor leading up until the last two ends. There were two tie games, and three won by one point.

MUSKRAT FARMERS MAKE WAR ON OWLS

One Man Kills 155 at Swan Lake—Eats Rats.

QUESNEL, B. C., Feb. Feb. 16 (By Canadian Press).—A total of 155 horned owls have been killed by Gordon Farwell, of the Musquash muskrat farms at Swan lake, near here, during the past six months. The last three owls caught were of the Arctic variety, being almost pure white.

It has always been a more or less contentious question as to whether or not horned owls preyed on muskrats. But now, so far as the Musquash people are concerned, the question has been definitely settled, and they will continue to make war upon owls and other predatory animals.

Examination of the captured owls showed that the insides of many were filled with the carcasses of muskrats—bones, hide, skull and all.

The owls are caught with a steel trap, unbaited, set on the top of a post imbedded on the lake shore, or in a meadow.

Some years ago the provincial government placed a bounty on horned owls, but the sacks full of horns and claws which soon began to deluge the government offices, threatened to bankrupt the province and the bounty was taken off.

OLD WATER CLOCK GIVEN TO MUSEUM

Instrument, Black With Age, Resembles Modern Clock.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Feb. 16 (By Canadian Press).—A water clock two hundred years old, a reminder of the age when sundials and hour-glasses provided the most common means of telling the time, has been presented to the Vancouver Museum. It looks like an ordinary clock until its door is opened for an investigation of the works. The case is of age-blackened oak. The face is marked for twenty-four hours and is wrought in brass.

The motto: "Tyme weares away our days; use well these hours," is rudely engraved on a brass plate, with the figure of Time as a winged old man with a scythe, and on his brow is a solitary forelock. On the door of the clock is a figure in brass wearing a royal crown. At the bottom of the clock is a brass tank which was designed to hold the water which dripped from within. A tall brass tube takes the place of the pendulum, and from here the water dripped away; and as it dripped it drew down a float which controlled the hands, and so time was marked.

NEGRO TO HANG FOR AN ATTACK ON AGED WOMAN

First Sentence Of Its Kind Ever Passed in Ontario.

CALLED OUTLAW.

Judge Wonder That People Did Not Burn the Offender.

CHATHAM, Ont., Feb. 16. Canadian Press. — Convicted of an atrocious attack on Mrs. S. A. McColl, aged 81, William McCatherine, a negro, was to-day sentenced to death by Mr. Justice Fisher the execution being set for May 27th.

The jury deliberated for only 15 minutes before bringing in the verdict of guilty.

Previously His Lordship in summing up, had described the negro as a "libertine and an outlaw, who in the dead of night and in full possession of his faculties committed this crime against an unprotected woman."

After reviewing the details of the attack, Mr. Justice Fisher said to McCatherine: "It speaks volumes for the law abiding citizens of Chatham that you were not torn from the strong arm of the law and burned at the stake."

The attack on the aged woman was perpetrated last October.

After pointing out that the death penalty can be exacted for the crime Mr. Justice Fisher again addressed the prisoner: "What does the act mean if it does not mean that it should be enforced? I have never heard of a more extreme case than the one that you have been found guilty of. I cannot imagine one."

Later he said: "I fully appreciate the severity of the sentence I am about to pass, and that I will be criticized for it. But my only concern is fearless and impartial discharge of my duty as I see it, and coupled with that is the hope that in future the commission of this kind of crime on children, girls and women will decrease."

Mr. Justice Fisher then sentenced McCatherine to be hanged on May 27th.

Sets Precedent.

The sentence of death passed on McCatherine sets a precedent in Ontario, officials of the Attorney-General's Department at Toronto stated to-day. It is possible that at some time in the past a man has been hanged at some point in the Dominion for such a crime but there is no record of any execution in this province.

Judge Praised.

TORONTO, Feb. 16. Canadian Press. — The Attorney General's Department is extremely anxious that thugs be discouraged from attacking and assaulting women and children.

"I am very glad to see that the courts realize the seriousness of such offences," states Attorney General Price, in commenting on the fact that Mr. Justice Fisher had sentenced William McCatherine to death.

LOCAL BONSPIEL GREATEST IN PROVINCE

'IF YOU KNOW ANYONE WHO CURLS YOU'LL FIND HIM AT THE 'SPIEL' SAYS AN APPRECIATIVE VISITOR

First Rounds in Two Trophies Are Completed—Others Start.

FINISH FRIDAY.

Two Hundred and Forty-Six Men Are Entered in Four Competitions.

The greatest Bonspiel in the history of the city, and the largest to date in the Province of Ontario, is the proud record of the Peterboro Curling Club, whose annual open Bonspiel commenced under most auspicious circumstances yesterday morning. A total of sixty-six rinks are entered in the various competitions, comprising entries from all over the district, some towns sending several rinks to uphold their name. It is expected that the 'Spiel will be wound up about Friday.

Play continued during the day and at two o'clock this morning several battles were in full progress with the personnel of the rinks just as enthusiastic as they were at the commencement.

As one prominent curler told The Examiner, "one thing about this Bonspiel—if you know anyone who curls you're sure to meet him here." This was evident judging by the number of fellows who were to be found in various parts of the rink indulging in friendly "kidding" and hearty handshakes as they greeted friends whom they had not seen for some time.

The veteran, Dr. J. N. Harvie, who had the misfortune to dislocate his shoulder on Monday night, was still going strong last night, in spite of his severe handicap. Indeed so strong was the rink under his charge that they trimmed R. Waddell's rink of Peterboro by a score of 20-0. Many favorable comments were heard from the large crowd of spectators as they witnessed the Doctor, with one arm held across his chest, and utterly useless to him, bore in several stones that wrecked the hopes of the Peterboro rink time after time.

On the ice itself, the comment of the various curlers was at times caustic, and to the average outsider sounded like a new sort of language as they approached the bottom. G. B. Stevenson of Hastings in a stentorian voice could be heard all over the ice with a "Go on-Go on-Go on hard! a bullet, Jim, a bullet dead on here," as he indicated the play he wanted. So interested in the game, was he that he failed to notice several people who spoke to him at various intervals during its progress.

A skip and a lead who several times went into conference as to the proper shot to suit the occasion caused a great deal of glee as the skip, while asking for the lead's suggestions, would invariably settle on the one he mentioned first. It happened so often that the lead was heard to exclaim "Oh, what's the use—he'll pick three or four anyway in case he misses the one he's after." In a moment of indiscretion a member of a Peterboro rink made a comment on a shot made by another member, and received the reply short and snappy: "It's what you called for." Another Peterboro man came off the ice after a 20-0 defeat exclaiming: "That's the first game in my life I've ever got skunked in." He realized it too when he got among the crowd, and had to submit to the good-natured railery that met him on all sides.

The predominant note of the day's proceedings was the evident comradeship that existed among competitors, indicating that the "roaring game" attracts in its wake the best of good fellows.

The draw for the Waddell trophy competition was made by W. De Laney of Cobourg, and play started this morning.

CORBA KILLED IN DUEL WITH SNAKE

LONDON, Feb. 16.—The beautiful but dangerous ringhal of South Africa is the lone occupant of its cage now. The other day it engaged in a duel to the death with the famous white cobra of the London zoo, and killed its cage-fellow. The ringhals are cousins of the cobras and have a hasty temper. They can spit poison eight feet.

JUNIORS TO MEET GROVE ON FRIDAY

Win for Grove Will Result in Tie in Lakefield League.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 16.—On Friday night the Juniors and the Grove meet for the last game of the District League schedule. A win for the juniors means that the Casement Cup goes to them, and a win for the Grove means a triangle with the Colts, Grove and Juniors in the running.

The local junior hockey team played the return game with Bobcaygeon in the latter town on Wednesday night. They are enthusiastic over their treatment, which was hospitable to a great degree.

LAKEFIELD JUNIORS DEFEAT PETERBORO

Fast Game Played in Lakefield Rink Ends With 4-2 Score.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 16. — The Lakefield Juniors defeated the Sea Hawks of Peterborough in a fast clean game of hockey here last night. Both teams were equally matched and checked persistently, making the game a good one for the spectators. Holland of Peterborough scored the two goals obtained by his team. Stabler scored twice and Sabitino and Lawless obtained one apiece for Lakefield.

The line-up:

Lakefield—Junkin, Sherin, Lawless, Sabitino, Ridpath, Stabler, Northey, McFadden.

Sea Hawks—Mayette, Holland, Callidine, Maudsley, Hewitt, White, Mann, Lytle.

Referee—M. McDougall.

Well-Informed Catholics in Montreal believe that having reached this stage, the beatification of Marie-Marguerite is a practical certainty.

TWO PLAYERS LEAD IN N.H.L.

Race For Scoring Honors Tightens Up Considerably Over Week.

LONG LIST.

MONTREAL, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press)—The race for scoring honors in the National Hockey League tightened up considerably last week, according to the scoring and penalty statistics up to and including games of February 13, issued yesterday by President Frank Calder.

Billy Burch and Frank Frederickson, centre players of the New York Americans, and the Boston Bruins, respectively, have jumped ahead of Babe Dye, Chicago right wing. Burch and Frederickson head their respective divisions with twenty-six points each. Dye, who has been out of the game for some time owing to illness, and Captain Dick Irvin, of the Black Hawks, are also tied with twenty five points. Bill Cook, of the New York Rangers, follows with twenty one points. McKay, of Chicago, comes sixth with nineteen points.

Other high scorers were:

Carson, St. Patrick's	18
Oliver, Boston	17
Shore, Boston	17
Fraser, Chicago	15
Boucher, Rangers	15
Stewart, Montreal	15

Nels Stewart, of the Montreal Maroons, has spent the greatest time on the penalty bench, with a total of 103 minutes. George Boucher, of Ottawa, comes next with 99 minutes.

FLYER PREPARES FOR CRUCIAL LAP

Expects To Cover the Distance, 1,875 Miles, in 18 Hours.

ROME, Feb. 16. — (Canadian Press.)—Commander Francesco de Pinedo, noted Italian long distance flier, was taking a well earned rest at Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, last night, preparatory to hopping off at 8 o'clock to-night for Port Natal, Brazil, on the crucial leap of his four continent flight of which he has completed the first three hops with clock-like regularity.

The next lap, which admittedly is the most difficult of the entire flight, measures 3,000 kilometres (1,875 miles), which Commander de Pinedo hopes to cover in about 18 hours.

Immediately after his arrival at Bolama at 8.15 this morning after a moonlight 1,000 mile jump from Villa Cisneros, Rio de Oro, at an average speed of 104 miles an hour, Commander de Pinedo and his aides went to bed, finding themselves utterly exhausted. The two aides were Captain Carlo del Prete and Mechanic Vitale Zacchetti.

Officials here expect that the fliers will do nothing but sleep to replenish their energy for the difficult task ahead of them until tomorrow when they will give the final touches of preparation to their plane, the "Santa Maria," which is moored in the harbor at Bolama.

WILL ON EGG.

LONDON, Feb. 16.—A will written on an eggshell was submitted recently in an English probate court. The egg had been blown and the will was written on the empty shell with an indelible pencil. It was the testament of a Manchester ship canal pilot.

DELANEY PLANS FOR BIG FIGHT

Bridgeport Has Every Confidence Native Son Will Win Bout.

BIR SEAT SALE.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Feb. 16 (United Press). — All steamed up about its foremost citizen, Ovila Chapdelaine, better known as Jack Delaney, Bridgeport yesterday presented the atmosphere of New Haven on the eve of a Big Three football game.

No one in Bridgeport doubts that Delaney will knock out the 200-pound Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, in their fight in New York Friday night and take the big step towards a match with Gene Tunney for the world championship.

But only 1,500 of the citizenry are sure that they will be able to see the fight because 1,500 tickets were all that the popular world's light-heavyweight champion could pry away from the box office of Tex Rickard.

"I think Bridgeport would have taken half the house if we could have secured the tickets," Pete Reilly, Delaney's manager, said. "Now we are caught in the middle and we'll have to take a rap from those who will not be able to see the show.

The atmosphere of confidence which saturates the town hangs over the apartment where Delaney is living with his family and the dingy little gymnasium where he is doing his preparatory work.

Carry Fight

"Plans? I haven't any definite plans. I'm going in to fight to convince those who say that I won't carry a fight that they are wrong. All the plans in the world can be shattered by one jolt on the chin."

Delaney looks to be in splendid condition. He may be a little fine. In fact, his trainers have ordered him to reduce work so that he will have some weight to work on in the last days of training.

He is possessed of confidence bordering on the "destiny stuff" that influenced Tunney before he beat Dempsey and after watching him and listening to him it is hard to picture him as anything but a winner.

SPENCER WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Canadian Cyclist Wins European Title on Canadian Wheel.

Word has just been received from Willie Spencer, champion bicycle rider and former Toronto boy, that he won the European winter bicycle championship at Paris, on January 2, 1927, on a C.C.M. bicycle.

Willie Spencer is present holder of the American professional championship, winning the title last fall in one of the most thrilling bicycle races ever contested.

Spencer learned the racing game in Toronto and has been a brilliant consistent winner and a real booster for the Canadian-made C.C.M. Track Flyer he uses all the time.

CURLING NEWS

AT LAKEFIELD.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 16—The President-Vice President games are being played on Saturday and Monday nights, the losers pay for the annual club supper.

The rinks are lined up as follows:

President	Vice President
C. S. Tanner	D. H. Charlton
James Millar	G. A. Charlton
W. G. Morrison	P. Spence
W. Watson	J. W. Ridpath
B. Q. Dench	J. J. McFadden
T. Crawford	J. H. Payne
T. Braden	Dr. Gibson

The Fitzgerald cup in the local competition of the Lakefield curling cup was won by Mr. J. W. Ridpath's rink on Thursday night last. Mr. Ridpath and his men were prepared to win as they all wore buttonhole bouquets of heather from "Bonnie Scotland" the home of the "roarin' game." Tams were also conspicuous and in all it was a "brau Scots' nicht."

The rink is as follows:

H. G. Fitzgerald, H. J. Sutton, J. M. Simpson, J. W. Ridpath, skip.

FOUR MORE GAMES IN HASTINGS LEAGUE

Game at Stirling on Jan. 17 May Be Replaced.

MARMORA, Feb. 15.—With the Hastings County League schedule nearing completion, the positions of the teams becomes interesting. Four games at least remain to be played, in three of which Madoc, who occupy the lowest place, will figure. The game at Stirling on January 17, when the decision went to the homesters against Tweed, having been protested by the latter team, may have to be replayed. This would make a fifth game to complete the schedule. Marmora's win over Madoc last Thursday assures the league leaders a place in the play-off, even though they should ose in their final league fixture at Tweed next Friday. Tweed and Stirling, with two more games each to play, stand even at present. Stirling exchange visits with Madoc, and may possibly be defeated as last season in their game away, for Madoc have been decidedly unfortunate in more than one of their lost games, and Stirling, varying in form, cannot be counted on to win both games. Tweed looms large in the picture, being in their best form just now, and having to meet Marmora at home and Madoc away, stand a chance of sharing the lead with Marmora. Of the remaining games to be played, that between Tweed and Marmora in the eastern town is the most important and attractive, and Tweed should have a record gate.

Said a magistrate in a London court the other day: "There never was a woman who was good enough for another woman's son. If her son's choice was an angel, his mother would declare that something was wrong with her wings."

KITCHENER SURE OF FIRST PLACE

PLAY PRESTON.

KITCHENER, Feb. 15. — The Twin City Greenshirts concluded the home O. H. A. group schedule here last night with an 11-to-0 verdict over the Galt Terriers ,this being the third straight shut-out scored by the Kitchener and Waterloo team. The victory also assured the homesters of finishing first in the group race apart from the play-offs, regardless of the outcome of Friday's game in Preston, which concludes the season.

The contest was a clean, fast, open game of hockey with the Terriers trying hard, but they were outclassed by the Greenshirts who played some clever combination hockey. The visitors trotted out a mixed senior and junior club, with Orton, a junior, between the posts, but the kid was the star of the Terriers and it was his good work that kept the score down to eleven.

PETES PLAY IN TORONTO TO-NIGHT

The Peterborough Seniors are playing their last game in the schedule to-night when they meet University of Toronto Grads in Toronto. While nothing is at stake in this game as first and second places in the group are already determined, the game should be full of interest as the Petes are resolved to give the flying Grads a tough argument for the honours. The play-off series between the two clubs will be staged next Monday and Wednesday nights, and the teams will flip a coin to-night to see where the first game is to be played.

JURY ACQUITS MAN OF SLAYING UMPIRE

NEW YORK, Feb. 16.—(United News.)—After deliberating eight hours, a jury yesterday acquitted Thomas Carroll, 28, of a charge of second degree murder in connection with the death of Patrick McTavey, a baseball umpire. McTavey died following injuries alleged to have been inflicted by Carroll in an argument over a decision. Carroll pleaded self defence.

When the verdict was brought in McTavey's widow in the court room screamed and cried out: "I wish I was with you Paddy."

Carroll and several of his relatives who were present wept when they heard the verdict.

BIGGEST EXPORT ORDER FOR CARS BY TELEPHONE

1,000 ERSKINE SIXES.

The largest export for motor cars ever placed by telephone was consummated last week by The Studebaker Corporation by means of the new Transatlantic radio telephone service to London, when L. J. Ollier, managing director of Studebaker (Great Britain), Limited, sat at his desk in London and asked Paul G. Hoffman, Vice-President of The Studebaker Corporation, who was seated at his own desk in South Bend, Indiana, U.S.A., for delivery of 1,000 Erskine Six cars.

As the Erskine Six, Studebaker's new 2 1-3 litre car, sells in England for 295 pounds sterling, the total amount of the order represents nearly $1,500,000 worth of business — said to be not only the largest automobile order placed by means of the new service, but one of the largest single business transactions made thus far via the wireless telephone.

The order for 1,000 Erskine Sixes represented only the April quota of these cars for Great Britain, where the Erskine has met with remarkable success following its initial showing at the famous Olympia Show in October.

"We could deliver this entire quota of Erskine Sixes immediately if we had them," Mr. Ollier told Mr. Hoffman during their 5,000 mile conversation. "Business is opening up here wonderfully for the new car."

Mr. Hoffman's call to London was the first Transatlantic message telephoned from the State of Indiana on the opening of radio telephone service to the States of Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota, February 9. Until that time the service had been confined to the eastern part of the United States only.

Studebaker is seventy-five years young today.

MISS BONDFIELD HELPS WOMEN

Has Several Bills Ready for Presentation to Parliament.

PRESS COMMENT

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 16 (By Canadian Press).—The Gazette's women's page editor says of Miss Margaret Bondfield, M.P., who is visiting Canada: "She gives the impression of great practical ability and keen grasp of the questions of the day. Nothing could be farther removed from the fanatical type of agitator. She is logical and reasonable in her presentation of fact, and has a cheerful confidence that conditions will gradually improve in British industry, though she deprecates the attitude that a reaction has already set in. Among the matters affecting women workers, Miss Bondfield instanced the White Lead Bill, which is due to come before the House in its next session. This bill would prohibit the employment of women in the industries concerned on the ground of health. The Maternity Convention is another piece of legislation, which would compel a woman to stop work six weeks before the birth of her child and not to return until six weeks after, providing maintenance and care for her during this twelve weeks' period. "Our maternal mortality is high. An average of 3,000 women each year lose their lives in childbirth, and many more are permanently injured. The Maternity Convention is aimed at reducing this terrific rate of mortality and disability."

WINNING CLASS IS APPLAUDED

WON SHIELD.

The young people of Murray Street Baptist Church met last evening to honor the ladies of the Others Class, winners of the Wearing Shield for 1926-27. This banquet has become an annual affair since Joseph Wearing presented a shield to be competed for by the Others, Ever-Ready and Baraca Classes, points being earned according to the attendance of the members at the class sessions over a period of twelve Sundays.

Last year the Baracas were the winners and were entertained by the Others and Ever-Readys. Last night the Others were the guests of the Ever-Readys and Baracas. Other guests were Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Rose, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Madill, Mrs. Joseph Wearing, Dr. and Mrs. W. D. Scott, and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Shiner.

During the evening a telegram were received from Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Richman, Orillia, former teachers of the Baraca and Others Classes, expressing their regret at being unable to accept the invitation to be present, congratulations to the Others Class and best wishes for the future success of the young people's organizations of Murray Street.

Regret was expressed last evening that owing to illness Mrs. L. J. Pettit, teacher of the Ever-ready Class could not attend. Mrs. McClellan teaches the Others Class, and Joseph Wearing the Baracas.

The Bluebird Orchestra played several selections, adding considerable pep to the programme, especially for the community singing. The song leader was Graham Eastwood.

Solos by Dr. S. J. Graham, Miss Trucie Pearson and Mrs. L. H. Ingram, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Webber, with short speeches by Miss Mildred Archer, L. L. Smith and Mrs. Howard Frise, Presidents of the Ever-Ready, Baraca and Others Classes respectively; also by Mrs. George Post, Joseph Wearing, Roy White, A. J. Madill and W. G. Shiner provided a snappy programme. Dr. Rose was chairman.

Congratulations were extended to Miss Ruth Cruickshanks, whose committee looked after the decorations so well.

The thanks of the Murray Street young people are due to the members of the Women's Association who provided the supper.

The Young People's organized classes at Murray Street Baptist Church are probably the largest in the city when the size of the various congregations are taken into consideration. There were 110 present last evening.

OBITUARY.

A. SWARTZ.
Death removed one of the city's most prominent members of the Jewish faith in the person of A. Swartz, who died suddenly just before noon to-day.

The late Mr. Swartz had been engaged in business in Peterborough for the past twenty-three years, coming here from Toronto in the year 1904. He was born in Poland.

His loss will be felt particularly by the Jews in the city, as he was always to the forefront in their organizations and earned for himself an enviable reputation by his wise counsels and judgment.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife and two sons, B. Swartz and M. Swartz, all at home.

The funeral took place from the family residence, 553 Homewood avenue, to-day, to the 3.30 train. Interment will take place in Toronto.

ONTARIO'S STRONG MAN

Above is a picture of D. B. Hanna, Ontario's strong man, taken as he left his house to begin to wrestle with strong liquor and the problem of Ontario's thirst in connection with his appointment last week as Chairman of the Ontario Liquor Commission. There is no doubt about his physical strength. He is six feet two and as broad as a bull moose. Mr. Hanna's home on Cluny drive is also shown above.

Y.W.C.A. BOARD HEARS REPORTS

TO SPEND $1,395.

The regular monthly meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Board of Directors was held Monday afternoon with the president, Miss M. Hamilton, in the chair. Mrs. W. D. Scott read the financial reports.

A bill of $500 for repairs to the heating system was passed and it was decided to instal a filtration plant for the swimming pool at a cost of $1,395.00.

Miss Hamilton expressed appreciation for the appointment of Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner as vice-president. Mrs. E. E. Harvey was asked to represent the Y.W.C.A. at the next Local Council meeting. Miss Brownscombe outlined the Y.W.C.A. National Biennial Convention to be held in Montreal May 28 to June 3 and asked that the local Association be well represented.

Mrs. E. E. Harvey gave the report of the Educational Committee. Because of the great success of the English Literature course this year it was unanimously decided to ask Dr. Pratt to take a course next year on Shakespeare. The various other classes, ukulele, wood carving, home nursing, junior cooking and junior story hour all showed interest in good attendance.

Miss C. Littlefield gave a report of the Physical Department, speaking of the basket ball league games which are played each Friday evening, of the campaign for new members, which brought in 76 girls, and of preparations for the big Gymnasium Pageant in the opera house early in May. This pageant presents a splendid review of the year's work in the physical department and is keenly enjoyed by the girls taking part and also the large audience.

Miss Brownscombe's report for the religious work department, club department and general activities, outlined the Sunday evening sing songs, with an attendance of 40 each Sunday evening, the 2 Friendly Hour services Sunday afternoons, with an attendance of 38 .A discussion course to be led by Rev. J. D. Paterson on "What is an adequate religion for the youth of to-day," will start on Monday, Feb. 21, from 7 to 8 p.m. The Sunshine, Ever Bright and Pollyanna Club in the Junior Dept. the T.M.T.M., C.O.S. Intermediate clubs department and the Wobelo and Old Country Club all had encouraging reports. One hundred and eighty-three girls are members of these clubs which meet weekly for fourfold programs. Forty-eight calls were recorded through the employment bureau and 15 calls made on new comers to Canada. The Association rooms were used by 12 outside organizations during the month.

The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. J. D. Richardson.

Speculative Enthusiasm Evident on N. Y. Exchange

NEW YORK, Feb. 16—Rumors of further important announcements concerning new railroad combinations revived speculative enthusiasm for the railroad shares, which led another advance in to-day's stock market. Industrials shook off their early heaviness and moved forward with the Rails, although a few soft spots cropped out here and there.

Considerable mystery surrounded the further accumulation of Wabash, which with Atlantic Coast Line, Union Pacific, Kansas City Southern, Canadian Pacific, New Haven, Reading Second Pfd. was bid up three or more points. Lackawanna and Western Maryland, were heavy.

Oils were again pushed upward on dividend expectations. Baldwin staged another sensational gain at the expense of trapped short interest.

Victory Silver Active Under Persistent Buying

TORONTO, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press)—A brisk, active market featured trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day. Victory Silver was the active leader and under persistent buying moved up two points, later, however, it weakened slightly but closed firm at 11 3-4. The Quebec issues were in demand. Duprat experienced active trading and also displayed a firmer feeling, advancing 1 1-4. Laval Quebec gained 1-2 to 38 1-2. The dividend paying gold stocks were mostly stronger. McIntyre sold up 20 to 26.70, Dome Mines 5 to 910, Hollinger 10 to 22.30, while Lakeshore was weaker dropping six to 18.10.

Shipments From Argentina Force Setback in Wheat Mart

CHICAGO, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press) — Wheat took a decided early downturn to-day. Influenced by predictions of extra large shipments this week from Argentina. Liverpool reported increasing arrivals and only small inquiry. Opening at 1-8c to 1-2c decline Chicago wheat soon underwent an additional set back. Corn and oats were easy, corn starting unchanged to 1-8c higher and then receding to well below yesterday's finish. Provisions tended upgrade.

More Prominent Issues Suffer Declines in Toronto

TORONTO, Feb. 16, — (Canadian Press.)—Irregular trading was in evidence during to-day's business on the Toronto Stock Exchange. The majority of the more prominent issues suffered declines, while in activity. British Columbia Fishing and Arnold Bros., overshadowed Seagram and Massey Harris, two stocks which have been commanding most attention of late. Arnold opened firm at 25, but weakened two at 23. It recovered slightly at the close to 24, a loss of 1 1-2. British Columbia Fishing in sympathy with the balance of the market, sold down 1 3-4 to 88. Massey Harris sold off 1 1-2 to 89. Seagram eased off 1-2 to 24 1-4. International Nickel remained firm and unchanged. Considerable activity amongst the unlisted stocks was shown.

Imperial Oil, British American Oil, Victory Silver and Wright Hargraves were the most prominent. The latter was an outstanding weak spot selling off 30c a share at 10.10. The others were firm.

SEAL OR SALMON BEING DEBATED

Problem as to Value Arises in North Pacific Waters.

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 16 (By Canadian Press).—Which is more valuable—the fur seal or the salmon? Which is the more easily dispensed with by humanity? Which one, if threatened with depletion, should be allowed to go?

This is the problem which has arisen in the North Pacific as a result of the claims of fur traders that fur seals are decimating the salmon, most important of all food fishes in this part of the world.

Since the enforcement of the pelagic sealing treaty in 1911, sealing has been restricted, except in the case of natives, to the Pribylof Islands of Alaska, where the slaughter is under the close supervision of the United States government. It is estimated that this protection has permitted the herds to increase to 2,000,000 head of seal.

"It is a conservative estimate that each seal kills twenty-five pounds of salmon every day," said one veteran trader. "That means that the Pribylof herds destroy 50,000,000 pounds of salmon daily—or ten times as much salmon as is canned for the whole world. Hundreds of thousands of dollars is spent yearly to propagate the salmon. Yet the seals are allowed to prey upon them to that extent. Salmon has become a necessary article of food. Seal skins are a luxury."

Which should go—the salmon or the seal?

IN MEMORIAM.

ADAMSON: In ever loving memory of Mrs. H. T. Adamson, who died Feb. 17th, 1924:
No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who have lost can tell,
Of the grief that's borne in silence
For the one we loved so well.
Always so good, unselfish and kind,
Few on this earth her equal you'll find;
One of the best that God could send,
A loving wife and mother to the end.

Your Liver
is the largest gland in your body. It aids in the digestion of food by secreting bile. It also serves to separate waste materials from the blood stream so that these wastes can be eliminated from the body. The energy which enables the liver to function emanates from the brain and is carried to the liver through the spinal cord and nerves.
If certain spinal nerves are constricted as they leave the spinal canal the liver will not receive sufficient energy to enable it to function normally. ABNORMAL ACTIVITY OF THIS IMPORTANT GLAND MAY RESULT IN JAUNDICE, INDIGESTION, CONSTIPATION, BILIOUSNESS, HEADACHES AND VARIOUS OTHER COMMON BUT DISTRESSING AILMENTS.
If you have reason to suspect that your liver is not working properly, lose no time in getting a spinal examination. If the liver nerves are found to be constricted, get Chiropractic Spinal Adjustments, because your liver cannot function rightly unless it receives a normal supply of nerve force.

WEST INQUEST ADJOURNED TWO WEEKS

Tax Reductions Total $27,000,000

Budget Brought In Shows Progress During Fiscal Year

Robb Says Aim Has Been To Lighten Burden On All Taxpayers Rather Than on Any One Class or Section.

NEARLY HUNDRED MILLION DECREASE IN NATIONAL DEBT IN FOUR YEARS

Minister of Finance Estimates Surplus on Present Year of Over Thirty Millions — Reviews Trade Conditions.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press)—Announcing taxation reductions estimated at twenty-seven million dollars, Hon. J. A. Robb to-day presented to the House his fourth budget. "The aim," Mr. Robb declared, has been to lighten the burden of every taxpayer rather than to afford relief to special groups, provinces, or sections of the country."

"We are again," Mr. Robb said at another point, "in the happy position of being able to report a continued story of progress for the current fiscal year, which closes on the 31st of the coming month."

Announcements in the speech were:

An estimated reduction of ninety-five million in the net debt in four years. Net debt reduction in 1925-26 was $27,706,586, as compared with $22,358,000 in the last budget speech. The total revenue for the present fiscal year is estimated at three hundred and ninety-four million eight hundred thousand, an increase of eleven million nine hundred thousand over 1925-26.

Expenditure Increase

Total expenditures for the present fiscal year are estimated at three hundred and sixty million six hundred thousand, an increase of five million four hundred thousand over 1925-26. The estimated surplus of revenue over expenditures in the present fiscal year is thirty-four million two hundred thousand. From this, two million nine hundred thousand is deducted for reduction in the value of soldier settlement loans, leaving thirty-one million the estimated reduction in net debt.

Redeem Loan in Cash

Mr. Robb further intimated that when the $29,068,400 five and half per cent loan falls due on November 1, part will be redeemed in cash if finances permit. The remainder will be redeemed by floating a new loan at a reduced rate of interest.

Whn $63,427,250 in five and half per cent Victory Bonds matures on December 1, it will be met by floating a new loan at lower interest.

Veteran Beats Adam Gives Up Eight Ribs

ELYRIA, Ohio, Feb. 17 (United News), — C. H. Perry, 32, a world war veteran, has far outclassed Adam in the matter of giving up ribs.

Where Adam dispensed with but one, Perry is minus eight. But he had more at stake. The head gardener of Eden got only a wife, while Perry saved his own life.

After selecting his pall-bearers, Perry, who was gassed overseas, submitted to an unusual operation in which his lungs were renovated and the ribs removed, six from the right side, two from the left.

He was discharged from the hospital today and the pall-bearers were dismissed.

Miss Nolan and a sister, May, for 33 years conducted a dress-making establishment in Chicago. The sister died last June.

HOUSE EXPECTS TAXATION CUTS IN THE BUDGET

Reduction in Sales Levy is Forecast in Ottawa.

GENERAL REDUCTION.

Minor Revision Only in Tariff Structure is Also Anticipated.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—Reductions in the taxation structure and some changes in the tariff are anticipated to-day, when Hon. J. A. Robb will deliver his budget speech, much earlier than had been expected. The budget is always kept very secret, and its preparation is largely left to the Minister of Finance and the Prime Minister.

The Orders-in-Council necessary to give effect to it will be passed by the Government as a whole only at the last minute. Many of the Ministers yesterday were informed about it.

In regard to the sales tax, the representations to the Government have been of a threefold character.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ESTIMATES SHOW DECREASE FOR YEAR 1927

Estimates for Three Committees Passed at Meeting Last Night.

CUTS MADE

Expected New Ladder Truck Will be Purchased This Year.

Estimates for the year 1927 were passed last night by the Fire, Water and Light, Legal and Property Committees, and sent on to the Finance Committee for approval. The estimates of the Fire Department proved to be the largest factor, and these were thoroughly discussed by the committee before approval was given to them. In all probability a new ladder truck will be puchased this year as $7000 was appropriated for the same. The recommendation of Chief Gimblett for a bungalow station in the south end was struck out, as was the salaries of firemen to man this station. The estimates not including the ladder truck will be $2000 less than last year; $39,300 was put in the estimates last year for the fire department, and $37,630 was spent. This year $44,658 will be the amount asked by the committee to look after the financing of this department.

No very large cuts were made in the estimates, although in one way or another $18,862 was clipped from the first figures submitted, most of this being for the bungalow station, and six months salaries for the men who would man it. A $1000 item for tarpaulins was cut to $200, and $250 was allowed for motor upkeep, instead of the $500 which was estimated. The gasoline amount was $900, but this was cut to $250 as the other departments have included in their estimates the cost of gasoline supplied at the fire station.

A communication was received from the clerk of Smith township, saying that the said township refused to pay for the cost of sending the fire apparatus to the Chemong pavilion fire. This was received and will get further consideration when the

CHEN'S DEMAND FOR RECOGNITION CAUSE OF BREAK IN NEGOTIATIONS

Government Waiting Word From Ambassador Before Next Move.

HANGCHOW FALLS.

City Regarded as Gateway of Shanghai Taken By Cantonese.

LONDON, Feb. 17. — (Canadian Press).—Demands by Eugene Chen, Cantonese Foreign Minister, that he be recognized as spokesman for the whole of China, and that the future status of all British interests in the country be settled during the negotiations at Hankow caused the present suspension of negotiations. This was made known by official advices to-day.

The British Government is awaiting advices from Sir Miles Lampson, British Minister in Peking, before making another move.

Reports from British diplomatic officials confirm that Sun Chang Fang has suffered a severe reverse at the hands of the Cantonese south of Shanghai. Observers were not surprised at the news as the Cantonese were expected to make a successful thrust toward Shanghai as soon as they consolidated their forces.

Hangchow Captured

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—Hangchow, regarded as the gateway to Shanghai, was believed tonight to have fallen into the hands of the Cantonese invaders. The troops of Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, ruler of the Province of Kiangsu, of which Shanghai is the chief city, were reported evacuating Hangchow after their defeat by the Cantonese.

Fighting was taking place in the outskirts of Hanchow, a city of 800,000 population, as early as last night, said a foreigner who arrived here by train. The soldiers of Sun were falling back then, demoralized before the Cantonese onslaught.

Sun Deceived.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—For some time Marshal Sun has been paying Chang Tsung Chang, Shantung commander, half a million dollars a month on condition that the latter would aid the Shanghai defender when called upon.

Two days ago Marshal Sun issued a call for help and several trains have been standing at Nanking, capital of Kiangsu Province, ready to bring the Shantung troops southward.

General Chang Tsung Chang's failure to move in this direction was regarded as an indication that he intends to wait until Marshal Sun's retreat becomes a collapse and then he will be able to take Shanghai for himself. Marshal Sun drove General Chang from Shanghai in 1925.

Meanwhile, the transport Chaumont, en route to Honolulu with United States marines aboard, has been ordered to proceed to Shanghai.

There are twenty-one war-craft in the harbor here, six British, five Japanese, five American, four French and one Italian.

POLICE DOUBT SUICIDE THEORY

Windsor Milkman Was Smoking at Time of His Death:

TWO SHOTS FIRED.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 17.— A gaping bullet wound through his right temple and an old German pistol lying on the seat beside the body with two chambers empty, lend some doubt as to whether Roy Bull, 26, a milk truck driver, met death by suicide or violence. The body was discovered slumped down under the steering wheel of the truck yesterday by another milkman passing along Ottawa street near the old Luzon Road. The dead fingers clutched the butt of a cigar.

Coroner P. J. R. Morgan, who was summoned by Riverside police, believes Bull killed himself, probably in a fit of despondency. He had once before attempted suicide by taking poison, the police were told. Bull was a native of Woodstock, and made his home with a relative, Mrs. Nina Dawson, living on Hall avenue here.

The fact that two chambers of the revolver were empty, and that Bull apparently had been smoking at the time he died, is construed as lending some strength to the foul play theory.

Mrs. Howard T. Fallis, who was elected by acclamation as president of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association for her fifth consecutive term at annual meeting held yesterday.

SUN'S FORCES SUFFER DEFEAT

Shanghai Again Becomes Menaced With Invasion of the Cantonese.

TROOPS UNEASY.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17. Canadian Press. — This city again became menaced yesterday with an invasion of Cantonese forces, as a result of a severe defeat suffered by the defending troops of Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, in Chekiang Province. Sun's army was shoved back almost to Hangchow, 113 miles from Shanghai, by reinforcements of Cantonese troops.

Far to the northwestern interior, in Honan provinces, alignments are taking place for a big battle between the forces of the Peking and Nationalist governments with the armies of General Wu Pei Fu and General Fung Yu Hsiang, independent militarists, awaiting opportunities to hurl themselves into the conflict on one side or the other.

These were the major developments yesterday in civil war ridden China. The chief stake has been stated to be control of a united China —either the Peking or Nationalist government—but lesser prizes are sought by the war lords composing the chief forces or operating independently.

Sun's troops were said to be on collapse their morale shaken not only by the fire of the enemy, but by the propaganda with which the Nationalists prepare for the advance of their armies. Sun's commander, General Pai Pao Shan, was said either to have been cut off with his men along the Tsientang river, or to have gone over bodily with his troops to the Nationalist cause.

Pai was reported a few days ago to have turned traitor to his overlord, Sun Chuan Fang, but at that time proved the charge false by driving back Nationalists several miles, nearly to the border of Kiangsi, and some 200 miles from Shanghai.

The collapse of Sun's army which seemed impending yesterday brought to the fore once more the defence of Shanghai's foreign settlement districts, lest the Nationalists should reach this city, and the anti-foreign demonstrations at Bankow and Kiukiang be re-enacted here.

Approximately 4000 British troops are in Shanghai including the Punjabis from India. Aboard British war craft are 2500 fighting men. The American landing parties available number 1100. Whether the remainder of Great Britain's force of 16,000 men and numerous war vessels will be diverted to other ports, in view of developments is uncertain.

Troop Movements.

Meanwhile troop movements on a large scale proceeded hundreds of miles distant from Chekiang province. In the province of Honan the Nationalists organized their forces to counter the Manchurian-Shantung armies' threatened drive through Honan against Hankow and Kiukiang, Yangtse river strongholds of the Nationalists.

Both these northern armies were steadily progressing toward Chenchow and Kaifeng, in Honan, in their movement southward.

One reason for the Northerners' haste in advancing toward Chenchow is reported to be a revival of activity of the Kuominchun (National people's army) of Feng Yu Hsiang.

Coffee House Frequenters Want Prince Arrested

LONDON, Feb. 17 (United Press).—The Prince of Wales' latest slumming journey into the East End of London almost resulted in a call for the police by a group of frightened nighthawks, who wanted their visitor put in jail. Wales last Tuesday chose to visit a coffee 'shop, a cheap kind of cafeteria, at about midnight.

The door was closed and Wales knocked for admittance. None inside expected such a midnight visitor and after deliberation it was decided that the best thing to do would be to call the police. Wales hammered on the door again and finally persuaded some one to open it, whereupon he was recognized and all was well.

ROBB'S SPEECH GIVING BUDGET WILL BE SHORT

Not Expected To Last Much More Than Thirty Minutes.

TAX REDUCTIONS.

Believed That Any Cuts Will Be On Sales and Income Levies.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—In the House of Commons to-day, Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, presents a budget which, according to all indications, will achieve a record of brevity. Mr. Robb's budget statements in the past have rarely occupied more than an hour. To-day's statement will probably not exceed thirty or forty minutes.

Mr. Robb's taxation proposals will not be known till he submits them to the House, but expectations are that he will announce some further reductions in taxation. A report has it that any such reductions will be in the income and sales taxes.

Tariff changes in all probability will be few.

Witnesses Absent And Crown Refuses To Conclude Case

Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr Declares Intention to Hear Every Person Who Might Give Evidence — Asks Those Present to Assist.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY MRS. WEST TELL OF HER BEING UNHAPPY

Witnesses Tell of Her Troubles With Her Husband Over Money and of Her Suspicions of His Actions — Night of Death Described.

(Staff Correspondence.)

WARKWORTH, Feb. 17.—Coroner Dr. W. F. Loucks and Crown-Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., found it impossible to clear up the West case, reopened because of rumors in circulation, at yesterday's sitting, and adjourned the hearing until March 3. This action was necessary because some witnesses forwarded certificates of illness and the officials refused to close the matter until everyone who might offer some information had been heard.

The sittings yesterday were held in Warkworth Town Hall, which was crowded to the doors at all three sessions. The evidence given at the hearings last March was gone over by those who were at the fire, and those who knew of conditions in the West household. New evidence was given by the doctors who had examined material found in the ruins, including the scissors so carefully guarded from touch at the first inquest. Letters written by Mrs. West to her parents and friends in Belgium were translated as evidence.

N. Alex. MacColl of Campbellford represented the West family at the hearing. Dr. West was not called.

In explaining the reason for adjourning the enquiry, Mr. Kerr said that three women who had been summoned to give evidence had sent medical certificates that they were ill and unable to attend.

"Whether their illness is serious or not, I am unable to tell," he continued. "I don't propose to close this inquest until they have given their evidence. In a case of this kind it must be an absolutely exhaustive investigation, so that not a single soul whom the police know around Warkworth or anywhere else who can throw any light on this matter, shall fail to be heard. If any one in this court room knows anything that has not been presented he should let the coronor, Dr. Loucks, know at once. We want to make this as exhaustive as possible.

For that reason we have thought wiser to adjourn today. We can complete it for sure at the next meeting of the jury. I cannot too strongly impress it upon everybody that if they have anything to say they should say it at this coroner's inquest. I don't want to hear of a single soul in this neighborhood who say they have wonderful things they can tell, and do not come forward. If they do say anything like that after the inquest, I don't think people will believe them."

Previously Mr. Kerr had declared: "I want all talk to be at this inquest, and not outside."

Pathetic Letters

Mrs. Haynes of Cobourg was sworn as an interpreter, and proceeded to read a sheaf of letters which Mrs. West had written to relatives in Belgium and which had come to Mr. Kerr since the former inquest.

One of the pathetic posthumous messages of affection told of a shopping expedition on which Mrs. West bought a coat for $18.75, a hat for $7.95, bloomers, corsets, boots, also flannel for a nightshirt for baby and stockings, all priced as she had purchased them.

When her husband learned of this raid on his finances, "he was in such a rage when I got home he didn't know what to do. He said he wouldn't be responsible for what I bought after that."

Mrs. West wrote that she went to the reeve (le principal de la village), ex-Warden McCubbin, and also communicated with the County police at Cobourg. The result was a police court case which Magistrate Floyd disposed of by urging a reconciliation of the Wests.

The following are excerpts from the letters in 1925 as translated by Mrs. Haynes: "He threatened me and I will not give him his divorce. He will remarry that damsel (Mr. Kerr suggested the French word might mean flapper. She is at present in the United States enjoying herself. If you write don't say anything about Stuart. . . I am not very happy. I realize how happy I was before I came to this part."

Mrs. Haynes read extracts in which the mother told of the ap-

WISHES PINEDO 'BEST OF LUCK'

Sir Alan Cobham Wishes God-speed Message to Italian Flyer.

ATLANTIC FLIGHT

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 17. — (Canadian Press.)—"Good luck to De Pinedo. I sincerely hope he succeeds."

This was the message issued here yesterday by Sir Alan Cobham, premier long distance aviator of the British Empire, on the eve of the noted Italian airman's flight across the Atlantic from Portuguese Guinea for Port Natal, Brazil.

"Every aviator, no matter what his nationality, will wish Commander de Pinedo and his comrades every success in their undertaking, because an achivement in flying, no matter by whom, means a distinct forward step in convincing the public in the practicability of aviation," Sir Alan declared.

Sir Alan, who is on a lecture tour of Canada, was the first airman to fly from England to Australia and back. For this feat he was knighted by King George.

MRS. HOWARD T. FALLIS ELECTED PRESIDENT FOR HER FIFTH TERM

At Meeting of Women's Liberal-Conservative Association of Peterborough.

RECORD ATTENDANCE

Addresses Members Giving Interesting Review of Last Elections.

Mrs. Howard T. Fallis was re-elected by acclamation as president of the Women's Liberal-Conservative Association of Peterborough for her fifth consecutive term at the annual meeting of the Association held in Hooper's Parlors yesterday.

The meeting proved to be one of the most enthusiastic in the history of the Association, a record attendance of members being present.

Mrs. Mills, who has been first vice-president, was again nominated for the position but was elected as an honorary vice-president in recognition of her valued services, when she announced her intention of retiring from office.

All the old executive were re-elected and Mrs. Wright was nominated for the position of third vice-president in place of Mrs. Denne, who was raised to second vice-president.

The following are the officers of the Association for the ensuing year:

The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's held its regular monthly meeting in the auditorium of the church, with a good attendance. The President, Mrs. J. Johns, opened the meeting, and the singing of a hymn was followed by prayer led by Mrs. Leslie.

After quite a lengthy business session Mrs. Kerr, who had charge of the programme, read the Scripture lesson, followed by a season of prayer by members.

Miss Bertha Hill favored the meeting with a beautiful vocal solo and was accompanied on the organ by Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, who acted as organist during the meeting. Mrs. A. T. Brown of George Street United Church gave a very interesting address on "Women of the Bible." This was listened to with much pleasure.

Mrs. J. W. Gordon offered the closing prayer.

YOUTH SHOOTS HIS SWEETHEART AND THEN TRIES TO KILL HIMSELF; GIRL DIES AND SLAYER MAY DIE

Toronto Italian Becomes Resentful When Girl Repulses Advances.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL,

Puts Two Bullets in Body After Slaying Young Girl.

TORONTO, Feb. 17. — Joseph Piccadati, aged 19, of 823 Dundas Street West, infuriated because Kathleen Lalingo, aged 17, of 397 Manning Avenue, refused to allow him to pay court to her, shot the girl through the heart on the street opposite the home of Miss McKenzie, 166 Manning Avenue, then turned the weapon on himself and put two bullets from a .38 calibre revolver into his left side, one immediately over the heart, the other just below that organ. The girl died as she was being received into the emergency ward at the Western Hospital. Piccadati is in the hospital in a critical condition. Owing to his weak state the surgeons are afraid to operate. The tragedy occurred in the presence of the following persons: Bell Ross, 226 Claremont Street; Sidney Walker, 93 Robinson Street; Joseph Starr, 224 Palmerston Avenue; Henry Rubin, 169 Manning Avenue; John Elliot, 122 Palmerston Avenue; Mary Crysdall, 171 Manning Avenue, and Amie Milowich, 139 Claremont Street. All these were on Manning Avenue, wending their way home from work when Piccadati fired the fatal shots.

The tragedy is the outcome of a love affair which has been going on for the past year. It has been one-sided, however. Partially in obedience to her parents' wish, and also because she did not love Piccadati as he desired that she should, she had rejected all his advances. But he was a persistent and a passionate lover. He would not be gainsaid. Night after night, for the past two months, it had been his custom to go to the girl's place of employment, the Parisian Laundry, King and Portland Streets, and from there escort her to her home.

The girl resented this to such an extent, that numerous quarrels ensued. Time and again she had told him that she did not love him and wanted to have nothing to do with him. At other times she had avoided his unwelcome attentions by taking other ways home from work, generally in the company of Angela Amato, her friend, 285 Manning Avenue. Miss Amata stated that Piccadati always thrust himself upon Miss Lalingo, and often seized her arm and compelled her to walk with him.

Yesterday evidently matters reached a breaking point. Piccadati, who has a shoeshine parlor at 740 Dundas Street West, did not go to work as usual, but lay in bed until three in the afternoon. Last evening, about 5.30, he followed out his usual custom by waiting for Miss Lalingo near the laundry premises. Much against the girl's will, Piccadati seized her arm, and compelled her to walk along with him. She tried to get away as he endeavored to persuade her to change her mind and marry him. She steadfastly refused his suit, however.

As they were nearing the girl's home, Piccadati renewed his efforts. Reaching a point opposite the McKenzie home, Piccadati suddenly drew the revolver from his pocket, and placing it close against the girls' side, pulled the trigger twice. As the girl fell, screaming, to the sidewalk, the murderer turned the weapon on himself, and sent two bullets in quick succession into his body.

CHARGED OFF

Because sixty-five years
Have left their glaciered grooves
Upon his brow,—
The company's rule
Becomes effective—
And he, to this, must bow.

Ripeness is not obsolescence,
Nor sure depreciation.
Sixty-five years have gone
In thorough preparation.
Judgment and ability,
Tact and kindly sympathy,
Ready to point the surest way—
The road to understanding.

Sixty-five years—
And no other count against him
Blindly; man's inhumanity
Casts these all away.
Well, it seems a pity,
But youth comes on apace,
And those who've held the lines
Must go, to give them place.
Still—the force and usefulness
Unspent, a service seek;
And strange fields or tasks
At sixty-five—are bleak.

He said it seemed like he'd got
Shunted off on a siding—
Marked "Scrap": in a still spot
Where all that he saw
Was trains flying fast—
Other people's trains—
And all that he heard,
Was the clickety wheels
On the rail joints,
And the plaintive bell,
As it whizzed past.

AUTO MERGERS ARE FORECAST

Expert Prophesies Gigantic Amalgamation Within the Next Six Months.

GREAT FUTURE.

(By Joseph S. Wasney, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17—Three or four gigantic mergers in the automotive industry within the next six months were predicted yesterday by Norval A. Hawkins, former sales manager of Henry Ford, and a witness in the $36,000,000 Ford stock tax hearing here.

"The little manufacturers will consolidate rather than be eliminated, Hawkins said. "It is safe to forecast that in the next five years the automobile business will expand even more than it has in the past five years."

Hawkins said there was a great future in the automobile business, because "there will be no more money or business panics in the United States and no more hard times.

"And there never will be a saturation point for automobiles," he continued. "The market for motor cars is just opening up. China, Russia, Africa, South America and other foreign nations present big markets.

Hawkins believes there will soon be a price war in cars. When that comes, he said, the person with one machine will get another to have a utility machine.

There will be at least 30,000,000 machines in operation in this country by 1935, Hawkins said. Every family in America will have a motor car.

ARRESTED FOR BURGLARY

Millbrook Man Held in Connection with Robbery of Station.

Stanley Fisher, of Millbrook, was arrested by Provincial Constable J. Fewtrell on a charge of breaking into and entering the Canadian National Railway station at Millbrook and stealing a quantity of liquor and money.

This is the third time the station has been entered during the past two months.

Passenger and Driver Held Equally Guilty

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 17. (Canadian Press.) — Holding that a passenger in an automobile which fatally injured a person is as much to blame as the driver of the car, Judge A. W. Hawkins sentenced Mrs. Christine Hopkins to from one to twenty years in the state penitentiary.

She was convicted of manslaughter on charges resulting from the death of Lois Ames, 11. The driver of the car disappeared.

Returned Man Shoots Himself With Revolver He Had Brought From Germany As War Souvenir

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 17.—(Special)—Roy Bull, 24, formerly of Woodstock, committed suicide here yesterday by shooting his self twice through the head with the German revolver he brought back as a souvenir of the World War.

Bull ended his life while driving a motor truck for a local milk firm, and was found slumped over the steering wheel by an employe of a competitive concern. Bull's parents reside in Woodstock. The motive for his deed has not been ascertained.

TAXES CUT DOWN IN SASKATCHEWAN

Public Revenue Levy Reduced By 25 Per Cent.

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 17.—A 25 per cent. reduction in the public revenue tax, releasing $500,000 from the revenues of the provincial treasury, was announced by Premier J. R. Gardiner, provincial treasurer, in presenting his first budget to the legislature Tuesday night. At the close of the year there was an actual cash surplus of $30,000 in the provincial coffers.

Announcement was also made by the premier of the decision of the government to set up a sinking fund. "It is estimated," he said, "that if we set aside $200,000 from year to year, in 45 years we can retire the debt of the province. For this purpose we have decided to set apart ten per cent. of the liquor profits from year to year."

The gross public debt of the province stood at $57,114,362, a reduction of $349,297 during the year, he said.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

two councils meet.

In all probability an agreement will be reached with the North Monaghan township council whereby the city will give fire service to a certain section of that township. The chairman, Ald. Cotton, was given permission to meet the Monaghan council and close a deal. The Monaghan council will guarantee $50 a trip for the chemical truck and three men to any fire within this special area.

In the meantime the fire department will take no action when a fire breaks out in municipalities just outside the city.

The estimates of the Legal committee which were submitted by Alderman Macdonald, are the same as last year and amount to $3840. This is divided into five items: Salary of city solicitor $1200; solicitor's disbursements, $100; postage and incidentals $300; premiums on guarantee bond, $1540, and damages for injuries $500.

The chairman of the Property Committee, Alderman Hancock, was authorized to have a new drinking fountain put in at the corner of George and Charlotte streets, and the estimates of this committee were $150 more than last year.

formerly referred to as the "Christian General." The Kuominchun troops were said to number 120,000, and to have concentrated between Sian Fu and Tungkuan, in Shensi province, preparatory to resuming their drive into the adjoining province of Honan, which was halted last December.

Wu Pei Fu, crafty general operating independently in Honan, continued to be the mysterious factor. It was not known whether the war lord who lost most of his central China domain to the Nationalists last fall would join with the northern troops to oust the invader, or whether he would remain aloof from his old time enemy, Chang Tso Lin, generalissimo of the Northern armies.

OBITUARY.

ROBERT BEATTY.

WARKWORTH, Feb. 17. — The death occurred on Tuesday last of Robert Beatty, aged 54 years, at the residence of his brother, John, near Warkworth.

The funeral will take place to Warkworth cemetery on Saturday afternoon, being delayed for the arrival of a sister from Rock Island, Ill.

OLD MASTERS

I remember, I remember
The house where I was born,
The little window where the sun
Came peeping in at morn:
He never came a wink too soon
Nor brought too long a day;
But now I often wish the night
Had borne my breath away.

I remember, I remember
The roses, red and white,
The violets, and the lily cups—
Those flowers made of light!
The lilacs where the robin built,
And where my brother set
The laburnum on his birthday—
The tree is living yet!

I remember, I remember
The fir trees dark and high;
I used to think their slender tops
Were close against the sky:
It was a childish ignorance,
But now 'tis little joy
To know I'm farther off from heaven
Than when I was a boy.

PRESENTS BUDGET IN THE REICHSTAG

Said General Economic Situation in Germany is Extremely Serious.

BERLIN, Feb. 17. — (Canadian Press.)—Finance Minister Dr. Heinrich Koehler, presenting a total budget of $2,500,000,000 in the Reichstag yesterday said that the general economic situation in Germany was extremely serious.

Although indicating that the recent 500,000,000 mark internal loan will be used to extend credits to industry, Dr. Koehler warned against a continuation of the government's polly of subvention whereby numerous agriultural, religious and industrial undertakings have been aided from the public treasury.

He defended the general army budget of 697,000,000 marks as "unavoidably large." Of the total budget, $350,000,000 are for reparations.

"I see no possibility at present that Germany will be able to raise the reparation load contemplated by 1929, despite the best intentions," he said, deploring the effect of the heavy war reparation burden on Germany's economic situation.

"The general economic situation is extremely serious," he continued, "the number of unemployed is dangerously high, while the tariff barriers of foreign countries are stifling German industry."

The finance minister promised drastic slashes in the internal budget. Of the 9 per cent. increase in the total budget, he said only three per cent. was caused by the increased reparation payments for 1927.

MUSSOLINI GIVES ITALY SQUARE DEAL

Has Done More Than Any Italian in Years, Traveller Says.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—"Mussolini has done more for Italy than has any other of her native sons for generations." Mrs. Henry Joseph referred to the Fascist leader in this way when she addressed the Outremont and North End Women's Club. As one whose own family connections see at first-hand what she termed the "inner workings of Italy," she referred to the Socialists and the Fascisti as she had studied them on a trip three years ago and again last spring. She pictured Mussolini, "the man of a 100 wounds," firstly as a former Socialist.

"Because those of his own political belief," said Mrs. Joseph, "behaved so badly, he repudiated them, and, in doing so, took his own life in his hands. He linked his fate with the fascisti, Italy has not had a fair deal for generations, but now Mussolini is seeing that she gets it, and matters are growing better and better. Mussolini has been misrepresented a great deal over here, but we must appreciate the good work he has done and the love he holds for his Country.

LAUNDRIES BUSY

Big Ship From Orient Keep Vancouver Launderies Busy.

VANCOUVER Feb. 17 (By C.P.) — It is a red-letter day for Vancouver laundries when the big ships come in from the Orient and Australia.

Shipping is one of Vancouver's most important sources of revenue, but the part played by the laundries generally escapes attention when the effect of the ocean ships' arrival on business is considered. Every deep-sea vessel that reaches port has a sizeable laundry bill and some of them, such as the big ships that sail between Canada and Australia and China, average $500 or more in their expenditures for the maintenance of cleanliness.

When the big motorship Aorangi, which plies between Vancouver and Sydney, reaches here her laundry list runs like this: 1213 white counterpanes, 264 colored ones, 2190 napkins, 240 table covers, 2922 sheets, 2850 pillow slips, 6000 towels and sufficient other articles to make 17,594 pieces for the laundry.

Would Shoot Socialists

LONDON, Feb. 16 (Canadian Press Cable). — "Certain Socialist leaders are reported to have said that if Britain was involved in war with China they would do their best to prevent British troops being assembled," said Right Hon. Sir William Mitchell Thomson, Postmaster-General, speaking at Croydon. "If they do that, they will end up with their backs against a wall, facing a firing party. It is just as well that they should know that from the start."

BEAUTY OF ROCKIES TO BE SHOWN TO TOURISTS IN GREATER MEASURE

Construction of New Trail Will Open Yoho Park to Motorists.

COMPLETES LOOP

Kicking Horse Highway Makes 300-Mile Circuit Possible.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 17 — (By Canadian Press)— A number of important developments in connection with the Canadian National Parks are planned this year. Outstanding will be the opening of the new motor highway to be known as the Kicking Horse Trail. The new road, the completion of which is awaited with keen anticipation by motorists, will throw open practically the whole of Yoho Park to this form of traffic, and make possible a new highway loop of approximately 300 miles through the very heart of some of the most magnificent scenery in the Rockies.

The completion of the Banff-Windermere Highway which was opened for traffic in June, 1923, brought about a much heavier motor traffic to the Canadian Rockies. It enabled the motorist to pass through two national reservations, the Rocky Mountain and Kootenay Parks, crossing the main range by way of the Vermillion Pass and for the first time established direct communication with this area between the East and West.

From Castle Mountain near which the Banff-Windermere highway turns south an extension of about 20 miles was built at practically the same time to beautiful Lake Louise and the already existing road from this point to Moraine Lake was brought up to the requirements of motor traffic. Once at Lake Louise, however, the motorist was less than five miles from the Great Divide, the famous Kicking Horse Pass and the Eastern edge of Yoko Park.

To bridge this gap, in 1926 the Canadian Government completed and opened the first section of the new Kicking Horse Trail, a road of sixteen miles from Lake Louise, across the famous pass, and down the west slope of the main rockies to Field, the head-quarters of Yoho Park. From Field existing roads led to the two most celebrated beauty spots—Yoho Valley, with its remarkable cataract known as the Takakkaw Falls, and lovely Emerald Lake.

Early this season, the final work will be completed on the second section of the road, that from Field to the west boundary of Yoko Park near Leanchoil, British Columbia, a distance of about 21 miles. The importance of this new section lies not so much in the fact that it completes the traverse of Yoko Park as because at Leanchoil it will connect with the new provincial highway, sixteen miles long, from Golden through the Kicking Horse Canyon. As all who have crossed the Western mountains by way of the most spectacular portions of the route is the passage of this canyon, the narrow cleft over nine miles long through which the Kicking Horse River has cut its way to the wide valley of the Columbia. The canyon at altitudes ranging from 500 to 800 feet, would be hard to surpass for grandeur and sustained interest.

Emerging from the Rockies the new highway runs to Golden, British Columbia. There it connects with the existing road to the south along the Columbia Valley. This road may be followed to Invermere and Southern points connecting with the United States and the pacific coast; or at Firlands, 67 miles from Golden, connection may be made with the western end of the Banff-Windermere highway, returning over that road to Banff and completing the new mountain circle.

During the coming summer the attractions of Waterton Lakes Park will be enhanced and brought within the reach of larger numbers of visitors by the erection of a modern hotel with accomodation for several hundred guests. The completion of the Akamina Highway across Waterton Lakes Park, which will eventually connect with the United States part-to-park system, also promises a future of important development to Waterton Lakes Park.

In Jasper Park, further construction work will be done on the Jasper Highway to the east and a number of local improvements made in the townsite; and in practically all the national reservations some new provisions for the comfort and convenience of tourists will be made.

FIRE DESTROYED FREIGHT SHEDS

Loss Estimated at $25,000 To C.N.R. Property in Sarnia.

ORIGIN UNKNOWN.

SARNIA, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—Fire last night destroyed the C.N.R. freight sheds with practically all the contents. The fire of unknown origin, starting in the centre of the 250-foot building, had the whole structure in its grasp at 6.30, and at 7.30 the whole was a mass of ruins.' Many office records were saved but much was destroyed. Several box-cars were run to safety after catching fire. The blaze was spectacular and illuminated the whole city during its brief career.

The loss is estimated at about $25,000. No other buildings were burned.

LONDON UNEASY CHINA SITUATION

House of Commons Still Uncertain Over Negotiations at Hankow.

CABLES DELAYED.

LONDON, Feb. 17. (Canadian Press).—Feeling flared up spectacularly in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon over the Chinese situation, but when a check was taken on the net results the members of parliament as well as the public were still in a fog as to what had actually happened in the last few days in the negotiations at Hankow between British Charge O'Malley and the Cantonese Foreign Minister, Eugene Chen.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, Foreign Secretary, was unable to give any definite information, explaining that the transmission of telegrams from Hankow had been delayed, and he did not know what the position there was. This was in reply to a question by the former Labor Premier, Ramsey MacDonald. Several cablegrams had been received from Charge O'Malley, but they had not been decoded and would not be ready for publication until this morning.

Laborites Leading

The liveliest demonstration was led by the Laborites, who for the moment were more concerned with Postmaster General Thomson's Croyden speech the previous night, in which he declared that a firing squad would be the answer to anyone seeking to prevent the assembling of troops in case of war with China. This brought Chinese affairs much nearer home than anything else since the departure of the first troops for Shanghai.

In his speech, which had aroused the ire of the Laborites, the postmaster-general said, with reference to alleged utterances of certain Socialist leaders that they would do their best to prevent the assembling of British troops for service in China:

"If they do that they will end up, and very properly too, against a wall with a firing party in front of them. It is just as well that they should know that right from the start."

When the Postmaster arose to answer a question in the House yesterday, booing and derisive shouts marked the outburst and from the Labor back-benchers there were cries of "Shoot him also. Put him up against the wall."

So great was the tumult that the government minister could not make himself heard, and was forced to resume his seat.

The first uproar came just after Sir Austen Chamberlain had diplomatically said there was nothing doing so far as news of the Hankow negotiations was concerned. The Scottish contingent of Laborites began to enliven things and held the lead in the obstructive measures until the end. They were the last to ease off and eventually make for the tea rooms along with everybody else.

A Hankow despatch to Reuters says it is not easy to find a reasonable explanation for the latest impasse in the Chen-O'Malley negotiations. British opinion in the Chinese city is that the negotiations will tail out into an ever-widening vista of fresh situations with no finality anywhere. It is therefore suggested that the British government set forth unmistakeably the terms on which it is prepared to adopt the draft agreement and set a time limit for its signature.

LARGE ORDER.

C. N. R. Places Order For 1,000 Steel Frame Box Cars.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 17.—(Canadian Press.)— Canadian National Railways to-day placed an order with the Canadian Car and Foundry Company, Limited, for 1,000 60 ton steel frame box cars.

HOUSE EXPECTS

Some want the tax abolished altogether. Others want it cut in two, while a number of manufacturers suggest relief in their particular lines without expressing any solicitude for the rest. Any reduction that is made, and one is fully expected, will likely be general in its application. During the election campaign taxation cuts were forecast, and there is no doubt that these will be made.

Tariff Changes.

Generally speaking, any extensive tariff changes are not in prospect, but there will be some. It is said that the budget this year will be relatively as important as last year, but that it will be a very simple statement of fact, whose delivery will take little more than half an hour. There will be the usual review of financial and trade conditions, and at the end of the announcement of taxation and tariff changes, along with the usual note of optimism as a grand finale.

"Flu" and Hydrophobia Spread Through Russia

MOSCOW, Feb. 17.—(Canadian Press.)—Influenza is increasing alarmingly in Moscow. Last week 6,984 cases were reported, and this week 9,092.

Hydrophobia is spreading rapidly throughout Russia. In 1925 there were 90,000 persons suffering from rabies. To check the epidemic the government has planned to open several new Pasteur stations.

MRS. HOWARD T. FALLIS ELECTED

Honorary Vice-President — Mrs. Mills.

President—Mrs. Howard T. Fallis.

First Vice-President—Mrs. Stinson.

Second Vice-President — Mrs. Denne.

Third Vice-President — Mrs. Wright.

Secretary—Mrs. Cridland.

Treasurer—Mrs. Evans.

Mrs. Fallis addressed the members in a brilliant manner, eulogizing the Conservative party and giving an interesting review of the last Federal and Provincial elections.

Resolutions of confidence in the Honorable G. Howard Ferguson as Premier of the Province and the Honorable Hugh Guthrie, K.C., on his appointment as leader of the Conservative party were moved by Mesdames Denne and Miller and Mesdames Strickland and Thompson respectively.

Mrs. Howard T. Fallis.

After welcoming the old and the new members, Mrs. Fallis paid a personal tribute to the women for their work and help they had rendered during her absence in the interests of the party.

Reviewing the recent Provincial election, Mrs. Fallis declared that the outstanding feature of it was the fact that the result was an entire justification of Mrs. Ferguson's policy. The result, she said, showed that the policy was not Mr. Ferguson's alone, but was the policy of the vast majority of the Conservative party.

"They say there was no demand for Government control" the speaker declared. "In view of the fact that the majority for Government control was around 300,000, there must have been a lot of brewers and distillers in the province," she remarked.

Speaking of Mr. Ferguson's own riding in Grenville, the speaker said that the result had proved a personal victory for him even more than the Conservative party, as the whole bitterness of the campaign was directed against him personally. His own riding, she said, had always supported the Ontario Temperance Act by a majority of thousands. It was expected that they would do the same again, and as a result Mr. Ferguson was advised by prominent people in the party to run and was even offered seats in Toronto and other places, but "what was this answer?" asked the speaker. It was, "I was born and lived all my life in the riding of Grenville, and if the people who have known me from boyhood have not enough confidence in me to trust the temperance question in my hands, then I don't want to lead the party," declared Mrs. Fallis.

"Contrast this with the actions of the leader of the Prohibition party, the Honorable W. E. Raney, who left his own riding and sought refuge in what was considered the safest seat in Ontario—where the O.T.A. had carried in 1924 by a majority of 5,000 and where the Conservative candidate in 1923 had been elected by a majority of 19.

"No better demonstration of the change in public sentiment was shown in any riding in the Province than when this majority of 5,000 was reduced to 47 for the Hon. Mr. Raney," declared Mrs. Fallis.

Continuing, Mrs. Fallis declared, "I had every confidence in the sincerity and the integrity of Mr. Ferguson and his Government when I entered the campaign. If I had not, I would not have been working for him. Since the election that confidence has greatly increased as Mr. Ferguson is fulfilling every promise he has made."

"He even achieved the seemingly impossible in providing in D. B. Hanna, a strong man to head his liquor control board as his selection met with the approval of everyone, even the Toronto Star," the speaker stated.

A resolution was brought into the Provincial House, the speaker continued, asking that the Dominion Government lend assistance in destroying the bootleggers' traffic by reducing the excise tax, which is $9 a gallon. This resolution, she said, has already been adopted by the other Government control provinces. "If the Dominion Government would listen to these united provinces it would be a great aid to temperance," declared Mrs. Fallis.

Mrs. Fallis described in detail the special features contained in the speech from the Throne at the recent opening of the Provincial Parliament which she attended. Concluding her speech, she declared: "We have every reason as members of the Conservative party and as followers of the Honorable G. Howard Ferguson to be proud of the record of our party and its achievements during its term of office, and which will be even greater than it has been during the next four years."

The thanks of the Association was conveyed to Mrs. Fallis by Miss Peck.

ITALY LIKELY FOLLOW FRANCE

Refusal To Accept President Coolidge's Naval Proposal Clearly Foreshadowed.

SELF-PROTECTION.

ROME, Feb. 17. — (Canadian Press.)— Italy's refusal to accept President Coolidge's proposal for a conference on supplementary naval disarmament is clearly foreshadowed in a semi-official communique issued last night. In this Italy is taking the same path followed by France and for practically the same reason—self protection.

The reply itself, dealing directly with the United States' memorandum, has not yet been made public, but this is a matter probably of hours.

The attitude of the Italian government is explained in authoritative quarters in Rome as having been taken on the ground that Italy could not accept any limitation of her small ships, which are absolutely necessary for her own defence, in view of her economic position and the length of her coast line and the need to protect her traffic and also communications with her colonies.

Any other attitude, it is declared, would have been a reunciation of what is one of the chief points in the Fascist programme—readiness for any event, not for aggression but for defence, and so that Italy shall be accorded due respect.

This attitude is said to have been strengthened by the refusal of France to accept the Coolidge proposal, for, however reluctant Italy may be to accept limitation of her fleet, she would be doubly so if France's navy were not similarly limited at the same time.

PERMIT CHARLESTON.

LONDON, Dec. 16.—The recent ban on the hoof-shaking modification of St. Vitus dance, the Charleston, until recently barred from most of the leading London hotels and restaurants has been lifted. Hotel managers now claim that a modification of the dance, adopted in London, has made of it a graceful, smooth dance, in place of the sudden lurches and fidgety jumps that marked the old Charleston.

Indore Riots Continue, Nine Dead, 50 Injured

BOMBAY, Feb. 17.—(United Press.) — Nine persons were killed and 50 were wounded in a series of riots, spread over two days, between Mohammedans and Hindus in Indore City, advices reaching here yesterday said.

The playing of music by Hindus before a Mohammedan mosque angered the Mohammedans, it was reported, and precipitated the disturbances.

Fearful of new outbreaks, the state cavalry, assisted by policemen, were patrolling the city.

A Hindu nobleman and 16 others were reported to have been arrested.

MANITOBA RETAINS PROTECTION ON ELK

Will Not Open Any Part of the Preserve Until Next Year.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 12 (By Canadian Press).—Definite decision of the provincial government to keep the inner area of the Riding Mountain game preserve permanently closed to ensure the preservation of elk and to postpone declaration of an open season in the outer fringe of the preserve for another year at least, was announced in a statement issued on authority of Hon. A. Prefontain, minister of agriculture. The decisions were reached after consideration of petitions received by the minister which urged that the preserve be thrown open for the shooting of elk for a short period each fall. The minister in stating that it was the intention of the government to clear the boundary lines of the inner area next year to insure effective patrol, declared a desire to perpetuate the herd, said to be the only large herd of elk living under natural conditions in Canada.

IN POLICE COURT.

A young man was fined $40 and costs for false registration at a local hotel.

A young married woman pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy and was remanded for one week as the police have issued a warrant for the apprehension of her husband, in an effort to get at the bottom of the case.

The accused was arrested by Constable W. Piercy.

There has recently been a great fluttering in the dovecotes of professional mannequins, and many of these lovely ladies are thinking of turning to some other occupation as a means of livelihood. This is in consequence of the appearance of the mechanical mannequin, which poses and postures and twists its figure around in the traditional mannequin style to display the frock to the greatest advantage.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

FOLKS WHO DON'T HAVE TROUBLE

Some folks don't have trouble,
Never know a care,
Never have a little fuss
With no one anywhere.
Trouble with their women,
Trouble with their men—
So they never know the joy
Of makin' up again.

Some folks don't have losses,
Landin' in the ditch,
But the man who's never poor
Is seldom very rich.
Some folks never worry,
Never know defeat,
Never know the bitter or Appreciate the sweet.

Some folks never stumble,
So they never rise;
Nothin' ever hurts a man
Who nothin' ever tries.
But I'll keep on climbin'
Climbin' though I fall—
Folks who don't have trouble don't Have anything at all.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story.

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY IN A DARK HOLE

Perhaps you may remember how I told you, in a story last week, about Uncle Wiggily's secret closet beneath the stairs in his hollow stump bungalow. From that closet, you know, the little bunny boys and girls, including Baby Bunty, were told to keep away.

"And you always must do what mother and daddy say," declared Jingle, a little rabbit girl.

"Most specially around Christmas time," said Jangle, her sister.

So, though from this secret closet, at times, came strange noises, not one of the little bunnies would so much as try to peer through the keyhole nor would they even stand very close to the little bunnies would so much as try to peer through the keyhole nor would they even stand very close to the door.

What did it matter if, sometimes, there sounded the rattle and rustle of paper from the closet.

"It is only Nurse Jane putting away some scraps," Tooter would say.

What matter if, sometimes, there came from the secret closet the clatter, whizz and click as if play toys were being wound up and tried to see how they ran—engines, motors, tops, ships, toy automobiles and the like of that—what matter?

"It is only the squeaking and creaking of the hinges on the door of the secret closet," Scooter would say to his brothers. Then the little boy rabbit would take hold of his own ears and lead himself away from the closet and the other bunny boys did the same.

And as the days passed and Christmas came nearer and nearer more noises seemed to come from the secret, dark closet under the bungalow stairs.

"But we must keep away from it, we must not go near it, we must not listen, we must not peek through the key hole," said Tingle.

That's what we must, and must not do," echoed Tangle.

But one day something happened.

But one day somethi8- 8--e8e8. Custer and Buster, two of the little boy rabbits, had been to the store for their mother. I think it was to get a dozen yeast cakes or a loaf of pie or something like that. Really it doesn't matter. But as they reached the hollow stump bungalow and went in the kitchen, no one was there, and Custer and Buster put the dozen of yeast cakes or the pound of milk, or whatever it was on the table. Then, as they were going out to play in the snow and talk about Christmas, all of a sudden, from about Christmas, all of a sudden, from the secret closet came a voice shouting:

"Let me out! Let me out! I'm in a dark hole! Let me out!"

"Oh!" gasped Custer. "Did you hear that?"

"I surely did," answered Buster. "What was it?"

"Sounded like one of the bad chaps," went on Custer.

"Or else, maybe, a talking doll with a phonograph inside her," said his brother.

"How could a talking doll get in that closet?" Custer wanted to know.

"Well, lots of queer things happen around Christmas time," said his brother "and maybe——"

Again the voice called:

"Charcoal! Charcoal! I'm in a dark hole! Let me out!"

"Oh," cried Buster. "I'm sure it's the Fuzzy Fox."

"Or the Skillery Scallery Alligator!" added Custer. "What shall we do?"

"Let him stay in! We don't want him to come out and bite us!" said Buster.

Again the voice called:

"Let me out! I'm in a dark hole!" and just then Mrs. Longears, who was Uncle Wiggily's wife, came hurrying into the kitchen. She saw the little bunnies standing there.

"Run away, my dears!" she said sweetly.

"But, Mother!" objected Custer, "there's some one in the dark hole."

"I know there is, my dears," went on the rabbit lady. "It's your father. He went in there and the door must have blown shut and the catch is on the outside. Run along and I'll let him out." And as Custer and Buster hurried out of the kitchen, they had a glimpse of their father rabbit, with a very red face, coming from the dark hole where he had been shut in by accident.

"I wonder why mother didn't want us near the secret closet when she let Daddicums out?" said Custer.

"Because it's too near Christmas!" answered Tingle, and she laughed.

So none of the bunnies yet knew what was in the dark hole. But if the bottle of ink will scrub itself white with a cake of soap, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's Christmas hors.

MOTOR TRIP MARKED

Manitoba Maples Planted in New Orleans in Memory of Excursion.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—A group of Manitoba maple trees in the public park in New Orleans, La., will commemorate the "Palm-to-Pine" sociability trip undertaken by a group of businessmen of the southern city, to Winnipeg, last fall.

Arrangements have been made by the city council of New Orleans for importation of the saplings, which will be planted along one of the principal paths of the park.

KEEN INTEREST TAKEN

European Nations Study Co-operative Enterprise in Saskatchewan.

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—European nations are taking a keen interest in the development of the co-operative enterprise in Saskatchewan. Considerable interest was aroused in Switzerland recently by an article written by George Keen, general assistant secretary of the Co-operative Union of Canada, dealing with the Canadian wheat pools. Following a request from Switzerland for further information, applications for wheat-pool data were received from organizations in Sweden and Poland.

A soviet agricultural society in Moscow also has written to the provincial government asking for particulars of wheat-pool organization and operation. The Russian society asks that the weekly bulletin issued by the market branch of the provincial department of agriculture be forwarded regularly.

CAVAN BLAZERS DID GOOD WORK

People in Trouble Helped and Nuisances Remedied.

The story of the Cavan Blazers is a picturesque episode in the history of Peterborough and district. Although they have long passed away, we still find many memories of them creeping up in recollections of older citizens, in the press and in literature dealing with the rise and development of this part of Canada.

In the earlier half of last century that part of the country where Fraserville now stands was known as Egypt. Like the land of the Pharaohs, this Ontarian Egypt had its lean years, and its seasons of plenty. The year 1846 bade well to be one of the leanest, not through failure of the harvest, but on account of an intermittent fever which prostrated the settlers on the low-swampy lands, and in spite of the valiant efforts of the solitary, overworked doctor in the district, took its toll of death and affliction. Those who survived were so weakened that they were unable to gather in the crops. The harvest was in danger of being lost when the more fortunate settlers whose location on higher ground had saved them from the disease, came to the rescue. After working all day in their own fields, these good Samaritans of Cavan took turns at night, working under the light of the moon, in gathering in the crops of their neighbours. They came to the job on horseback; one man carrying a rake, another a cradle and, in this way, all the needful implements were furnished. It was not everybody who had a saddle in those days. There was one farmer with a very stingy reputation, who refused to lend his saddle for this very praiseworthy campaign, but the moonlight harvesters "borrowed" it nevertheless. The unwilling lender, in public and private conversation gave free vent to his wrath at this procedure, until he was silenced by the receipt of the following missive:

"It has come to the notice of those who are trying to save the crops of the sick and the dying that you are slandering better men than yourself. If you do not stop this at once we will pay you a visit, and if we do you will never forget it."

Signed by order of the committee,
Blazes (see'y).

Now this name was undoubtedly selected by the secretary chiefly for the reason that it was not his, but the communication caused considerable perturbation in the breast of the recipient, who instead of reading Blazes, thought the signature was Blazers. This name, inappropriate as it was, stuck, and in the following year when similar conditions prevailed, and the same good work repeated, the rumor spread through the countryside that the Cavan Blazers were at work.

Blazers Aid Cupid.

The next exploit of the Blazers was the rescue of a love-lorn maiden, who was about to be forced by her parents into a loveless marriage. She appealed for aid to the Blazers, and a party of men appeared at the house, carried her out and hurried her away to the home of a parson where she was united to the man of her choice. The parents were indignant, and announced their intention of settling no marriage portion whatever on their daughter, until a timely hint from the Blazers that undesirable consequences would ensue, made them alter their minds.

At a later date many acts of malicious mischief were perpetrated on cattle belonging to farmers of the district. These were attributed to the Blazers, but subsequent investigation proved them to be the work of men who were strangers entirely to the district. But a bad precedent was thus set, and many acts resulting from private quarrels and individual malice were, on very flimsy evidence, put to the account of the Cavan Blazers. No foul act was ever proved against them.

The Calf in the Church-yard.

The Blazers appear to have been a self-constituted vigilance committee. A good example of their methods of work is the means by which they disciplined a storekeeper, who frequently grazed a calf of which he was the owner, in the cemetery. After some warnings were given without producing any effect, the Blazers got busy, and one fine Sunday morning, the storekeeper found his calf boxed within a crockery crate, placed at the front door of the store, the crate being held in position by a heavy stone, and closed on the top by a large block of wood. The calf was no longer put to graze in the church yard!

Ate His Own Words.

More drastic was the way in which they dealt with a hostile critic who had rushed into print in expression of his opinion of the Blazers. He was surrounded one dark night by a number of determined men, who handed him a copy of what he had written and actually forced him to eat his words. Nor was this all. As a further penalty he was made to shout into the midnight air this humiliating confession, "I am the greatest liar on earth."

A preacher in the neighbourhood prayed publicly for the conversion of the Blazers. Some members of the fraternity resented this, and the sequel was that the clergyman walking along a lonely road at night found himself unexpectedly accompanied by a number of men, who insisted on his getting down on his knees on the dusty road, to pray for the success of the efforts of the Blazers to maintain order in the community. The preacher complied, thinking discretion the better part of valor.

The Minister and the Bell.

Another preacher got in wrong with some of the Blazers through the excessive length of his sermons. A widow, who lived opposite the church also incurred displeasure by allowing her calf, which had a bell attached to its neck, to wander around the church during the hours of worship. The Blazers resolved to kill two birds with one stone. The bell was taken from the calf, and suspended from the telegraph wires beside the church. The result was that when the preacher overtaxed the endurance of his auditors the bell clanged immoderately, and the two objects of the Blazers were achieved—the sermons became shorter and the calf ceased to be a nuisance.

Although the Blazers were all Orangemen, there is no evidence that the organization ever developed into an anti-Roman Catholic faction; indeed, on some occasions they sought and obtained the help of their Roman Catholic fellow settlers, in carrying out their projects. A pleasing story is told of how the Blazers, in one part of the community that contained only one Roman Catholic, rallied to that individual's help in sickness, and stooked all his fields as an expression of good-will.

Today conditions are much altered, but there is still room for an organization that is ready to lend a hand to the needy. We have many such bodies, but we really cannot have too many. There is no need however, of an organization that undertakes to punish the refractory. That is the province of the law, and in proportion to the extent that the corrective functions are usurped by extra-legal organizations, the prestige of the law and the standard of civilization of the community diminishes.

CALLED ON FOR ZINC

World Shortage Result in Demand on British Columbia.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—British Columbia is being called upon to meet the world shortage of zinc.

The British coal strike and several other economic factors have resulted in a general decline of zinc production in almost every region where the mineral is found with the exception of British Columbia. This province, comparatively unaffected by the disorganization of industry, felt in other parts of the world as a result of the prolonged strike, has taken its cue from the drop in production elsewhere and has rolled up a new record for itself.

Stocks of zinc, however, are generally low everywhere and prices have been rising steadily. Output of zinc in British Columbia has advanced accordingly, and the value of the output this year will be approximately $9,000,000. Most of the zinc is being taken out of the Sullivan mine, in the Kootenay, where until a few years ago the ores were regarded as so complex that successful smelting was not attempted.

MAY INCREASE TRADE

Volume of Business Between Japan and Canada is Improving Rapidly.

VANCOUVER, Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—Canada stands to increase her share of trade with Japan on an enormous scale next year, in the opinion of Canadians and Japanese who have arrived here recently from the Orient.

Already the volume of business between this country and Japan has vastly increased since the period following the earthquake, but it would undoubtedly be on a much larger scale were it not for the heavy obligations of the Tokio government and private interests as a direct result of that disaster.

The Japanese money market is prevented from returning to normal by the problem of these "earthquake bills," amounting to approximately $115,000,000, according to advices received by business interests here.

Several moratorium arrangements have been made by the Japanese government since the earthquake to relieve the financial crisis and when the Imperial Diet met last October a further extension was granted for one year for the discounting of losses up to $50,000,000.

The "earthquake bills" originally were about $215,000,000 and about $100,000,000 of them have been redeemed. In other words, the country is gradually rebuilding its credit and is becoming more and more able to buy extensively in world markets. Evidence of this is shown in the fact that Japan will be the heaviest foreign buyer of British Columbia this year, with the single exception of the United States.

Laxatives are dangerous said 2/3 of the doctors

Copyright 1926 Standard Oil Co. (N. J.)

RECENTLY we asked doctors, all over the country, the proper treatment for constipation. Two-thirds condemned the continued use of laxatives and cathartics. More than three-quarters favored the Nujol type of treatment.

No one knows better than the doctor the greater safety of the gentle lubricant. As one doctor said, "It is the most natural aid to normal activity of the bowels. The trouble with laxatives is that they irritate and stimulate the digestive tract too much. Laxatives bring on the laxative habit."

Doctors Advise Nujol

Nine doctors out of every ten told us they were advising the Nujol type of treatment for their patients in place of laxatives—and for these reasons: 1. Nujol is not habit-forming; 2. A more natural method; 3. A lubricant is better than a laxative; 4. Does not gripe; 5. Is not irritating; and 6. Nujol gives lasting relief.

Unlike Laxatives

Laxatives and cathartics act by irritating the intestinal tract. They cause the bowels to frantically expel the contents of the intestines and thus rid the system of the drugs that pills and potions contain.

Nujol acts entirely differently. It contains no drugs, no medicine. Its action is mechanical. It merely softens the dried waste matter in the intestines and lubricates the passage so that the muscles of the bowels can expel the waste matter regularly, naturally and thoroughly.

Nature-given Remedy

Nujol appeals to the medical man because it is a simple, scientific and safe remedy for constipation, no matter how severe the case may be. It is gentle in its action and pleasant to take. Children love it.

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today. Doctors advise it for constipation, whether chronic or temporary. Avoid substitutes.

GOOD WORK.

The building programme proposed by the Board of Education seems to be regarded by the majority of citizens as a business-like plan of dealing with the problem of Collegiate Institute accommodation.

The Board in considering the whole question has shown a commendable desire to keep expenditure on this work down to as low a level as consistent with providing what is needed.

There is no extravagance in what is proposed; there are no luxuries, no frills.

The Board is recommending a programme that will furnish the accommodation and facilities at present lacking at the minimum cost.

Upon this policy the members of the Board deserve general thanks; they have dealt with a big problem in a manner that commends itself to the public as typical of good business methods and sound economy.

CANADA'S JUBILEE.

The personnel of the National Committee that is to be appointed in a short time to make plans for the celebration of Canada's sixtieth anniversary is such as to guarantee that a programme will be drafted worthy of the historic importance of the occasion.

It will include the Governor-General, Premier MacKenzie King and several members of his Cabinet, the Lieutenant-Governors and Premiers of the nine Provinces, and many other representative Canadians who can be counted upon to evolve a worth-while celebration.

Among the features that are mentioned as likely to be included is the lighting of 10,000 beacon fires across the Dominion.

This revival of an old-time custom appeals to the imagination as one spectacular way in which the people of Canada can co-operate in observing the Diamond Jubilee of the Dominion.

The present year should long be remembered by Canadians by reason of the huge festivals in connection with Canada's sixtieth birthday.

TO HELP AMATEUR SPORT.

With the decision of the Ontario Government to collect a tax of 2 per cent. from all forms of professional sport in order that the Ontario Athletic Commission may carry on and expand its work on behalf of amateur athletics in the Province, there will be little fault found.

Racing, boxing and wrestling have been taxed for some years, and the new bill will add professional hockey, baseball, football and other professional sports to the list.

Splendid work has been done by the Commission in sending coaches into rival districts to instruct teachers and pupils in track and field athletics and other forms of sport, and it is anticipated that the results of this campaign will be seen when Canada's next Olympic team is being selected.

The new levy will provide the Commission with additional funds, and the activities of the organization will as a result be extended in various ways.

Those who appreciate the value of amateur sport will agree that the fine work of the Commission justify the decision to tax commercial sport to help pay the cost.

ADVERTISING CANADA.

The Examiner has received a copy of an advertisement published in the principal British papers by the Empire Marketing Board, calling attention to the qualities of Canadian apples.

The advertisement is worth reproducing. Here it is:

"Buy Canadian Apples.—You can eat Empire apples all the year round. Just now home-grown apples are becoming scarce, and in the orchards of Australia and New Zealand the apple harvest has yet to begin. But now is the time for Canadian apples. Ask for them. In the grey winter months you'll enjoy this superb fruit, ripened, coloured and mellowed by the golden sunshine of many a long Canadian summer day.

"British Empire apples are unsurpassed in quality. They cost no more than foreign. Buy them from Canada now and so 'keep the money in the family' for the benefit of your own people and your own friends."

Canadians are not as familar as they should be with the Empire Marketing Board and the work it is doing to further the sales of Canadian produce in the United Kingdom.

The Board was established by the British Government on the recommendation of the Imperial Economic Committee with an annual grant of £1,000,000 (in the current financial year £500,000).

Its function is to stimulate the consumption of Empire products in the United Kingdom, and the advertisement quoted above is merely one of a series advertising various special commodities that are to be published this year.

The efforts of the Board should have the co-operation of the Canadian Government, and especially of the Canadian producers.

The campaign is manifestly of great importance to Canada.

BUSINESS EXPEDITED IN BOTH HOUSES.

On Friday last, Hon. H. H. Stevens, speaking for the Conservative Opposition, called attention to the rapidity with which important estimates had been passed in the House, and stated that the Opposition had shown co-operation to expedite public business. He also congratulated the Ministers on the facility with which they afforded information, and took it all as an augury that Parliament would close its session, with its programme carried out, in moderate time. Mr. Stevens also declared that in his seventeen sessions he had never witnessed quite the same desire on all sides to avoid controversy, and speed things up.

There is no doubt but that the country expects Parliament to do business. There was a surfeit of party bitterness in the last two sessions, and the country breathed a sigh of relief when the air was finally cleared by a decisive result at the election. There is much to be done in Parliament, and it is rather refreshing that member after member is not found talking to Hansard for the edification of his constituents back home and no one else. This is costly business, excusable only in part, when it happens in the last session before an appeal to the country.

The Ontario Legislature is also making good progress, and there is talk of the present being the shortest session on record. The Budget will be brought down this week, and after that the Government control law. The latter may be the subject of a long drawn out debate or it may not be. There is little question but that the Government will bring in a measure which will have the solid support of its own side and several others on the Liberal side. The debate which transpires will be merely an effort to suggest improvements, and the Government, it is stated, is inclined to accept any good feature which may be suggested. But the representatives at Queen's Park will not have long to tarry. They will all be home before the spring plowing is necessary and certainly before the harvest of hay is gathered.—St. Catharines Standard.

NATIONAL DEFENCE.

Premier Bruce of Australia, on his recent trip through Canada, made quite clear his opinion of this country's laxness in providing money for defence. He has got some rapping over the knuckles for his presumption, by no less a person than our own Premier, Mackenzie King, and though many felt the sting of his comment, there is still real truth in what he said. No doubt the main object of Premier Bruce was to develop public opinion on this point, and he has roused this country to action.

The "colonies" have been less eager to assume the responsibilities of self-government than they were to get its privileges. We took over the revenue and the control of internal affairs, and in addition, we sat in at the League of Nations and pretty well attend to our own external affairs. In fact, it was only the status of quasi-independence that made representation in the League possible. But not a dollar for Imperial defence! We have, it is true, extended to the Mother Country valuable preferences under our tariff, but it is doubtful if these benefits in any degree lighten the burden of defence on the British citizen.

And so long as nations have to maintain a strong hand, there must be navies, army organization, air forces and equipment. We can pretty well accept Great Britain's estimate of what is required. Though each self-governing colony will no doubt wish to control its own property and forces, at least in time of peace they should certainly be established as units in an imperial system. The ultimate value of military organization and equipment lies in their fighting effectiveness, and this can be achieved only under unified control. In the late war all the Empire forces acted under a single control, and it was even found advisable to have a commander-in-chief for the whole allied organization.

Though with this, as with other departments of expenditure, the Government will hardly care to go as far as the experts or the enthusiasts would like, there is unquestionably a need for action in the form of money votes. We should have in Canada some naval units, not necessarily forming a complete navy, and some training ships; some land forces, and volunteer militia; and some semblance of an air force. Out of a total outlay of $350,000,000 estimated for the present fiscal year, just $12,500,000, or less than four per cent., goes for defence.

And since we are now committed to public economy, with which public policy this journal concurs, we should bear in mind that such outlay for defence is not new expenditure. It would merely mean the assumption by Canada, and by other parts of the Empire, of burdens which rightly belong to them. It is just another stage in colonial responsibility.—Monetary Times.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press). — The demand from the United Kingdom and the Continent for Canadian grain on the Montreal market continued dull yesterday.

There was some enquiry from exporters for Manitoba Spring wheat on the local market and sales of No. 1 Northern were made at 14 3-4c per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, and No. 2 Northern at 7 1-4c per bushel over c.i.f. Bay ports. The trade in coarse grains was quiet and prices were steady.

A feature of the flour trade was the slight improvement in the demand from the United Kingdom and a moderate amount of business was done for February shipment. Apart from this the market was quiet. The trade in Winter wheat flour was quiet but firm.

The undertone to the market for all lines of millfeed was steady but the demand was quiet. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats continued slow, but prices were unchanged.

The weakness that developed in the local egg situation on Tuesday was more pronounced yesterday and prices scored a further decline of one cent per dozen. This was due to the more liberal receipts. The market was modgrately active. The receipts were 2,177 cases.

The potato market contnued quiet but the feeling was steady. Car lots of Prince Edward Green Mountains were quoted at $1.75 to $1.80 per bag of 90 pounds, and Quebec white stock at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag of 90 pounds, in bulk, ex-track.

The condition of the market for beans is somewhat unsettled at present on account of the more liberal arrivals, but there was no changes in prices. Sales of odd cars of choice white hand-picked were made at $2.75 per bushel, and smaller quantities at $3.00 per bushel.

A moderate amount of business was done in butter and prices were steady at the recent declines noted. The receipts were 22 packages. The cheese trade continued quiet but firm. The receipts were 26 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—Helped by strength of rye, wheat rallied yesterday from an early downturn. German reports were bullish as to rye, saying farm deliveries had stopped almost completely. Rye closed firm, 1-2 to 1 3-8 net higher, with wheat irregular, 1-8c net lower to 3-8c gain; corn 1-4 to 1 cent down; oats unchanged to 1-4c off, and provisions 2 to 15 cents up.

In connection with the notable upward trend of rye yesterday, the fact was pointed out that if Germany needs anything like 20,000,000 bushels, as contended in some quarters, the supply available either from the United States or Canada is far from heavy.

Absorption of surplus offerings in the wheat market readily ensued, and gave a lively upturn to the wheat market just before the close. Talk of wheat export business under way at Winnipeg helped wheat to advance. Earlier the wheat market here tended downward.

Corn and oats were weak, cash demand being slow, with receipts more than ample for current needs. Provisions advanced.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Letters to be printed in the Voice of the People column must be received at The Examiner office on the day before it is desired to have them published.

CALLS THEM 'ROUGH NECKS.'

To the Editor of Examiner:

Dear Sir: On Monday, Feb. 7th, a dance or a party of some kind was held in the Victoria Hall when some of the "rough necks" of the city thought it a good opportunity to get in some of their "dirty work," and proceeded to rip the locks of the coal bins on the lower floor. One lock has entirely disappeared.

If the guilty ones think they can get away with that kind of thing—well, time will prove.

Do they call that enjoyment? I would remind those who did such a contemptible bit of destruction that they are bringing trouble upon the innocent as well as the guilty.

EYE-WITNESS.

WANTED: A MUSSOLINI FOR CANADA.

Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: I have just finished reading Dr. Frank McCoy's article for this evening, entitled "Starving for Lime." I hope everybody will read it and that something will be done, such as Mussolini has done for Italy—given the nation a standard bread, made of coarse flour, rich in nourishment, and it has been received by all classes with enthusiasm.

Yes, we have our brown bread here in Canada, but I sometimes feel a doubt as to its genuineness; is it whole wheat, or is it just colored with molasses? I don't know, but we must have a standard bread, made of coarser flour if we want a race of standard quality.

I wish everyone would read the articles which have appeared recently in the Family Herald and Weekly Star, by Benito Mussolini particularly our members of Parliament, who it seems do nothing but talk, and as someone very vulgarly said, and see which can spit the farthest; but Mussolini has got the speeches boiled down till there's hardly any speech left. He is a man of action, not talk. My husband made the remark at teatime that Mussolini and Henry Ford were two of his ideal men. I can't say that, but I admire their practical work.

Thanking you, kind sir, I am yours truly, BROWN BREAD.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"LIKE AS HOW"

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

"Looks to me like as how Ty Cobb was still doing a pretty good job of it out there," said a baseball "fan," commenting on the work of the famous Detroit ball player.

His admiration of the famous "Ty" was justified by what he was witnessing, but it should have been expressed in better English. "Like as how" is not correct. Instead, "as if" or "as though" should be used, making the sentence: "Looks to me (or, it looks to me) as if Ty Cobb," etc., or "Looks to me as though Ty Cobb," etc.

The word "like" is frequently misused, being employed instead of "as." Webster's International Dictionary says: "The use of 'like' as a conjunction meaning 'as' (for example, 'Do like I do') though occasionally found in good literature, is a provincialism and contrary to good usage."

FOOD-IRON VS. DRUG STORE-IRON

Chemically pure mineral iron is a whitish element nearly the color of silver. Iron in its pure form is used in making steel, and used in combinations with other minerals in producing different metals for various uses.

Centuries ago it was discovered that all of the minerals found in the rocks and soil could also be found in the tissues and blood of the human body. But it was also discovered that these minerals of the body, although called by the same names as the minerals of the rocks, existed in an entirely different form in both animal and vegetable life. In this form they are called organic minerals and are no more like the minerals of the soil that pig-iron is like a pig.

This fact has been known to scientists for centuries, yet even to-day, manufacturing chemists are growing disgustingly rich selling thousands of fake iron remedies made from mineral iron combined with other chemicals more or less stimulating. When beef extract is used a certain stimulating irritation is produced from the toxic effect of the poisonous urea which has been extracted from beef. When wine is added there is an additional "kick" given to the mixture by the addition of the fifteen to twenty per cent of alcohol contained in the wine.

The iron in these medicines is the mineral iron secured by rusting scrap iron, and this finely ground metal is added by the chemist who is not restrained from suggesting on the label of the bottled remedy that this iron is the food-iron for which the blood is starving.

With all of our thoroughly qualified and conscientious chemists working on the problem of converting mineral iron into vegetable iron, there has not been a single case where this has been done. Nature still holds her secret of how a plant can convert the iron in the soil into the organic iron of plants from which source alone man and the other animals can secure it. It may be possible that this wonderful secret of nature will be some day discovered, but up to the present time such a marvelous chemical discovery has not been made.

The minerals found in minute traces in drinking waters are simply microscopic rocks which only burden the alimentary canal with foreign material, which cannot in any manner be converted into cell structure. These mineral waters are exploited as cures for everything from falling hair to fallen arches. The only good which can come from their use is through the subtle influence of the health suggestions contained in the advertising matter, which is written by clever charlatans who understand psychology better than the thousands of misguided victims who assist them to fatten their purses.

There is no mystery about the best way to secure this organic iron as it has been proven and demonstrated over and over again that all the iron needed by the body can be easily secured from certain foods. These foods are found in any grocery store and you are making a silly mistake if you are trying to get them out of a bottle.

All of the whole grains contain large amounts of food-iron, and the succulent non-starchy greens are all iron-bearing foods, easily obtainable at a low price. You have only to eat plenty of salad vegetables each day and you need never fear iron starvation.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

A GRIM RECORD

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

The liquor business is like a deadly serpent.

It is about as easy to regulate or to make legal as it is to tame a hyena.

It is essentially a wild beast.

It is unfortunately aligned with conviviality. Many people seem to think that getting drunk is a joke and the consumption of alcoholism is amusing. They speak condoningly of the use of whiskey by the youth.

Many people, and especially those engaged in wet propaganda, do not realize the deadly end of this peril.

It is an own brother to murder, hold-ups, burglary, smuggling and thuggism.

A man engaged in the business of enforcing the law of prohibition takes his life in his hands, for those in the liquor business do not hesitate to kill when it is necessary. It embraces not only low brow thugs, but millionaires and social leaders.

While the common people have declared for the abolition of alcohol there are many who are determined to go on with their consumption of liquor.

The efforts of the convivially inclined and of those who think that their personal liberty has been interfered with are influenced by one of the strongest passions in the human breast—greed.

It is difficult to enforce any law when the breaking of that law is backed up by human passions. The laws against arson, murder, adultery and theft are thousands of years old, yet they are constantly violated no matter what their evil effects.

The law against the use of liquor is aimed at the greatest curse and greatest cause of crime that humanity has ever known.

Those who see the vileness of its effects, the moral degradation of youth and the damage to business have lined up solidly for prohibition, while against the prohibitory law are those who are subtly influenced by the traditional tolerance of the human race to a habit that is supposed to be genial and pardonable.

When President Coolidge says that every effort should be made to carry out the will of the people he has the support of the great body of the American Republic, and the handling of this difficult task will be followed by that public with interest.

The trouble with bootlegging is that it pays and pays big. Whoever will take the profit out of this unholy business will be doing a great service.

A Thought For To-day

MORE THAN A COMPARISON

Mechanical equipment deteriorates by non-use. So, too, does the human mechanism that makes for co-ordination between head and hands become impaired by inactivity.

On the other hand, machinery, material and mental, should be protected against misuse, lack of care, and excessive activity.

Machines must be shut down for oiling and polishing, minds must be relaxed by rest and recreation.

Care keeps wheels whirling, health keeps humans happy and useful.

This is intended as a potent suggestion rather than as a comparison.

NO MORE PILES

Thousands Bless Dr. Leonhardt, the Physician Who Discovered This Common Sense Remedy

If you think that the surgeon's knife is the only method of escape from the misery of piles, it's because you haven't heard of the new treatment known as Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID.

The Doctor's treatment is internal. By experimenting for years he discovered the exact cause of piles and then went further and compounded a remedy that would remove the cause.

Dr. Leonhardt wants every sufferer to benefit by his discovery and so that there will be no doubting or delay. McDermid and Jury and all druggists are authorized to sell HEM-ROID with guarantee that it will do as stated or money back.

On that honorable basis every sufferer should secure a package of Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID today.

LONDON PAPERS LAUD PICTURES

Noel's Lecture-Film Was Sensation of Continent.

The Mt. Everest Motion Pictures, together with the personal story of Captain John B. Noel, official photographer with the world-famous expedition, will be shown here on the evening of February 25 at St. Paul's Church. Captain Noel, with his pictures, arrived from London early in the New Year, for an extensive American tour showing the pictures here for the first time, under arrangements being made by the Kiwanis Club of Peterboro as one of its public activities of 1927.

For the past two years this Lecture-Film was the sensation in London and also in Paris and Berlin. The London papers tell the story of the success of Captain Noel and his pictures, in most glowing terms. Comment from leading London papers follows:

LONDON DAILY EXPRESS: "It would be impossible to overpraise Captain Noel's marvelous picture, a swooping triumph for British cinematography with its awesome panoramas of Everest's stupendous crags, ice cathedrals and glaciers and its skillful" assembly" of the peak from every conceivable angle.

LONDON DAILY EXPRESS: "The Epic of Everest towers like the Himalayan peak itself over all the new scene attractions. This national film treasure, the work of Capt. J. Noel the Everest Cinematographer, will be on view for eight weeks at the Scala Theatre."

LONDON REFEREE: "The most notable achievement of all was of course that Noel the Kinematographer secured vivid pictures of Mallory and Irvin starting on their final dash for the summit, when they were within 1000 feet of the top of the world's highest mountain."

SCOTSMAN: "Tremendous in conception and wonderful in achievement both as a record of a great event and a masterpiece of photographic art, the film of the ill-fated attack on the "Roof of the World" shown for the first time to a large and enthusiastic audience at the Scala tonight, fulfills the highest expectations and justifies its resounding title of "The Epic of Everest." It is a great film."

LONDON EVENING NEWS: "Captain Noel, photographer, to this year's Mount Everest Expedition, actually got his film camera to the record height of 23,000 ft. and thus on the roof of the world secured a series of pictures of a landscape which can only be likened to the widest imagining of a futurist artist."

WORLD'S PICTORIAL NEWS: "Captain Noel has made of his picture a drama far more romantic than any invented drama."

ILLUSTRATED LONDON NEWS: "Humanity dwindles to a pin-point in comparison with the vast wind-swept solitude, the awful majesty of the mountains. Nor have I ever seen the glassy polished surfaces of ice so faithfully reproduced by the camera as in Captain Noel's series of titanic mountain pictures."

KINEMATOGRAPH (London): "Capt. Noel has captured the dignity and grandeur of Everest in scenes that must rank among the finest landscapes secured in the history of Kinematography. The point should be emphasized that a panorama has been aimed at—and achieved—instead of the kaleidoscopic view generally given in travel pictures."

THE SPHERE (London): "As an example of a film in which the impressions of natural beauty and grandeur and of the highest tragic dignity are conveyed through the cinema with an effect utterly impossible through any other known medium, one could not do much better than point to 'The Epic of Everest.'"

LONDON DAILY TELEGRAPH: "Prince Henry, who was introduced to the audience by Sir Francis" Younghusband, highly complimented Captain Noel on his wonderful film. It proved, he said, that man never knows what he could accomplish until he has made the attempt. Captain Noel has an admirable eye for the solution of points of view which supplement one another, the result being that the spectator never experiences the least sensation of lassitude."

WESTMINSTER GAZETTE: "Captain Noel, the producer, struggled with a heavy kinematograph camera to 23,000 feet (more than four miles) and by means of telephoto lenses recorded the progress of the climbers to nearly 27,000 feet. The results he achieved are strikingly beautiful. Amidst frost and blizzard he recorded an unforgettable picture of the play of the clouds, their shadows and the sun upon Everest's upper slopes."

—LONDON DAILY MAIL: "There has never been a travel film more realistic in its reproduction of the hardships and heroism of the little band of explorers w 'the roof of the world' as their goal."

THE OUTLOOK (London): "Here is a story of pluck and endurance in a setting of wild and unique beauty without a touch of 'highbrow' unfolded in a way so simple that a child could follow it. It is a strong man's story, filled with intensely dramatic episodes."

SQUIRRELS HOARD LOST GOLF BALLS

Many Found on Manitoba Course Bearing Marks of Teeth.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 15 (By Canadian Press).—Many a misdirected drive on the Windsor Park and Kildonan municipal golf courses, last summer, found their way into the winter larders of the squirrels that abound in the wooded acres of these two links.

While removing trees which presented too severe hazards to the approach of certain greens, workmen discovered several hundred golf balls, which apparently had proved an unpalatable diet for the squirrels. Most of the balls had been badly nibbled. Seized with hunger, the squirrels had abandoned their homes and the "unsavory nuts."

Before the courses were covered with snow, groundsmen had gathered in a total of 2,604 golf balls.

It is estimated that if all the penalties exacted through these lost balls, the strokes sacrificed would take an average professional player over a marathon course of about 600 miles.

Large Pimples Lasted A Year Cuticura Heals

"My face and neck were all covered with pimples. They were red, hard and large and festered and scaled over. For a while the itching and burning were so severe that I could not help scratching, and my face was disfigured. I lost my sleep for about a month on account of the irritation. The trouble lasted one year.

"I used other remedies but they failed to help me. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using it I purchased one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Ointment and in a month and a half I was healed." (Signed) Miss Emily Doll, Riverton, Man.

Clear the pores of impurities by daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment as needed to soothe and heal. Cuticura Talcum is fragrant and refreshing, an ideal toilet powder.

MANITOBA FISH HARVEST LARGE

Fishermen in Large Lakes Have Better Catch Than Last Year.

HATCHERIES FULL.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 15 (By Canadian Press).—Fishermen on Lake Manitoba and Lake Winnipegosis have had an exceptionally fine "harvest" during 1926. In Winnipegosis the catch was much better than the previous year, and although Lake Winnipeg did not make such a good showing, the 3,000,000 limit was passed a month ahead of the allotted time.

According to S. J. Walker, dominion inspector of hatcheries, 30,000,000 whitefish under incubation in the Saskatchewan hatchery at Fort Qu'Appelle and Gul Harbor had 65,000,000. Lake Winnipegosis had 110,000,000 eggs. All these were of whitefish which is practically the only useful fish in these waters to spawn in the fall, he stated. The fish will hatch in May.

CANADA'S FIRST TRAIN IN WEST

Hudson's Bay Company Had Ox-Drawn Cars in Manitoba.

ON WOODEN RAILS.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 15 (By Canadian Press).—The first railway in Canada was operated in the West, according to H. J. Symington, K.C., who, in a reminiscent address before the Winnipeg Caledonian club, reviewed the development of railway transportation in the dominion.

The road was not a steam one, but worked on the rail principal of the present-day systems. Wooden tracks were employed and the coaches hauled by oxen or human power. The line was constructed by the Hudson's Bay company from Lake Winnipeg to the lower regions of the South Saskatchewan river. It was used by the company to avoid Grand rapids en route to the Hudson Bay, which was the port for the company's merchant vessels from England.

The first steam-driven locomotive was tested over the Champlain-St. Lawrence line and the experiment was made at night in case some persons might object to it as dangerous, Mr. Symington said.

Relating the story of the establishment of locomotive transportation in the United States, the speaker stated that in Carolina the law necessitated that cotton be piled against the rear of the engine to protect the passengers in the cars behind in case the boiler exploded. This legislation had been enforced after a negro engineer, who took dislike to the hissing of the steam through the safety outlet sat on the valve to stop it. The boiler exploded and the train wrecked.

As in England, public opinion had been against the new invention on wheels, and one instance was cited by Mr. Symington where a German doctor maintained that if cows were allowed to graze near the tracks, the fumes from the engine would furn their milk sour.

Railway transportation had been established only after a great struggle but history showed that the development of a country or its people, went with its transportation.

'GOOD OLD DAYS' ARE RECALLED

Not as Good Nor as Happy as Present, Says Veteran.

BETTER SPIRIT.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 15 (By Canadian Press).—"People speak of the 'good old times' but they weren't as good nor as happy as they are to-day. There is more willingness to help the other fellow nowadays, a better spirit of friendship, the standard of living is higher and people generally are more comfortable." This from D. Barnwell, who has just retired as general tie agent in Winnipeg for the Canadian Pacific railway after forty-four years of service.

Mr. Barnwell recalls the days when construction of the first trans-continental railway was regarded as a doubtful undertaking; when laying of steel to Port Arthur had not been completed; when Main street in Winnipeg was a straggling trail, over which the bullock carts used to plow up to their hubs in mud. He mentioned the gala celebration on the day that a plank sidewalk was laid on Princess street, now one of the principal business arteries of the Manitoba capital.

Prior to commencement of construction of the C. P. R., the white population from Port Arthur, then known as Prince Albert Landing, to Vancouver, did not exceed 10,000 persons. Mr. Barnwell referred to the demonstration that greeted the arrival of the first passenger train in Winnipeg. Hundreds of citizens, including the mayor and leading businessmen were at the small station when the train pulled in, gaily decorated with flags. Cheers followed it when it departed on its historic run to the Pacific coast. Shortly after a daily service was inaugurated, Mr. Barnwell said.

'ORIGINALS' STAR INHERITS FORTUNE

Uncle in Corsica Leaves Large Estate To Lionel Broadway.

SASKATOON, Sask., Feb. 15 (By Canadian Press).—"Dame Fortune" has smiled on Lionel Broadway, a well-known entertainer of this city, and formerly a member of the "Originals," the concert troupe of ex-servicemen.

Lionel has been notified by a firm of solicitors that he has fallen heir to an enormous fortune left by his uncle in Corsica. The estate is reported to include several castles, a great deal of land, a vineyard and money amounting to about a million in Corsican currency.

A cablegram from the executors of the estate contains only one possible flaw in the way of Mr. Broadway securing full control of the estate. It requests that he bring with him to Corsica, a native Corsican, who is said to know another mysterious relative.

Mr. Broadway has made arrangement for a hurried trip to Corsica and will remain away at least two months, but he declares his fortune will be spent in Canada where he has found "the greatest happiness and success."

Could Not Sleep Heart and Nerves Were So Bad

Mr. Geo. Mesk, Windsor, Ont., writes:—"I suffered with my heart and nerves and could not sleep at night for noises in my head. I managed to keep at my work somehow, until I began to have dizzy spells which got so bad I could not go to my work. I was afraid to go out any place, for very often I would stagger on my feet, and everything in front of me would turn black and fade away. While I was home sick a friend told me to take MILBURN'S HEART NERVE PILLS. I got four boxes and by the time I had used them the pains and noises in my head ceased and I was able to get a good night's rest. Although that was six years ago I have never been troubled with that complaint again."

THEATRE

AT THE GRAND

ABIE'S IRISH ROSE

The advance sale of seats for the engagement of Anne Nichols' famous record breaking "Abie's Irish Rose" which will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House Monday night will open at the box office tomorrow morning, and if the mail orders and inquiries received by the management can be taken as a criterion, the house will be sold out for this performance.

This is the same great record breaking play that for almost five years has been the reigning New York success at the Republic Theatre in the metropolis, where it is still playing.

As the demand is very large, the management advises those who wish to witness the play here to secure their seats as early as possible and avoid disappointment.

The Box Office will be open daily from ten a.m. until nine p.m.

AT THE REGENT

STOLEN FRUIT PUTS HILARIOUS HARRY LANGDON ON ROCK PILE

Harry Langdon, First National comedy king, is shown working on the rock-pile in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," his first feature-length comedy. The picture is now showing at the Regent Theatre here.

The unfortunate circumstances is the result of the comic's stealing fruit from the wayside while engaged in a cross-country hike. Under the impression that stolen fruit is sweeter than that which is normally procured, Harry purloins a watermelon and other delicacies.

A posse of irate farmers catch Harry red-handed with the loot. After a thorough search the missing watermelon is found hidden under his shirt.

Harry works on the rock-pile until a general jail delivery frees him. He carries his ball and chain with him, however.

The theme of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" is a cross-country walking race. Harry enters it to lift the mortgage from the house and also to win the hand of a very wealthy and beautiful girl.

In the course of the hike Harry meets with all the misfortunes that a cross-country walker can possibly be afflicted with. In addition to the prison incident, he is caught in a cyclone and whirled over the Great American Desert.

This cyclone was a masterwork of screen photography. The movie cameraman had to be lashed to trees and posts to prevent being blown away.

The story of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" is an original with Harry.

Harry Edwards, associated with Langdon since the days of his short comedies, directed. The supporting cast includes Joan Crawford, Tom Murray, Edwards Davis, Alec Francis and Brooks Benedict.

C.W.L. CONCERT MUCH ENJOYED

Ladies Present Splendid Programme in St. Alphonsus' Lyceum.

MUSICAL EVENING.

Under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League, a very enjoyable concert was held in the auditorium of St. Alphonsus' Lyceum last evening, the first vice-president, Mrs. M. Henry, presiding. A programme, arranged by the second vice-president, Miss Geraldine Collins, was given to a very appreciative audience, and included the following numbers: Two selections played by the orchestra of St. Peter's High School, with Miss Mary Reynolds at the piano. The orchestra, a very tuneful small organization, played "America Forever" and a medley of operatic airs.

Vocal solos were rendered by Miss Minnie Allen, singing "Down the Vale" and "Shadow Time"; Miss E. Jackson, singing "Danny Boy" and "In Time of Roses"; Miss Florence Murray, singing "Memory's Garden" and "Gingham Gown"; Miss Catheleen McCarthy, singing "The Blind Ploughman" and "Duna"; and Mr. Ted Bartley, singing Tosti's "In My Dreams" and "Absent."

Miss Lillian Simons gave two readings, which were enthusiastically received. in "The Housekeepers' Soliloquy" and "Follerin' the Band," and solo numbers on the piano were rendered by Miss Martha Baumer, playing Mendelssohn's "Rondo Capriccioso," and "All the World is Waiting for the Sunrise," Miss Louise Letellier, playing Nollet's "Elegie in C. Minor," and Mr. J. Schooley, who played "Donnybrook Fair" and "Spring Showers." A duet on the piano, "Le Secret," was played by Mrs. F. A. Hodgson and Miss Margaret McCabe.

Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. F. A. Hogson and the Misses Margaret McCabe, Louise Letellier and Agnes Grant. Miss Norah Shevlin and Miss Mamie McCarthy officiated at the door.

WOMEN'S MUSIC CLUB MEETING

Splendid Paper Read on British Composers and Compositions.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

The fortnightly meeting of the Women's Music Club was held yesterday afternoon in the studios at the Conservatory of Music, with a good attendance. The subject of the afternoon was "British Composers and Compositions," the paper being given by Miss Catheleen McCarthy, of The Examiner staff, with an especially interesting musical programme, arranged by Mrs. P. P. Westbye, Mrs. F. Hills, and Mrs. J. E. Middleton. The president, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, made the preliminary announcements.

The programme included vocal solos by Mrs. J. E. Middleton, who sang "O, Lovely Night" by Landon Ronald, and "I Heard you Singing," by Eric Coates; Mrs. Fred Free, of Campbellford, singing "Thoughts have Wings," by Lize Lehmann, and "The Glory of the Sea," by Wilfred Sanderson; and Miss Margaret Dickson, singing two old English airs arranged by Lane Wilson; 'Shepherd! Thy Demeanor Vary," and "A Pastoral," also instrumental numbers in pianoforte arrangements of Cyril Scott's "Danse Nigre in C," and "Pierrot Lento in D Flat," played by Mrs. P. P. Westbye; Percy Grainger's 'Shepherd's Hey," played by Mrs. F. Hills, and a violin duo by Mrs. Percy Cooper, in J. H. Foulds' "Keltic Lament," and Healey Willans "Romance." Accompanists of the afternoon were Mrs. F. A. Logan, Miss Agnes Logan, and Miss Gwen Donley.

Miss McCarthy outlined the story of music in the British Isles, concentrating on England, commencing with a reference to the monks who fostered and cherished the music of their time in ancient manuscripts, which are still preserved in University archives. Later came the "golden age of the madrigal," in the Elizabethan era, and in 1658 Henry Purcell was born, "the greatest musician that England has ever given us," as it has been claimed by musical commentators.

The life of Handel, the "Saxon Giant," who, although a native of Germany, achieved his greatest success in England, and was naturalized in that country, was referred to, also Michael William Balfe, the Irishman, who gave so many "Heart songs" to the world, in his 'Bohemian Girl" and other operas.

William Sterndale Bennett was another stalwart of early days, and the moderns included such names as as those of Elgar, Stainer Sir Arthur Sullivan, "who set England laughing at itself," Parry, Stanford, Delius, Coleridge-Taylor, Grainger, Cyril Scott, the believer in occult philosophy, and its influence on music, Goossens, Arthur Bliss and many others.

LADIES COMMENCE PAGEANT SEWING

Preparing Costumes For Children For Annual Y.W.C.A. Show.

A meeting of the Sewing Committee in connection with the Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium Pageant was held this week. Miss Littlefield outlined the various costumes to be made and announced that webs of material had already been bought. Sewing machines have been loaned by several members of the Y.W.C.A. and also by the Hall Store, George street Church, and Murray street Church.

The committee decided to adopt the method which was so successful last year and already several ladies have volunteered to each get a group and be responsible for one set of costumes.

The committee extends an invitation to every one interested in the Y.W.C.A. and this big Pageant to come down and help with the making of costumes any afternoon or evening.

CLEAN YOUR RECORDS

Buy a little gasoline and just before fitting the record to the gramophone dip a wad of cotton wool into the gasoline. Rub the record gently all over in the direction of the "tune." Then go over the surface with a silk handkerchief. This will successfully remove all the almost invisible specks of dust that have accumulated, and the record will sound almost as good and fresh as when first bought.

Fill Out Ugly Hollows with Firm Flesh

New Yeast and Iron Puts on Pounds of Weight in Only 3 Weeks—or pay nothing

Women and men are amazed at the almost magic effects of IRONIZED YEAST. After a single course treatment — thin, weak bodies are brought up in weight and strength. Flesh is made round and firm. Hollows filled out. Skin made satiny smooth with the glow of girlhood. How is this done?

Yeast and Iron have always been considered two of the greatest body and blood builders by medical science. They contain those vital food elements that build up solid flesh, correct skin and digestion troubles and enrich the blood. IRONIZED YEAST contains these two ingredients in highly concentrated form which is also times more effective than yeast and iron taken alone. IRONIZED YEAST gives you all the weight-building benefits contained in cod liver oil.

So it is natural that after taking IRONIZED YEAST you will notice an amazing improvement in your health, appearance and spirits. The skin loses its sallow, pimply, blotchy look, pounds of good flesh are taken on and your digestion and bowel action are wonderfully improved.

So, don't have a skinny, weak body that looks as though it had never been fed enough. Don't go around with an ugly skin. Take IRONIZED YEAST. 60 tasty tablets to a package. Safe for everybody; contains no harmful drugs.

FOOD IRRADIATION TO AID HUMANITY

Inventor of "Bottled Sunshine" Refuses To Sell Patents.

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 17.—The patents now pending for the protection of Professor Henry Steenbock's "bottled sunshine" will be transferred by the scientist to the University of Wisconsin Alumni Association fund for scientific research and public benefit. Red tape has delayed the issue of the patents and the chemist fears that his discovery may be exploited before the papers are issued.

"I cannot accept the offers made to me for my rights. I want to see humanity improved by my discoveries, and that without a tax. I haven't had a vacation in five years. I am so tired I must have one soon."

The scientific world has been watching the laboratory of Professor Steenbock for two years. It is predicted that his discovery of irradiation of foods will revolutionize the food problems of the world. While the ultra-violet ray has been in use by physicians for several years in the direct application to the body, it remained for Dr. Steenbock to discover that foods treated with the ray had practically the same beneficial properties.

In reality the treatment of food with ultra-violet ray goes back to the principle of cod-liver oil. Cod-liver oil has been used from time immemorial by the simple fisher folks of England, Holland and France in the treatment of rickets (which doctors say are prevalent in some form or other in 75 per cent. of the babies in the Winter-time) and in building up run-down systems.

The reason behind the treatment was not known, but the cod-liver oil provided the calcium needed by the system, and particularly needed to strengthen the bones. The secret has been revealed largely as a result of experiments with quartz lights. The ultra-violet rays from the sun (which can also be produced with quartz lamps) will readily penetrate water, especially where the rays have not been filtered out by dust and other impurities in the atmosphere. These rays, it appears, are absorbed and stored up in the fatty liver of the cod during the Summer months for use during the Winter months. Moreover, the cod feeds on surface food that also stores up the ultra-violet rays.

Hints on Interior Decoration

Ornate Wall Decoration No Longer Considered Good Taste—Simplicity and Freshness Mark Interiors of Modern Homes—Alabastine Selected in Preference to Wallpaper and Paint—

NEW refinements and a truer and more intelligent conception of beauty make the modern home as different from the abode of our grandfathers as the latest Parisian frock is different from bustles and crinolines. The trend is increasingly toward the fresh, the chic and the unique. Too elaborate or ill chosen furnishings are an evidence either of poor taste or indifference to the principles of modern decorative practice. For the compelling aim in carrying out these principles is to achieve harmony—harmony of color and contour in walls, ceilings, furniture, rugs and draperies.

And as harmony can rarely be dissociated with beauty or beauty with color, the initial step to attaining home distinction is the selection of agreeable color schemes. Here the effective treatment of walls and ceilings is of supreme importance. Unless they present a harmonious and cheerful background the effect which you so earnestly desire cannot be obtained. Furthermore, you must have an almost limitless assortment of color schemes to choose from—and no interior wall finish can give you such an assortment, nor provide walls of such engaging and artistic quality as Alabastine.

A Living Room of Unique Charm

Let us suppose that you are redecorating your home, starting with the living room. As this is the room most used—the heart of the home—you want wall and ceiling tints of general appeal, preferably low-keyed and devoid of gaudy pattern, though possibly enlivened by panelling or by stencilled borders in contrasting color. From an Alabastine color card you select your primary tint, and with the aid of an Alabastine stencil catalogue and descriptive booklets illustrating beautiful Alabastine effects, you proceed to make your living room a room of permanent and unique charm. It is so easily done. Simply follow instructions closely and when you have finished, your living room will have taken on a new, mellow-toned fascination that gives it the very individuality you have been seeking.

Then there is the dining room. You want soothing, cheerful walls, yet your color scheme must also endow the room with appropriate dignity. This combination is not difficult to acquire. For example: a flat sea-green for the walls and a putty tint for the ceilings never fail to lend pleasing distinction to average size dining-rooms where the furniture is of traditional period design.

In bedrooms, too, color is all-important. Gay tints that give zest to the earliest waking hours, and form a soft, subdued background under the shadows of night, are an ideal of bedroom decoration readily attained with Alabastine. The nursery, of course, is a little problem in itself—but one easily solved by bright, attractive Alabastine hues, supplemented by animal and nursery rhyme patterns, so dear to the hearts of childhood.

But living, dining and bed rooms are not the only rooms where Alabastine color effects are most attractively presented. Halls, libraries—even kitchens—assume distinction and rare beauty when decorated with this popular wall finish. And the cost is surprisingly low. $1.50 will buy 10 pounds of Alabastine—sufficient to tint the ceilings and walls of an ordinary room.

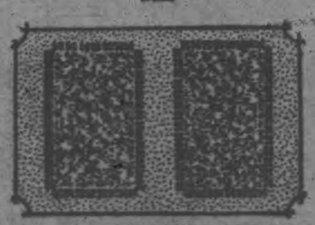
Alabastine Provides Ideal Interiors

Lovely opaline effects can be achieved with Alabastine tints, and this form of decoration is particularly recommended where walls are likely to spot, as in halls, stairways and kitchens. Alabastine, of course, is ideal for all types of ceilings, no matter what form of wall decoration there might be. It is ready for use a few minutes after mixing. It mixes with hot or cold water, does not rub off and is easily, quickly brushed over any surface. It is the only sanitary water-color wall finish on the market; superior to wallpaper, paint or kalsomine and other substitutes and, of course, much less expensive to buy and apply. Indeed the difference betwen the cost of Alabastine and wallpaper or paint will practically pay for the services of an interior decorator. Being sanitary as well as artistic, Alabastine is the acceptable wall coating for schools, theatres, hotels, offices, public buildings—wherever beautiful walls and ceilings are desired.

A package of Alabastine, a pail and a brush—These are all you require to give your walls and ceilings new life and beauty.

Above illustrates simplicity with which Alabastine stencils are used. Alabastine is simply applied over the stencil pattern with a brush.

Apply your first, or primary, tint on the walls. When this dries, dab your second color on lightly with a sponge. The resulting opaline effect will reflect unusual quality and prettiness.



Above shows opaline tints finished by stencil pattern. For full information regarding methods of application, send for Alabastine booklet.

Let me send you these helpful booklets

On receipt of fifty cents I will send you special, beautifully illustrated book on Wall Decoration prepared by expert interior decorators. It is teeming with practical suggestions and shows many forms of wall treatment and actual colored reproductions of Alabastine interiors. It is being sold at cost price in the interests of more beautiful Canadian Homes. Send for it today.

Redecorating time is any time. This month or next transform your faded, tired-looking walls into walls of beauty. I will gladly send you free Alabastine stencil catalogues illustrating wall preparation and treatment—also Alabastine tint folder and booklet. Sudden draughts in a hot room cause stiffness

RELIEVES STIFFNESS CAUSED BY CHILL

Pressman tells how newspaper workers keep fit

The pressmen working in a newspaper office at Dorchester, Mass., used to have great trouble with rheumatic stiffness owing to frequent sudden draughts of cold air when the doors were opened to take in rolls of paper.

One of their number began using Sloan's Liniment and now they all chip in to keep Sloan's always on hand for the entire shop.

"After my day's work I rub a little Sloan's Liniment on my back and legs. It never fails."

Apply gently, without rubbing. Right away you feel the comfortable, glowing warmth as the new blood is brought to the sore spots, and soon the aching stops. Get a bottle today. All druggists—35 cents.

VIOLET RAY CHICKENS

Birds Will Be Raised for World Poultry Congress.

SASKATOON, Sask., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Ultra violet rays will be employed in raising Saskatchewan chickens for exhibition at the World's Poultry Congress to be held in Ottawa next July.

Equipment which is being purchased by the University of Saskatchewan, with funds provided by the Saskatchewan department of agriculture, will include cello glass to cover a chicken run. This glass is to be used to conduct the ultra-violet rays from the sun. A quartz mercury lamp, for directing the rays into the chicken coup, will also be purchased.

This method of raising chicks in winter time has proved a success from an experimental standpoint, but it is not economically practical at present.

HOLLY SHIPMENTS

FUR PRODUCTION SHOWS INCREASE

Number of Pelts in Total Catch in Alberta Was 975,875.

CALGARY, Alta., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Alberta's fur production in 1926, exceeded a marketable value of 2,000,000, according to figures released by the provincial game branch. The total income exceeds that of 1925 by more than $120,000. Only furs caught within the province are included in these totals. Those taken in the Mackenzie country not being counted, though they go to market via Edmonton.

The number of pelts in the total catch is given as 975,857. There were more rabbits than any other kind of fur bearers, this variety of skin contributing 425,716 of the total. Next are: muskrat, 310,714; weasel, 117,647; coyotes, 96,639; beaver, 15,089; red fox, 11,052.

NEGOTIATIONS FINISHED

Dominion Turns Over Certain Crown Lands for Fur Farming.

REGINA, Sask., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Negotiations between the Saskatchewan and the dominion governments, regarding the leasing of marsh lands for fur farming purposes have now been completed and arrangements are being made to turn over certain crown lands for this industry, Hon. C. M. Hamilton, provincial minister of agriculture, announces.

Large areas of marsh lands controlled by the crown are available for fur farming in the northern part of Saskatchewan, and there is reported to be a moderate demand for such land.

The fur farming industry is so intimately bound up with the control of wild life, for which the provincial authorities are responsible, that it was considered impossible by the dominion government for one to be divorced from the other, agreement consequently was reached whereby the Saskatchewan government is authorized to take over available dominion land in the province required for the development of the industry.

MILLBROOK COUNCIL

MILLBROOK, Feb. 17.—The February meeting of the municipal council was held on Monday evening. Reeve W. T. Wood presiding; present: Councillors J. R. Eakins, G. W. Sayles, and P. Stinson; Councillor T. J. Lang absent on account of illness.

A communication from the Hydro-Electric Company, regarding the proposed increase in rates was read by the clerk, the new levy for street lighting being $69.63, as against $65.42, the amount paid annually up to date. This means an increase of $4.21.

C. W. Richards, of the Mirror-Reporter, submitted tender for printing contract for 1927, the amount being $90.00.

Stinson-Sayles: That contract be accepted, and if section 3 of voters' list is required that $10.00 extra be included. Carried.

Tax Collector C. W. Richard(submitted statement to council of taxes collected to date, the amount outstanding being $168.59.

Sayles-Eakins: That auditors' report be accepted and 100 copies be ordered printed.

N. Lamb reported that he intends to remove piano from town hall, as he is moving from the village shortly to reside elsewhere, unless the instrument is purchased by council and becomes municipal property. On motion the town hall committee was delegated to consider the matter, and decide what action should be taken.

Messrs. A. J. Henderson, J. N. McGill, and W. E. Ball, representing the Agricultural Society, waited upon the council asking the annual grant to the Winter Fair to be held here on Thursday, February 17.

Stinson-Eakins: That the usual grant of $20.00 be given to the Winter Fair.

The following accounts were presented, and on motion of Eakins-Sayles were ordered paid:

Hydro-Electric, street lighting	$49.63

"I WANT TO HELP" SAYS ALLEN BOUDRIA

Tells Facts From Own Experience To Help Others—Almost Wild With Pain, Weak and Rundown, He Won New Health and Strength Through Tanlac.

Allen Boudria, engineer, of 432 St. Patrick St., is one of Ottawa's best known citizens. "My purpose in telling the facts of my experience," he said, "is to help others who suffer as I did.

"For five years I was in misery. My whole system seemed out of gear, but my stomach troubled most. Even a drink of cold water would cause my stomach to bloat and swell abnormally. Gas would prevent me from sleeping at night so that I had to get up and walk the floor for hours. Violent stomach pains nearly drove me wild. I've seen times when I was doubled over, unable to straighten up.

"My friend M. Laponte told me how Tanlac had helped him out of similar trouble, so I got some and used 9 bottles in all. It just made me over. I feel 30 years younger than I am, and weigh 214 lbs. My appetite and sleep are both fine. I eat what I like and sleep like a top.

Tanlac and nothing else, made this great change. I'm for Tanlac."

How to Play BRIDGE

A new series of lessons by Wynne Ferguson

Author of "PRACTICAL AUCTION BRIDGE"

Copyright 1926, by Hoyle, Jr.

ARTICLE No. 15

The question is often asked: "With what type of hand is the preemptive or shut-out bid sound or advisable?" The preemptive bid is sound when two elements are present. First, when the bid can go game with but average help from partner; and second, if, in case the bid fails to make, it will save or shut out a game bid by the opponents. In other words, a sound preemptive bid is either a game maker or a game saver. A shut-out bid, from this angle, should be at least three in spades, four in hearts and five in clubs or diamonds. Don't make the mistake, however, of bidding three spades if you hold good help for hearts; or of bidding four hearts if you hold good help for spades. The object of all sound bidding is to arrive at the best bid of the combined hands and a shut-out bid that makes this result impossible is unsound. The following hand was submitted recently and an opinion asked as to the proper bid:

Hearts — A, 10, 3
Clubs — J, 10, 3
Diamonds — none
Spades — A, Q, 10, 8, 7, 6, 2

No score, Y-Z a game in. Z dealt and passed. If A and Y also passed, what should B bid? B's proper bid is one spade. The reason for this bid, rather than one of three spades, is that partner may bid hearts, and if so, the hand should be played at hearts rather than spades. If, however, opponents bid hearts or one of the other suits, fourth hand should bid to three spades, irrespective of help by partner. It is strong enough to warrant a three spade bid but should be bid only one at first to get the heart bid from partner if possible.

Preemptive bids as a rule should be avoided and only handled by players who understand why and when to make them. They are apt to react on the bidder and be a source of loss, rather than gain. If handled at all, they should be used with great discretion.

The test hand forwarded from England and given as a problem in the previous article, is a freak, and most anything could happen to it. It is as follows:

Answer to Problem No. 18

Hearts — K, Q, J, 4
Clubs — K, Q, 10, 7, 3
Diamonds — 2
Spades — J, 8, 6

Hearts — A, 8, 7, 6, 5, 3, 2	Y	Hearts — 10
Clubs — 8	A B	Clubs — A, 9, 6, 4, 2
Diamonds — A, Q, 9, 5, 3	Z	Diamonds — 7
Spades — none		Spades — K, 10, 9, 7, 4, 2

Hearts — 9
Clubs — J, 5
Diamonds — K, J, 10, 8, 6, 4
Spades — A, Q, 3, 3

No score, first game. Z should bid one diamond. It is hardly a sound original bid but the hand is too strong to pass. A should bid one heart. Y then has the choice of bidding two clubs or one no-trump. If he bids one no-trump, the better bid, B should pass. If he bids two clubs, B should bid two spades. Z should double and A should bid three hearts. Y, of course, will double this and all should pass. A-B should be defeated by two, possibly three tricks. If Y should bid one no-trump, instead of two clubs, all should pass and B should open the ten of spades. Y should win this in his own hand and lead a low club, B winning the second club trick with the ace. B should now abandon his hand and play for his partner, leading the ten of hearts. Played in this way, Y-Z should score game at no-trump, winning three spade tricks, two or three heart tricks, and three club tricks. They also should win at least one diamond trick, making enough for game. It is a tricky hand and the cards are so peculiarly distributed that only a very careful analysis could give the exact result. The foregoing, however, gives a summary of the probable bidding and probable result.

The informatory doubles have been in vogue for so many years that players should be pretty well acquainted with their use; but, nevertheless, every now and then a hand comes up that puzzles. Here is one that was recently sent in by a correspondent and as it involves a very important point of the informatory doubles, it will be given as a problem.

Problem No. 19

Hearts — Q, 8, 7, 5
Clubs — 10, 4
Diamonds — A, J, 10, 7
Spades — K, 10, 3

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one spade. If A doubled one spade (informatory) and Y passed, what should B bid? Should he bid one no-trump or two hearts? An analysis of this interesting hand and of the principles underlying the informatory double will be given in the next article.

POWER AVAILABLE

Lake Winnipeg Mining District to Receive Power by March.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Pacific).—Power will be available for the Lake Winnipeg mining district by next March, according to H. A. Wentworth, president of Central Manitoba Mines, Limited, who announces that the contract between his company and the Manitoba Power company has been signed.

Construction of this 55-mile, 60,000-volt transmission line from Great Falls will be started at once, and although Central Manitoba Mines Limited will not be ready for power until next October, the mining company will build a substation at the mine, reducing the voltage from 66,000 to 2,200. To assist possible small consumers in the neighborhood, the substation will be built larger than its own needs require through which the Manitoba Power company can supply other consumers.

This will assist companies such as the Selkirk Gold Mining and Eldorado whose operations have been delayed owing to high costs.

As mining and milling operations on the class of ore produced in the Central Manitoba mines district requires about 2½ horsepower per ton ore milled, this power line, Mr. Wentworth states, will permit of the treatment of some 2,000 tons of ore a day in the district.

SHORT STORY

(By Dora Mason.)

Young Doctor Savage was not so much worried about his patient as he was about his patient's daughter.

And Enid was quite enough to trouble anyone and had succeeded, at her eighteenth year, in driving her lovely mother to the very borders of nervous prostration.

And because, beneath her selfish exterior, there was the making of as charming a woman as her mother was, Doctor Savage felt unable to cope adequately with the case. Had he discovered the selfishness before he became a victim to the charm his way would have been the easier.

And since selfishness was the one characteristic that a doctor's wife most certainly must not have—the problem was a vexed one. So vexed, in fact, that the young doctor took his entire trouble to his much older partner and they talked the thing out frankly.

"Where's the girl's father that he doesn't take her over his knee and give her a sound spanking?" questioned the older doctor.

"Mrs. Walker has been a widow since the girl was ten. It's a case where, I fancy, the man's mind was needed—if not his slipper. Mrs. Walker is too sensitive, gentle and feminine to guide this modern type of girl—they need a restraining hand these days or there's no telling where environment will lead them."

"So you want me to take over this case, minister to the mother and at the same time make an ultra modern young lady into one that might in time fill the role of a doctor's wife. Is that about it?"

"Exactly!"

"Rather a tall order, my boy."

"She's worth it, though."

"Who? Mother or daughter?"

"Both," said the young doctor. "Both."

When Doctor Ward made his first appearance in the sick-room in place of the young man, Enid pouted quite frankly but in the eyes of the mother sprang a look of relief as if unconsciously her troubles had leapt from her own shoulders to those of the big kindly doctor.

And he had not been on the case a week before he took the daughter aside and talked to her like the proverbial Dutch Uncle.

"Now look here, young lady," he said in his kindly but none the less determined way, "you've got to be a bit more considerate of your mother's views of what is good for your welfare. Do you ever stop to realize that your mother has lived twenty years longer than you have and that she knows volumes more than you do about what is good and what is not good for a child of eighteen?"

"Mother's old fashioned," started Enid, but the doctor's voice interrupted her.

"But not old fashioned enough to be driven into serious illness by her own daughter—is she?"

The girl cast a startled glance at him and her color receded.

"You're wearing down your own mother's nerve force by continual disobedience to her wishes. She quite naturally sees no virtues developing in you through dancing half the nights, wearing only half enough clothing and smoking far too many cigarettes—I think most sensible people would agree with her—don't you, my dear?"

Then suddenly Enid burst into tears and wept uncontrollably on Doctor Ward's broad shoulder. He smiled softly as he patted her into calmness for he knew that victory was his.

"I didn't, did, didn't realize—I—I—was so s—selfish and silly—I love mamma more than anyone in the world," and Enid sobbed afresh, but soon the sunlight came into her eyes and her lips smiled. "You must think me very weak and foolish to cry," she finally said and caressed the lapels of his coat.

"No, my dear—I only think the real, true woman is beginning to—to sprout."

"And you'll help me to grow—more like my mother?"

"It won't take long at this rate," laughed Doctor Ward and felt very much elated—so much so, in fact, that when he and his young partner met at dinner he told him all about it.

"Do you think so sudden a change will be lasting?" questioned Doctor Savage earnestly but with much hope in his eyes.

"If she falls in love with the right man now—at this stage of the game I think she may develop into a semblance of the woman her mother is."

"Oh no," laughed Savage, "is it so impossible to reach the same state of perfection as ——"

"My boy," put in Doctor Ward with a twinkle in his eye but with so much that was deep and vibrant in his voice as to make the younger man's dreams take pause in their flights into future happiness, "if there were many women in this world like Mrs. Walker—we men would be a much finer lot than we are."

"Then ——"

"Exactly. Now that our patient is swiftly throwing off her need of medical attentions I am going to bombard her with such attentions of another order as to make your courtship of Enid seem like a sham affair altogether."

"When I can catch my breath," laughed Savage, "I will tell you that I think I'm a fairly good imitation of Cupid. There's no doubt that our dilemmas often prove blessings — is there?"

PAPER DESCRIBES IMPRESSIVE SERVICE

Reception of New Members of Congregation of St. Joseph.

TORONTO, Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Many ceremonies in city life are daily enacted, a common place in church activities, which to one of another faith, are new and very impressive. Such is the description given in the local press of the reception of seven postulants and the final profession of vows by nine sisters of the congregation of St. Joseph. The postulants were preceded by a little flower girl and following her came white-clad children with baskets, in which were folded t black habits. On each basket weresas sprays of smilax and the rosary which the sisters wear on their girdles. Each young religious wore a soft white wedding dress with a long court train from her shoulders, and a tulle veil which fell in misty folds around her face. A train bearer with a few white blossoms on the ribbons followed each postulant. The nine black-clad sisters who were to make their perpetual vows followed the postulants, and each nun carried a tall lighted candle, which was tied with white ribbon. The postulants after being received by the Mother Superior, slowly proceeded from the chapel while the choir sang softly a reception hymn. The young women returned to the hall of the convent, and after removing their wedding garments, donned the habit of the congregation. Those who were making their final vows had been in the convent for five years. As they went one by one to the altar railing kneeling with a lighted candle in their hand, they made a "perpetual vow of poverty, chastity and obedience." As the priest passed each kneeling nun, the crucifix was given to her and she made her final profession.

pealing baby actions of her little crippled son then in his second year. "He always has the sweetest smile. Only for that I'd be very unhappy. . . If you found your husband in love with another what would you do? . . . Don't tell mother. . . I hope everything is as well at home as it is with me. . . . Stuart hasn't spoken to me this summer."

Another passage told of going to Toronto to have massage and treatments for the boy's deformed feet, and of her worry about money. The mother believed that with such attentions the boy's feet would be completely corrected. She wrote several times of the kindness of neighbors and other friends at Warkworth.

"Baby wants to play with matches. I have to slap his little hands . . . I'd like to be able to send you a Christmas present. . . He wouldn't even give me fifty cents and lots of times nothing. . . He says he thought I was a quiet, nice girl, but how can I be quiet when I see all that's going on. He never finishes scolding and accuses me of all kinds of things. What would you do if you were in my place? A few neighbors told me I should see some one else. He is going around with the other woman and I won't put up with that, but for the boy I will have to stay. . . I say what kind of a man are you. How can you expect your wife to cook without an oven?"

Mrs. West referred to having read in a magazine how she could earn money at home, presumably with a knitting machine, and more than once she mentioned that she could earn enough money perhaps to pay for her return home. She alludes to an automobile and says "not one dollar for me. He is spending every cent for things he shouldn't. Every night he's gone looking for milk at 8 o'clock and comes back at 10. He goes out on Sunday for dinner and doesn't care if we have a bite, not even a cake. . . If you knew the good cook I am. I learned since I came. . . I'd like to earn enough money to go back. It would cost about $150. That would take five months to earn."

Mrs. West wrote that she had received five dolars from her aunt, Mrs. Ingolesby of Burlington: "I need it because I can't get any other money."

John Miller, Inspector of Criminal Investigation Department of the Provincial police was the first witness. He stated that after the former enquiry he had made subsequent investigations at the ruined West home, coming to Warkworth on September 27. Among the debris he found a lock which had come through the fire. At the previous inquest there had been some reference to a "steel" trunk which was supposed to be missing. His second investigation, he said, convinced him that the trunk referred to was a "steamer" trunk not steel, and the lock, produced yesterday, was of better quality than ordinary and was the remnant of the steamer trunk destroyed in the fire.

Inspector Miller said that from his findings the second trunk had been in the home at the time the house was burned, and had not disappeared, as was suggested in some rumors following the former inquest. Both trunks had been consumed in the flames, except the locks.

"There was also some rumors that a large number of bottles of preserved fruit were missing from the cellar," Inspector Miller said. "I shovelled through the debris and found many tops of jars bearing evidence that the jars had been destroyed."

Crown Attorney Kerr—The effect of your investigations was that any rumors of the steamer trunk having been taken away were eliminated?

Inspector Miller—Yes.

And also that rumors of fruit jars having been removed were also eliminated?—Ans.: Yes.

Dr. William Magner.

Dr. William Magner, a pathologist from St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, produced a pair of scissors brought to him by a police officer, which he had examined for trace of blood stains. He had found no trace of blood. The stains, he thought, might be rust.

Dr. H. A. Cates

Dr. H. A. Cates, assistant Professor of Anatomy of the University of Toronto, examined some bones given him by Constable Cousans, to find out whether they were human bones. He received a large charred mass and some fragments. The large mass was the lower left part of a human trunk with the left hip join intact. Parts were such as would indicate that the remains were those of a woman, possibly 23 or 24, but at least adult.

The Crown Attorney said that the question of the absence of teeth had been raised in the press, and asked if Dr. Cates had found any teeth. He said there had been no teeth nor any parts of the head. He would judge that the bones of the head might be destroyed but it would be very difficult to destroy teeth. He would expect that teeth might be found in the debris and while they might have been difficult to find would not have been unidentifiable. The bones of a young child might be entirely destroyed in a fire of some intensity.

Dr. Cates produced the remains of the parts given. Answering Mr. McColl, he said that the bones of the skull would be as readily destroyed as the pelvic bone. The fact that one half of the pelvic bone was practically intact and the other destroyed would be due to their relation in the fire. He could not tell how long the woman had been dead.

Dr. Magner, recalled, said a person subject to epilepsy might not remember going away from a house and then return. It would be quite possible in major epilepsy. Such a period of unconsciousness would follow a violent fit. He had not heard of such a state preceeding. It would be possible, however, for an epileptic to pass from one fit to another without regaining consciousness. Excitement such as waking up and finding a fire might produce an attack.

Inspector Gurnett.

Inspector Gurnett of the Provincial Police testified that he had men called to the West case by Constable Cousans of Cobourg and had seen the scissors which were found in the ashes of the house. About two tons of the debris had been sifted. Mr. Gurnett said he considered that a thorough search had been made through the debris.

Questioned by Mr. Kerr:

Were you present when a diagram of the cuts on Dr. West's hands were made by Constable Cousans?—Yes, they appeared to be cuts.

What did you notice about them?—Ans.: I notice that they were on the back of his hands and seemed to be deeper toward the knuckles.

Did you talk with West?—Yes. When I saw him his hands and head were bandaged. I asked him what was wrong with his head. He replied that he had a cold. I removed the bandages from his hands and saw the marks. I asked him about them. He seemed quite bewildered but appeared to be trying to figure out how he got the marks. He seemed to be unable to tell how he got them. He seemed to be trying to tell me."

Inspector Gurnett said he had run down every "tittle of gossip" which he thought might help him in his investigations, but could find nothing definite.

Chief Inspector Miller, recalled, said he had especially followed up all rumors which he had heard, and also questioned everyone who might be able to further the enquiry, and in every instance had found "nothing definite."

Only rumors" was his final reply to Crown Attorney Kerr.

Dr. E. J. Free

Dr. E. J. Free of Campbellford testified that he had known Stuart West for a long time. Witness described at some length the symtoms of epilepsy and said that he attended West in several epileptic seizures.

"The second time I saw him he was in a dazed condition even on the next day. In some cases it appears like that, like somnambulism or sleep-walking and the patient is unconscious of all that occurred."

Dr. Longmore.

Dr. H. D. Longmore was talled to see Stuart West once for epilepsy. When he saw the patient he was in a dazed condition, following the convulsion. That was in the morning and he had been told that West was still dazed.

He confirmed evidence given before that a person in what he called the post epileptic stage would be unconscious. This period would vary in length. Insanity might result from frequent attacks. At a stage of the disease a patient might be open to suggestion and would obey a command. It might come from excitement and at other times would come during sleep. A sufferer while unconscious could go several hundred yards without knowing it. Answering Mr. MacColl, Dr. Longmore said the man open to suggestion would not be temporarily insane.

Dr. W. Haight.

Dr. W. Haight of Warkworth said that when he saw Stuart West on March 9th Wests face and hands were covered with blood.

Mr. Kerr—What could account for the blood on his hands?

Dr. Haight—I can't accoun t for the blood on his hands altogether. There semed to be a contusion on his nose and the backs of his hands were cut.

Mr. Kerr—Describe the cuts on his hands.

Dr. Haight—I got the impression they were cuts rather than scratches because they were straight and regular. I thought some sharp instrument might have caused them.

Dr. Haight said the cuts on West's hands were not deep.

Describing the condition of West on the night of the fire, Dr. Haight said he was making peculiar whispering sounds. He didn't respond when spoken to.

Did he recognize you before you left?

Yes. I think he said "Doctor" or something like that. I returned to him a few minutes after I first left him and asked him if he knew what had become of his wife and son. He said "Didn't they get out?" or words to that effect.

When treated for epilepsy on a previous occasion, Dr. Haight said West had told him he didn't know where he was when under the effect of epilepsy.

Mr. Kerr—He wouldn't be able to remember what happened?

Dr. Haight—No. He could go several hundred yards and back and not know what occurred.

Witness said he was a little doubtful about whether sufficient blood had come from West's nose to account for all the blood on his face, hands and clothes.

Would the additional blood from his hands be enough to account?

No. It would not.

Mr. Kerr—There must have been a greater quantity of blood than from his hands and nose to account for what you saw?

I should say so.

Dr. Haight said West's nose was not deeply bruised. It looked as if he might have fallen on it.

Mr. McColl—So far as could be seen, the marks on his hands were not jagged?

Dr. Haight—I thought they were made by a sharp instrument.

Witness said he was first called about 2 a.m. and an hour later West was still in a dazed condition, although he was not so dazed as when first seen.

George E. Wiggins.

George E. Wiggins, of Warkworth, lives about 1-4 mile north of the West home. He was awakened on the morning of the fire by the reflection. He looked out and saw the flames in the nprth window which was not broken then, as far as he could see. He put on a few clothes, rung a neighbor's doorbell, and then went to the Methodist church and rang the bell. He went back to the West home, possibly 15 minutes after he had wakened, and saw Dr. West lying on the verandah. He had socks, pants, and a shirt on.

Was there anyone there?

There was no one else there when I got there. Dr. West was moaning, I asked him if Mrs. West was in the house or not but could get no satisfaction out of him and went in. There was quite a bit of blood on Dr. West and on the verandah. When you got to the house was the fire coming out of the window?

Yes. It was coming out of the window and going about a foot above the eves.

Smoke or flame most?

Flame.

Mr. Wiggins said he saw no blood in side the house. The kitchen door was open and he went in and shouted up the stairs. He couldnt hear any sound and walked through the dining room into the hall. Could you see any sign of fire or smoke in the dining room?

Not a particle.

The pipe from the dining room stove went through the ceiling snug and I could not see no reflection.

Mr. Wiggins said it was dark in the hall. He couldnt smell smoke or fire. The reflection from the flames enabled him to see five or six steps up the stairs. He didn't know whether there was any turn, and the bedroom door must have been closed or he would have seen smoke. He said going back to the dining room he saw smoke coming through the ceiling. There was no flame. Wiggins described the direction in which the wind was blowing and told of letting the horses out of the barn. There was no fire in the kitchen stove and he didn't notice any in the dining room stove.

West was lying on his face moaning and groaning and hitting his face on the verandah. He was rolling slightly. Wiggins attributed the blood to the pounding. He saw blood only where West was lying.

Asked if he had not been asked about anything that should have been brought out he said: "No. I guess not."

Mr. McColl—Was his nose bleeding?

Yes. I calculated the blood was coming from his nose.

Was there sufficient blood to make the marks seen on his clothes?

Yes.

It was not difficult to see the way from one room to another, Wiggins told Mr. McColl. If the windows had not been broken the fire would have gone wherever there was a draught. It was probable no one could go up the stairs before the window was broken.

There was no fire when I looked. I felt no heat in the hall. There could have been smoke in the dining room before he went in but he didn't smell any.

Joseph Dickson.

Joseph Dickson, a resident of Warkworth, said he first saw the fire after Mr. Bowen called him.

"Where were you when you first saw it?" Mr. Kerr asked.

From my bedroom. It was most ly smoke when I first looked. I saw a man coming down the main road from the direction of Norham. I didn't know who it was at first, but when I heard him shouting I knew it was Doc West. The fire bell had just stopped ringing.

Witness said Dr. West had a high-pitched voice. "I couldn't say it was like a woman's voice when I heard him shouting. I was pretty sure it was Dr. West.

Witness met Dr. West coming down the hill with two men holding him. He noticed blood on his shirt. Those who were around the burning house didn't think there was anyone inside the house. Looking inside he noticed the ceiling was burning. The room down stairs seemed to be comparatively free of smoke until the ceiling collapsed.

"When I arrived there the fire was coming from the upstairs window only. When I saw West coming down the road his feet seemed to be half dragging."

To Mr. McCall witness said West began to shout when he crossed in front of his verandah.

All you can swear to it that you saw a man come down the hill, and begin to shout?—Yes.

Mr. Dickson said he believed the shouting was by the man on the road and not by a woman inside the house.

John Summers.

The youngest of the witnesses, John Summers of Warkworth, said he was awakened by Mr. Bowen, immediately noticed the fire and saw Dr. West walking down the road from the south, and turn in at the big gate. He was moaning and groaning as he came up the road. He went up the verandah stairs, entered the kitchen and came right out again. He fell down on the verandah and started to crawl back into the house. Mr. Bowen grabbed him by a leg and pulled him out.

Witness said he saw some blood on Dr. West.

Summers and Bowen assisted Dr. West to Williams' house and Dr. Haight was called.

Did he say anything about his wife or child?

He said he tried to get her.

Summers returned to flaming house and tried to get in over the kitchen by using a ladder, but smoke drove him back.

Charles Bowen.

"I first became aware of the trouble on March 9th by the barking of a dog", Charles Bowen testified. "I looked at the clock and it was about two minutes to two."

Witness told of looking in several directions from his house and finally noticing a small flame upstairs in the West home.

"I thought it was a lamp at first; just a small flame. It began to look too red. Then I saw streaks like fire and I decided it was a fire. I got dressed at once in about five minutes. I heard somebody on the bank in the snow at the house. It looked like a man; had pants on. (Laughter in audience). I heard somebody hollering like "fire" and "help." It sounded like West's voice. I went back for my rubbers."

After giving the alarm of fire, Mr. Bowen and Summers went to the West house. West was lying on the verandah, moaning. Witness pulled him off the verandah. His face was red and at first appeared as if burned.

"Summers and I started to take him to Williams' house because he was partly dressed and I felt he should be looked after. On the way I asked him where his wife was. He did not answer. I asked him again and it seemed he didn't hear me. At the road I said: "Doc where's your wife?" and he said, "I tried to get her out." I called back to the other men at the house that I thought she was in there yet.

When I dragged him off the verandah one hand trailed and I saw there was blood on it. I also noticed it looked like blood on his face. There were stains of blood on his shoulder, on his vest and trousers. When I got home I found blood on my own clothes.

Witness could not say whether the blood he saw had been caused entirely by West's cuts.

"I didn't notice bleeding from his nose," he added. "I couldn't tell what caused my dog to bark. It was in the basement and couldn't see the light in West's window."

Joseph Summers.

Joseph Summers, a half brother of John Summers, was wakened by Mr. Bowen. He looked out and saw fire upstairs in the West house. He saw West coming towards his house while he was on the way up there. He was hollering fire and help. He saw West turn in and next saw him lying on the verandah. He went into the kitchen and could see no fire there. He stepped out and got a ladder. He went up at the end of the kitchen and looked in a window. He saw smoke and came down again.

John Summers, recalled, said he saw West the first time he went up. He went back to the corner and returned with his brother and others. On this occasion he did not see West. His brother, on the first occasion, was 100 feet behind him.

James Cobbledick.

James Cobbledick, who lives at the corners, did not see West that morning. He did not hear the church bell, and did not know what wakened him. When he got down to the fire he saw Wiggins carrying a ladder.

Mrs. West had come to him about some trouble with her husband. She had him up in court and told him that he had attacked her twice with a butcher knife and three times with a revolver. Mrs. West had told him, when asked how they were getting along: "About the same old way." She said he had thrown up some things to her and had said, 'If I ever go after you again I will go through it.'"

Mr. Cobbledick said he hadn't told this at the other inquest because he wasn't asked. Told that he was sworn to tell the whole truth, he added Mrs. West had said West did not room with her after the baby was born.

The doctor was not on speaking terms with the witness from the time he had been in court. He had been a witness at that time and had understood that West was bound to keep the peace.

He was going by the talk of the village, he said, when Mr. McColl said he perjured himself by saying West had been bound over to keep the peace. This drew the comment, "That's how these rumors start", from Mr. McColl.

William Goldring.

William Goldring saw West at Williams' house on the night of the fire. He asked for a drink and also enquired about his wife. His brother, Charles West, answered that she was at a neighbor's.

Mrs. Susan Goldring.

Mrs. Susan Goldring, a sister of Mr. Cobbledick, said Mrs. West complained against her husband, saying that she couldn't get along and would leave her husband, but not before the baby had had his last treatment. She complained of the amount of money given but never of violence. She had seemed very jealous minded over his attentions to others.

On the night before the fire Mr. and Mrs. West had called on her for a few minutes and had left apparently on good terms, engaging in a foot race on the way home.

The boy and his father had seemed fond of each other. Mrs. Goldring spoke of some dishes and jewelry of Mrs. West's which had not been found.

Mrs. West had tried to borrow money from her to buy an auto knitter. She had asked for $35 but Mrs. Goldring had been unable to let her have it.

Mrs. West told witness once that she had collected $5 owing her husband and had said that she would get more. Mrs. West had told her that she had her things packed up at various times. She had wanted to store fruit in Mrs. Goldring's cellar. There had been about 200 sealers, but they would run together, while the rings would burn.

Sergeant T. W. Cousans.

Provincial Police Sergeant Cousans of Cornwall, formerly of Cobourg, said he had been called to Warkworth on March 9th and examined the ruins of the West house. He identified charred pieces of iron found in the debris. On March 11th and 12th he returned to Warkworth and made diagrams of the cuts on Dr. West's hands.

Witness found a pair of scissors in the ruins on March 22nd and had them sent to Dr. Magner at St. Michael's hospital, Toronto, for determination of whether marks on the scissors were rust or blood. The human remains taken from the ashes were forwarded to Dr. Cates at the University of Toronto.

"Everything was searched thoroughly" witness said to Mr. Kerr.

Inspector Gurnett and I interviewed Dr. West on March 11th and 12th. The first time he was ill in bed. His head was bandaged, and we were told he was suffering from pains in the head and from a cold. Our general conversation was about what he could remember of the fire. He stated he couldn't remember anything that had happened at the time of the fire. On both occasion I believe he was trying his hardest to explain something about that, but couldn't. He said he couldn't remember what had caused the cuts on his hands.

We learned that Dr. West slept downstairs to be near the telephone so that if any calls came in during the night his wife and child would not be disturbed. He said that on the night of the fire he and his wife were on good terms. Mrs. West went to bed at 10.30 p.m. and Dr. West shortly afterward.

"As to the fire," Sergeant Cousans continued, "he said the first thing he knew was a crash that wakened him. He saw fire coming through the ceiling, tried to rush up the stairs, was overcome by smoke and had to retreat.

Dr. West told us he had been subject to epileptic attacks on several occasions. Their effect was that something came over him and he would fall and wouldn't know anything. He spoke of milking a cow on one occasion when he fell off the stool in an epileptic fit. He said he had suffered from several attacks, all after returning from overseas."

To Mr. McColl witness said he had first asked West on March 9 about the cuts on his hands.

"He couldn't speak. There was no doubt he was ill at the time so I didn't question him much as he was unfit to be questioned. On the 12th I asked him again and he said he couldn't account for them."

Mrs. Ingleby.

Mrs. William Ingleby, an aunt of Mrs. West, told of Dr. West's meeting with his wife.

The Crown Attorney produced letters to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Godbold, Belgium. The witness identified the handwriting on one envelope as her own and the others as Mrs. West's. The letters were partly in French and partly in English and were all in Mrs. West's handwriting. Visits of herself and her daughters were recalled. On the first visit West and his wife had been on good terms. Mrs. West had complained from shortly after her marriage that West was gambling and staying out nights. She also complained of being advertised. West had complained that his wife was jealous of every body he spoke to. He had ordered witness out of the house.

West had said that talk about a girl locked in the garage had been a "lot of talk of the wife's." At the trial the Magistrate tried to make peace and said Mrs. Ingleby was to go back, and stay as long as she like. / West had bid her good bye in a friendly manner.

Any person who was conscious, unless the fire was between her and the door, should have been able to get down. Mrs. Ingleby said her niece had two trunks, one of which she understood was of steel, although she wasn't certain.

The house was lighted by two coal oil lamps, one of which leaked and was tied with rag. Mrs. Ingleby never lit the leaky lamp. As a general rule the best one was taken upstairs.

Mrs. Ingleby said her niece visited her shortly before the fatality and that her husband had kissed both wife and child when he bid them good-bye. "I think that was the only time he kissed her after they were married," she declared. At that time Mrs. West had feared she would get a scolding when she went home.

A letter was read that Mrs. West had wrote to her that her husband had seemed glad of her return, although he had not met her until 11 p.m. Another was read asking for an invitation to Burlington, suggesting that her aunt say she was sick. Another letter was read in which Mrs. West expressed suspicion that her husband was in Campbellford to see another girl, while another said he was running around with a girl of 17.

Answering Mr. McColl, Mrs. Ingleby said Mrs. West complained that he had not provided the necessities of life. He never bought anything for the child in his life except a five cent toy. What clothes she had the neighbors or her relatives gave her. She added she was jealous of other girls.

She wasn't jealous. She objected to his running around with other women when he had a wife at home.

West had threatened to blow out his own brains and at another time had chased his wife with a carving knife.

Mrs. Ingleby said she was never in good health, and could not go out alone, when Mr. McColl suggested that she and Mrs. West were to conspire to deceive West about needing her.

Mr. Wiggins, recalled to the stand, said he didn't go upstairs because he didn't know the "run of the house", and not because of smoke and flames. He said there was no sign of a disturbance in the kitchen or dining room.

George Boyce.

George Boyce, now of Hastings, was first alarmed by hearing the church bell. He dressed and went out; he had not heard West or anyone else at the door. Although he had had to put on long boots he had got over to the fire in little more than five minutes.

He had gone to shows at various times with West. He had been in the West house and at one time took Mr. and Mrs. West to Toronto.

When he arrived at the fire they were bringing a ladder up to get into the upper windows.

He had talked with West who had said he didn't know how the fire started. He had heard of differences between West and his wife.

Answering Mr. McColl, Boyce said Dr. West came occasionally to give his father insulin and had dressed his wound. Dr. Free had been one medical doctor. The treatment had lasted for some months before his father died and had sometimes necessitated a visit every night. Dr. West made no charge, acting solely as a neighbor.

MISS EASTWOOD WILL SING HERE

Murray St. Baptist Church Concert Should Prove Interesting.

FORMER SOLOIST

The concert in Murray street Baptist church on Monday, February 21, will mark the return of Miss Lillian Eastwood, soprano, who has made great strides in her singing since going to Toronto. She has a voice of beautiful quality, and unusual range, and in this programme will sing songs by Brahms, Strauss, Wolf and Weingartner, an aria from "La Forza del Destino", a sacred group and a group of modern English songs. Her press notices include:

"A delightful recital, when a large audience enjoyed her sweet singing of many types of songs."—The Globe, Toronto.

"Interesting vocal quality, and produced striking effects in singing exacting selections." — The Globe, Toronto.

"Remarkable vitality of tone—a young soprano of brilliant quality." The Daily Star, Toronto.

Mr. D'Alton McLaughlin is the organist of the Bloor Street Baptist Church, Toronto, and plays every Sunday evening in the Uptown Theatre to the largest church congregation in Canada. The first three years of radio broadcasting, his recitals, before the evening service, were broadcasted each Sunday. Mr. McLaughlin has had the advantage of work in both New York and Paris, and is on the staff of The Toronto Conservatory of Music. He will play a group of numbers by Joseph Bonnet, the organist of St. Eustache in Paris, with whom he studied; a movement of a Rheinberger Sonata in which the air of the hymn which was used at the Last Supper is introduced, and a group of modern numbers.

This will make a programme interesting and varied.

REPORTS FAIRER THAN FORMERLY

Press Gallery Veteran Says Papers Have Broader View.

CANADIAN PRESS FAIR

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 17. —(By Canadian Press). The Press Gallery in the Dominion Parliament at Ottawa was the subject of an interesting address to the Kiwanis Club by Arthur Ford, recently managing editor of the London Free Press, who was a member of the Gallery for 10 years.

Mr. Ford gave a resume of the history of the struggle through the centuries for the right to report parliamentary proceeding and publish such reports. In striking contrast, he told of conditions as they now obtain at Ottawa and in the British House of Commons and of the marked improvement in press reports, from the standpoint of fairness, during the past decade or two. Mr. Ford spoke in commendatory terms of the work of The Canadian Press at Ottawa. He said while the reports sent out by The Canadian Press representatives may be colorless, to an extent and lack the spice and sparkle of reports of a more partisan nature, he assured his listeners that The Canadian Press reports are fair and unbiased and that what actually happens in the House of Parliament are reported. Mr. Ford said he also believed that the newspapers of to-day are fairer in very way politically than they were in the older days. They are still partisan but they view politics from a broader aspect.

Amusing incidents from his long sojourn in Ottawa and the many interesting friends made, were mentioned by Mr. Ford. Hon Ferdinand Rinfret, the secretary of state in the King Government, was an associate in the Ottawa Press Gallery with Mr. Ford. He spoke of Mr. Rinfret in glowing terms, declaring him to be a man possessed of a brilliant intellect and a gift of oratory. He doubted if there is a more brilliant man in the King Cabinet than Mr. Rinfret.

Dame Louis Aldrich-Blake, who died not long ago in London, was generally considered to be the foremost woman surgeon the world. So competent and reliable was she rated in her own profession that one of England's greatest surgeons once said he would choose her if he ever had to undergo an operation himself.

BOY SUFFERS SERIOUS BURNS

Tries to Smother Flames When Gasoline Tank Explodes.

SHORT CIRCUIT

KINGSTON, Feb. 17. — Elmer Wales, a son of Mr. John Wales, of Storms Corners, suffered serious burns when a large drive shed on his fathers farm was destroyed by fire, along with a motor truck, a motor cycle and a complete set of farm implements. When the truck caught fire Elmer tried to smother the flames with a robe when the gasoline tank exploded, covering him with ignited gasoline. His clothes were almost burned off him and his hands were terribly burned trying to extinguish the flames which were suppposed to have originated from a short circuit in the wiring of the car that had been driven in a few minutes previously.

The modern bride, who would not consider her wedded happiness quite assured unless an old shoe was thrown after her "for luck," would probably be surprised and shocked if she knew the origin of this now amiable custom. In the East, where the custom had its birth the shoe was a favorite instrument of castigation—it still is in some families—and when the bride's father gave a shoe to the bridegroom after the wedding ceremony it was a symbol that he surrendered to him the right of "correcting" his daughter, and thus keeping her in proper subjection.

Pains in My Back Have Completely Vanished

Mr. W. Kozak Now Recommends Dodd's Kidney Pills

"For the last two months I have been troubled with backache," states Mr. W. Kozak, residing at Rama, Sask. "I could not do any work. I tried a box of Dodd's Kidney Pills and am glad to say the pain vanished. I have recommended them to others who say that they were greatly benefitted."

Kidney trouble is very common amongst all classes of people, and usually a lot of very valuable time is wasted by using unsuitable treatments.

Dodd's Kidney Pills stimulate and strengthen weak kidneys. They are used and recommended all over the civilized world.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"Mother," Faith took her courage into her hands and faced her mother, "Cherry is all right. She—she ran away to be married to Chris Wiley. Those men and that girl were reporters, wanting to ask us all about her romance with Chris, I'm sorry, Mother—"

"Well, I must say, that's nothing to act so tragic about! You'd think, to look at all of you, that the poor baby had killed herself! I guess if she's so dead set on Chris Wiley that she'd give up millions for him, she'd better be married to him. After all," she began now to cry, gaspingly, "all I've ever wanted for Cherry is for her to be happy, and if you, Jim Lane, hadn't acted so high and mighty, forbidding Chris Wiley the house, all this scandal and trouble wouldn't have happened. I hope this'll teach you a lesson, Jim Lane!"

"It has, Martha, it has," Jim dropped to the couch beside her and took her hand clumsily in his.

"Well, I'm glad you're getting wise to yourself," Mrs. Lane wiped her eyes with her kimono sleeve and then surprised them all by patting Jim's hand comfortingly. "Never mind, Jim, it's all done now. And maybe it's for the best. When's Cherry coming home, Faith? I reckon you've heard from her, ain't you?"

"She—she's on her honeymoon,—Mother," Faith lied desperately, her eyes glancing imploringly toward Bob Hathaway for understanding. "Now, Mother, Dr. Atkins thinks the best place for you for a while is in a hospital where you can have absolute quiet and rest. Your heart's in a bad condition, you know, honey—"

"I'd like to know where the money's coming from!" Mrs. Lane protested automatically, but all of them knew that she was pleased with the idea of being waited on by nurses, of seeing her doctor every day.

"Mr. Pruitt's advancing Dad the money," Faith improvised quickly, delighted with the success of her hastily conceived plan of putting her mother safely out of reach of newspapers and gossip. "You can go this morning. In fact Dr. Atkins insists on it."

Without waiting for any more discussion, Faith hurried from the room, followed by Bob.

"Good work, darling!" Bob whispered, as they neared the telephone. "That was a stroke of genius. She'll be safe as a church there until this whole miserable business is settled. Then she need know nothing about it until she's much stronger."

Faith called Dr. Atkins' number and was answered almost immediately. She outlined her plan hastily, received his unqualified endorsement and his promise to have his car at the house by half past nine. He would personally instruct the house physician, the nurses and everyone else with whom she might come in contact, that she was not to be told a word about the Cluny murder.

Faith had hardly hung up the receiver when the telephone rang. It was Aunt Hattie, almost hysterical from having read in the papers the story of the murder and of Cherry's implication in it.

"We didn't bother you last night," Aunt Hattie shrilled on, "because I told Pa and Ma that the little chit had just run away with some other feller and made a fool of herself. We come right home and went to bed. But now—"

"Now, Aunt Hattie," Faith took the word from her, "you're going to take care of Joy and me, aren't you? Mother doesn't know a thing about the murder. She just knows that Cherry ran away and married Chris Wiley, and she's going to the hospital this morning for a good long rest. She mustn't know a word of this, Aunt Hattie!"

"I guess I got a grain or two of sense," Aunt Hattie retorted spiritedly. "Send the child right over, with a suitcase, and I'll look after her."

"You think of everything, sweetheart," Bob told her huskily. "It's getting late. There's less than an hour before we have to leave for the inquest."

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FRIDAY FEBRUARY 18 1927.

(Copyright: 1927 McClure Syndicate.)

Good and evil planetary influences contend today, according to astrology. It is well to mark time in any merchantile transaction.

There is a forbidding sign for financial negotiations. It is not an auspicious day for seeking a loan.

The sway is fairly fortunate for men who wield power over their fellow men. Employers are more fortunate than employees today.

Trade is to increase rapidly for the United States, which is to extend commerce and thereby to create enmities, the seers foretell.

Lawyers are subject to lucky guidance at this time when there will be much litigation and a great deal of money for them.

Astrologers read this as an unfavorable planetary government for places of amusement, which should be careful about the expenditure of money.

The stars frown on love affairs today, and it is read as an unlucky wedding day.

Love affairs should be avoided under this direction of the stars which will make sentiment appear over important in the scheme of things.

Men and women of mature years may be especially susceptible to romantic love under this rule and may be even more foolish than the young.

Warning is given to modistes and importers that radical changes in fashions will entail losses unless foresight is exercised.

Art is to dominate the modes more than ever and dress is to become more and more costly, it is prognosticated.

Dangers for the air-mail are indicated at this time when unexpected weather conditions are foretold.

Persons whose birthdate it is may be much engaged in social affairs in the coming year, when there will be many temptations to waste time.

Children born on this day probably will be keen and quick of comprehension. These subjects of Aquarius on the cusp of Pices often are exceedingly esthetic.

Before sailing for England, Lady Byng, wife of the retiring Governor-General, was presented by the women of Canada with a diamond onyx bracelet mounted in platinum and contained in a silver box engraved with maple leaves in enamel.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

There is no suggestion of mannishness about this sport frock of beige wool jersey. It is trimmed with green and black and has a scarf of the beige jersey embroidered in black.

"The harsh, masculine note in sports clothes will be softened," said Captain Molyneux a few days ago in commenting on the trend in coming fashions. One listens with interest to any prophecies from the mouth of this well-known Englishman who has gained an enviable position among leading dressmakers of Paris. From other sources word has come recently that the sports frock was out of fashion in Paris, that it was only the American woman who persisted in wearing these informal, unfeminine clothes—and that the influential dressmakers would be glad to see the last of them.

Captain Molyneux makes an interesting distinction. The harsh, masculine type of sports costume will go—has gone—but in its place will remain the sports frock that is feminine. Some people have an idea that when you speak of feminine clothes you mean something that is fussy, uncomfortable and just a little absurd. They think of mid-Victorian clothes with their frills and furbelows and monstrous discomforts as being feminine. Perhaps from the mid-Victorian point of view those clothes were very feminine because it was by means of the painfully tight waist, the ballooning petticoats and an abundance of frills that women of those days sought to reveal their charms.

But there is little danger that such an idea will be revived or that sports clothes of the more attractive sorts will speedily go out of fashion. Though some of the more conservative French dressmakers may find the continuance of the sports mode unprofitable and may consequently use their influence to bring it into discredit the more progressive establishments who have adapted themselves to the demands of the younger generation are making sports clothes in even greater abundance than ever before.

The dull, drab colors that were once considered suitable for sports clothes have now given place to delicate flower shades of the most feminine sort. Sports fabrics are as light as t hisledown. The girl who adopts this new mode in sports attire has nothing in common with the faddy young person who wears her hair in an Eton crop, dons a black dinner suit for the evening and wears a monocle.

ABOUT CEREALS

Salt should never be added to cereals until after they are cooked, as it hardens the cellulose and prevents the starch granules from expanding to their full size.

Quaker

CAKE FLOUR

Immediate distribution accorded is evidence of support and loyalty to home manufacturers. The Quaker Oats Company records its thanks to the trade and public.

To all those who helped to make the initial distribution of the new Quaker Cake Flour such a success in Peterborough The Quaker Oats Company is exceedingly grateful.

The first packages put up for sale were distributed in this city. The retail grocery trade took hold of Quaker Cake Flour at once. Through the reputation it had achieved in the hands of Peterborough women who had already tried it and the wonderful co-operation of The Peterborough Examiner in displaying in its window both the new Cake Flour and cake made from it, almost an instant demand was created for it. Peterborough home bakers are enjoying Quaker Cake Flour in advance of those of any other city.

Quaker Cake Flour has been perfected only after two years of experiment. It is made of the richest parts of Ontario winter wheat. Henceforth it will not be necessary for Canadian housekeepers to buy an imported cake flour in order to get the best.

We cannot but feel that the hearty reception Quaker Cake Flour has received is an evidence of a desire on the part of The Examiner, the grocery trade of the city and the public to support and encourage the manufacturers of their home city.

To each we convey our acknowledgment and thanks.

NATIONALISTS CLAIM CAPTURE OF RAILWAY CITY

Hangchow, Headquarters of Marshall Sun, Said To Have Been Taken.

CONFUSION THERE.

Confirmation of Reports Expected at Any Minute—Near Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press) — Nationalists here claim that Hangchow, an important rail and water centre 113 miles northwest of Shanghai, was captured by their forces last night. Hangchow has been held by Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, a member of the alliance of northern warlords. The reports have not yet been confirmed, but railway officials of the Hangchow-Shanghai line said there was utmost confusion in that city because of trains standing there to evacuate the headquarters of Marshal Sun Chuang Fang's defending army.

Cantonese forces were only ten miles from Hangchow this morning lining up on the south and west approaches to the city and pressing hard on the retreating Northern army. Confirmations of the city's fall was expected momentarily as it may have already become an accomplished fact.

The capture of Hangchow would place Shanghai, with its large foreign settlement and rich revenues from maritime customs, almost within the shadow advancing Cantonese.

LADY MEMBER OF BIRD SOCIETY

Miss Marshall Saunders Honored By Association of Scientists.

AN AUTHORESS.

TORONTO, Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Because of her special knowledge and experience with birds, Marshall Saunders has just been made an honorary member of the Bird Society of Newark, N. J., an organization of scientists. Miss Saunders lectured before them recently and she was told that owing to her combination of humane interest and scientific observation she had given the Society a unique slant on bird life as intimately observed.

While in New York she spoke to the Women's Canadian Club on the "English-Speaking Union," a society of twelve thousand members which aims to create good will. In her speech she used an illustration of a point she was making from her own birds: "When Cardinals would attack my canaries (which rest all the year round) I do not cut their throats; I clip their wings." One New York paper characterized this as a bon-mot, helpful to lovers of International peace.

Miss Saunders has a new book ready which will be brought out shortly. She has gone to her mother's family for the title, which is "Esther de Warren." It is the story of a Victorian girl, done in a sort of "Maria Edgeworth" way, but with, one may be sure, a decidedly "Saunderiah" handling and humor.

One of the novelist's delightful characteristics is the taking of time to do little things on the spur of the moment. At a New York hotel she sighed over the fact that if she tried to eat most of the huge portion of meat given her, she would not be able to daily with a very delectable dessert. Something was wrong with a system that, in the first place, made you waste food, and, on the other hand, pay for what you did not get. Many women on trains have felt the same. One was confined to a fish course, for instance; if the price was seventy-five cents and one had a dollar and a quarter set aside for a meal. So she responded blithely to the hotel's invitation to "make a note of anything wrong," and was assured that the question would be discussed "higher up." Perhaps if more women did the like reforms might ensue.

No More Gray Hair

Don't think your hair need remain streaked with gray—or even very gray. For over ten years men and women whose hair was once blonde, auburn, brown or black have successfully used Kolor-Bak to restore color to their gray hair. Today they haven't the slightest visible trace of gray. Nor can you tell they ever used anything on their hair.

Kolor-Bak is a clean, colorless liquid that has restored youthful appearance to hundreds of thousands. As easy to apply as water, it requires no experimenting with samples of your hair.

Just ask your dealer for Kolor-Bak. The one bottle is for all hair, no matter what shade or color. Results often appear in a week. And with the disappearance of the gray hair, the scalp properties of Kolor-Bak make it splendid to use for dandruff and falling hair. Its tremendous success is clearly shown by the sale of nearly 5,000,000 bottles, which proves its superiority.

Dealers everywhere sell Kolor-Bak with guarantee to return your money if it does not bring desired results. No excuse now for any woman to look old, or any man to be considered too old for employment. Your druggist, or any store where toilet goods are sold, carries Kolor-Bak. Ask for it today.

TO MARK HOMES OF STATESMEN

A. R. Davis' Efforts in This Direction at Last to Have Results.

PREMIER APPROVES

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—For 16 years and to four different Prime Ministers of Canada, Allan Ross Davis, now of Toronto, has continued to promote his plan for marking the boyhood homes of two noted Canadian statesmen—Sir John Macdonald at Adolphustown, Ont., and Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Arthabaska, Que. Changes of governments, the emergencies of the great war, and various other conditions have tended to interfere with government support of the enterprize but Mr. Davis has now been heartened by the receipt of the following letter from Premier Mackenzie King's private secretary under date of January 5.

"The Prime Minister has read with interest your letters of Dec. 15 and Dec. 30, as to marking the sites of the boyhood homes of Sir John Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in some appropriate manner. He has noted particularly your references to your long continued efforts to secure action to this end. He has instructed me to say that he has much personal sympathy with the idea of preserving these sites and marking them in a suitable manner. As a first step he has asked the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada to consider and report upon the question, and in this connection has forwarded to them copies of your recent correspondence."

Sir Wilfrid Approved.

Agitating for suitable marking of the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes, Mr. Davis started with Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself. Mr. Davis' recital of his long-continued efforts in this connection is interesting. He says:

"Whenever Sir John Macdonald became reminiscent in his public addresses he invariably referred to his boyhood home in Adolphustown, on Hay Bay—a long, narrow arm of the Bay of Quinte where, he would gravely state, he located his parents after bringing them from Scotland in 1820, when he was five years old. In his later years he visited the site with Lady Macdonald and told her wonderful tales about his exploits at the old home and in the neighborhood where he attended school. The stone foundation of the burned house still remains, but the half-acre plot long ago became a part of the 1200 acre farm of the Platt estate, and was practically forgotten. I bought the Macdonald plot in 1911, and then wrote Premier Laurier my first and only letter, requesting his Government to make a small grant to properly mark the site. I suggested that a future generation would probably do the same with his boyhood home at Arthabaska. A gracious reply came back immediately, commending the patriotic idea and expressing the highest veneration for his illustrious predecessor. But the Laurier Government soon after fell. Then Premier Borden was besieged on the scheme, but war was upon us before his favorable promises were put into execution. Premier Meighen next warmly expressed his approval and particularly pointed out that the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes should be marked at the same time, and in a manner worthy of these great statesmen.

For Jubilee Celebration.

"Again the scene changed and when Premier King recently returned home from the Imperial Conference with a diamond jubilee, Confederation celebration in his mind for this year, I thought it a fitting opportunity to write him a letter and of course, it was concerning the marking of the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes."

Mr. Davis says he is highly pleased to find that "Premier King is in hearty accord with his predecessors in this matter, and has already taken the initial step towards carrying out so long-neglected and worthy a Federal Government obligation." Mr. Davis expresses the hope that "provision for the necessary funds be made in the estimates so that no time may be lost in beginning work in the spring, in order that the memorials may be ready for unveiling by the Prince of Wales on, or about the first of July."

PICTURE WORKINGS OF HUMAN ORGANS

Scientists Hope Soon to Take X-Ray Moving Pictures.

LONDON, Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—Three British scientists are hopeful of soon perfecting a discovery which will make possible the photographing of the function of the human organs. They believe they will be able to take pictures of the digestive organs at work, and photograph other parts of the internal machinery of man, which proceedings, while suggestive of a morbid inclination, will be extremely valuable to medical science.

The three are Frederick Melville, radiologist at University College, London; E. W. Edwards, and E. Warnford, of British Instructional Films. The trio have already succeeded in photographing at the normal speed of the body, the movements of the limbs as seen by X-ray. This moving-picture X-ray places before medical men secrets of the human body never before tabulated. Hitherto, all X-ray photographs have been "still" pictures, and scientists all over Europe have been seeking for what the three Britishers have now found.

The discovery is classed by Edwards as a departure not only from cinematography, but from X-ray science. "We have now arrived at a perfect system with regard to the photographing of the bones," he says, "but the ray which reveals the bones penetrates the tissues and in order to photograph the heart another ray will be employed and there will have to be further adaptation of the camera."

The exposure of an X-ray photograph is about half a second. The cenematograph only allows a 45th of a second exposure. By continued adaption of lens and screen s the camera now being used successfully was produced.

Or Your Money Back. That's the Plan on Which Emerald Oil Is Sold By Bond's Drug Store and All Good Drug gists.

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to Bond's Drug Store or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered one way to restore your skin to perfect health.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

CO-OPERATION STARTS AT HOME

Woman Tells Farm Bureau Scholars To Train Children.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Mrs. Mary G. Puncke, a former dire ctor of the United Farm Women of Alberta, who some two years ago came here to organize a radio service for farm women, recently addressed the first home and community training school of the American Farm Bureau Federation, on the subject of co-operative marketing.

Co-operative marketing begins in the home, with the education of children who shall be co-operative "from the ground up," was Mrs. Puncke's message.

"This is an opportunity which you women must grasp," she added. The ideal of the co-operative movement is better homes. We do not want to dispossess other people of their prosperity, but we want to earn ours. The farmers of the United States are ready for the co-operative movement, but the women of the country are not yet realizing their responsibility. It is on the prairies that these great problems are being worked out, and women will do it."

MARRYING CLERIC.

Ruthenian Clergyman Leads With 73 Marriages in Hamilton.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Winnipeg's most popular "marrying" clergyman for the year 1926 was Very Rev. Father P. Oleksiw, vicar-general, of St. Vlad imir and Olga's Ruthenian Catholic pro-cathedral. He married 73 couples in 11 months.

Rev. Father Oleksiw, in attempting to account for his own high record, said that he had one of the largest parishes in the city, his parishioners numbering in the neighborhood of 20,000. His people are of the Slav race and marry early. One of the clergy of the United Church, who was an "also-ran," in accounting for the unemployment situation with regard to marryings and giving in marriage with many of the clergy, blamed the girls. He urged a campaign of publicity to induce marriageable girls to bring in marriage-shy bachelors who were just hovering out of reach of the halter. His advice to the girls was to shut their eyes and jump. The water might be cold at first, but one became used to it and swimming with a companion was easier than battling the waves of life's sea alone.

WOMAN REFEREES BASKETBALL GAMES

Another of Men's Realms Invaded by Recent Appointment.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 17 (By C.P.) The appointment of Mrs. Homer Geddes as one of official referees of the Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association for games in the local group, marks another step forward in the sharing of activities by the women of what were considered a few years ago as being for men and men only. Women have taken to basketball, baseball, hockey, track and field athletics, soccer, speed boat racing, speed skating, swimming, golf, tennis and there have been several cases where women have ridden as jockeys, and there have also been reports of women boxers, but the appointment of Mrs. Geddes is the first case of a woman being appointed as an official referee by the governing body of a branch of sport, in Canada at least.

TROUBLE SIGNS FOR THOSE PAST 40

Bladder Weakness, Nervousness, Headaches, Frequent, Painful, Scanty Urination, Getting-up Nights

The embarrasing annoyance and genuine misery of Bladder Weakness, often brings "discomforts of old age" to those who really ought to be in the very prime of life.

Countless thousands, perhaps seven out of ten, of folks near middle life are pitiful victims of Headaches, Nervousness, Pains in back and down through groins, frequent but scanty and painful urination—Getting-up-nights.

While serious, if neglected—it is ordinarily a simple matter to relieve these troubles by the pleasant home use of Dr. Southworth's URATABS which have been victorious in thousands of cases, after other treatments have failed.

No matter how serious or of how long standing your condition may be, you can quickly prove the value of URATABS without risk of cost—for any good druggist will supply you on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back. If URATABS bring you quick and certain comfort, you will be greatly pleased. If they do not fully satisfy, their use will cost you nothing. Try URATABS today, and see what a difference they make.

J., an organization of scientists. Miss Saunders lectured before them recently and she was told that owing to her combination of humane interest and scientific observation she had given the Society a unique slant on bird life as intimately observed.

While in New York she spoke to the Women's Canadian Club on the "English-Speaking Union," a society of twelve thousand members which aims to create good will. In her speech she used an illustration of a point she was making from her own birds: "When Cardinals would attack my canaries (which rest all the year round) I do not cut their throats; I clip their wings." One New York paper characterized this as a bon-mot, helpful to lovers of International peace.

Miss Saunders has a new book ready which will be brought out shortly. She has gone to her mother's family for the title, which is "Esther de Warren." It is the story of a Victorian girl, done in a sort of "Maria Edgeworth" way. But with, one may be sure, a decidedly "Saunderish" handling and humor.

One of the novelist's delightful characteristics is the taking of time to do little things on the spur of the moment. At a New York hotel she sighed over the fact that if she tried to eat most of the huge portion of meat given her, she would not be able to dally with a very delectable dessert. Something was wrong with a system that, in the first place, made you waste food, and, on the other hand, pay for what you did not get. Many women on trains have felt the same. One was confined to a fish course, for instance; if the price was seventy-five cents and one had a dollar and a quarter set aside for a meal. So she responded blithely to the hotel's invitation to "make a note of anything wrong," and was assured that the question would be discussed "higher up." Perhaps if more women did the like reforms might ensue.

No More Gray Hair

Don't think your hair need remain streaked with gray—or even very gray. For over ten years men and women whose hair was once blonde, auburn, brown or black have successfully used Kolor-Bak to restore color to their gray hair. Today they haven't the slightest visible trace of gray. Nor can you tell they ever used anything on their hair.

Kolor-Bak is a clean, colorless liquid that has restored youthful appearances to hundreds of thousands. As easy to apply as water, irrespective experimenting with samples of your hair.

Just ask your dealer for Kolor-Bak. The one bottle is for all hair, no matter what shade or color. Results often appear in a week. And with the disappearance of the gray hair, the tonic properties of Kolor-Bak make it splendid to use for dandruff and falling hair. Its tremendous success is clearly shown by the sale of nearly 3,000,000 bottles, which proves its superiority.

Dealers everywhere sell Kolor-Bak with guarantee to return your money if it does not bring desired results. No excuse now for any woman to look old, or any man to be considered too old for employment. Your druggist, or any store where toilet goods are sold, carries Kolor-Bak. Ask for it today.

TO MARK HOMES OF STATESMEN

A. R. Davis' Efforts in This Direction at Last to Have Results.

PREMIER APPROVES

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—For 16 years and to four different Prime Ministers of Canada, Allan Ross Davis, now of Toronto, has continued to promote his plan for marking the boyhood homes of two noted Canadian statesmen—Sir John Macdonald at Adolphustown, Ont., and Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Arthabasks, Que. Changes of governments, the emergencies of the great war, and various other conditions have tended to interfere with government support of the enterprize but Mr. Davis has now been heartened by the receipt of the following letter from Premier Mackenzie King's private secretary under date of January 5.

"The Prime Minister has read with interest your letters of Dec. 15 and Dec. 30, as to marking the sites of the boyhood homes of Sir John Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in some appropriate manner. He has noted particularly your references to your long continued efforts to secure action to this end. He has instructed me to say that he has much personal sympathy with the idea of preserving these sites and marking them in a suitable manner. As a first step he has asked the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada to consider and report upon the question, and in this connection has forwarded to them copies of your recent correspondence."

Sir Wilfrid Approved.

Agitating for suitable marking of the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes, Mr. Davis started with Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself. Mr. Davis' recital of his long-continued efforts in this connection is interesting. He says:

"Whenever Sir John Macdonald became reminiscent in his public addresses he invariably referred to his boyhood home in Adolphustown, on Hay Bay—a long, narrow arm of the Bay of Quinte where, he would gravely state, he located his parents after bringing them from Scotland in 1820, when he was five years old. In his later years he visited the site with Lady Macdonald and told her wonderful tales about his exploits at the old home and in the neighborhood where he attended school. The stone foundation of the burned house still remains, but the half-acre plot long ago became a part of the 1200 acre farm of the Platt estate, and was practically forgotten. I bought the Macdonald plot in 1911, and then wrote Premier Laurier my first and only letter, requesting his Government to make a small grant to properly mark the site. I suggested that a future generation would probably do the same with his boyhood home at Arthabasks. A gracious reply came back immediately, commending the patriotic idea and expressing the highest veneration for his illustrious predecessor. But the Laurier Government soon after fell. Then Premier Borden was besieged on the scheme, but war was upon us before his favorable promises were put into execution. Premier Meighen next warmly expressed his approval and particularly pointed out that the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes should be marked at the same time, and in a manner worthy of these great statesmen.

For Jubilee Celebration.

"Again the scene changed and when Premier King recently returned home from the Imperial Conference with a diamond jubilee, Confederation celebration in his mind for this year, I thought it a fitting opportunity to write him a letter and of course, it was concerning the marking of the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes."

Mr. Davis says he is highly pleased to find that "Premier King is in hearty accord with his predecessors in this matter, and has already taken the initial step towards carrying out so long-neglected and worthy a Federal Government obligation." Mr. Davis expresses the hope that "provision for the necessary funds be made in the estimates so that no time may be lost in beginning work in the spring, in order that the memorials may be ready for unveiling by the Prince of Wales on, or about the first of July."

PICTURE WORKINGS OF HUMAN ORGANS

Scientists Hope Soon to Take X-Ray Moving Pictures.

LONDON, Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—Three British scientists are hopeful of soon perfecting a discovery which will make possible the photographing of the function of the human organs. They believe they will be able to take pictures of the digestive organs at work, and photograph other parts of the internal machinery of man, which proceedings, while suggestive of a morbid inclination, will be extremely valuable to medical science.

The three are Frederick Melville, radiologist at University College, London; E. W. Edwards, and E. Warnford, of British Instructional Films. The trio have already succeeded in photographing at the normal speed of the body, the movements of the limbs as seen by X-ray. This moving-picture X-ray places before medical men secrets of the human body never before tabulated. Hitherto, all X-ray photographs have been "still" pictures, and scientists all over Europe have been seeking for what the three Britishers have now found.

The discovery is classed by Edwards as a departure not only from cinematography, but from X-ray science. "We have now arrived at a perfect system with regard to the photographing of the bones," he says, "but the ray which reveals the bones penetrates the tissues and in order to photograph the heart another ray will be employed and there will have to be further adaptation of the camera."

The exposure of an X-ray photograph is about half a second. The cinematograph only allows a 45th of a second exposure. By continued adaption of lens and screen s the camera now being used successfully was produced.

Woman Tells Farm Bureau Scholars To Train Children.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Mrs. Mary G. Puncke, a former dire ctor of the United Farm Women of Alberta, who some two years ago came here to organize a radio service for farm women, recently addressed the first home and community training school of the American Farm Bureau Federation, on the subject of co-operative marketing.

Co-operative marketing begins in the home, with the education of children who shall be co-operative "from the ground up," was Mrs. Puncke's message.

"This is an opportunity which you women must grasp," she added. The ideal of the co-operative movement is better homes. We do not want to dispossess other people of their prosperity, but we want to earn ours. The farmers of the United States are ready for the co-operative movement, but the women of the country are not yet realizing their responsibility. It is on the prairies that these great problems are being worked out, and women will do it."

MARRYING CLERIC.

Ruthenian Clergyman Leads With 73 Marriages in Hamilton.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Winnipeg's most popular "marrying" clergyman for the year 1926 was Very Rev. Father P. Oleksiw, vicar-general, of St. Vlad imir and Olga's Ruthenian Catholic pro-cathedral. He married 73 couples in 11 months.

Rev. Father Oleksiw, in attempting to account for his own high record, said that he had one of the largest parishes in the city, his parishioners numbering in the neighborhood of 20,000. His people are of the Slav race and marry early. One of the clergy of the United Church, who was an "also-ran," in accounting for the unemployment situation with regard to marryings and giving in marriage with many of the clergy, blamed the girls. He urged a campaign of publicity to induce marriageable girls to bring in marriage-shy bachelors who were just hovering out of reach of the halter. His advice to the girls was to shut their eyes and jump. The water might be cold at first, but one became used to it and swimming with a companion was easier than battling the waves of life's sea alone.

WOMAN REFEREES BASKETBALL GAMES

Another of Men's Realms Invaded by Recent Appointment.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 17 (By C.P The appointment of Mrs. Homer Geddes as one of official referees of the Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association for games in the local group, marks another step forward in the sharing of activities by the women of what were considered a few years ago as being for men and men only. Women have taken to basketball, baseball, hockey, track and field athletics, soccer, speed boat racing, speed skating, swimming, golf, tennis and there have been several cases where women have ridden as jockeys, and there have also been reports of women boxers, but the appointment of Mrs. Geddes is the first case of a woman being appointed as an official referee by the governing body of a branch of sport, in Canada at least.

TROUBLE SIGNS FOR THOSE PAST 40

Bladder Weakness, Nervousness, Headaches, Frequent, Painful, Scanty Urination, Getting-up Nights

The embarrasing annoyance and genuine misery of Bladder Weakness, often brings "discomforts of old age" to those who really ought to be in the very prime of life.

Countless thousands, perhaps seven out of ten, of folks near middle life are pitiful victims of Headaches, Nervousness, Pains in back and down through groins, frequent but scanty and painful urination—Getting-up-nights.

While serious, if neglected—it is ordinarily a simple matter to relieve these troubles by the pleasant home use of Dr. Southworth's URATABS which have been victorious in thousands of cases, after other treatments have failed.

No matter how serious or of how long standing your condition may be, you can quickly prove the value of URATABS without risk of cost—for any good druggist will supply you on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back. If URATABS bring you quick and certain comfort, you will be greatly pleased. If they do not fully satisfy, their use will cost you nothing. Try URATABS today, and see what a difference they make.

NATIONALISTS CLAIM CAPTURE OF RAILWAY CITY

Hangchow, Headquarters of Marshall Sun, Said To Have Been Taken.

CONFUSION THERE.

Confirmation of Reports Expected at Any Minute—Near Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press) — Nationalists here claim that Hangchow, an important rail and water centre 113 miles northwest of Shanghai, was captured by their forces last night. Hangchow has been held by Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, a member of the alliance of northern warlords. The reports have not yet been confirmed, but railway officials of the Hangchow-Shanghai line said there was utmost confusion in that city because of trains standing there to evacuate the headquarters of Marshal Sun Chuang Fang's defending army.

Cantonese forces were only ten miles from Hangchow this morning lining up on the south and west approaches to the city and pressing hard on the retreating Northern army. Confirmations of the city's fall was expected momen rily as it may have already become an accomplished fact.

The capture of Hangchow would place Shanghai, with its large foreign settlement and rich revenues from maritime customs, almost within the shadow advancing Cantonese.

MARRYING CLERIC.

Ruthenian Clergyman Leads With 73 Marriages in Hamilton.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Winnipeg's most popular "marrying" clergyman for the year 1926 was Very Rev. Father P. Oleksiw, vicar-general, of St. Vladimir and Olga's Ruthenian Catholic pro-cathedral. He married 73 couples in 11 months.

Rev. Father Oleksiw, in attempting to account for his own high record, said that he had one of the largest parishes in the city, his parishioners numbering in the neighborhood of 20,000. His people are of the Slav race and marry early. One of the clergy of the United Church, who was an "also-ran," in accounting for the unemployment situation with regard to marryings and giving in marriage with many of the clergy, blamed the girls. He urged a campaign of publicity to induce marriageable girls to bring in marriage-shy bachelors who were just hovering out of reach of the halter. His advice to the girls was to shut their eyes and jump. The water might be cold at first, but one became used to it and swimming with a companion was easier than battling the waves of life's sea alone.

WOMAN REFEREES BASKETBALL GAMES

Another of Men's Realms Invaded by Recent Appointment.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 17 (By C.P The appointment of Mrs. Homer Geddes as one of official referees of the Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association for games in the local group, marks another step forward in the sharing of activities by the women of what were considered a few years ago as being for men and men only. Women have taken to basketball, baseball, hockey, track and field athletics, soccer, speed boat racing, speed skating, swimming, golf, tennis and there have been several cases where women have ridden as jockeys, and there have also been reports of women boxers, but the appointment of Mrs. Geddes is the first case of a woman being appointed as an official referee by the governing body of a branch of sport, in Canada at least.

NATIONALISTS CLAIM CAPTURE OF RAILWAY CITY

Hangchow, Headquarters of Marshall Sun, Said To Have Been Taken.

CONFUSION THERE.

Confirmation of Reports Expected at Any Minute—Near Shanghai.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press) — Nationalists here claim that Hangchow, an important rail and water centre 113 miles northwest of Shanghai, was captured by their forces last night. Hangchow has been held by Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, a member of the alliance of northern warlords. The reports have not yet been confirmed, but railway officials of the Hangchow-Shanghai line said there was utmost confusion in that city because of trains standing there to evacuate the headquarters of Marshal Sun Chuang Fang's defending army.

Cantonese forces were only ten miles from Hangchow this morning lining up on the south and west approaches to the city and pressing hard on the retreating Northern army. Confirmations of the city's fall was expected momentarily as it may have already become an accomplished fact.

The capture of Hangchow would place Shanghai, with its large foreign settlement and rich revenues from maritime customs, almost within the shadow advancing Cantonese.

LADY MEMBER OF BIRD SOCIETY

Miss Marshall Saunders Honored By Association of Scientists.

AN AUTHORESS.

TORONTO, Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Because of her special knowledge and experience with birds, Marshall Saunders has just been made an honorary member of the Bird Scietv of Newark, N. J., an organization of scientists. Miss Saunders lectured before them recently and she was told that owing to her combination of humane interest and scientific observation she had given the Society a unique slant on bird life as intimately observed.

While in New York she spoke to the Women's Canadian Club on the "English-Speaking Union," a society of twelve thousand members which aims to create good will. In her speech she used an illustration of a point she was making from her own birds: "When Cardinals would attack my canaries (which rest all the year round) I do not cut their throats; I clip their wings." One New York paper characterized this as a bonmot, helpful to lovers of International peace.

Miss Saunders has a new book ready which will be brought out shortly. She has gone to her mother's family for the title, which is "Esther de Warren." It is the story of a Victorian girl, done in a sort of "Maria Edgeworth" way, but with, one may be sure, a decidedly "Saunderiah" handling and humor.

One of the novelist's delightful characteristics is the taking of time to do little things on the spur of the moment. At a New York hotel she sighed over the fact that if she tried to eat most of the huge portion of meat given her, she would not be able to daily with a very delectable dessert. Something was wrong with a system that, in the first place, made you waste food, and, on the other hand, pay for what you did not get. Many women on trains have felt the same. One was confined to a fish course, for instance; if the price was seventy-five cents and one had a dollar and a quarter set aside for a meal. So she responded blithely to the hotel's invitation to "make a note of anything wrong," and was assured that the question would be discussed "higher up." Perhaps if more women did the like reforms might ensue.

No More Gray Hair

Don't think your hair need remain streaked with gray—or even very gray. For over ten years men and women whose hair was once blonde, auburn, brown or black have successfully used Kolor-Bak to restore color to their gray hair. Today they haven't the slightest visible trace of gray. Nor can you tell they ever used anything on their hair.

Kolor-Bak is a clean, colorless liquid that has restored youthful appearance to hundreds of thousands. As easy to apply as water, it requires no experimenting with samples of your hair.

Just ask your dealer for Kolor-Bak. The one bottle is for all hair, no matter what shade or color. Results often appear in a week. And with the disappearance of the gray hair, the tonic properties of Kolor-Bak make it splendid to use for dandruff and falling hair. Its tremendous success is clearly shown by the sale of nearly 2,000,000 bottles, which proves its superiority.

Dealers everywhere sell Kolor-Bak with guarantee to return your money if it does not bring desired results. No excuse now for any woman to look old, or any man to be considered too old for employment. Your druggist, or any store where toilet goods are sold, carries Kolor-Bak. Ask for it today.

TO MARK HOMES OF STATESMEN

A. R. Davis' Efforts in This Direction at Last to Have Results.

PREMIER APPROVES

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—For 16 years and to four different Prime Ministers of Canada, Allan Ross Davis, now of Toronto, has continued to promote his plan for marking the boyhood homes of two noted Canadian statesmen—Sir John Macdonald at Adolphustown, Ont., and Sir Wilfrid Laurier at Arthabaska, Que. Changes of governments, the emergencies of the great war, and various other conditions have tended to interfere with government support of the enterprize but Mr. Davis has now been heartened by the receipt of the following letter from Premier Mackenzie King's private secretary under date of January 5.

"The Prime Minister has read with interest your letters of Dec. 15 and Dec. 30, as to marking the sites of the boyhood homes of Sir John Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in some appropriate manner. He has noted particularly your references to your long continued efforts to secure action to this end. He has instructed me to say that he has much personal sympathy with the idea of preserving these sites and marking them in a suitable manner. As a first step he has asked the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada to consider and report upon the question, and in this connection has forwarded to them copies of your recent correspondence."

Sir Wilfrid Approved.

Agitating for suitable marking of the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes, Mr. Davis started with Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself. Mr. Davis' recital of his long-continued efforts in this connection is interesting. He says:

"Whenever Sir John Macdonald became reminiscent in his public addresses he invariably referred to his boyhood home in Adolphustown, on Hay Bay—a long, narrow arm of the Bay of Quinte where, he would gravely state, he located his parents after bringing them from Scotland in 1820, when he was five years old. In his later years he visited the site with Lady Macdonald and told her wonderful tales about his exploits at the old home and in the neighborhood where he attended school. The stone foundation of the burned house still remains, but the half-acre plot long ago became a part of the 1200 acre farm of the Platt estate, and was practically forgotten. I bought the Macdonald plot in 1911, and then wrote Premier Laurier my first and only letter, requesting his Government to make a small grant to properly mark the site. I suggested that a future generation would probably do the same with his boyhood home at Arthabaska. A gracious reply came back immediately, commending the patriotic idea and expressing the highest veneration for his illustrious predecessor. But the Laurier Government soon after fell. Then Premier Borden was besieged on the scheme, but war was upon us before his favorable promises were put into execution. Premier Meighen next warmly expressed his approval and particularly pointed out that the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes should be marked at the same time, and in a manner worthy of these great statesmen.

For Jubilee Celebration.

"Again the scene changed and when Premier King recently returned home from the Imperial Conference with a diamond jubilee, Confederation celebration in his mind for this year, I thought it a fitting opportunity to write him a letter and of course, it was concerning the marking of the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes."

Mr. Davis says he is highly pleased to find that "Premier King is in hearty accord with his predecessors in this matter, and has already taken the initial step towards carrying out so long-neglected and worthy a Federal Government obligation." Mr. Davis expresses the hope that "provision for the necessary funds be made in the estimates so that no time may be lost in beginning work in the spring, in order that the memorials may be ready for unveiling by the Prince of Wales on, or about the first of July."

PICTURE WORKINGS OF HUMAN ORGANS

Scientists Hope Soon to Take X-Ray Moving Pictures.

LONDON, Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—Three British scientists are hopeful of soon perfecting a discovery which will make possible the photographing of the function of the human organs. They believe they will be able to take pictures of the digestive organs at work, and photograph other parts of the internal machinery of man, which proceedings, while suggestive of a morbid inclination, will be extremely valuable to medical science.

The three are Frederick Melville, radiologist at University College, London; E. W. Edwards, and E. Warnford, of British Instructional Films. The trio have already succeeded in photographing at the normal speed of the body, the movements of the limbs as seen by X-ray. This moving-picture X-ray places before medical men secrets of the human body never before tabulated. Hitherto, all X-ray photographs have been "still" pictures, and scientists all over Europe have been seeking for what the three Britishers have now found.

The discovery is classed by Edwards as a departure not only from cinematography, but from X-ray science. "We have now arrived at a perfect system with regard to the photographing of the bones," he says, "but the ray which reveals the bones penetrates the tissues and in order to photograph the heart another ray will be employed and there will have to be further adaptation of the camera."

The exposure of an X-ray photograph is about half a second. The cenematograph only allows a 45th of a second exposure. By continued adaption of lens and screen s the camera now being used successfully was produced.

THIS GREAT HEALING OIL MUST BANISH ECZEMA AND SKIN TROUBLES

Or Your Money Back. That's the Plan on Which Emerald Oil Is Sold By Bond's Drug Store and All Good Druggists.

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to Bond's Drug Store or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered one way to restore your skin to perfect health.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

CO-OPERATION STARTS AT HOME

Woman Tells Farm Bureau Scholars To Train Children.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Mrs. Mary G. Puncke, a former director of the United Farm Women of Alberta, who some two years ago came here to organize a radio service for farm women, recently addressed the first home and community training school of the American Farm Bureau Federation, on the subject of co-operative marketing.

Co-operative marketing begins in the home, with the education of children who shall be co-operative "from the ground up," was Mrs. Puncke's message.

"This is an opportunity which you women must grasp," she added. "The ideal of the co-operative movement is better homes. We do not want to dispossess other people of their prosperity, but we want to earn ours. The farmers of the United States are ready for the co-operative movement, but the women of the country are not yet realizing their responsibility. It is on the prairies that these great problems are being worked out, and women will do it."

As a first step he has asked the Historic Sites and Monuments Board of Canada to consider and report upon the question, and in this connection has forwarded to them copies of your recent correspondence."

Sir Wilfrid Approved.

Agitating for suitable marking of the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes, Mr. Davis started with Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself. Mr. Davis' recital of his long-continued efforts in this connection is interesting. He says:

"Whenever Sir John Macdonald became reminiscent in his public addresses he invariably referred to his boyhood home in Adolphustown, on Hay Bay—a long, narrow arm of the Bay of Quinte where, he would gravely state, he located his parents after bringing them from Scotland in 1820, when he was five years old. In his later years he visited the site with Lady Macdonald and told her wonderful tales about his exploits at the old home and in the neighborhood where he attended school. The stone foundation of the burned house still remains, but the half-acre plot long ago became a part of the 1200 acre farm of the Platt estate, and was practically forgotten. I bought the Macdonald plot in 1911, and then wrote Premier Laurier my first and only letter, requesting his Government to make a small grant to properly mark the site. I suggested that a future generation would probably do the same with his boyhood home at Arthabaska. A gracious reply came back immediately, commending the patriotic idea and expressing the highest veneration for his illustrious predecessor. But the Laurier Government soon after fell. Then Premier Borden was besieged on the scheme, but war was upon us before his favorable promises were put into execution. Premier Meighen next warmly expressed his approval and particularly pointed out that the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes should be marked at the same time, and in a manner worthy of these great statesmen.

For Jubilee Celebration.

"Again the scene changed and when Premier King recently returned home from the Imperial Conference with a diamond jubilee, Confederation celebration in his mind for this year, I thought it a fitting opportunity to write him a letter and of course, it was concerning the marking of the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes."

Mr. Davis says he is highly pleased to find that "Premier King is in hearty accord with his predecessors in this matter, and has already taken the initial step towards carrying out so long-neglected and worthy a Federal Government obligation." Mr. Davis expresses the hope that "provision for the necessary funds be made in the estimates so that no time may be lost in beginning work in the spring, in order that the memorials may be ready for unveiling by the Prince of Wales on, or about the first of July."

PICTURE WORKINGS OF HUMAN ORGANS

Scientists Hope Soon to Take X-Ray Moving Pictures.

LONDON, Feb. 17 (By C.P.)—Three British scientists are hopeful of soon perfecting a discovery which will make possible the photographing of the function of the human organs. They believe they will be able to take pictures of the digestive organs at work, and photograph other parts of the internal machinery of man, which proceedings, while suggestive of a morbid inclination, will be extremely valuable to medical science.

The three are Frederick Melville, radiologist at University College, London; R. W. Edwards, and E. Warnford, of British Instructional Films. The trio have already succeeded in photographing at the normal speed of the body, the movements of the limbs as seen by X-ray. This moving-picture X-ray places before medical men secrets of the human body never before tabulated. Hitherto, all X-ray photographs have been "still" pictures, and scientists all over Europe have been seeking for what the three Britishers have now found.

The discovery is classed by Edwards as a departure not only from cinematography, but from X-ray science. "We have now arrived at a perfect system with regard to the photographing of the bones," he says; "but the ray which reveals the bones penetrates the tissues and in order to photograph the heart another ray will be employed and there will have to be further adaptation of the camera."

The exposure of an X-ray photograph is about half a second. The cenematograph only allows a 45th of a second exposure. By continued adaption of lens and screen s the camera now being used successfully was produced.

Muffets—the new toasted whole-wheat cereal—are now prepared in Canada at the new plant of the Muffets Corporation of Canada Ltd., St. Catharines, Ontario.

The widespread demand and instant acceptance of Muffets throughout Canada has required a purely Canadian factory, devoted entirely to Canadian business. It also permits Muffets to be sold at the new price of 15 cents a package, or 2 packages for 29 cents.

Muffets bring to your table the full richness of Canadian wheat—every nourishing element in its natural proportion—in a form appealing to the most exacting taste.

At breakfast with milk, either hot or cold, Muffets are delicious. Hollowed out and filled with fruit they make luscious desserts. As patties for fish, meats and vegetables they are nourishing, healthful, delectable. Delightful at any meal the year round.

Muffets are distributed in Ontario by the National Grocers Company, Limited, Toronto.

THIS GREAT HEALING OIL MUST BANISH ECZEMA AND SKIN TROUBLES

Or Your Money Back. That's the Plan on Which Emerald Oil Is Sold By Bond's Drug Store and All Good Druggists.

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well.

You've probably been, like a lot of other people, convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same.

Go to Bond's Drug Store or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil.

The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past.

Don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered one way to restore your skin to perfect health.

Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

MARRYING CLERIC.

Ruthenian Clergyman Leads With 73 Marriages in Hamilton.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Winnipeg's most popular "marrying" clergyman for the year 1926 was Very Rev. Father P. Oleksiw, vicar-general, of St. Vlad imir and Olga's Ruthenian Catholic pro-cathedral. He married 73 couples in 11 months.

Rev. Father Oleksiw, in attempting to account for his own high record, said that he had one of the largest parishes in the city, his parishioners numbering in the neighborhood of 20,000. His people are of the Slav race and marry early. One of the clergy of the United Church, who was an "also-ran," in accounting for the unemployment situation with regard to marryings and giving in marriage with many of the clergy, blamed the girls. He urged a campaign of publicity to induce marriageable girls to bring in marriage-shy bachelors who were just hovering out of reach of the halter. His advice to the girls was to shut their eyes and jump. The water might be cold at first, but one became used to it and swimming with a companion was easier than battling the waves of life's sea alone.

WOMAN REFEREES BASKETBALL GAMES

Another of Men's Realms Invaded by Recent Appointment.

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 17 (By C.P.) The appointment of Mrs. Homer Geddes as one of official referees of the Ladies' Ontario Basketball Association for games in the local group, marks another step forward in the sharing of activities by the women of what were considered a few years ago as being for men and men only. Women have taken to basketball, baseball, hockey, track and field athletics, soccer, speed boat racing, speed skating, swimming, golf, tennis and there have been several cases where women have ridden as jockeys, and there have also been reports of women boxers, but the appointment of Mrs. Geddes is the first case of a woman being appointed as an official referee by the governing body of a branch of sport, in Canada at least.

TROUBLE SIGNS FOR THOSE PAST 40

Bladder Weakness, Nervousness, Headaches, Frequent, Painful, Scanty Urination, Getting-up Nights

The embarrasing annoyance and genuine misery of Bladder Weakness, often brings "discomforts of old age" to those who really ought to be in the very prime of life.

Countless thousands, perhaps seven out of ten, of folks near middle life are pitiful victims of Headaches, Nervousness, Pains in back and down through groins, frequent but scanty and painful urination—Getting-up-nights.

While serious, if neglected—it is ordinarily a simple matter to relieve these troubles by the pleasant home use of Dr. Southworth's URATABS which have been victorious in thousands of cases, after other treatments have failed.

No matter how serious or of how long standing your condition may be, you can quickly prove the value of URATABS without risk of cost—for any good druggist will supply you on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back. If URATABS bring you quick and certain comfort, you will be greatly pleased. If they do not fully satisfy, their use will cost you nothing. Try URATABS today, and see what a difference they make.

CO-OPERATION STARTS AT HOME

Woman Tells Farm Bureau Scholars To Train Children.

CHICAGO, Ill., Feb. 17 (By Canadian Press).—Mrs. Mary G. Puncke, a former director of the United Farm Women of Alberta, who some two years ago came here to organize a radio service for farm women, recently addressed the first home and community training school of the American Farm Bureau Federation, on the subject of co-operative marketing.

Co-operative marketing begins in the home, with the education of children who shall be co-operative "from the ground up," was Mrs. Puncke's message.

"This is an opportunity which you women must grasp," she added. The ideal of the co-operative movement is better homes. We do not want to dispossess other people of their prosperity, but we want to earn ours. The farmers of the United States are ready for the co-operative movement, but the women of the country are not yet realizing their responsibility. It is on the prairies that these great problems are being worked out, and women will do it."

SURPRISE PARTY AT FALLIS LINE

Large Gathering of Friends Pay Tribute to Mr. and Mrs. Lawery.

RECENTLY MARRIED

MILLBROOK, Feb. 17.—A very pleasant surprise was prepared for Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lowery on Monday night, when a large number of their friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Reid Lowery, Fallis Line, in honor of the bride and groom, whose marriage took place at St. Paul's church, Perrytown, recently.

The self-invited 'guests' were hospitably welcomed, and when all had arrived, H. A. Fallis, acting as chairman, invited Mr. and Mrs. Lowery to the centre of the group when R. I. Fallis read the following address, and on behalf of those present William Howden presented the bride and groom with a handsome walnut library table. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lowery, Fallis Line.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Lowery:

We, your friends and neighbors, have gathered here this evening to extend to you our heartiest congratulations on the step you have taken, and to welcome you, Mrs. Lowery, to our neighborhood.

Our sincere wish is that, as you journey through life together, each succeeding day may bring happiness anew, and that the future will hold for you the best there is in life.

Being a progressive farmer, and one of our Fallis Line boys who wore the khaki, we ask you as a token of the respect in which you are held in this community, to accept this gift that we may, in a small way convey our united wishes for many happy and prosperous years together.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends,

Aubrey Fallis,
Will Howden,
Reg. Fallis.

Fallis Line, Feb. 14th, 1927.

The surprise of such occasions always makes reply difficult, but on behalf of his wife and himself, Mr. Lowery expressed gratitude and appreciation for the gift and the kindly words which accompanied it, and all joined in singing, "For They are Jolly, Good Fellows."

W. Fred Fallis spoke briefly, and a number of the other men present took the opportunity to extend personal congratulations and best wishes, after which a dainty supper was served by the committee in charge, and the remainder of the evening was enjoyably filled out with cards and dancing, Miss May and Lloyd Byam furnishing the music for the latter.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. George Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. J. McKnight, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Aiken, Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Fallis, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ball, Mr. and Mrs. W. Fred Fallis, Mrs. A. J. Fallis, Mrs. Austin Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. E. Armstrong, Misses Florence Larmer, Florence Fallis, Mary Wood, Lila Whyte, Gladys Gray, Maretta Gray, May Byam, Mary Ball, Verna Fallis, Muriel and Ruth Ball, Messrs. William Williamson, Clifford Williamson, Clifford Fallis, Nelles Fallis, Melville and Clarence Ball, Arnold and Marshal Fallis, Roy Hunter, W. Howden, Maurice Williamson, J. Thompson, Allen Wood, R. I. Fallis, J. Allowell, H. A. Fallis, L. Byam, Roy Fallis, and others.

Personals.

Mrs. E. R. Armstrong, of Los Angeles, California, is visiting her brother and sister, Mr. D. Hampton, and Mrs. (Dr.) Rae, arriving on Friday. Mrs. Armstrong has been with her daughter, Miss Roxy Armstrong, M.A., who is on the teaching staff of a college at Settlers' Creek, not far from Los Angeles.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wentworth Gray will be glad to learn that both are recovering after their recent severe illness.

DUNSFORD RINK WINS TROPHY IN CONSOLATION

D. H. Skitch Defeats C. E. Hare 15-7 For Peterborough Cup.

ON HEAVY ICE.

Play Going Slowly To-day Due To Use of Only Two Ices.

D. H. Skitch of Dunsford won the Peterboro Trophy this morning by defeating C. E. Hare of Oshawa 15 points to 7. From the very first, Skitch took the lead; the ice was very heavy and it was hard playing during the whole game.

Immediately after the game the cup was presented to the winning rink by Ira D. Moore, president of the Peterboro Curling Club. Each player was also presetned with a sweater coat. Mr. Skitch made a suitable reply in which he congratulated the Peterboro Club on the splendid sportsmanship shown and on the fine bonspiel.

J. Sedgewick presented a silver plate to each member of the Oshawa rink, the runners-up for this trophy, and C. E. Hare replied promising to come back another year and perhaps carry off the bacon then.

In the Morow and Matthews-Blackwell series the games are going very slowly to-day, as only the two outside ices in the urling rink are fit to use. D. Harvie of Orillia and J. H. Connal of Peterboro, are going strong in both series. In the third round of the Morrow trophy this morning Dr. Harvie was playing G. S. Mitchell of Cobourg. The Cobourg man was two up at the beginning of the tenth but in this end the Doctor drew six points and won 9 to 14.

Two games remain to be played in the fourth round of the Morrow trophy. J. H. Connal meets J. H. Perry of Oshawa, and D. Harvie will play Ira D. Moore this afternoon.

One Peterboro rink will be left in the Matthews-Blackwell series after the fourth round as J. H. Connal is playing Alex Ray this afternoon, and Dr. Harvie has to meet R. J. Green of Agincourt in this round.

Great credit is due the bonspiel committee for the way in which they have rushed the games through, always giving the utmost consideration to the visiting players so as to allow them to go home as soon as possible. F. P. Foote and J. H. Renwick have spent practically day and night in the office since the bonspiel started and have had the great majority of the games started on scheduled time. G. W. Morrow, chairman of the committee, has also devoted much time to the bonspiel.

To-night is is expected both series will be in the semi-finals and likely the finals of one series will be played.

THE SLOPES OF MOUNT ROYAL

The slopes of Mount Royal are snow covered now, but they still hold a lure for the visitor. Snowshoe and skiing parties find them a source of inspiration and pleasure. Sleigh driving over their winding roads with the magnificent spread of the city far below, is a winter joy supreme. The world-famed Park Toboggan slide is a thrill you'll long remember. Yet these are but a few of the magnets that attract people to Montreal.

The gayety of her social life now at its mid-winter height, her many historic landmarks and the importance and scope of her businesses and industries draw visitors by the thousand.

For the luxurious comfort and conveniences of the travelling public, Canadian National operates an exceptional train service to Montreal.

General Weakness To-day In Trading At Toronto

TORONTO, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—Unusual activity in Page Hersey, the continued good demand for Seagram, and the general weakness amongst the prominent issues featured trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. Page Hersey was in good demand and sold up to 63 1-2, a gain of 1 3-4 over the previous close. Seagram was the leader in activity, but sold off 1 1-4 to 23. Massey-Harris figured prominently in the transactions and in sympathy with the balance of the market weakened 1-2 to 88. C.P.R. was an outstandng strong spot, advancing three points to 183. F. N. Burt was strong at 63 5-8.

Gold Stocks Are Firm Featuring Mine Market

TORONTO, Feb. 17. Canadian Press. — Firmness among the dividend-paying gold stocks featured the trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day, led by Lake Shore which recorded a gain of 20c a share at 18.25. The majority of this list moved upwards. McIntyre sold up 10c share to 26.90; Dome Mines 10c a share to 9.15, and Hollinger 10c a share to 22.40. The balance of the list showed irregularity. Vacuum Gas, which has been active lately, was the market leader but sold off 1 3-4 to 22 1-8. Lakeside Lorrain, Bidgood, Victory Silver, Amulet and Ophir were active stocks to suffer fractional declines.

Rails Lead Advance On New York Market

NEW YORK, February 17th. — Canadian Press. — Bullish operations in to-day's stock market showed greater diversification, but the rails, particularly the South Western issues, were again in the foreforn of the advance. Missouri Pacific and Texas and Pacific each extended their gains to nearly 5 points, and "Katy," Chicago Nothwestern and Kansas City Southern sold 3 or more points higher. The general level of railroad shares is now at the highest since 1910.

Reports that some of the large commission houses had been instructed by recent purchases of Baldwin not to loan the stock for delivery against short sales brought urgent short covering in that issue, carrying it up nearly 50 points below the low level of last month, and 3 3-4 points above last night's close.

Hudson and Manhattan jumped over 5 points to a new peak price on rumors of higher dividends. Other N. Y. tractions moved up in sympathy. Sugar, merchandising and chain store shares also presented several points of strength but activity in oils was confined largely to the producers' and refiners' issues.

SUPPLIES NEEDED FOR CHARITY WORK

Catholic Women's League and Big Sisterhood Ask For Help.

The Catholic Women's League, who do much work of a charitable nature among the needy ones of the city, especially during the winter months, when need is most urgent, would be pleased to relieve donations of any sort, in the way of clothing or supplies or money, from anyone who would care to donate to the cause. At the present time, a very urgent demand is for a baby carriage for a mother who is ill and has a young infant, also several other children.

Another especial need of the moment is for a mattress and bed clothing. Supplies of any type in the clothing line, either in outer or under garments, shoes or rubbers, are always welcome, and may be left at St. Aphonsus' Lyceum, on Simcoe street.

Big Sisterhood

The Big Sisters are asking for more supplies, to carry on the charitable work in the city which becomes more insistent at this time of the year. A family with seven children, where lack of work and sickness has brought finances to a low ebb, is in straits just now. If citizens who have not yet ransacked their clothes closets could donate articles of clothing suitable for seven children, ranging in years from an infant in arms to a child of twelve, they would be doing a great deal to help those in need. For the three little girls of school age, rubbers and underwear and outer clothing are urgently needed.

For another little boy of eleven years of age, clothing also is required. He needs pretty nearly everything except stockings, having a fairly good supply of these. His brother of nineteen, who is his sole support, is out of work, and the child requires an outfit of clothing.

The Big Sisters wish to thank heartily all who answered in such generous fashion to the appeal of last week, when many donations were received, and supplied to homes where they were most required. A donation of $3, sent "In His Name" will be used to provide milk for the family of seven, mentioned above.

Anyone wishing information as to the nature of supplies is asked to telephone Mrs. J. Knox, at 788W.

MILITARY TITLES TO BE RETAINED

London Council Orders Former Officers to be so Addressed.

LONDON, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press—by mail)—Servants of the London County Council who in the war attained the rank of captain, or any higher rank, are to be addressed by their military titles in official correspondence. The Council has also ordered that all honors (whether military or other and irrespective of whether the person concerned has been H. M. Commission or not) gained by an officer or employee which carry the right to use letters after the name, shall be used in referring to such officer or employee in official reports and correspondence.

"In any case in which the officer or employee concerned informs the head of his department that he does not wish his rank or honor to be used or shown as provided above they shall be omitted, and the head of the department shall notify the clerk of the Council accordingly."

BUDGET BROUGHT IN

This refinancing will, it is estimated, result in an annual saving in interest charges of a million dollars.

Reviewing trade conditions, Mr. Robb gave the estimated favorable trade balance for the present fiscal year as approximately two hundred and fifty million dollars. The policy of the Government had been to promote trade relations with other countries and particularly to strengthen our trade with the Empire.

Spirit of Optimism

"Four years ago when I presented my first budget," Mr. Robb concluded, "Canada was still suffering from the effect of post war depression. Today all traces of that depression have disappeared, a spirit of optimism is general and our domestic and international trade is flourishing. Let us continue to build solidly. Let us shun extravagance and waste. Let us have faith in the future. We can have no higher resolve in this, the diamond jubilee of our Confederation, than as Canadians to remain forever united and work for the lasting prosperity and progress of this our glorious land—Canada."

Fifteen Million for C.N.R.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17.—(Canadian Press.)—A total of ten million dollars will be loaned to the Canadian National Railways by the Federal Government in the coming fiscal year, the budget brought down by the Minister of Finance estimates. Government services, however, amount to $349,421,840, or 96.90 per cent. of the total revenue. The Home Bank Creditors' Relief Act will be granted $487,900, while seven hundred thousand will go to the Quebec Harbor Commission, making a total estimated expenditure of $360,600,740.

Revenue Sources

Twenty-seven million will be earned by the Post Office in the coming year, Mr. Robb estimates, while excise taxes, stamps, etc., will bring in one hundred and four millions. Special war tax revenues will bring in 39.17 per cent of the estimated revenue, or one hundred and fifty four million dollars. Customs import duties come second in importance with one hundred and forty-one and a half million. Various other sources of income will provide a grand total of three hundred and ninety-three million, one hundred and fifty thousand dollars for the ordinary revenue.

Imports increased in the nine months period ending December 31 by eighty-one million dollars, compared with the previous nine months. Exports, however, decreased by forty-four million. Our international trade for nine months totalled $766,763,000 and our exports $995,286,000, leaving a favorable trade balace of $228,523,000.

Few Decreases

In the period under review, eight million dollars worth of oats were exported, which, owing to the small crop in Canada, ocean transportation difficulties and British strike troubles, was fourteen million less than in the same period of the previous year. The Canadian climatic conditions in the month of December interefered with the export of wheat, there being a decrease in that month alone of twenty-six millions in wheat exports. The third item showing a pronounced decrease in the export column in gold bullion and quartz In the nine months period of 1925, Canada exported twenty-three million six hundred thousand of this precious metal. Last year only five million worth was exported. But this was not due to curtailment in production, but simply because the gold was refined and held in this country.

KITCHENER, February 17.—Artificial ice only will be allowed consumers in the Twin city this summer, according to a decision of the Board of Trade, following reports from the Provincial authorities to the effect that all local natural sources are contaminated. Samples taken from the Park Lake in Kitchener, Silver Lake in Waterloo park and Bridgeport dam have not been pure and all ice used from these sources must be for refrigeration purposes only.

To ensure this the public is being warned and all invoices of firms selling this ice must bear these words: "On account of the findings of the Provincial Board of Health, this ice is only to be used for cooling purposes, and must not be put in food or drink of any kind."

THE BUDGET AT A GLANCE

Tax reductions in to-day's budget briefly are:

Sales Tax cut by 20 per cent., this is rate reduced from five to four per cent., effective tomorrow.

Income tax cut by 10 per cent all around. Applicable to this year's assessments.

Stamp Tax: Exemption increased from five to ten dollars. All cheques, etc., over ten dollars bear a flat rate of two cents, effective July 1.

Excise tax on matches cut by 25 per cent.

Stamp Tax on overdrafts and advances abolished.

The Special War Revenue Act is amended to make it clear that printers are liable to sales tax.

There are no tariff changes.

OTTAWA, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press. — In announcing his taxation proposals, Mr. Robb, Finance Minister, said:

"Of special interest to every citizen is the amount of taxation he is called upon to pay. The flourishing condition of our finances enables us to substantially reduce taxation again this year. This we promised the electors to do and to-day we implement this promise."

"These reductions amount to practically seventy per cent of the stamp taxation, and so practically abolish what the man in the street terms 'nuisance taxes'."

The reduction in the Sales Tax becomes effective tomorrow, while the cut in the tax on matches and in the stamp taxes will become effective on the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation.

In explaining his reasons for making no tariff changes, Mr. Robb referred to the appointment of the Advisory Board on Tariff and Taxation, which is investigating and reporting on fifty-two application for tariff changes. The Board has only been operating a few months and in view of the numerous public hearings and intensive investigations taking much time, and as certain applications are interlocking, inquiries are not yet completed.

"Everything considered," said Mr. Robb, "it has appeared to my colleagues and myself, the part of wisdom to propose no changes in customs tariff at the present session of parliament."

Toronto Girl Was Apparently in Good Health Yesterday.

AUTOPSY ORDERED.

TORONTO, Feb. 17. — Marion May Aquilina, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Aquilina, 674 Victoria Park Avenue, was found dead in bed yesterday morning. The child was apparently in good health the previous day and was running around as usual. She had suffered during the past six weeks from tonsilitis, but was evidently not seriously affected. The county coroner, Dr. R. H. Fleming, investigated the case and had the body removed to the Trull Burial Company's parlors, 1,100 Danforth Avenue, where Dr. Frankish will perform an autopsy.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

GOOD SEED MAY BE OBTAINED FROM SPECIAL GRAIN GROWERS

Time for Farmer to Look After His Spring Seeding Supply.

CLEANING GRAIN

Practise of Innoculating Seeds Carried Out for Twenty Years.

There are several sources from which to obtain good seed. Of these the two most common are special seed growers and reliable seed dealers. Most growers are now members of the Canadian Seed Growers' Association, while our best dealers find in this Association their best source of supply. Since the Association will not recognize varieties which have not been thoroughly proven, one need have no fear of obtaining seed of a variety which has not proven itself worthy of propagation. The fields of all Association members are very carefully inspected for purity of variety during the growing season, and only those fields which are pronounced by the inspector to be 99.9 per cent pure as to variety, are given official recognition by the Association in the form of certificates of registration. Seed from such registered fields, if up to the standard of vitality required of such seed, and if free from weed seeds and practically free from grain of other kinds, ma y be given the official grade known as "Registered Seed." This is the highest official grade recognized by the Canada Seed Act.

Seed which does not quite comply with the high standard set for the registered grade may receive the next highest grade known as Extra No. 1, providing it does not fall below a certain minimum standard set for this grade. Farmers who wish to secure reliable seed should order either "Registered Seed" or "Extra No. 1 Seed." These grades are now advertised by practically all leading seedsmen in Canada, from whom they may be purchased. It is also possible to purchase this seed direct from growers. The Association issues a list each year of those who are offering Registered and Extra No. 1 seed for sale of different varieties. Those who contemplate purchasing seed should write the Secretary of the Association at 114 Victoria Street, Ottawa, for a copy of the above list. They should then locate seed which has been produced as near their own district as possible; since experience has shown that where seed of a given kind and variety has proven suitable for a district, seed grown in or near that district is likely to be better than that brought in from outside.

There is an old idea that a change of seed periodically is desirable. This idea is not wholly without foundation, but investigation will usually reveal the fact that where outside seed proves superior to that grown on a given farm, the latter seed has not developed as fully as has the seed which has been introduced. It also happens very frequently that seed on a given farm becomes mixed, in which case a change to pure seed is to be commended.

There are many vendors of seed throughout the country who purport to be the distributors of varieties which are superior to anything yet offered. Such offerings should be regarded with considerable suspicion, and prospective purchasers are urged to consult the above Association, or their nearest Experimental Station or Agriculture College before investing their money.

Fanning Mills.

It is not too early for the farmer to give attention to his seed supply for the coming spring, and furthermore, it is good business to employ the slack period of winter in preparing for the rush of spring. Most farmers already know about how many acres of each crop they intend to sow and the amount of seed they will likely require.

Only the best and cleanest seed which can be procured should be sown. If home-grown grain can be cleaned and graded well enough to make first-class seed it usually is advisable to use it rather than to buy new seed, providing the variety is suitable and is sufficiently pure.

There are many makes of fanning mills on the market, each with some good points. If you are buying a new mill, be sure to get one with a good air blast supply and control, as it is the air blast that removes most of the light kernels, chaff and dirt. The fanning mill must be tight at the joints, as otherwise dirt and small seeds sift through with the good seed. Pass the grain through the mill two or three times, if necessary. The first run through will remove the light kernels, chaff and dirt, the subsequent fannings will improve the grade and remove most of the weeds and small kernels. Care must be taken to see that the grain is allowed to flow over the top sieves in a thin layer; a thick stream carries good seed over the end of the fanning mill along with the screenings and light seed.

If necessary to purchase seed, see that the supply comes from a good source, preferably registered seed. See that it is sound, plump and true to variety. A well graded sample contains plump, vital seed and when this kind of grain is sown, a uniform stand should result. The extra bushels at harvest time more than repay the care in fanning and selecting of good seed.

Cleaning Seed

The objects of cleaning seed grain are: to remove other kinds of grain, weed seeds, dirt, chaff, pieces of straw, and other foreign matters, and, to remove all small, shrunken and broken seed, leaving only the very best of the kind of seed cleaned.

It has been observed at the Dominion Experimental Station, Kapuskasing, Ontario, that large, plump, well matured seed germinates more evenly and gives a more uniform and higher yielding crop than seed of inferior quality. This is particularly true if early sowing is practised which practice is very essential in this section of the province.

A good fanning mill if properly equipped with riddles and screens, and with a suitable control over the air blast, may give very good service in the cleaning of seed grain.

It is rather difficult to give definite instructions for equipping and operating a mill which would be applicable in all cases, as both the grain and the mills may vary considerably. It may be pointed out, however, that each part of the mill should have a share in the cleaning process if best results are to be obtained. The air blast should remove all light material; the riddle or top sieve should remove the larger sized impurities, and waste matter while the lower sieve should remove the small impurities, as well as the smaller seeds of the kind being cleaned.

Rapid cleaning should be avoided as this is very liable to prevent the sieves from functioning as they should.

Old mills often may be properly equipped with new screens by submitting samples of the seed to be cleaned to the manufacturer, and asking him to furnish suitable sieves.

Seed Inoculation.

With cultures of various sorts on the market, both for legume and non-legume inoculation, the farmer is often at a loss to know to what exteat the practice of inoculation is based on sound principles, and to what degree he may reasonably expect success. The practice of inoculating the seeds of leguminous plants has been carried on for over twenty years, and has been shown to be of distinct value in a large number of cases. Bacteria developing in the root nodules of leguminous plants are able to utilize nitrogen from the atmosphere, and make it available to the growing plant. Many soils, especially in districts where particular legumes are being cultivated for the first time, are deficient in nodule bacteria, and adding these bacteria, either by inoculating the seed with culture before sowing, or by introducing soil from a field which has grown the crop successfully, has been proven to be a beneficial practice.

Up to the present, however, seed and soil inoculation, with other than legume cultures has not been placed on a sound basis or received support from agricultural scientists. From time to time, cultures under various names have been prepared, claiming to be of value in cultivating non-leguminous crops, but so far, none of these have been shown to be of definite value. Experiments conducted on the Experimental Farms with two such cultures, namely "Soilgro" and "Soil Vita," have failed to show results which would indicate any practical benefit to be derived from their use. Extensive laboratory tests showed the cultures in question to possess no advantage over ordinary soil, as far as the bacteria contained were concerned, while tests on a variety of crops gave negative results. The reason that little can be hoped from such cultures is that the bacteria which play such an indispensable part in the preparation of plant food are, with the possible exception of the legume bacteria, already present in an otherwise good soil. If they are lacking in a soil, soil conditions do not favour their growth, so that adding bacteria, other than legume bacteria, will be superfluous in normal soils, and of little avail in abnormal soils.

Legume inoculation is to be encouraged, though it should be pointed out that it is only one of the factors concerned in successful legume producti on. Success will be most probable if the other soil conditions are at their best, inoculation being an aid to, but by no means a substitute for, good farming methods.

PROPER BEDDING

Young Pigs Frequently Get Lost in Coarse Straw.

The amount and character of the straw supplied a sow for beddin when she is ready to farrow has considerable bearing on the number of pigs saved, especially if the owner is not around frequently to make things right. The pigs frequently get lost in straw that is too coarse and too much bedding results in a deep hole in the middle of the pile, which is all right until the sow decides to get up and lie down again. Then there are too many pigs in the wrong place. A limited supply of bedding of medium fine texture is better, at least until the pigs are more active.

DISCOVERS NEW KIND OF WHEAT

Yield on an Average Exceeds That of Marquis or Red Bobs.

VERMILION VARIETY

A new variety of drought resisting wheat has been discovered by Frank Larcombe, a Minburn farmer, and which just now is attracting considerable attention among agrarians.

At the recent annual meeting of the Alberta Association of Co-operative Credit Societies, held in Edmonton, Mr. Larcombe gave some interesting information as to how he came to develop the new strain, which has been registered at Ottawa as "Vermilion," in honor of the famous Vermilion Valley district.

The strain has not been developed by any scientific process. In 1919 he made the discovery in his crop of a few heads of what proved to be a natural cross wheat. These grew from a stool from a single kernel. The products of this stool, sown in 1920, were practically destroyed by cattle, a very small quantity, just a sackful being left. The following season he was hailed out; but he saved sufficient seed to plant an acre in 1922, the yield from this being close to 50 bushels on light land and in a dry season. In 1923 he threshed more than 1,000 bushels from the previous season's seed.

Mr. Larcombe told of the experience of farmers who had experimented with his new strain. Out of 22 reports received, the yield on an average exceeded by 12 bushels an acre the yield of Red Bobbs, Kitchener and Marquis.

From his tests and from the returns received from the grain let out for experimental purposes, Mr. Larcombe feels certain he has discovered a variety that will go a long way in solving the problem in the dry belt area as well as becoming a popular grain generally.

EXPERTS THINK LENROOT BILL LOST ITS TEETH

Original Intention Was to Shut Out Canadian Milk and Cream.

PROVISIONS MODIFIED

Authorities Believe That Trade Will Not Suffer With United States.

Although the Lenroot Bill, which passed the U.S. Senate the other day, was originally intended by its sponsors to serve as an embargo on Canadian milk and cream, it met stiff opposition from distributors and consumers in eastern cities that its teeth were drawn fairly effectively before it was permitted to pass. Unless it is amended, or its provisions are interpreted unreasonably, it should not be hard for Canadian dairymen to meet, according to several men who ought to know.

Depends on Regulations.

One of these men is George Barr of the Ontario dairy branch. "The whole thing depends upon the regulations and how they are interpreted," he said. "I understand that they are very fair, and apply only to sanitary conditions. Unless they are interpreted very differently from what I am led to expect, or that new ones have been added, the inspection of milk and cream for export to the United States will be no more rigid than that required by large cities, both in Canada and across the line. The only difference, of course, will be that this inspection of herds and products will come under the government, and not be carried out by the municipalities."

Mr. Barr expressed some fear that Canadian producers might not be given time to adjust themselves to th new conditions. "We will need, to know in advance just what is required in the way of inspection. In the case of districts that are not producing milk up to the mark, stables will have to be cleaned up."

G. B. Levis of the Canadian Milk Products Company, which ships cream to the States, does not believe that the exporters of a sanitary product need be alarmed. "There is a lot of cream shipped from Western Ontario," he said, "much of it in small lots by creameries and cheese factories to Buffalo. Most of this comes from up-to-date stables, and I do not think it will be affected by the regulations."

An Important Trade.

The trade with the United States is important. During the past few years increasing shipments of milk and cream from Ontario and Quebec have gone across the line, farmers in the St. Lawrence Valley being particularly interested. Last year cream to the value of $7,527,000 and almost $1,000,000 worth of fresh milk were exported compared with $26,000,000 worth of cheese. Practically the whole of the cream and milk went to the United States, with 90 per cent of the cheese going to Britain. Consequently, as J. P. Griffin of the Ontario Milk Producers points out, regulations which checked this flow would prove serious to all dairymen, whether shipping to the U.S. market or not, as a stoppage would cause a "backing up" of surplus milk and cream on the domestic market.

BACON PRICES WILL BE HIGHER

Canadian Product Expected to Bring Record Market Figure.

PROSPECTS GOOD

Reporting on the possibilities of the bacon hog trade in the future, H. S. Arkell, Dominion live stock commissioner, had some optimistic observations to make at the annual meeting in Toronto recently of the Ontario Swine Breeders' association. J. I. Flatt, a well-known resident of this area, was named to the board of directors at the session.

High Prices.

There will be high prices paid for bacon, if what Commissioner Arkell states is right. His remarks are of special interest, for he has studied the situation carefully and is well qualified to speak. His prediction is more than guess work, and there will be many producers in this section money in pocket if conditions prophesied materialize.

"If we keep on we shall produce a product in Canada that will demand the highest price paid for bacon on the North American continent," he said. It was pointed out that the United States market has drawn off the surplus of this country, and in doing so the price the Americans paid determined to a large extent what the producers received for the animals marketed on the home markets. The English market has been a disappointment, having "fallen down," to use the words of Commissioner Arkell.

Right Type.

While prospects are encouraging, it will be the farmer who offers the market the desired quality who will share in the better prices. Bacon types will be in demand and will likely bring a greater premium than now realized if the era of prosperity comes to hog producers. The owner who hopes to share in the reward will improve his stock, unless at the present time he is fortunate in having bacon type animals.

So far as this locality is concerned, the bacon hog business has grown annually until now there are few, if any, rural sections which can boast of better returns. Therefore, the improvement predicted on the hog market will be of special benefit to district farmers.

CANADA'S NEWSPRINT OUTPUT WAS 1,882,000 TONS IN 1926

This Was 195,000 Tons Over United States' Production in Year.

BIG INCREASE.

Dominion Takes Leadership in Paper Manufacture, States Great User.

The year 1926 definitely gave Canada world leadership in newsprint manufacture and still further accentuated the United States as by far the greatest user of that article. With a total North American production of 3,768,000 tons, Canada furnished 1,882,000 tons, an increase of 24 per cent over 1925 and surpassing by 195,000 tons the output in the United States. But while this was going on, the production of the United States mills was 1,687,000 tons and greater by 156,000 tons or 10 per cent than the previous high record of 1925, while there was a gain of 93 per cent in Newfoundland as new operations got into full swing in that country and brought the total up to 186,000 tons. Even the production of 13,000 tons of newsprint in Mexico was 6 per cent over the previous year. The total North American production of newsprint in 1926 was 600,000 tons or 19 per cent ahead of 1925 and was made possible by the high operating record of 96 per cent of rated capacity.

European Imports Decline.

Newsprint available for consumption in the United States in 1926 was, in round numbers, 3,300,000 tons or 18 per cent over 1925 and 56 per cent of the world consumption of this commodity. Into this total went all but 19,000 tons of the United States production, 49 per cent of the Newfoundland production, 88 per cent of the Canadian production and 102,000 tons of overseas newsprint. However, importations of European newsprint which began in 1920 and reached 200,000 tons in 1923, have been steadily declining since that year and will probably go still lower in 1927.

Probably not far from 100,000 tons of the available supply of newsprint in the United States in 1926 went into stock so that the actual consumption was around 3,400,000 tons or at the rate of 58 pounds per capita compared with 52 pounds in 1925. This was an increase of 12 per cent in per capita consumption and 14 per cent in total consumption, or twice the average increase during the past 25 years. Such use of newsprint last year was the climax of steadily increasing sizes and circulations of daily and Sunday newspapers. The growth in size is due to the increased volume of advertising which in 1926 surpassed the previous record by five per cent and to the addition of many special features and special sections to suit the varied taste of the reading multitudes. Growth in circulation is the result of vigorous extension campaigns on the part of publishers, of improved mail facilities and of the steadily growing number of people who naturally buy one or more newspapers daily.

Increase Not To Be As Great.

Circulation of the English language newspapers in the United States now totals 36 million copies of the daily issues and exceeds 24 million copies on Sundays. During the past year, the circulation of the daily papers increased nearly 7 per cent and that of the Sunday papers almost 5 per cent. In 1926, the newspapers in the class of 100,000 circulation and over, averaged 31 pages daily and 111 pages on Sunday compared with 23 pages daily and 79 pages Sundays in 1920. It is, of course, not reasonable to expect a long continuation of such rapid increases.

From the beginning of 1919 to the end of 1926 additions to the newsprint manufacturing industry in North America totaled 64 machines with a rated capacity of 4,800 tons. Of these five machines were installed in Newfoundland, 11 in the United States and 48 in Canada. Counting in the installations now nearing completion, the North American newsprint machines, by the middle of the present year, will have a daily capacity of 15,000 tons. Over a long period of time the industry has produced at an average of about 90 per cent of rated capacity. On this basis, if all the present machines stay on newsprint, there will be a continental production capacity somewhat in excess of four million tons per year by the third quarter of 1927.

PLENTY OF ROOM FOR MORE SHEEP

Country Imports $46,000,000 Worth of Wool Annually.

Canadian farmers need not be afraid of extending their sheep holdings, according to Dominion Live Stock Commissioner H. S. Arkell, who spoke at the annual meeting of the Ontario Sheep Breeders' Association in the Carls-Rite hotel recently. "This country imports $46,000,000 worth of woolen goods, while it produces less than $5,000,000 worth of wool. There is no reason in the world why we should not produce a far greater share of our own wool," Mr. Arkell stated, "as barring a few of the finer grades we can manufacture cloth largely from our own raw material, which will compare favorably with anything in the world."

Mr. Arkell strongly advocated more sheep on the smaller farm, and maintained that despite a rather unfavorable wool market last year, sheep were still one of the most profitable lines on the Canadian farm. Farmers in this country, he said, had a distinct advantage in possessing their own wool marketing machinery in the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers. This association of producers, he pointed out, which allowed the grower to hold his product, grade it, and feed it to the market gradually had saved farmers probably ten cents a pound this year.

EGG LAYING CONTEST

At End of Twelfth Week Returns Show Increase Over 1926.

There is evidently a good deal of interest in the egg-laying contests carried on in the different provinces and also in the Canadian egg-laying contest, which is now in its eighth season. At the end of the twelfth week the 80 pens had laid 18,022 eggs, with a score of 15,954.6. The score is based on the average weight of the egg. One point is given for each egg that weighs 24 ounces to the dozen, and there is a bonus or a penalty of one-tenth of a point for each ounce more or less than 24 ounces to the dozen. Eggs averaging more than 27 ounces to the dozen are not counted as more than 27 ounces, and eggs averaging less than 20 ounces, misshapen or soft-shelled, are not counted officially.

In the Canadian egg-laying contest improved work was recorded by the birds. There was an increase of 158 eggs for the week, which brought the total to 2,146. This is 44 eggs better than the twelfth week of last year's contest.

PROPER FEEDING GIVES RESULTS

Feed For Brood Sows Should Be Increased Gradually.

PROPER RATION.

Before breeding season, the feed for brood sows should be increased gradually until at the time the sow is to be bred she is receiving a very generous, well-balanced ration, and should be gaining in flesh—but not fat.

After breeding, the brood sow should be kept gaining a little each day. In order that she does not become top fat and sluggish she should have a bulky ration containing considerable protein and be made to take plenty of exercise. If it is possible to make sows travel around in search of part of their feed it will be a good method to make them exercise.

There are a variety of feeds which may be made use of in feeding pregnant sows to furnish the bulk and the necessary bone and muscle building material, such as soy beans, both in the field and in the bundle or in slop. Barley, oats, alfalfa, middlings, bran, oilmeal, tankage, milk and corn are all good feeds if fed in the proper proportions. A good standard ration is composed of ½-pound middlings, ½-pound bran, ½-pound of tankage per sow, regardless of weight. In addition give from one to two pounds of corn for each 100 pounds of live weight, according to the condition of the sow.

This ration may be varied according to the feeds at hand. Ground oats may be substituted in place of some of the middlings and the bran may be replaced by ground alfalfa or third cutting alfalfa in racks. Half of the tankage may be replaced with oilmeal, but oilmeal should be fed to pregnant sows with care. If soy beans are fed, neither the oilmeal nor bran will be necessary as the oilmeal, bran and soy beans all have a tendency to keep the bowels in good condition, which is very important in handling brood sows.

The Feed.

A ration which has proven itself efficient and composed largely of home grown feeds, is made up of ½-pound of middlings, ½-pound of soaked ground oats, and ½-pound of tankage per day regardless of weight, fed wet. And, in addition, the sows are fed a bundle of soy beans (cut with the binder) to about four sows, with third cutting alfalfa in racks, and about one or two pounds of corn for each 100 pound of live weight, according to the condition of the sows.

It is very important that brood sows have plenty of good water which is not full of ice in the winter. There are a variety of non-freezing drinking fountains upon the market now, which make it possible to furnish warm water for sows in winter.

Exercise is another important factor in the care of the sows in winter. Sows may be compelled to take exercise by arranging the sleeping, feeding and watering places so the sows will have to make the round trip three or four times each day.

A few days before the sow is to farrow, she should be put in the farrowing pen so she will become accustomed to her new quarters. Twenty-four hours before farrowing, the feed should be cut down, and after farrowing she will need nothing but water for from 12 to 24 hours, and then a very thin middling slop or a few soaked oats is all she should have. Gradually increase her feed until at about the end of a week or ten days she will be back upon full feed. This is where the skill of a good feeder is displayed. If a sow is a heavy milker she must be fed lighter. If she does not seem to have much milk she should be pushed on to feed quicker. Gilts, as a rule, will stand being put back on feed quicker than old sows. A sow with a large litter will also stand more feed than a sow with a small litter. The feeder must be guided by the actions of the sow and pigs. Any excess or too little feed will soon be detected in the pigs by the experienced hog man. If the sow is getting too much rich feed the pigs will scour and the feed should be cut quickly, especially the milk producing feeds.

It is ideal to get the sow and pigs out upon a clean pasture at about the age of two weeks and put the sow on full feed.

It may be convenient to have the separator in the barn close to the cows and the pigs, but it is not the most sanitary arrangement and should be avoided wherever possible.

KINDS OF CORN MOST SUITABLE FOR ENSILAGE

Must Reach Glazed Stage by Time Desired for Cutting.

KINDS FOR GRAIN

Those Which Just Reach Maturity in a Normal Season.

The best varieties of corn for silage purposes are those varieties, the ears of which reach the "glazing" or "hard dough" stage by the time desired for cutting. It is at this stage that the corn plant contains the optimum amount of moisture necessary to produce good quality silage and in addition the highest yield and feeding value are obtained.

Varieties that are too late to reach the glazed stage contain too much water and produce a poorer quality of silage. This excessive water content also makes such varieties unsuitable for the following reasons:

Storage in silo is too expensive to store water.

Makes handling too costly.

Results in heavy leakage of water from silo which carries off soluble food material.

Reduces feeding value of silage.

Varieties that are too early and reach too great a degree of maturity give a low yield and contain too little water to make the best silage.

Locality and season must govern the final choice of varieties, and it is obvious that the same varieties cannot be grown for silage in Eastern Ontario and Quebec as can be grown in Southwestern Ontario, where the season is longer.

Suitable varieties for silage purposes in the longer seasoned districts of Eastern Ontario and Quebec are found among those that mature in Southwestern Ontario. These include Leaming, Wisconsin No. 7, Bailey, Golden Glow and White Cap Yellow Dent. In sections of this district where the season is somewhat shorter the following varieties can be used: North Western Dent, Minnesota No. 13, Falconer, North Dakota, Compton's Early, Longfellow and King Philip.

For Southwestern Ontario suitable varieties for silage purposes a re: Late strains of Leaming, Wisconsin No. 7, Golden Glow and Bailey; also Giant Prolific Sweet Ensilage, Lancaster, Pride of the North and Mammoth Southern Sweet.

For Grain.

Varieties of corn most suitable for grain in any district are those that will just reach maturity in a normal season. Maturity is the first essential consideration in selecting a variety for grain purposes, whether it be grown for seed or feed. It is obviously useless to attempt to grow the same varieties of corn for grain in Eastern Ontario and Quebec as can be grown in Southwestern Ontario. Thus the selection of a suitable variety is governed largely by the seasonal conditions of the district.

In Southwestern Ontario these conditions permit of the dent varieties such as Leaming, Wisconsin No. 7, Bailey, Golden Glow and White Cap Yellow Dent being grown successfully, as these will mature in an average season. The later flints such as Salzer's North Dakota, Compton's Early, Longfellow and Gold Nugget are suitable for those parts of this district where the season becomes a little cooler and shorter. However, the mere choice of a variety is not sufficient, as most varieties of corn are composed of a number of strains, the result of cross-fertilization which normally takes place in corn.

In the experiments conducted with corn at the Dominion Experimental Station, Harrow, Ont., it has been found that some strains of Leaming and Wisconsin No. 7 required from seven to ten days longer to mat ure than others. This shows that in the same district one strain of a particular variety may be suitable while another may prove unsuitable. Farmers should secure seed from a known source each year.

In general for Eastern Ontario and the southerly portions of the province of Quebec, early varieties such as Twitchell's Pride, Quebec No. 28, Canada Yellow and early strains of North Western Dent are likely to be the most productive for grain production.

POOLING OF WOOL GIVES SATISFACTION

Co-operative Shipping and Selling on Grade Proves Popular in Ontario.

What was looked upon as an experiment some years ago is now an established practise, growing more popular eac season. Six years ago 3,369 farmers in Ontario pooled their wool and had it graded and sold by the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers. Previous to this but scant attention was paid to the marketing of this product, the bulk of it being sold as junk along with rags and old bones. That the new system of selling was satisfactory is indicated by the steady growth of co-operative shippers. In 1920 there were less than 3,400, but by 1923 this figure had grown to 5,600, and to an even 4,000 in 1925, while in the year just closed 4,235 farmers sold thei wool co-operatively and on a graded basis.

Along with the increase in membership, was a growth in total volume of wool handled. The first season saw 620,600 pounds consigned to the Wool Growers, but this gradually increased to slightly over 636,000 pounds in 1923. From that time on, however, growth has been rapid with a total of over 775,000 pounds handled last year. The average amount of wool consigned per shipper furnishes an indication of the size of the Ontario flock. In 1926 this was reported as 183 pounds per shipper, which is practically the same as a year ago, but a material advance over 1923 and 1924.

SCIENTIFIC MARKETING OF BUTTER IS CREATING STIFF COMPETITION

New Zealand Has Been Reaping Advantages Designed To Be Mutual.

HEAVY EXPORT.

Big Demand in United States For Canadian Milk

Scientific marketing of Australian and New Zealand butter in Britain is creating stiff competition for the Canadian product, the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association was told at the annual meeting held in the Canadian metropolis.

Operation of the Canada - Australasia treaty since October, 1925, shows that, so far as butter is concerned, New Zealand alone of the three countries is reaping the advantages designed to be mutual. One more feature of note in the domestic field, the report stated, is the increase in exports of Canadian cream to the United States, at the expense of Canadian butter, on which the duty is higher.

The report, in part, said:

"Prices in Canada have been influenced throughout the season by labor strikes outside of Canada. The seamen's strike in 1925 delayed delivery to Britain of very considerable quantities of butter and cheese, and resulted in peak prices for these commodities in Britain in the autumn of 1925. After the strike was over, very heavy supplies arrived on the London market, resulting in a decline of approximately fifteen cents per pound. The accumulation of surplus supplies in Britain overshadowed and depressed the British market until the autumn of 1926.

"Owing to heavy Canadian exports in 1926, our domestic market was not seriously affected and we were able to import during the early months of 1926 some 150,000 boxes of butter to replace our stock at a very reasonable cost. When our 1926 summer production developed, however, our market began to feel the effect of the depressed and overloaded situation in Britain, and this resulted in a very draggy, low market throughout our producing season, resulting in a decline of over 200,000 boxes in the volume of our butter exports to Great Britain, compared with the previous year.

U. S. Demands Cream.

"The increased demand from the United States market for milk and cream resulted in a very substantial increase in our exports of both of these commodities in that direction. The low prices prevailing in Canada also contributed to increase domestic consumption, so that our stocks accumulated during the producing season have been materially reduced, and it has been necessary recently to import considerable butter to meet the demands of our winter consumption.

"In this connection it is interesting to note that, by the terms of the Australian treaty, which became effective on October 1, 1925, the duty on Australian and New Zealand butter, when imported into Canada, was reduced from four cents to one cent per pound. Owing to the operation of the Paterson plan in Australia during 1926, which, in effect, increased the domestic value about six cents per pound over the export value, the dumping clause was applied to importation of butter from that country by the Canadian Customs authorities, and the entire benefit of this treaty, as applied to butter, is completely appropriated by the New Zealand exporters. Canadian consumers and Australian producers are debarred from any benefit whatever with respect to butter under the operation of this treaty, which was entered upon with a view to mutual advantage.

"Two trade tendencies affecting our dairy products have been clearly indicated during the past season. First, regulated shipments of New Zealand and Australian butter designed to deliver a more or less regular quantity to the British market each month of the year, and a pronounced increase in the butter production and exports of the Baltic littoral, have considerably reduced the advantage which Canadian exporters have enjoyed owing to the absence of competition by New Zealand butter during each Canadian producing season. Australian and New Zealand supplies and Canadian butter exports to Britain are naturally complementary, but export control by Australasia is making it increasingly competitive.

"Second, the increasing demand from the larger centres of population in the United States for cream and milk, and the relatively high United States customs duty on butter (12c per lb.) compared with the much lower duty on cream (20c per gallon) has tended to increase, to a very marked degree, our exports of cream, and to correspondingly reduce our production and export of butter.

U. S. May Drop Tariff.

"Various measures of a restrictive nature are being advocated in the United States at the present time in the interest of United States dairymen; but so long as there is a real shortage in the United States and supplies are available in Canada, there is always the possibility of even the present tariff barrier being reduced or removed in the interests of United States consumers."

Officers were elected as follows: Clinton Henderson, president; H. R. Gray, vice-president; Auguste Trudel, treasurer; T. W. Grieve, A. Limoges, A. Muir and E. J. Ker, executive committee; Richard Gray (chairman), John Freeman, W. Durin, John Wilson and N. H. Eden, arbitration committee.

HONEY BEES ARE FOND OF DANCING

Execute the Shimmy and Other Curious Dances in Privacy of Hive.

DANCE MISTRESS

Another illusion is shattered with the information that the bee, that model of thrift and industry, is not above executing the "shimmy" and other curious dances in the privacy of the hive. Perhaps it is because the bees live on honey, which is chock full of alories and vitamines, that they have to blow off steam every now and then by a community ho e-down. We have the word of Professor Noland of the University of Wisconsin, that bees are accomplished dancers. "I have already observed this many times," he says, "and anyone, who has a beehive with a glass wall, can observe this fun of the bees quite often with his own eyes, and convince himself of it. A single bee forces herself unexpectedly between three or four other quiet bees, puts her head down, stretches out her wings and shivers with upturned abdomen for a little while. The bees next to her do the same, putting their heads down and turning themselves in unison through a little more than a half circle, now to the left, now to the right, to and fro five or six times, thus executing a regular circle dance.

Dance on Bright Days.

"Suddenly the dance mistress will go away, associate herself at some other place with another group of quiet bees, and do the same thing as before, and, as before, the bystanding bees dance with her. The dance mistress repeats her dance often four or five times in different places. I observed this dance usually on bright cheerful days only and in strong hives; on the contrary, in dreary weather or in weak or queenless hives one will never see it. What this dance really means I cannot figure out; whether it is perhaps a lively kind of amusement and mutual encouragement, for them, or whether it takes place for some other and unknown purpose the future must tell us."

HEMP GROWING SHOWS A PROFIT

Yields From Home Grown and Kentucky Seed Was High.

GROWN FOR FIBRE.

Very considerable work has been carried on at the farms and stations of the Dominion Experimental Farm system in the cultivation of hemp. At the Central farm, Ottawa, seed imported from Kentucky and Russia and home-grown was experimented with. The yields from the Kentucky and home-grown seed were high, but the Russian seed was a failure.

Tables showing the yields at different farms and stations in eight of the nine provinces are given in the report for 1925 of the chief officer of the economic fibre production division, R. J. Hutchinson. Results obtained at Kentville, N.S., indicate that a good profit can be gained by growing hemp there. At Fredericton, N.B., the returns were not so satisfactory. At Lennoxville, Quebec, the returns for three years have been exceptionally high. As well as the yields the dates and rates of seeding are supplied in the report.

At Forest, Ontario, operations were devoted to ascertain the cost of production, with and without fertilizers. The cost per acre of the different operations is detailed and totals $71.19, while the returns are given as $115.16, showing a profit of $43.97. Although owing to variance of the weather the results at Tilley, Alberta, in 1924 were not altogether satisfactory, the yield in 1925 warrants the statement that the quality grown is good for twine making.

At Lethbridge (Alberta, the yields were large and the fibre is considered of good quality for the cordage trade. At Indian Head, Sask., and Brandon, Manitoba, the yields per acre were not as large as at Lethbridge. The fibre obtained at Brandon, being coarse and strong, is reported as only suitable for heavy numbers.

From Agassiz, B.C., and Sidney, B.C., the reports are not encouraging. However, summing up the entire situation Mr. Hutchinson feels justified in saying that the tests made in four years demonstrate that hemp can be grown for fibre very successfully in many parts of Canada.

Minnesota No. 6 and Chington are the varieties of hemp generally used in the experiments.

Do not forget that dairy cows require bulk in their rations. This is because of the nature of their digestive systems, and the balancing of dairy rations is largely a matter of balancing the nutrients in the bulky part of the ration with sufficient protein from the grains and concentrates.

By F.D.C.

The Petes completed their senior group schedule last night by absorbing a woeful beating at the hands of the Varsity Grads in the University of Toronto arena. Connie Smythe's team which had smothered Toronto Canoe Club and Marlboros last week, blanking last year's champions 10 to 0.

The game meant nothing to either team, the Petes losing nothing but some prestige as they were sure of being in the play-off series in any event.

The group championship will be decided on Monday and Wednesday nights, with the first game in Toronto and the return at Brock St. rink. The Petes despite last night's walloping promise a different kind of a battle in the final series while the Grads on the other hand are confident that they can repeat the dose.

Last night was a hockey game for about a period and a half, an exhibition of lightning scoring by the ex-students for half a period and twenty minutes of farce comedy to wind up with, enlivened only by a fistic combat between Ranger and Plaxton which provided the only excitement in addition to a five minute penalty for each of the battlers.

While the Petes checked the Grads as they did during the first part of the game they had a big share of the play and although Connie Smythe's men were two goals in front at the end of the first period they were not that much the better team. Toward the close of the second period however the second placers apparently threw up the sponge and in a cyclone of rapid fire scoring the Grads ran in five goals in exactly 79 seconds. That avalanche changed the situation from a hockey game into a rout and Varsity left the ice at the end of the second dash 9 goals to 0 in front.

The last period was a case of playing out the string with neither team making any great effort to score although the Grads got the only goal of the session.

There was one regular absent from each line-up. Bert Hall played goal for the Petes replacing Joe Dwyer who had a broken skate and could not borrow another pair while Louie Hudson was missing from the Grads line-up on account of illness.

With Hughey Plaxton and Dave Trottier in the stellar roles the winners uncovered some brilliant hockey. The whole team skated at top speed, passed the rubber beautifully and displayed a world of smart stickhandling. The Grads are big and fast and clever and when the pressure of the Petes' checking faded away in the second period the speed and smartness of Connie Smythe's attackers enabled them to sweep through for goal after goal. If the Grads are to be beaten it can only be by close persistent checking; any team that opens up the play and meets them at their own game hasn't a chance as was painfully demonstrated last night.

While Plaxton and Trottier by reason of their goal-scoring ability and their all round cleverness stood out there were no weaklings on the student squad. Delahey worked in nicely at right wing and both Gordon and Frank Sullivan fitted in well whenever used. Porter was kept out of the scoring column but Ross Taylor took up the defence's share of the goal-getting by bagging two markers on beautiful rushes. Joe Sullivan handling the Petes' shots with a coolness that approached carelessness was unbeatable between the posts.

Although ten goals were registered against him Hall played a smart game in the nets for the Petes and all but one of the Grads markers were scored from the mouth of the net. It was a tough place to drop the youngster in but he handled himself nicely and blocked a lot of shots that were labelled goal.

As for the rest of the Petes they were very much like the little girl with the curl — when they were good they were very very good and when they were bad they were awful. They showed both kinds of hockey last night and got no results out of the good brand while the other kind is reflected in the scoring column. McLeod probably had the most success as a puck carrier, making a number of rushes that won him a hand from the crowd. Kane also drew the attention of the fans but from a different cause his willingness to mix it with everybody on the Grad line-up not impressing itself favourably upon at least a section of the crowd.

The best hockey of the game was crowded into the first period when the teams set a hot pace and both attacked repeatedly. Varsity had the first shot a long one that Hall blocked and he also saved nicely when Plaxton worked in close. A combination rush by the Petes gave Collins a chance but he could not beat Sullivan. A Bogardis-Collins play was dangerous but Babe's pass was too far ahead and a good opening was lost. Finally after a little over six minutes fast hockey Trottier broke away from centre, jumped through the Petes' forwards, stickhandled round the defence and gave Hall no chance to save on a high shot into the top corner of the net at close range.

Soon after Delahey made it 2 to 0 when he trailed Plaxton and Trottier and picked up a loose puck at the Petes' defence to sail in close and beat Hall. That was the last goal of the period, although both teams had openings that were lost because of nice stops by the goalies. Kane drew the only penalty of the period for slashing Taylor.

Early in the second period Delahey and Ranger were benched. Hall made a fine save when his defence was beaten but Trottier picked up a careless pass from Rose at the Petes' blue line and carried the rubber through the whole team for a close in goal.

Delahey made it 4 to 0 when he went in fast and lifted in a rebound after Hall had stopped a drive from point black range by Plaxton. Trottier drew a penalty for hooking but nothing happened while he was off. Then Bogardis was chased for a similar offence and plenty happened. The first thing was a rush by Taylor flanked on each side by a team-mate. The Petes' defence played for a pass and Taylor went through the centre himself for a beautiful goal.

Forty seconds after he came back with a duplicate of the play.

That wasn't fast enough scoring however so Plaxton secured from the face off, carried the rubber a few feet and passed to Sullivan whose fine shot from the side beat Hall in six seconds.

In twenty-five seconds Taylor the rubber down and passed to Plaxton at the goal mouth for goal number eight and from the face off Plaxton passed to Trottier who went down the side and gave Plaxton a perfect pass for an eight second goal, the last of the period.

If it hadn't been for the Ranger-Plaxton battle there would have been nothing to the last period. Early in the session Rose and Trottier were benched together and right after Ranger bodied Plaxton behind the Petes' blue line and the Grads' centre didn't appreciate the attention. A word or two passed and then the pugilistic encounter started. For a moment it looked as if the warfare would become general but the cease fire sounded and the battlers drew a five minute sentence.

With the teams playing four aside both lost chances to score and there was nothing doing until the period was more than half over when Sullivan went down the side, circled out of the corner and slipped the rubber to Plaxton in front of the net, giving the Grad centre the last counter of the game.

THE WHEAT KING OF CANADA.

Q: Who is the Wheat King of Canada?

A: The Wheat King of Canada is Herman Trelle, of Wembley, Alta., who won the title of the Wheat King of North America at the International Live Stock Show held in Chicago in November, 1926.

This title has been held by a Canadian for 16 years, with only two breaks of a year each. Alberta thus shares in this coveted honour.

BRIGHT RED PUCK IS NOW PROPOSED

Can Be More Easily Seen by Fans in the Bleachers.

MONTREAL, Feb. 17 (U.P.).—James Wall, director of the Pittsburg Hockey Club of the National Hockey League, was exhibiting yesterday to hockey fans and officials of the local clubs and President Frank Calder, of the league, a bright red puck.

The red disc, Wall claimed, is more readily picked out by the eye of a fan sitting back in the bleachers than the present black rubber, which, when surrounded by the feet of the players, is not visible from a distance.

PETERBOROUGH CUP LEAVES CITY; FINALS BEING PLAYED TO-DAY

Consolation Trophy To Spend Summer in Oshawa or Dunsford.

DETAILED SCORES.

Play Well Advanced in the Primary Trophies of the 'Spiel.

The Peterborough Trophy will go out of the city either to D. H. Skitch of Dunsford or C. E. Hare of Oshawa as these two rinks entered the finals last night and are playing this morning.

Nineteen rinks entered the consolation series and all games were played at the Brock street rink yesterday afternoon and evening.

Both Hare and Skitch of Oshawa have come through with a big lead over their opponents in every game played in this series and the contest this morning is sure to be a real one.

FANS BACKING JACK DELANEY

Betting Odds From Six to Five to Eight to Five Favorite.

HEAVY WAGERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 17 (Canadian Press).—Traditional supremacy of the "good big man" cast its shadow across the training ground of Jack Delaney yesterday as he finished his final workout for Friday's $200,000 heavyweight battle at Madison Square Garden with Jim Maloney.

Pugilistic historian has marshalled an impressive chapter of records to support the cause of Maloney. The triumph of the "good little man" has been an exception to the rule. But there have been departures and among them have been the sensational triumphs of the 185-pound Jack Dempsey over huge Jess Willard and powerful Luis Firpo.

The faith of Maloney's following was not reflected in the better odds yesterday. Sentiment swung more sharply to Delaney, who jumped from a 6 to 5 to an 8 to 5 favorite. Money also was wagered freely at 1 to 2 that the light heavyweight champion would knock out his heavier opponent.

C.G.E. BEATS BRINTONS.

One-Sided Game Played at Y.W.C.A. Gymnasium—Score 34-0.

One of the Friday night games was played off at the Y.W.C.A. on Wednesday night, when the C.G.E. defeated the Brintons 34-0.

The Brintons played a good defence game, in spite of the fact that this is their first year at the game.

V. Langton scored four baskets, M. MacLaren eleven baskets, and F. Greer one, making a total of 34. The score at the end of the game was 34-0 in favor of C.G.E.

Schedule For Friday, Feb. 18.

9.00—Woollens vs. Y Elementary.
9.15—De Laval vs. Bell Telephone.
The Y Seniors and Westclox will play their game early next week.

Bowling

On Tuesday evening the De Laval five-pin bowlers wound up a very successful bowling season by having a banquet at Chou's Rose Cafe.

There were forty-three men present to partake of a five-course dinner, which was excellently prepared and served by Harry Chou and his assistants.

After the dinner, which was a lively affair to say the least, the boys gathered around, smoking to the health of the general manager, Mr. W. R. Breyfogle, who kindly supplied cigars and cigarettes, and success to the firm.

Music was provided by an Orthophonic victrola, interspersed by difficult selections by A. Girard on the harmonica.

The worthy President of the club, Mr. J. A. Robinson, made a neat speech, remarking on the benefit and amusement the members had received during the season, and asking for an expression of opinion amongst those present as to whether another six weeks' schedule should be played. The boys decided to continue with five pins, but a definite programme is to be formulated by the various team captains.

Mr. Robinson presented the prizes, which were awarded as follows:

For high 3 games for league—R. Galbraith.

For high average for league—R. Galbraith.

For high single for Foundry—D. Evans, Jr.

For high single for Sheet Metal—J. Cooper.

For high single for Office—P. Johnson.

For high single for Assembly—J. Murray.

For high single for Tool Room—J. Downing.

For high single for Machine Shop—R. Galbraith.

For high single for Tinning Room—T. Griffin.

For high single for Plating Dept.—H. Smith.

For 1st team in standing—Machine Shop.

For 2nd team in standing — Foundry.

For last team in standing—Plating Dept.

At the close of the evening Mr. Ruiter, in the course of a witty speech, commented upon the excellent work done by the energetic Secretary, Donald McIntyre, and amongst great applause presented him with a pipe and tobacco pouch. Mr. McIntyre, although taken by complete surprise, thanked the members for their kindness, and said what a pleasure the work had been to him.

After a vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Robinson, the President, the company broke up, each expressing satisfaction with the evening's entertainment.

WATCH THE KIDNEYS

Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.

Mr. Arthur Pinch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried.

WEDDING BELLS.

KIDD—MELLIS.

COBOURG, Feb. 17.—The marriage was solemnized here on Monday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Mellis, Orange Street, parents of the bride, of their second daughter, Clara Marion, to Orville Robeson Kidd, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Kidd, Toronto. Rev. T. Stanmage Boys, M.A., D.D., D.C.L., rector of St. Peter's Church, conducted the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore ivory satin trimmed with silver and pearls and silver shoes and stockings. Her veil was arranged with orange blossoms and she carried a white ivory prayer book. She was attended by her sister, Miss Lillyan Mellis, Pittsburgh, wearing a gown of rosewood georgette. The best man was Mr. Cecil Wasson, Peterborough, cousin of the groom. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a gold bar pin, and to the groomsman, gold cuff links. A buffet luncheon was served and Mr. and Mrs. Kidd left later for a trip to New York and Philadelphia, the bride wearing a dress of phantom red crepe satin, and the groom's gift a seal coat. They will reside at 140 Montgomery Avenue, Toronto.

WELSFORD-STAVERT.

MONTREAL, Feb. 17. Canadian Press. — The marriage of Jean Thomson, daughter of Sir William and Lady Stavert, to Hubert Gray Welsford of Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Welsford of Winnipeg, took place yesterday afternoon at half past four o'clock, at the Church of St. Andrew and St. Paul, the Rev G. H. Donald officiating.

Sir William Stavert gave his daughter away and she was attended by her sister, Mrs. Grahame Stewart, as matron of honor, and Miss Louise Fraser of Lancaster, Ont., and Miss Mildred Bennett of Calgary, as bridesmaids.

Ewart Stavert, brother of the bride, acted as best man, and the ushers were Cyril D. Welsford, brother of the bridegroom, Grahame Stewart, James Young and Hugh Walls.

The bride wore a French model gown of ivory ring velvet made in straight lines with long sleeves, the fullness at the front being caught with pearl embroidery. Her train, embroidered in silver and brilliants, and lined with pale pink georgette, fell from the shoulders, and her long tulle veil was arranged with tiny bunches of orange blossoms at either side, and surmounted with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley and white orchids.

Mr. and Mrs. Welsford left for Florida, where the honeymoon will be spent. They will reside in Montreal.

MANY INDIANS LIVE IN JUNGLE

R. B. Clark Tells of Existence of 400 Tribes on Upper Amazon.

MANY HOSTILE.

It is little realized by most people in this country that there are some 400 tribes of savage indians who are living within the Amazon watershed in the heart of South America. R. B. Clark, a pioneer explorer and missionary is now in Peterboro, having recently arrived from that region. Mr. Clark reports that many of these tribes are very reduced in numbers, and some are rapidly becoming extinct; while still others number as high as thirty to forty thousand members. Though many are friendly and hospitable, there are many who are altogether savage and refractory to the approach of the white man; and some are even cannibal. On one occasion, while on a thousand mile journey in an Indian dug-out canoe through the heart of Brazil, the missionary reports that he entered a village where no white face had ever been seen whereupon the whole community, men, women, boys and girls and dogs, fled to the surrounding forest; but when assured by the Indian guides who were with him, that he was entirely harmless and friendly, they returned and showed much genuine hospitality. He was invited into the chief's hut to share his evening meal, a somewhat questionable enjoyment. The viands were fish and wild watermelon, and the fish had been boiled without their bothering to take off the scales or to clean them, and everyone dipped into the one pot with their hands. Outside the hut a pile of fish remains and watermelon rinds had been decaying in the sun till the whole atmosphere was redolent, and one longed for the windward side. In his honor special wrestling matches were staged on short notice, and a devil dance was performed to show their appreciation of his visit.

This attitude is not universal, as many of the tribes are distinctly hostile. These tribes shoot at sight, and are always ready to use against anyone invading their territory the poisoned arrow, the deadly blowgun, or the spear. And they nearly always manage to see without being seen, so dense is the jungle.

For the most part these Indians are spirit-worshippers, though many worship the sun and moon, and fire and stones and as is the case with most pagan religions, degraded customs are practised and superstition is rampant.

Mr. Clark, after taking several long and arduous journeys of exploration in Amazonia, has lately devoted his efforts to the establishment of a mission to the Campa tribe of the jungles of Peru. This tribe is largest in the whole Amazon area, and is considered to be one of the most intelligent. They are feared by all neighboring tribes, and no white men dare venture into certain sections of their territory. Some thirteen years ago, after enduring a long period of cruelty and exploitation at the hands of ruthless rubber gatherers and unscrupulous settlers, the Campas decided to wipe out from a certain section of their territory, all whites. They did so with such thoroughness that a dozen or more settlements, including a Catholic monastery, people and buildings, were completely destroyed. The Peruvian government sent a party of soldiers into the hinterland, who by way of reprisal destroyed a number of the Indian settlements with great cruelty, killing all men, women and children. This has resulted in an attitude of mixed fear and hatred towards the white man.

The establishment of the mission station meant the taking of a party of young men several days into the jungle, entirely out of touch with civilization. Then the cutting down of the trees and clearing of ten acres of land, the building of huts and the planting of crops; for the nearest grocery store was a thousand miles away down the river.

The first job after the setting up of the station was to in some way make contact with these shy and hostile people, and slowly and gradually win their confidence in the friendly intentions of the party. This has been successful to some extent, and it is expected shortly to begin a school with about twenty of the native children as pupils.

Shortly before Mr. Clark left for New York the station was visited by the paramount chief of the most hostile section of this tribe. The story connected with the visit of this great chief is intensely interesting, and will be told by Mr. Clark on Friday evening, at Bethany Tabernacle, when he is to tell of some of his trips, illustrated with a large number of colored lantern slides, which are being shown for the very first time. They show life as it is in the forest, and other parts of the Amazon valley, sections of territory which have never before being photographed.

Murder Mystery Stirs Madoc Township

Madoc Hermit Slain In His Lonely Shack By Unknown Attacker

Sixty Year Old Jerome Keene May Have Been Dead Two Months—Body Found Yesterday With Head Partly Blown Off.

POLICE SAY ARREST MAY BE MADE BUT REFUSE TO DIVULGE CLUES

Money Remained in Victim's Pockets—Two Shots Apparently Fired From Open Door — Neighbor Looked Through Window Twice Without Seeing Body.

(Special to The Examiner)

MADOC, Ont., Feb. 19.—Widening mystery continued today to shroud the murder of Jerome Keene, 60-year-old hermit, a farmer of Marmora Township.

The body was found yesterday in the recluse's one-room shack with the head partially blown off by a shotgun. According to indications today, the murder was committed before Christmas.

After an overnight investigation, police were not prepared to make public any clues. "It's just a possibility, however, that an arrest may be made at any time," The Examiner was told.

The murder of the old farmer, who for some years had been living apart from his wife by a second marriage was revealed yesterday, when his nephew, Charles Gardiner, visited the shack.

The circumstances of the murder were most unusual, and have aroused the district, only recently stirred by the fatal shooting of Bailiff St. Charles on the farm of Abraham Robinson. The latter is now awaiting trial at the March assizes, charged with murder. Some years ago, Keene sold his farm to John A. Bell, retaining a small plot on which he built his lone shack. How the murder has remained unknown for what is thought to be two months is regarded as a riddle.

According to Constable James Gardiner, brother of Charles and also a nephew of the slain man, Bell, whose house was not far away from the shack, stated last night he had gone over and looked in the windows, but had seen nothing. It had been thought in the district that Keene had been all the time away, visiting either his son, James, in Timmins, or his sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Rutledge of Butterfield, Mich.

No Known Enemies

It is not though that the victim had any enemies, but developments are expected at the resumed inquest on Monday night under Coroner W. H. Harper of Madoc. It is alleged that considerable liquor traffic was going on in the district. Investigations are under District Inspector Lougheed of Belleville and Inspector Nugent of the Provincial Police. Constable McCoy, who figured prominently in the bailiff shooting case, is also working to pierce the mystery web. According to later indications Keene was killed by two shots, one of which tore away his scalp, the other his under jaw. The shots, apparently fired from the open door, had passed on into the wall. Following the murder, the door had been bolted, it is stated.

How the body remained in the state of excellent preservation is attributed to the extreme chill of the interior. It was found in bed, undressed and with the clothing wrapped about the head. Robbery could not have been the motive, it is thought, since $10 was found in the man's pocket. Keene was not a wealthy man, as far as it is known. He may have had a few hundred dollars, however, held in investments.

Those who by domestic affiliations are drawn into the tangled skein are Mrs. Agnes Keene, his second wife,

Chinaman Invokes Old Law To Prevent Deportation

MONTREAL, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press)—After taking legal action on four different occasions to prevent his deportation by immigration authorities, Hum Bing You, local Chinaman, succeeded when he invoked a British law dating from the reign of Charles II., and under an habeas corpus order issued by Mr. Justice Bruneau in the Practice Division of the Superior Court, he is now free to remain in Canada.

CANADIANS PLAN TO GREET ENVOY

Royal Welcome To Massey Arranged in United States.

BIG GATHERING.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Canadians in Washington are planning a royal reception to Canada's first minister, Vincent Massey, who has just arrived here.

While details have not yet been completed, due to the already crowded calendar of the new envoy, the Canadian club of Washington has plans under way to afford such a reception to their diplomatic representative as is seldom accorded any one here.

The date for the reception and dinner of welcome has not yet been fixed, but it is expected that on or before March 1 Washington will witness one of the largest gatherings of Canadian notables in the history of the capital. Invitations will be sent to Premier King and the Canadian cabinet and to the recently appointed minister of the United States to the Dominion, William Phillips. The committee on arrangements also hopes to bring to Washington for the occasion, prominent members of the judiciary and other high officials of the Dominion.

Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, is to be among the speakers.

Oxford Students Defy Ban On "Bag Trousers" "Balloon Style" Wins Out Over University Satire

OXFORD, England, Feb. 18 (Associated Press)—In spite of adverse propaganda Oxford undergraduates continue to wear the despised gray trousers known as "Oxford bags" with undiminished regularity. Oxford is known as the home of lost causes and now that Oxford bags have been put in the lost cause class the demand for them has increased.

The flapping gray trousers were first introduced on Oxford's sedate High Street two years ago. Then they were a fad. Since then they have become a habit, and the countless tailors who depended upon student custom for their livelihood are becoming frankly alarmed. For as the demand for gray trousers has grown the demand for regulation three-piece suits has dropped, with corresponding losses to the haberdashers.

Surgeon Radios Method For Saving Sailor's Eye

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(How radio directions for the manufacture and use of an electro magnet saved the eyesight of a sailor several hundred miles at sea is related by Capt. Andrew Peterson of the American Merchant Liner, American Banker.

Particles of iron that had penetrated the iris of the right eye of Peter Kriuf, a seaman on the American Diamond Line freighter, Tomaiva, were removed by use of a soft iron bar enclosed by a coil of wire and charged with electricity from the ship's radio set.

The prescription was flashed by Dr. Carroll Francis, surgeon on the American Banker, in answer to radio calls for aid from the Tomalva, Capt. Peterson, whose ship arrived here yesterday, said.

FOWLDS URGES ACTION TO WIN HIGHWAY ROUTE

Hastings Councillor Anxious for Campbellford Route.

FEARS J. R. COOKE.

Personal Strength of Cabinet Member May Be Factor.

Walter M. Fowlds of Hastings is overlooking no opportunity of arousing interest in the proposed Belleville-Peterboro highway. At the convention of representatives of Central Ontario municipalities at Cobourg on Thursday he solicited the assistance of every reeve and business man whom he believed could help in promoting the Hastings-Campbellford route.

In the meantime he has written Reeve Bygott of Campbellford, who with Deputy-Reeve Davidson, has been entrusted with the leadership of the effort in that town. Mr. Fowlds offers his fullest co-operation in the following letter to the Campbellford reeve:

Hastings, Feb. 11, 1927.

Major Bygott, Reeve,
Campbellford, Ont.:

Dear Sir: I am pleased indeed to see that you and your council are beginning to show some interest in the contemplated Provincial highway, which will run either via Hastings, Campbellford, Stirling and Belleville, or Havelock, Marmora and Belleville. I believe it will be quite necessary to show a keen interest to the Department regarding this route, and to place before the minister the wonderful advantages our route has over the other one in order that we may get him to look favorably on the Hastings, Campbellford route.

Every opportunity that I have had I have tried to impress upon any whom I thought would have an influence with the minister in promoting our claim so anything at all that I can do to assist your council, or through our own council, do not hesitate to call upon me. A good Provincial road through our counties from Peterboro to Belleville, would certainly be the means of diverting a lot of traffic this way, especially tourist traffic, because you know they drive the best possible road they can, irrespective often of a little greater distance.

When talking to the Minister recently in Toronto, he assured and promised me that he would look carefully into both routes before he made any decision in the matter Of course you must understand that we have not any supporter of the government in our county while the County of Hastings h.. the Hon. Mr. Cook. That just possibly might make a little difference, as the Hon. Mr. Cooke stands in wonderfully well with the Pre...r and the other members.

However, I repeat that anything I can do at all in any way, I will be very happy to do it.

I sent you one of our folders that we had in New York. We distributed some fifteen thousand similar to these. I consider this very effective advertising, and very cheap from the standpoint of the different municipalities. I might say for your information that in a report from our representative at the National Motor Boat Show in New York that these folders were very favorably received, and we were highly congratulated. The criticisms on these folders and the pictures were, to say the least, very flattering to our organization.

Yours very truly,
W. M. FOWLDS.

FRASERVILLE MAN IS WOUNDED WHEN GUN FIRES ACCIDENTALLY FROM CAR ON AYLMER STREET

John Bothwell Shot in Head, But Injury Is Not Serious.

IN HOSPITAL.

Garageman Had Shotgun in Rear of Car—Thought It Unloaded.

John Bothwell of Fraserville was wounded in the head as a result of the accidental discharge of a shot gun, which took place at the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer streets yesterday.

Harry Sarginson, a garageman had obtained the gun from a man to whom he had lent it some time ago, and who had just previously returned the gun to him with the remark that it was unloaded. Mr. Sarginson placed the gun in the rear of his car, intending to take it home. A radiator, which he was taking for repairs to a garage, was also in the car compartment.

On arriving at the garage, then attempting to remove the radiator, it by some means became entangled with the trigger of the shot gun, causing the gun to discharge. The shot went through the back of the car striking John Bothwell, who with his wife, was proceding to the Canadian National Railway Station, in order to get a train to their home.

Mr. Sarginson rushed Mr. Bothwell to the Clinic, where the injured man was attended by Dr. Eastwood.

An X-ray examination was made, resulting in the discovery that the shot had entered Bothwell's head, above the ear, and lodged between it and the eye. The doctors were unable to remove the shot and took the injured man to the Nicholls Hospital.

The doctors do not consider the wound to be of a serious nature.

King and Queen To Visit Scotland Early in July

LONDON, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press Cable). — King George and Queen Mary expect to stay at Holyrood Palace in Edinburgh for a week early in July. At that time they will also visit Glasgow, and will open the new Kelvin Hall of Industry there.

At yesterday's meeting of the City Council of Glasgow, Socialist councillors objected to a vote of money in connection with the Royal visit, declaring that it would cost £15,000, when the city had "not a brass farthing in the common fund." One speaker asserted that if the King and Queen knew that the Glasgow Corporation had stopped contributing to local charities because of scarcity of funds, they would not come to Glasgow.

The Council, by a vote of 55 to 42, decided to proceed with arrangements for Their Majesties' visit. The Socialist group declared that they would in no wise participate in the proceedings when the King and Queen visited Glasgow.

FLEEING TROOPS LOOTING CITIES

Canadian Missionaries Board United States' Vessel, Seeking Safety.

SUN DIGS IN.

CHUNGKING, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press). — Forty-nine missionaries, the majority of them Canadians, evacuated this (Szechwan) Province city to-day and were put aboard the steamer Iping, flying the American flag, which headed down the Yangtze for Shanghai.

Retreating Army Loots.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—Word has been received from American Baptist missionaries at Hangchow, saying the fleeing northern troops had looted most of the foreign missions there. Other messages received by foreign firms describe the looting and disorderly retreat of the northern forces but it was impossible to guage the damage.

Local Nationalist sympathizers openly rejoiced at the news of the victory and predicted the Southern troops would be in Shanghai within a week.

All missionaries at Hangchow are reported safe, the majority of 125 there and 65 at Ningpo, eighty miles east of Hangchow, having been sent to Shanghai previously, leaving only a handful in both cities.

There has been no news of any Nationalist advances beyond Hangchow. Marshal Sun's badly beaten army continued making defensive preparations at Kasping and Sun Kiang, important cities between here and Hangchow.

Cruisers on Way.

HONG KONG, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press). — The British cruisers Caradoc and Durban left for Shanghai to-day.

CHINESE LEAVE MANILA.

MANILA, Feb. 18. Canadian Press—About one hundred Manila Chinese, most of them students, have left for Canton during the last few days, to join the Cantonese forces. Many others are preparing to leave.

JAPANESE VESSEL SAILS.

TOKIO, Feb. 18. United Press.—The Japanese cruiser Hirado sailed to-day from Tsing Tao bound for Shanghai on receipt of news of the threatening situation at Hang Chow.

Simultaneously government officials have announced that Japan stood ready to extend practical recogition to the Canton government on the same basis as offered by Great Britain in as much as such recognition was essential for the maintenance of trade relationship.

DRY YEAR FOR FRENCH.

PARIS, Feb 18.—The wine crop is so short in France this year that there will be only 100 bottles for every man, woman and child in the country. Production is off more than one-third and the Government is worrying about where the rest is to come from, unless it is imported at greatly increased prices.

Four Captured Thieves Batter and Rob Captor

LAWRENCE, Mich., Feb. 18.—Four thieves he captured while stripping his car Wednesday night attacked and robbed Gray Cole, 48 years old, a farmer living five miles south of the village as he was marching them to his house, and made their escape.

Cole, a former Chicago policeman, was aroused by the hammering of the thieves. With his shotgun he surprised the quartet and was conducting them to his home, when one of them suddenly swung around and struck Cole to the ground.

The quartet, after seriously bruising Cole, robbed him of his gun and the cash in his pockets and drove away.

SALE OF HONORS AGAIN IS CENTRE OF CONTROVERSY

Lloyd George Advises Lord Roseberry To Remember Own Campaign.

REVEALS DETAILS.

Honors Sold as Votes Were Brought in Eighteenth Century.

LONDON, Feb. 18.—Lord Roseberry's letter to The London Times, asking for information regarding the origin of Lloyd George's much discussed campaign funds, and suggesting that it might have been augmented by the sale of honors, has had an immediate repercussion in the retort of Lloyd George that "if Roseberry will recall how he financed his own general election in 1895, he will find a complete answer to his question."

The Daily News and other papers, however, reveal the details of how honors have been sold to ensure party funds, declaring that during the days of the coalition administration lists were prepared by Lord Younger for the Conservatives and by Captain Guest for the Liberals of those persons deserving honors, but that neither Lloyd George nor Bonar Law knew who of these had contributed funds.

Kept Separate

The two interests were kept distinct, the Tories' nominees paying into the Tory funds and the Liberals' nominees into the Liberal chest. As the money was paid in bank notes it could not be traced. Moreover, it was banked by the party whip who, if he so desired, could have run away with it. When the coalition dissolved, what is now Lloyd George's fund, was formed under Captain Guest, and when he resigned it became Lloyd George's personal property, so much so that if he died to-morrow it would pass to his heirs. The papers argue that the only alternative explanation to that afforded by the sale of honors is the selling of concessions or a political levy like that now reached by Labor. Therefore, it appears that the answer to Lord Roseberry's letter is that honors have been sold in modern Britain as votes were bought in the eighteenth century.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY POISONS HIMSELF

Adds Another To Growing List of Student Suicides.

ELIZABETH, N.J., Feb. 18 (United Press)—To the list of student suicides the name of Clark Kessler, 17-year-old son of a local chemist, was added yesterday.

Kessler's body was found in the All Saints' church here after police had searched for the youth throughout the night. Beside the body were three boxes containing paris green, which Clark purchased at a drug store after he had left the high school, where has was a junior, Wednesday afternoon. His school mates said he had written a note at noon Wednesday and given it to a fellow-student with instructions to hand it to his father, Frank. D Kessler. Contents of the note were not at once divulged.

Kessler was an average student and no reason for the suicide could be advanced by his father or friends.

Protest Increase Of Power Rates To Government

Municipalities Demand That They Have Right to Know the Conditions and Causes of Recent Increase in Power Rates.

ASSOCIATION TO SUBMIT PETITION TO HYDRO-ELECTRIC COMMISSION

Mayor Holloway of Peterborough is Elected Vice-President of Newly Organized Central Ontario Power Association.

(Special Correspondence)

COBOURG, Feb. 18—Invoking the elementary principle of democracy which affirms the "consent of the governed" as essential to any acceptable administration, the municipalities of Central Ontario respectfully but firmly served notice on the Hydro-Electric Commission that they have a right to know the conditions and causes of the recent increase of 25 per cent. in the power charges throughout this district.

Representatives of about twenty-five cities, towns and villages found themselves in such complete agreement on their common grievance that they promptly organized in their necessity the Central Ontario Power Association, drafted a constitution, and unanimously adopted their resolution of protest and petition which is to be submitted to the Hydro-Electric Commission as soon as possible.

F. L. Mason of Oshawa was elected president and Mayor Holloway of Peterboro, first vice-president.

The major resolution, stripped of its preamble, set forth that the delegates of the municipalities served by the Central Ontario system "emphatically protest" against any increase in the power rates until an exhaustive examination of the whole matter has been completed and the fullest information furnished by the Government and the Hydro Electric Commission in regard to capital investment, distribution of costs, profits and losses, and other details of the operation of the system, and further that the former rates be continued until this request has been complied with.

Write Down Capital

Several positive petitions were suggested by G. D. Conant of Oshawa whose summary of the situation made such an impression on the delegates that the office of second vice-president was created for him as a compelling afterthought.

One of these suggestions was that the new-born Association call the attention of the Ontario government to the $2,677,000 paid for water-rights, and various so-called intangible assets which have been encumbering the Central Ontario system.

Intangible Assets

Reading from the Clarkson audit of the Hydro, Mr. Conant pointed out that the physical assets of the properties acquired by the Hydro as appraised by the Commission's experts were valued at $5,672,000 and the intangible assets at $2,677,000. The sum paid to the Electric Power Company was $8,350,000.

The interest on cost of these intangible assets is $107,000 a year, and Oshawa and the other municipalities are preparing to ask the Government to write off that $2,677,000 in a re-capitalization which Central Ontario has whispered and mumbled for years and is now working up its courage to utter.

'Thinkers In' on Radio Are Not Successful Influences

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Impressions of more than twenty thousand "thinkers in" have reached experts of the Society for Physical Research, who handled various subjects in a padded room in London, on Wednesday night, while Sir Oliver Lodge, well known scientist, requested listeners in over the radio to concentrate in an effort to name the objects. Some attempts were highly amusing, although one person came very close to one object.

KIWANIS SPIRIT IS EULOGIZED

Speaker at To-day's Luncheon Pays Tribute To Organization.

FILLS A NEED.

That the work of Kiwanis had been crowned with success because it had filled a long-felt want among men who wanted to do something good and worth while in their lives was the declaration made by the Rev. William McDonald, who was the speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis Club today.

An original musical programme was provided by A. J. Reynolds, Joseph Wearing and H. J. McCannon, who in addition to playing individual selections on the harmonica, combined as a trio in their final selection.

To-day's booster was Carl S. Browne. The prize-winners were Mark Bredin, Charles Lacheur and J. E. Smith.

Rev. William McDonald.

"I count it an honor to be called upon to address you," declared Mr. McDonald, who stated that while not a Kiwanian, he intended to speak on his subject, "The Spirit of Kiwanis," from the point of view of an outsider who had come in contact with its spirit on many occasions.

He congratulated Kiwanis on having discovered the secret of cultivating a distinctive spirit among its members. "You have discovered a spirit that does not depend upon eating and drinking, but a spirit that makes you useful as citizens," he declared.

A person cannot only sense the spirit of a man, he said, but he can portray it in pictures. Proceeding to paint a word picture of Kiwanis as he saw it, the speaker said it was like a blue sky fleeced with white

Guelph Man In Title Role Successful English Opera

Rebuff By Fair Damsel To Charleston Dancer Bring On Sixteen Duelling Matches In Poland

POSEN, Feb. 18—Because the belle of a ball held here recently disliked the way one of her admirers danced the Charleston and refused to dance with him, sixteen duels are going to be fought within the next few days.

The rejected Charleston volunteer was so infuriated by the girl's willingness to try the dance with every one but him that he made slighting remarks about her. Thereupon one of the more favored youths called him out.

The seconds of the pair also got embroiled and the younger dancing set divided itself into two armed camps. As a result, thirty-two Polish hotheads are now pitted against one another with pistol or rapier, unless the authorities intervene.

HEAVY DAMAGES IN CALIFORNIA DURING STORM

Expect Loss Will Exceed Millions as Result of Storms.

TWENTY-ONE DEAD.

State Highways and Railways Suffer Heavy Damage From Floods.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—California, especially the southern part of the state, busied itself under fair skies yesterday with restoring the heavy dramage wrought by a four-day storm.

Citizens of Venice, Long Beach and other smaller towns who had been driven from their homes by flood waters returned to clean out the mud and salvage personal effects.

San Diego remained cut off by rail or highway communication, although special steamship sailings between there and Los Angeles were in effect yesterday. Schools were re-opened to-day in San Diego. The damage in the city and to highways, homes and crops outside is expected to be heavy, while repairs started yesterday will require more than a week to restore normal road service.

Los Angeles estimated its financial losses at upwards of $1,000,000 but outside disticts found themselves yet unable to compute the damage to crops, highways, residences and the losses from destroyed bridges over creeks which are normally sandy washes.

The death toll remained at 21, with the loss of 13 lives in snow slides in the high sierras east of Fresno, where employees of the Southern California Edison Company were buried in their camps.

Oil Derricks Destroyed.

At Taft a loss of $250,000 was estimated when a count showed about 100 oil derricks had been blown down. The Union Pacific Railroad placed its loss of equipment in the wreck of a transcontinental passenger train near Whittier at $150,000. The San Fernando Valley had not yet been able to set its damage to crops, orchards, homes and highways. Most of the valley was deeply flooded.

Anaheim employed over a hundred men in filling a Santa Ana River dike with sand bags as a midnight break continued to pour a stream of water through the town. The river dropped three feet during the day. In Hollywood the damage was slight. Two homes were buried under landslides in a hill canyon there.

Long Beach estimated it would take a month to clear its beach of tons of debris, mainly of trees, telegraph poles, chicken coops and other wreckage brought down by flooded streams.

Transcontinental railways in the Los Angeles district had their service back to normal with the exception of lines running to San Diego, where washouts were being repaired.

In the central part of the State the Southern Pacific overland lines to the east were blocked by landslides, and late yesterday the passengers were instructed to walk around the slides from one train to the other. The railway company rushed food and other supplies to the trains that were held up.

Veteran Beats Adam Gives Up Eight Ribs

ELYRIA, Ohio, Feb. 17 (United News). — C. H. Perry, 32, a world war veteran, has far outclassed Adam in the matter of giving up ribs.

Where Adam dispensed with but one, Perry is minus eight. The head gardener of Eden got only a wife, while Perry saved his own life.

After selecting his pall-bearers, Perry, who was gassed overseas, submitted to an unusual operation in which his lungs were renovated and the ribs removed, six from the right side, two from the left.

He was discharged from the hospital today and the pall-bearers were dismissed.

SUPREME COURT TO BE INCREASED

Hereafter Judges of Court Will Retire at Age of 75.

NOTICE GIVEN.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—Legislation of which the minister of justice gave notice yesterday, providing for an extra judge of the supreme court of Canada, at a salary of $12,000, and also for retirement of the judges at the age of 75, will have the effect of creating two vacancies.

Justice Idington, from the Ontario wing, who is 86 years old, will have to retire, while in addition to his being replaced, a new judge will be appointed. There is no doubt the extra judge will come from the prairie provinces, and very possibly it will be the chief justiceof Manitoba. The pension of judges will be two-thirds of their salary, which is $15,000 for the chief justice, and $12,000 for the puisne judge. The court will be increased from six to seven, so as to avoid the possibility of an equal division of opinion.

OLD MASTERS

There's not a joy the world can give like that it takes away
When the glow of earthly thought declines in feeling's dull decay:
'Tis not on youth's smooth cheek the blush alone, which fades so fast,
But the tender bloom of heart is gone, ere youth itself be past.
Then the few whose spirits float above the wreck of happiness
Are driven o'er the shoals of guilt, or ocean of excess:
The magnet of their course is gone, or only points in vain
The shore to which their shivered sail shall never stretch again.

Oh could I feel as I have felt, or be what I have been,
Or weep as I could once have wept o'er many a vanished scene—
As springs in deserts found seem sweet, all brackish though they be,
So midst the withered waste of life, those tears would flow to me!

—Lord Byron: Selected verses from "Youth and Age."

PROTEST BILL PROVIDING FUNDS FOR JUBILEE

Two Members Object Providing $250,000 For Diamond Jubilee Expenses.

TOO MUCH EXPENSE.

Labor Member Says Should Not Be Such Extravagant Vote.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—Debate on Canada's jubilee celebration followed that of the Budget in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, when J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre) and Agnes Macphail (U.F.A., Grey South East) raised objection to a bill providing $250,000 for this purpose. Miss Macphail objected to serving on a committee which has charge of organizing the arrangements unless Labor was also represented, but Premier King indicated that such names might be added.

This celebration will be very largely a flag-waving affair, said Mr. Woodsworth, and thought it was a lot of money to spend for such purposes, particularly when Canada did not have a flag especially its own. There should not be such an extravagant vote as this, when no provision was made for the unemployed in Canadian cities. He thought there should be teachers on the committee and that education should form a big part of the celebration. It should not be devoted to the glorification of our forefathers so much as to the binding together of the different peoples now in Canada.

No Military Parades

Miss Macphail said she was glad to have Canada celebrate this event, if it only could be done "without those crazy military parades." She hoped the visitors who would come here would get an idea of real Canadian life, not all the old trappings of Europe. If she were to act on the committee, she would go as the representative of her class, that of agriculture. Unless she could, she did not want to act at all. If Labor was not to be represented, she did not want to be there.

Premier King said that she had been appointed on the committee as the first woman to have ever sat in the House of Commons. That was an event of very considerable importance, he said. He emphasized the great difficulty of getting a committee that would embrace all societies and organizations. For example, if education was to be represented ,an educationalist from every province would have to be appointed. The same would be the case with churches. He had tried to name an executive representative of the people of Canada of the present time. He explained that all the Lieutenant-Governors, all the Premiers, regardless of their political affiliations, were on the list. With regard to Labor, he intimated that if certain names were submitted, he would be glad to move additions to the committee.

The bill was still in committee after having passed second reading when the House rose at six o'clock.

No Need For It

In the evening, T. L. Church (Conservative, North Toronto) said he failed to see why there should be any celebration for the diamond jubilee, while 160,000 returned men were in the United States.

"The only people who want this celebration are a lot of Canadian Clubs that are no more Canadian than Empire Clubs are Imperial—let them pay for it," he said. Mr. Church said that the Fathers of Confederation were libelled in the school books of Canada today and that attacks were made on the memory of Sir John A. MacDonald in Ontario High School histories. "When this bill gets in the common stage, I am going to move that it be reduced to $1,000, and then you can celebrate here in Ottawa and have a dinner at the country club and wave flags," he said. By way of celebrating, the Prime Minister might present a portrait of the late Board of Strategy to the Royal Victoria Museum, along with portraits of Hon. Robert Forke and Sir Henry Thornton.

Premier King said that he had been pleased to accept the suggestion made by Miss Macphail earlier in the day, and amend the bill by adding several names to the national committee in charge of the celebration. The following names were then added: Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Congress; M. J. Caldwell, H. W. Wood, President of the United Farmers of Alberta; Michael Luchkovich, M.P. for Vegreville; George F. Edwards, Canadian Council of Agriculture, and Hon. Cyrille Delage, President of the Committee on Public Instruction, Province of Quebec.

Nice Red Automobiles Drug On Finnish Market

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb. 18 (Associated Press). — Anything associated with the color red is difficult to sell in Finland.

An American automobile manufacturer consigned a large number of automobiles to Finland, and while most of the cars sold readily, 40 of them were unsaleable owing to the various shades of red that had been used in painting the cars. They had to be repainted to invite Finnish buyers.

In few countries are Bolsheviki and Bolshevism as disliked as in Finland, hence the Finns dislike of the color of red.

GRAIN EXPORT BEFORE BOARD

Railway Commissioners Consider Method of Handling Canada's Grain Ouput.

MARKET OUTPUT.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—The handling of Canada's ever growing grain output, not only as to the cost of transportation from the point of production to the port of export, but also in reference to the capacity of the foreign market and the facilities for getting there, occupied the attention of the Board of Railway Commissioners in yesterday's proceedings in the freight rate investigation.

George Stephen, assistant freight traffic manager of the C.P.R., was the witness and he submitted a vast amount of data as to the existing rates both in Canada and for purposes of comparison, in the United States; the growth of traffic offering and of facilities for moving it; the terminal conditions for unloading and transhipping to ocean vessels; the demand of the export market both in Europe and the Orient, and other conditions existing.

Lack of adequate ocean tonnage was again emphasized by the witness, who elaborated his statement in Wednesday's testimony that the C.P.R. could always have carried more grain to Vancouver than the available shipping could move. All through the season loaded cars were held up for weeks at a time awaiting a chance to unload, and this congestion had forced the railways to adopt a permit system to regulate the flow of traffic and had even been compelled to place a complete embargo on the business for a time. To illustrate this situation, witness submitted figures showing that at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon that with every elevator in the port of Vancouver filled to capacity there were 1,038 cars waiting to unload; 425 cars on the track between Field and Vancouver, and 115 cars east of Field, or a total of 1,578 cars held up for lack of ocean tonnage to move the load.

Witness declared that the elevators at Fort William were also filled to capacity.

The railways, declared Mr. Stephen, had no control whatever over the export market, persistent assertions to the contrary notwithstanding. That market had fallen off last year both in the Orient and in Europe, the latter largely owing to the coal strike in England.

HEROES PROTEST SALE OF CROSSES

Want Men Who Bought Legion of Honor Prosecuted With Vendors.

PARIS, Feb. 18. — Soldiers who won the Legion of Honor by heroism on the battlefield intervened yesterday in the proceedings against the three men accused of selling the decorations at prices up to $4,000. They formed an association and employed counsel to ask the court to award damages for moral prejudice suffered by members of the Order who had not bought their crosses.

"Three men sold the Legion of Honor," declared the soldiers' lawyers. "They depreciated it. Material damage also is incontestable. This shower of crosses is the reason why wounded heroes have to wait for their Legion of Honor.

"And why don't you prosecute those who bought their crosses? Are they to be allowed to keep their decorations?" he added. "Only small fry have been brought into court. The bigger ones are allowed to escape."

Men Work All Night To Dig Out Little Pet Dog; Friend Of Whole Village Trapped Chasing Fox

WOODRUFF, South. Car., Feb. 17 (Canadian Press) "Ring," the little dog held fast by the rocks in a narrow underground passage way for 110 hours, walked from his prison just before dawn and bounded into the arms of his master with tail wagging furiously. Twenty men worked through the night with pick and shovel to free the little animal which became imprisoned last Thursday when he chased a fox into the passage way. The fox was removed yesterday, dead. "Ring" had killed it.

News of the rescue preceded the band into the dark, quiet, little town. Shafts of light framed neighbors who opened doors to hear the tidings. "Ring," friend of the community, had become a popular concern in his predicament.

The rescuers were to gather at the scene of the rescue later in the day to pose for a motion picture camera man. "I don't know how soon," said Kelly, "My dog needs sleep and rest. We'll let him sleep and rest. We'll let him decide."

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

WHY ONE MULE BITES ANOTHER

The driver gave a mule the whip,
For one thing or another.
The off mule gave the near a nip;
Yes, turned and bit his brother.
The near mule hadn't done a thing
To make his brother bit him.
But, when the off mule felt the sting,
He turned his head and bit him.

The whip a lot of folks will fee';
And often undeserving.
Life's lashes, often sharp as steel,
Around the shoulder curving.
We cannot turn and strike the fate
That struck before we knew it.
And so, I fear, we sometimes hate
Some man who didn't do it.

We frown at folks who live next door,
Who can't see why, and wonder.
We punish someone near us for
Some other fellow's blunder.
We take it out, because we can,
Upon some helpless brother;
That's why we're mean to many a man
Why one mule bites another.

PROTEST INCREASE

out loud before Premier Ferguson and his baginet, or whoever gives them a hearing.

The segregation and disposal of the industrial units in the system, such as street railway, gas plants, pulp mills, etc., are also to be included in the "petition of rights." This is a ten-year old complaint, and the rumors of Hydro plans to sell the street railway, gas plant and pulp mill suggest that the Commission will endeavour to get rid of its embarrassments.

Another suggestion emanating from Oshawa proposed that the executive consider the question of the municipalities buying the Central Ontario system and owning and operating it in the same manner as the public ownership of power in Western Ontario.

Cause Rates Increased

And finally the municipalities desire to know why the rates have been increased. The answer that will satisfy them must provide information which is not found in annual reports of the Commission and for which the Government will be approached if Hydro headquarters decline to give it. Details of costs, contracts, basis of charges and many other topics that puzzle the municipalities should be answered, their representatives assert, and the air cleared for a new understanding and perhaps a new deal. If at length it is shown that the increased rates are necessary and irreducible the Central Ontario municipalities will have to be content, they acknowledged in the general discussion yesterday.

The meeting was very largely attended, gave evidence of a quiet determination "to let the chips fall where they may," and at the same time expressed a desire for goodwill, to avoid any expressions that might hamper instead of helping the interviews the Association will ask for in Toronto.

The Charter Officers.

The officers chosen to guide the Association through its first year were:

Chairman—F. L. Mason, Oshawa.
First Vice-Chairman—Mayor W. T. Holloway, Peterboro.
Second Vice-Chairman — G. D. Conant, Oshawa.
Secretary-Treasurer—J. O. Herity, Belleville.

Executive Committee—Mayor Holgate, Bowmanville; Mayor Preston, Oshawa; Henry Fullerton,Cobourg; H. S. Britton, Newcastle; C. S. Tanner, Lakefield; H. Stock, Belleville; W. J. McLaughlin, Norwood; Reeve Boyes, Napanee; W. L. Richman, Lindsay; Reeve Mills, Brighton; Ald. Roland Denne, Peterboro; Geo. W. P. Every, Whitby; D. C. Metcalf, Desoronto; F. H. Cotton, Tweed; I. F. Fraser, Picton; George Brentnall, Trenton; Reeve Bygott, Campbellford; W. M. Fowlds, Hastings; Sam Dudley, Colborne; H. W. Nelson, Warkworth.

Basis of Organization.

Mayor Preston of Oshawa was appointed temporary chairman at the outset, and C. S. Tanner of Lakefield moved the resolution of organization. The fee of membership is at the rate of $2 for each 100 h.p. used in 1925, as applying to municipalities, the maximum to be $100 and the minimum $5, any number of horse power in excess of 50 to be counted as 100. Companies and persons may become members. The estimated membership fees total $480.

Extravagant Bargain.

Mr. Conant spoke briefly on the purposes of the meeting and quoted at length from the Clarkson report of 1921. "We have a right to say that we were not consulted in the purchase of the Central Ontario system, and had nothing to do with a most improvident bargain. Of the assets acquired by the Hydro in 1916, some of them properly belonged to the Hydro's special work of producing and buying and selling power, but others such as street railway, gas plants, pulp mill, etc., were outside their special function, and it has always been the case that when they have gone outside that they have lost money.

"An analysis of the financial reports," Mr. Conant continued, "show that it would have been better if these assets had not been acquired, but it having been bought it would have been a benefit to the Hydro and the municipalities if they had been scrapped the next day. The losses from unproductive units of the system have been shouldered on the backs of the power users. For the Hydro to increase the rates as they have done will put the whole of Central Ontario at a disadvantage in industrial competition. We will have to pay $35 or $36 a horse power, while in Western Ontario it is $22 to $26."

Go to the Government.

Mr. Conant said many agreed with him that the ultimate quest would have to be taken to the Government because the Hydro might not be willing to assume the responsibility of giving certain details.

"We might be prepared to make a pilgrimage to Queen's Park. If we can't obtain what we consider is just we should go to the Government and say that the Central Ontario district wants to be put on some degree of parity with the rest of Ontario."

Mr. MacNab of Trenton declared there should be a commission analagous to the Railway Board, to which the Hydro would have to submit any new scale of rates for approval. It was not British fair-play that anybody, no matter how bureaucratic, could raise rates to the public without a moment's notice. This raise in rates means life and death to some of our industries.

Hydro Engineer.

Ben Mulholland of the Hydro engineering department, who was present only as an observer, said the Commission would welcome the new Association.

"One of our difficulties has been the towns that have no local power commission which we could deal with. Peterboro has its own Utilities Commission, and when any question arises in regard to rates or engineering matters we go direct to them and ask what is the difficulty. If it is an increase in rates we explain why. There is no mystery whatever in the Central Ontario system. In the other towns there is only our own local manager to talk to."

Mr. Mulholland explained the difference between these two plans of buying power.

"One is known as a cost town, like Peterboro. It has signed a contract wtih the Hydro for the purchase of power. It owns its own distributing system and buys power in bulk. At the beginning of the year they estimate a need, say, of 5,000 h.p. At the end of the year we add up the cost of the actual amount supplied. If Peterboro has used 6,000 h.p. their cost per horse power will be less for that year, in which case a credit is coming to the Utilities Commission, but if they used less than 5,000 h.p., then we have a debit against them.

In the C.O.S. towns, as we call them (Central Ontario system), like Oshawa or Cobourg, they have no contract with us, and they do not own their distributing systems. There we set the rates direct to the consumer on the basis of the cost we estimate in our books."

Councillor Hartt, Oshawa: Is the loss on the Hydro's industrial units apportioned to "cost contract" towns or is it all borne by C.O.S. towns?

Mr. Mulholland: I prefer that questions relating to the allocation of costs be dealt with by the Commission when they meet your deputation.

Mayor Holloway and City Clerk Armstrong corrected several impressions about the Peterboro units.

"The street railway was never owned by the city," said Mr. Armstrong. "It was bought with the other assets of the Electric Power Co. The Hydro had to buy these other things in order to acquire all the holdings. It was the only way available to buy the water powers. The Government did this in the interest of the people of Central Ontario, and the tail had to go with the hide. If this organization can get it into any other shape, so much the better for us all."

Mayor Holloway mentioned the Peterboro gas plant's $20,000 surplus which Oshawa and other towns overlooked, and which was pooled with the C.O.S. monies. He stated that Peterboro was glad to cooperate with the rest of Central Ontario for the common good of the entire district.

Some of the Delegates.

Peterboro—Mayor W. T. Holloway, City Clerk Armstrong, Ross Dobbin, manager of the Utilities Commission, and Harry Beattie.

ODE TO THE WEST WIND

(A few thoughts which occurred to the writer while sitting in the darkness during a wind storm, awaiting the pleasure of the Hydro to give us as Goethe sought, 'more light.')

Oh! Great West Wind!
Whither goest thou on thy wild flight?
Could'st thou not wait till morn?
And then we could at least have light.
Oh! Great West Wind!

Oh! Vain West Wind!
What seekest thou to destroy?
What—yon giant oak? Ah! no
'Twill never be thy toy.
Oh! Vain West Wind!

Oh! Vain West Wind!
What say ye? He trembles at thy force?
Ah! yes, trembles with mirth as at some joke
As in thy very face he shakes his arms and calls
"Knowest thou I am the Oak, I am the Oak."
Oh! Vain West Wind!

Oh! Mad West Wind!
What seek ye now? This house of mine?
What—knowest thou on what foundation it doth stand?
On Love, ah yes, on Love divine;
It trembles not at thy mad whim,
But stands most firmly on my Love for him
Who shares it with me.
Oh! Mad West Wind.

OBITUARY.

MRS. THOS. McAULEY.

The death took place this afternoon at St. Joseph's Hospital of Mrs. Thomas McAuley, wife of Mr. Thomas McAuley, tobacconist.

Particulars of funeral later.

MRS. RICHARD DORIS.

The death occurred yesterday at noon after a lingering illness of Mrs. Richard Doris, lot 12, con. 10, Otonabee. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn her loss one daughter, Mrs. J. Connelly of Rochester, N.Y., and three sons, Ambrose of Keene, Fred and Earl of Otonabee, also four sisters and two brothers residing in Douro.

The funeral will be held from the family residence on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock to St. Peter's Cathedral, thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

MRS. T. W. DODDS.

OMEMEE, Feb. 18.—There passed away at Toronto on Feb. 8th, Mrs. Mary E. Dodds, widow of the late Thomas W. Dodds, in her seventy-eighth year.

The funeral was held in Omemee on Friday, Feb. 11th, from the residence of her nephew, Mr. Charles Ivory. The service was in charge of Rev. Russell Baldwin of Uxbridge, assisted by Rev. Francis Johnston of Lindsay and Rev. E. W. Rowland of Omemee.

Mrs. Dodds was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry English, of Omemee. In religion she was a Presbyterian, and always took a great interest in the work of her church, having attended old St. Andrew's while in Toronto. Her daughter, Annie, predeceased her at the age of seventeen years and her husband in 1903.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodds resided in Omemee, Manilla and Woodville, where Mr. Dodds was in the general store and produce business and had made many dear friends in all these places.

After Mr. Dodd's death, Mrs. Dodds went to Toronto and took a position with the T. Eaton Co., which she held until a few years ago. As a token of esteem for her many years of faithful service a beautiful wreath adorned her casket. Many other floral tributes bore mute testimony of the respect in which she was held.

Interment was made in Emily cemetery.

Among those from a distance who attended the funeral were: Rev. and Mrs. Baldwin and son, Junior, of Uxbridge, Mrs. Edith White, Mr. W. White, Mrs. J. J. Lang, Mrs. W. Lang, Mr. Everett Tisdale, Mr. Albert Byers, Mr. D. Rea all of Toronto, Rev. Francis Johnston on Lindsay.

MRS. WILLIAM LEHANE

DOWNEYVILLE, Feb. 18.—The funeral of the late Mrs. William Lehane was held Tuesday morning at 8.45 from his late residence, Glenelg Street, Lindsay, to St. Mary's Church, where Mass was chanted by Rev. Father Black in the presence of a large congregation from Lindsay and Downeyville. The funeral afterwards proceeded to Downeyville where the remains were laid in St. Luke's Cemetery. The pall-bearers were Messrs. James, Cyril and Michael Lehane, sons of deceased, and Messrs. Bartholomew Downey of Downeyville; Eugene of Peterborough, and John of Chicago, Ill., all brothers of deceased. Rev. Father Galvin conducted the prayers at the Cemetery.

The late Mrs. Lehane whose maiden name was Annie Downey, was born in Downeyville and received her education in the school there; was married here, and lived in Downeyville until about fifteen years ago, when the family moved to Lindsay. The deceased was a devout member of St. Mary's Parish, Lindsay, and the Catholic Woman's League, and leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mary, at Havelock; Bernie, at Kirkfield, and Anna, at home; four sons, Cyril, James and Michael of Lindsay, and Fergus in Detroit; three step-sons, Messrs. William, Timothy and Thomas, and one step-daughter, Sister Camilla of St. Joseph's Convent, North Bay; two sisters, Mrs. John Murphy, and Mrs. S. Malone of Toronto, and five brothers, Alex. of Detroit, Mich., John of Chicago, Ill., Eugene of Peterborough; Bartholomew and Charles of Downeyville.

BASKET SOCIAL PROVES SUCCESS

Young Ladies of United Church Hold Enjoyable Gathering.

WELL ATTENDED

BETHANY, Feb. 18.—The basket social and entertainment given under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Mission Club of the United Church was held on Monday evening in the Sunday school room of the church, although the evening was stormy and disagreeable the room was comfortably filled when the programme commenced. The Rev. A. Poulter acted as chairman.

The programme was unusually good, being musical in character, consisting of a piano solo by Miss Hazel Jackson; a vocal selection and enchore by a quartette, the personal of which was the Misses Elsie Richardson and Violet Jackson and Harry Preston and Douglas Driver; accompanist, Mrs. Ona Thorndyke. A piano duet and enchore by the Misses Helen Patton and Viola Gray; readings and encores rendered by the Misses Elsie Richardson, Viola Gray, Beatrice Darroch and Evelyn Bigelow; vocal duets and encores were given by Keith Thornkyke and George Smith, accompanist, Miss Violet Jackson who also accompanied Mrs. Poulter in a vocal solo.

This concluded the first part of the programme; then A. H. Monk, a most efficient auctioneer was called upon to sell the baskets of which there were 35 of all sorts of shapes and makes beautifully decorated. The baskets sold readily and brought good prices. Lunch was provided for those who were unfortunate in not securing a basket.

A vote of thanks was moved by the chairman and carried by a hearty clap of hands to those who so ably helped make the evening a success.

Others who assisted were Miss Priscillia Howden, Mrs. Bertrand Monk, Miss Helen Byers, Miss Marian Fallis, Bertrand Monk and Frank Bigelow.

OTTAWA'S FAME INCREASES.

Lenoir, picturesque character in Ralph Connor's "Man from Glengarry", boasting himself the "Boss Bully of the River Ottawa," recalls halcyon days of the lumbering industry, with Ottawa, the then straggling Federal Capital as its centre.

Today, Ottawa is still the centre of huge lumbering interests, but these have paled into the background before her increasing claims to fame as a world capital.

A city of statesmen, Ottawa offers wonderful attractions for the visitor. With both Houses in session and the brilliant social life of which Rideau Hall is centre, at its height, thousands of visitors are drawn to the Capital.

Canadian National service leaving Toronto Union Station is exceptionally good. Luxurious trains and typical Canadian National courtesy are features of this route. Ottawa day train is radio equipped.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

WORKING TOGETHER IN THE CHURCH

Text: Matthew 5:13-16; Acts 2:42-47

Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be salted? it is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out, and to be trodden under foot of men.

Ye are the light of the world. A city that is set on an hill cannot be hid.

Neither do men light a candle, and put it under a bushel, but on a candlestick; and it giveth light unto all that are in the house.

Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven.

And they continued stedfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.

And fear came upon every soul: and many wonders and signs were done by the apostles.

And all that believed were together, and had all things common;

And sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need.

And they, continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, did eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart.

Praising God, and having favour with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Feb. 20. Living and Working Together in the Church.—Matthew 5:13-16; Acts 2:42-47.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D.D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

From the consideration of the relationships of home life and the means of making the homes Christian, we pass in this lesson to the conditions that make for ideal relationship in the larger family of the church.

Churches, it should always be remembered, whatever divine origin and character they may have, are very human in their organization. People who condemn the church on the least evidence of something that is not ideal in the relationships or actions of its members should remember that churches are apt to possess many of the defects that always become evident wherever large groups of people are together. The defects of the churches are the defects of the people in them.

Of course it may be said that we should expect the manifestation of higher and more beautiful types of life on the part of church members. That is true. But if people depended upon attaining a sense of perfection before becoming members of the church, there would not be many people in the churches.

Improving the Members.

It should be remembered, however, that the only way effectually to improve the churches is to improve the people in them. Churches as a whole will not grow in grace except as their individual members grow in grace.

Perhaps in this matter of church membership we have laid too much stress upon duty and too little upon privilege. If we had recognized the church as founded on the privileges of grace and had set before us in all the relationships of church-life God's love and God's gracious forgiveness of all our shortcomings, we should have been brought into much more wholesome relationship to one another.

Can the man who has himself felt the reality of God's forgiveness and of God's gracious communion fail to assume an attitude of love and graciousness toward his fellow church members? It is in the exercise of that narrowness and harshness of temper that we pray our Heavenly Father not to exercise toward us that most of our faults in our dealings with our fellow men become evident.

So we should constantly think of the church as that great fellowship which "Our blest Redeemer saved with his own precious blood." Unless we have that same passionate desire to save, and bless, and upbuild, that characterized the life and death of the great Head of the church we shall not fulfill our purposes of love and righteousness.

It is this upon which our lesson lays profound stress in the figure of the Christians as the salt of the earth, or as the light of the world, or the city set on a hill, or the lamp that is not hidden under a bushel. Every Christian ought to be shining for God, so living his life before men not that they shall glorify him, but that from that life there may come some impulse to all who behold it to glorify God.

Prayer for Others.

The means of attaining to this ideal are emphasized in the latter part of the lesson. In the true church there will be profound stress upon fellowship symbolized inour lesson by the breaking of bread and in prayer. The breaking of bread has always been a symbol of communion and hospitality. One cannot truly pray for others without inherently assuming a new attitude toward them.

The great new understanding of others would come into our lives if with all our hearts we learned to pray for those whom we now misunderstand or who misunderstand us.

We used to sing a hymn, "For You I Am Praying, I Am Praying for You." The hymn expressed something that ought to be in the mutual relationships of every man to his fellows, and especially of every church member to every fellow member of the church.

The great result of such relationships is finely expressed in the closing verse of our lesson. "The Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved." That is the result. It will be just as evident in modern churches as it was in the early church when conditions are fulfilled.

BOOK REVIEWS

Rarely has there been written such an entrancing book as 'My Adventures in the Golden Age of Music." It is no wonder that this is the case seeing that its authhor was the late Henry T. Frick, who was for forty three years the musical editor of the New York Evening Post. It is sad to say that it is his last book, for he died only a few days before it was ready for the press; and the pity of this is all the greater because he did not live to hear, what must be the universal opinion, that this is the best book of the many interesting ones that he wrote.

The book is all the more enchanting because it is an autobiography, and this gives the key to understanding why he became the most famous, the most admired, and the most appreciated musical critic and editor in the United States. He grew up in an atmosphere of music. His father was an apothecary, but also a clever musician, whose chief delight was in training a village band and choir.

He could play almost any instrument; his family was a small orchestra in itself, and Harry became an expert violoncello player. But not only were there this band and choir, but there was chamber music at home, and through this Henry became acquainted with the great musical masters, such as Mozart, Haydn, and Beethoven. Music became a passion with him, and this is shown by his writing at the age of 16 in his diary, about a fine orchestra. "When I think of such an orchestra an indescribable thrill runs through my heart, such a strange, mysterious but delightful feeling that in such a moment I feel myself brought nearer to the immortal God by one-half the distance that separates us from Him. I feel inclined to fall on my knees, and adore the Great Power, of whatever nature it may be, that could create music, the most divine gift of all gifts to man." If a youth can feel the influence of music in such an intense way, and write of it in such superb language, it is easy to understand why he should have become a great musical critic and a most brilliant writer."

The account which the author gives of his boyhood will be thoroughly enjoyed, and all lovers of dogs will appreciate his stories about his dog Bruno. What he says about this faithful, clever friend is one of the finest and most pathetic tributes ever paid to a dog. The author shows how circumstances led to his becoming a classical scholar, a botanist, an astronomer, and interested deeply in other subjects, the fruits of which were to be shown later on by the publication of many articles and books. As he says the story of his life presents a greater variety of scenic backgrounds and 'atmosphere' than the records of most writers of memoirs; first, Missouri in the Civil War period; then wild and woolly Oregon before there was a railway; then five years at Harvard, the home of many celebrities at that time; next three years in German and Austrian University towns, Heidelburg, Berlin, Vienna; a year in Wagnerian Munich; finally, New York, where he became a musical editor—almost at the beginning of the Golden Age of Music, and remained so to the end of this, and beyond. His position being what might be called a seasonal one, gave him long vacations, which he used in gardening, in writing books, and in travel and study, both at home and abroad. From this it can be gathered what a full life he led; how he became acquainted with not only all the musical celebrities worth knowing, but others in many other circles, and what fascinating stories he has to tell of all these after an experience of nearly half a century. It will not be fair to spoil the reader's enjoyment of reading these by quoting even one; the book must be read.

It is worth while to give the author's own reason for his success as a musical critic; beyond the fact that he knew what he was writing about, and was a musician. He says: "Many critics love to dwell upon flaws in the work of the great and the greatest. I heard those flaws but ignored them, dwelling instead on the things that raised these artists above the level of dull mediocrity on which most musicians and other mortals dwell." He gives some views here and there in the book upon criticism which are valuable. His is a great book; it creates the impression upon the mind that a brilliant, genial, kindly, experienced friend is chatting with the reader on what is regarded as the most interesting in a long and unique life. The tale is told all too soon. The publishers of it, the Funk and Wagnalls Company of New York, have bound it beautifully, printed it in easily-read type, and illustrated it well.

India is a land of mystery, and one which has afforded material for the most entrancing novels, as all readers of Kipling, for instance, know full well. Another instance is a book called "At Government House," by Ardern Beaman, published by Mills and Boon of London. This is a series of short stories which all turn on the adventures and doings of Captain and Brevet-Major the Hon. Rollo Dennistoun, V.C., M.C., during his term of office as Military Secretary to the Governor of Mahdipur. The stories may appear to some readers of them to be exaggerated, too sensational; but against this can be placed the fact that many people who have lived in India, and been able to delve only a little below the surface of things there, know that dark, secret things go on which never see the light of day, and account for the necessity of the Secret Service. Rollo Dennistoun's duties made him into the head of this service in Mahdipur, and weird, strange, and frequently horrible are the events in which he is the master mind and the hero. He is ably and courageously assisted in these by his friend and companion in arms, "Jumbo," and by an old native called Muldoo, the conjurer and more than that as the reader will find out. The stories are full of the mystery and the glamour of India; they bring exciting, vivid scenes before the reader and every one of them is worth reading. There is a heroine in the book, and a good love story which is exceedingly well worked out.

Messrs. Longmans, Green and Company have published "Bison of Clay," by Max Begouen, which has deservedly received much praise. Briefly put, it is novel based upon the lives of men and women 25,000 years ago. It is as if the author had gone to a good museum with all its ancient relics and constructed the lives which the originators of these led. These relics would be the weapons, the clothing, the utensils, and so on, and in this story, founded on the natives of the foothills of what are now called the Pyrenees, the pictures drawn on the walls of the caves and the clay bisons. The author was the first man to discover such relics in caves not visited for 20,000 years. It inspired him to write a novel based upon his discovery, and he has produced one which is far more thrilling than most fiction. It a book well worth reading both by adults and young people; both would be deeply interested and learn much from it.

Messrs. L. C. Page and Company of Boston are again to the fore with some excellent books up to their usual high standard. This eminent firm makes a special effort to supply the right kind of books for young people, and any one who wants such books should write for its catalogue and see what a splendid selection is offered. For instance, there is "The Young Moose Hunters." This is a delightful, healthy book for boys. It describes the adventure of four American boys who become hunters and trappers in the woods of Maine with the laudable purpose of earning enough money to put them through a year at College. How they succeeded, what means they took to succeed, contain lessons which every real boy will like to learn. Another book for boys is "The Slave Prince." This is a valuable work for it will lead boys to understand Grecian history better. It deals with the exciting history of Childras, the boy Prince of the Exeti, and is written with a marvellous insight into the history of the Greeks. "The Pioneer Boys of the Colorado" is an addition and the final volume to and of The Young Pioneer Series which has been such a success. This final volume makes a splendid finish to the series, and like all the books in the series inculcates lessons which should tend to make men of the right stamp. "Six Boys" is yet another book of this description; buy it, and see if this be not the case. But the catalogue of this firm will also show a wonderful collection of good books to choose from by those in search of them. "The Uncertain Glory" is another of those delightful books by that talented authoress, Mrs. H. L. Smith, who endeared "Pollyanna" to us all. It is an excellent book in every way with a plot which grips the reader. "Penelope in California" is an addition to the Penelope Series, and a very welcome one it is. In it will be found some old and dear friends who further fasten themselves in the affections. In addition to such subjects, as Natural History, Poetry, Art, Foreign Countries, Travels, Music, History, and a large number of other subjects.

Humorous books are scarce, that is really clever humorous ones. Two of these can, however, be drawn attention to, but the proviso must be made that the reader must put himself in the right frame of mind to enjoy them. He must not adopt a superior air, but enter into the fun of the thing with a whole heart. Messrs. W. Collins, Sons and Company of London have published "The Professor on Paws" by A. B. Cox, and a most amusing humorous book it is. This much can be said about it here, that it is not a pure biological book on "Paws," but has to do with the Professor's most remarkable physiological experiment, and the odd and unexpected complications which it led up to. The reader must read it through and not look at the end of it to see how it finishes first, as otherwise he will spoil a good story and his own enjoyment. The book is extremely well plotted and worked out. The other book is "Peter Meiklejohn," by a new author, C. Stewart Black, published by T. Werner Laurie Limited of London, and it is to be hoped that he will soon write another book of a similar description. It is a Scotch story, going back to the sixteenth century, and abounds with amusing incidents which ocurred to Peter. In between the lines a great deal can be learned of the life in those days to which the author must have given a very great deal of study. Peter first appears as a student at the University, and how and why he became a monk and then a soldier proves a most diverting tale. Of course there is a love story in which Peter figures, and eventually wins out. It would not be right to enter into details of Peter's adventures and escapades; they must be read in the book to be thoroughly enjoyed.—A. K.

DIFFICULT BREATHING

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method That Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

Nasal catarrh is not only disagreeable and offensive, but it will lead to serious trouble.

That inflamed condition of the mucous membranes of the air passages of the head, nose and throat may spread to the point where it is incurable and a danger to life.

Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes are composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries. The warm smoke vapor is inhaled into the affected air passages and will go where sprays, douches and salves cannot reach. The contain no tobacco or cubebs, and being harmless, are used by children, as well as adults.

If you suffer from any catarhal trouble, catarrhal deafness, hoarseness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations, or are subject to frequent colds, get from any druggist a pocket-size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes, and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effects.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Soureness and Pain—How To Treat

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, soureness, burning, gas bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed, and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestants are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no soureness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

WELCOME NEWS

On Friday evening the Commercial Forms of Port High School had their class party.

The first part of the programme was a sleighing party on two large sleighs provided by Mr. John Pearce of Welcome.

Their destination was the parsonage, Welcome, the home of Miss Florence Clare. There, a jolly evening was spent in music, games and contests. Later, a bounteous lunch was served.

There were about forty members of classes A and B present, with misses Tuer and Armstrong, commercial teachers, as chaperones.

Miss Gertrude Lewis of Peterborough Normal, spent the week end at her home.

Miss Hazel Williams, of Marmora (now attending Peterborough Normal) spent the week-end at Welcome parsonage.

Wood-cutting is the general programme in the neighborhood.

The farmers welcomed the snowfall on Sunday night, as again there is good sleighing on the highway.

There was a Valentine party at the Welcome school on Monday afternoon, where the boys and girls received valentines of all sorts, from the genial postmaster, who was in charge.

Women's Modern Hygiene

More absorbent—
Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

FEW women today cling to the old-time "sanitary pad"—risky and uncertain—because of a new way called KOTEX.

It ends the embarrassment of laundry and disposal. You discard Kotex as easily as tissue.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads. Thus you wear sheer gowns and gay frocks under the most trying conditions.

Also deodorizes, and thus ends all fear of offending. 80% better class women now use it. Doctors widely urge it. Most hospitals employ it.

Costs only a few cents for a package of 12 at any drug or department store. Be sure you get the genuine KOTEX, for only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

CANADA FIRST.

There was at least one sentiment expressed in Mr. Robb's Budget speech yesterday that could be applauded by all parties and groups.

"Let us continue to build solidly," urged the Minister of Finance. "Let us shun extravagance and waste. Let us have faith in the future. We can have no higher resolve in this, the Diamond Jubilee of our Confederation, than as Canadians to remain forever united and work for the lasting prosperity and progress of this our glorious land."

That is an inspiring message for a Diamond Jubilee year Budget. Its plea for a united Canada is something that cannot be too often put forward, for although we celebrate on July 1st the sixtieth anniversary of the birth of the Dominion, we cannot escape the conviction that after all those years we still continue to think in terms of our own district rather than in terms of Canada.

If the jubilee year brings about an awakening to the supreme necessity of our people having more concern for the welfare of the whole country and less for the welfare of their particular Province or section, then it will be almost as important in Canada's history as was the year of Confederation.

PREVENTING ACCIDENTS.

The eighth annual report of the Ontario Safety League is full of interesting information in regard to the efforts of the organization to educate the people of Ontario to think and act along safety first lines.

Among the school children the Safety League hopes to do its best work, as it is realized that it is impossible to train adults successfully.

It is the belief of the officers of the league that every child in the schools should be taught accident and fire prevention.

About 1,400 lives a year is the present toll that is paid to the menace of preventable accidents in Ontario.

The question that is naturally suggested by such a death rate is, "Why should these lives, about one-third of them sixteen years and under, be uselessly and carelessly sacrificed?"

The education of children in the principles and practices of accident prevention seems to offer the best means of reducing accidents; undoubtedly such education should produce a more careful citizenship.

A SUCCESSFUL CAMPAIGN.

Figures quoted by The Examiner the other day showing that, while there were many more motor cars in commission in 1926 than during the year previous the death toll from motor accidents remains the same, indicate that efforts to impress upon the public the need of careful driving have had some effect.

Much of the credit for this condition can be given to the campaign carried on by Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Public Highways, and his department in the interest of sensible driving.

The department's series of striking newspaper advertisements in which motorists were appealed to drive carefully not only to avoid accidents but to save Ontario's roads, undoubtedly played a part in the improvement noted.

This educational campaign on the part of the Ontario Government was effectively prepared, and the various articles were of a nature that undoubtedly made an impression upon the automobile fraternity.

A continuation of this effort during the present year is likely, and it is hoped that when the statistics are available at the end of 1927 that it will be possible to announce still more beneficial results.

THE BUDGET.

In announcing his Budget proposals yesterday Hon. J. A. Robb declared that the aim of the Government had been to lighten the burden of every taxpayer rather than to afford relief to special groups, Provinces or sections of the country.

In that aim the reductions in taxation proposed by the Minister of Finance indicate that he has been successful.

No sweeping taxation proposals had been anticipated in this first Budget following a general election, and in that respect the Budget lived up to advance notices.

It had been hinted in press despatches that tariff changes would be few in number.

As a matter of fact there are to be none at all, Mr. Robb taking the logical position that the Tariff Advisory Board is investigating no fewer than fifty-two applications for tariff changes; it is the wisest course for the Government to give the Board a chance to complete their inquiries.

The most important changes in taxation are a reduction of 20 per cent. in the sales tax, which, beginning today, will be 4 instead of 5 per cent., and a 10 per cent. reduction in the income tax, and an increase in the exemption under the stamp tax from five dollars to ten dollars.

These reductions will be welcome as a step in the right direction.

The abolition of the sales tax had been strongly urged upon the Government, but it is obvious that in spite of the splendid surplus reported from the present fiscal year that the Government will have to depend upon this tax and the income levy for some years at least for a substantial portion of its revenue.

With an increased exemption under the stamp tax, about 70 per cent. of that taxation will disappear; it has always been regarded by the people as a nuisance tax, and the decision to wipe out most of its sting will meet with approval.

Smokers in particular, while lamenting that the Budget proposals do not promise them cheaper tobacco, will be glad to learn that a cut of 25 per cent. in the excise tax on matches will at least provide them with a cheaper means of lighting their pipes.

Altogether it is the Minister's estimate that the people of Canada will be relieved of some $27,000,000 in taxation as a result of his Budget proposals, a very acceptable Valentine for the Dominion.

AN OSHAWA VIEW.

(Oshawa Reformer)

The Peterborough street railway, the Napanee gas plant and the Campbellford pulp mill are not paying propositions from the Hydro point of view. Oshawa is. So are other towns and cities in the central part of Ontario. Therefore, following the biblical injunction, the strong must bear the infirmities of the weak. This may be quite in order, but The Reformer confesses to a desire for a great deal more light on the subject. Perhaps it is our lack of mathematical skill and accounting experience that makes us puzzle and ponder over the Hydro regulation that the citizens of Oshawa must help pay the deficits on the Peterborough street railway. We like to be neighborly and to assist our weaker brethren, but surely there are limits to altruism! Does Peterborough ask for help of the citizens of Oshawa to keep its street cars running up and down George street and out on Charlotte street to Jackson's Park? Will it be a satisfaction to the average Peterborough citizen as he takes his family out to Jackson's Park on a summer evening, to know that Oshawa is helping him to bear the cost of his trip?

And how is it that the Hydro systematically gets itself loaded up with railways and other propositions that produce deficits as regularly as hens lay eggs? The Reformer will be the first to acknowledge its error if the wrong viewpoint has been expressed, but surely there is an urgent need for more information. Why should any organization be clothed with autocratic powers? Why should information be withheld? If the increase in Hydro rates is right and proper and necessary, then surely it is possible to give an explanation that will satisfy all intelligent people. As yet this explanation has not been given.

ECONOMY IN PARLIAMENT.

The Federal Parliament is showing a commendable spirit in making an effort to eliminate all superfluous business and get through the session promptly. This seems to be subscribed to by both Liberals and Conservatives. Following a caucus yesterday of Liberal members it was announced that discussion had taken place as to the possibility of keeping the programme short, even to the extent of dropping some private bills. The willingness of the Conservatives to co-operate in saving time was indicated by Hon. H. H. Stevens last week, and it was illustrated by the debate on a Progressive resolution which brought the first division of the session on Monday. The point involved had to do with the term of Parliament, a subject which lent itself admirably to possibilities of oratorical flights. Both major parties, as a matter of principle, were opposed to the suggestion made, and although many of the Progressives and some Independents took advantage of the opportunity to speak it was left to Hon. Ernest Lapointe to present the rebuttal.

This is a practical way of cutting down expenses. No one is anxious to see essential business neglected, but much of the time heretofore taken in speechmaking for effect on the voters has been a waste which the country could well get along without. The two last sessions were conspicuous for controversy and bitterness. The country became tired of it. Parliament itself became somewhat discredited in the eyes of the electors ,who, after all, are more interested in the business done than in long and contentious speeches. The present session offers Parliament a chance to redeem itself. If it continues as it has started it will have done something in this direction.

Hon. E. B. Ryckman stated during the Federal election campaign last fall that it costs fifteen dollars a minute to conduct the proceedings of the House. In this case it is evident that every week cut off the session is worthwhile economy—and economy is something that interests the country. An enormous sum could be saved by adherence to a rigid programme from which unnecessary legislation is omitted and by an understanding that lengthy speeches are often expensive frills. A member of Parliament who takes up an hour of the House time at a cost of nine hundred dollars should be prepared to give an accounting to his constituents.

There are a number of contentious matters to come up during the session. A lot of money will be wasted over them at the best, but a lot could be saved if members kept in mind the cost of conducting the country's business, and, above all, kept in mind the fact that they are sent to Ottawa to do business rather than to talk.—The Globe.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

We want to be among the first to point out that the reduction of the tax on matches is a striking feature of the Budget.

It is wonderful how well the Canadian people can bear up under an announcement that their taxation is to be reduced.

Mr. Robb's Budget proposals, while just a little late for Valentine purposes, are acceptable nevertheless.

Peterborough's Fire Department is to cost less than last year. There will be no complaint from the public on that score.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 18 (Canadian Press) — The foreign trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday continued quiet, there being little or no demand from any source.

The trade in cash grain on the local market was quieter, the demand being chiefly for car lots for domestic and country account. Prices were unchanged.

The undertone to the market for spring wheat grades of flour was firm, but the trade was quiet. The movement of winter wheat flour was slow and the feeling was steady.

A feature of the millfeed trade was the demand that developed from the United States, but owing to the small stocks held here, little business of importance resulted. The local and country demand showed no improvement and prices were unchanged.

Owing to the dullness that has prevailed in the market for standard grades of rolled oats of late an unsettled feeling has developed in the market and prices have been reduced five to fifteen cents per bag.

The feature of the potato trade was the weaker feeling that developed and prices for Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were reduced fifteen cents per bag, and Quebec white stock at five cents per bag. This was attributed to the small demand from local and outside sources. Car lots of Prince Edward grades were quoted at $1.60 to $1.65 per bag, and Quebec grades at $1.25 to $1.30, while New Brunswick Green Mountains in store here are selling at $1.20 to $1.25 per bag of ninety pounds. A more active business was done in eggs and prices were firm. The receipts were 474 cases.

A stronger feeling developed in the butter market and prices for all grades were marked up 1-2c per pound. This was due to the market improvement in the demand from outside sources, and especially so from Toronto for fresh made New Zealand creamery butter which resulted in sales of 2,000 packages early in the day at 40 1-2c per pound, delivered. There was also a better demand for Canadian creamery butter and on the whole the market was considerably more active than it has been of late. The receipts were 186 packages.

The demand for cheese was quiet but prices were well maintained.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press)—Prospects of a cold wave that may do damage to domestic winter wheat tended to lift wheat values yesterday. There was talk, too, of large export sales at Winnipeg. Wheat closed firm, 1-4 to 1-2c net higher, with corn unchanged to 1-4c cent off; oats unchanged to 1-4c up, and provisions showing 10 to 15 at 17 cents advance.

Reports that nearly 2,500,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been bought for Portugal gave an early upward slant to the Chicago market. There was also talk current that from 2,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels of rye has been sold ahead for export. Confirmation was lacking both as to wheat and rye, but strength of the Winnipeg market tended, nevertheless, to encourage belief that liberal export business in breadstuffs from North America had been put through. Meanwhile, the Canadian growers' pool was said to have ordered that no further sales of wheat future deliveries were to be made at Winnipeg.

Expectance of a cold wave for the winter wheat belt in the United States aroused considerable apprehension, as the temperature collapse will catch part of the crop without a snow blanket. Notice was also taken that official estimates of yields of bread grains for 1926 in Europe, exclusive of Russia, are 360,000,000 bushels short of 1925, and that requirements are increased by 20 per cent. reduction of the European potato crop. Reports that 180,000,000 bushels more wheat is available in North America and the southern hemisphere failed to act as a counterbalance.

Corn and oats were bearishly affected by reports that Ohio and Indiana are offering grain in the east at about one cent under the price which Chicago handlers offer. Colder weather also was expected to enlarge the interior crop movement.

Provisions were responsive to packers' buying and to strengthening of the market for cotton oil.

Pneumonia Left Her With A Bad Cough

Mrs. W. R. Bennett, 2307-14th St. West, Calgary, Alta., writes:—"Over a year ago, before my twins were born, I had an attack of pneumonia which left me with a very bad cough.

Being under the doctor's care, he tried first one thing and then another, but I coughed day and night.

A friend brought me a bottle of

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

for to try, and after coughing for two months and taking four six ounce bottles of cough medicine, I got rid of my cough with one and a half bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup."

HOW DO YOU SAY IT—C———C

'USED TO COULD"

The following was overheard in a city trolley car:

"Oh, yes, I was a pretty good scholar when I went to school. Why, I used to could talk French pretty good—pretty near as good as I could talk English."

The ability, present or part, of the speaker to use the French language "pretty good" may be doubted, since he could not use his own language, English, with even a fair degree of correctness.

"Used to could" is not good English now, and probably never was good English anywhere. There is a similar expression, "used to was" which was in use centuries ago and is now archaic—that is, antiquated—but is still heard in some rustic parts of England and America.

The reader will note, no doubt, the use of "pretty good" by the speaker instead of "pretty well."

A Thought For To-day

WATCH YOUR STEP.

YOU are slipping, friend, when you let pride in small achievements turn your head.

Look out for the friendly pat-on-the-back, often it would be better to receive a kick in the shins; the pat makes you glow with satisfaction, the kick has a chastening effect.

You and I both know men and women who are the victims of extravagant praise at the hands of friends and admirers. Let's not be numbered among these unfortunates.

Personally I am striving for a happier fate.

BAD MOTHERING

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Most mothers are good. But many mothers are too good, that is, they lean backward, and they do more harm than good to their children.

For instance, there is the too-indulgent mother. Everything her child does is right and she cannot ever bear to reprove him. I recall an incident of the wife of a prominent man who was out walking with her child. For some offense she slapped him, and she immediately knelt down in the snow and asked his pardon and promised never to do it again. Piffle!

It is all important to the young human being that he shall learn to recognize and respect the laws of the universe, moral as well as financial. This is no pink tea world. Sooner or later he is going to run up against it.

Unless a mother recognizes these limitations and teaches her child to recognize them, she is doing him harm.

Always to step in between him and the punishment for his offenses is to do him deep injury.

I know a son who has lied, stolen and done almost everything wrong, but who yet is the apple of his mother's eye. What he needs is to get some good stiff punishment for his sins, but he always appeals to his mother and is saved from paying for his crime.

Another kind of mother who wrongs her son is the one who will not let him go when he has reached the age of manhood and chooses a wife. This mother tries to continue her hold on him with the result of making the wife jealous.

One essential element of good motherhood is to let the fledgling try his own wings when he is old enough.

A mother should control herself and should know the inevitable laws that govern souls. She should be wise and see that her son obeys them. It is to his interest to find them out soon and to govern his life by them. She must not prevent him from doing this.

Very often the devoted mother sees that her son is patted gently when he really needs a swift kick. In the end the hearty kick does him more good than the gentle pat.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

THOSE MYSTERIOUS EAR NOISES

It is surprising to see how many questions come into my office daily from correspondents, asking for an explanation of ear noises, and hoping that I can send them information which will bring about relief from this distressing symptom.

The patients suffering from this trouble have sought in vain for help from ear specialists, although whatever help received through treatments has been at best only temporary. This, is of course, because the real cause cannot be removed through any kind of treatment except by changing the habits of living which have been responsible for the disorder.

The immediate irritation which produces the throbbing noise is due to either high blood pressure in the blood vessels of the inner ear, or to an accumulation of catarrhal mucus around the delicate vibratory apparatus, which is the instrument for receiving sound waves from the outside of the ear.

In every case which has come under my observation, there has been no difficulty in bringing about a complete and permnaent cure. This can be effected merely by dietetic treatment which must be applied by the patient to himself.

In either the case of the derangement being caused by blood pressure, or by mucus pressure, the patient actually has something which is producing sound from the inside of the ear, instead of from the outside. It is much the same as if you strike the telephone bell in your bedroom with a hammer in place of only being disturbed when someone wants to talk to you on the phone and rings you in the usual way. If the ringing continues in your inner ear, of course, you cannot sleep and will consequently become very nervous, but it is folly to continue to make the bell ring when you can stop the cause within a few days at least.

In every case a fast from all food for a few days will remove the trouble temporarily as the blood pressure will be reduced if it is too high, or the catarrh will quickly diminish if the cause lies in an excess of mucus around the tympanic bones. It is doubtless interesting to have the blood pressure taken before the fast in order to disclose whether or not high blood pressure exists. If the systolic pressure is not over 140 millimeters you can be sure that the difficulty is produced from chronic catarrh. In either case the fasting and diet cure will bring about a rapid change, and quick relief from the annoying throbbing. A fruit fast should be continued for a week or ten days and the diet to be followed after the fasting must be free from an excess of carbohydrates.

If the trouble is purely catarrhal all fats and oils must be avoided for a considerable period of time. Milk should not be used at all, and only small amounts of cream and butter allowed! A blood stream which has been full of catarrh for years will need a rest from all forms of carbohydrates and hydro-carbons, and only after several months of living on this restricted diet can one expect to be able to return to a well balanced diet without experiencing a slow return of the catarrhal tendencies.

The blood must be literally starved of these mucus forming foods for as long as a year or more before the catarrhal inclination will disappear altogether.

One who has a proneness towards high blood pressure or towards catarrh has a serious problem on his hands which cannot be solved by ministrations of any physician, no matter how skilled in his science of treatment. The fault lies only in the patient's dietetic habits, and the cure rests with his power of will in using only the right foods in the right way.

WINTER FAIR GREAT SUCCESS

Annual Millbrook Event Attracts Many Entries and Spectators.

EXHIBITS GOOD.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 18. — One of the most successful and largely attended Winter Fairs ever held under the auspices of the Millbrook Agricultural Society, took place on King street, on Thursday, Feb. 17th, the event opening at about 1 p.m.

Fully 800 people many of whom had come from some distance, lined the pavement on either side of the roadway, where the competition in the various classes took place.

There was an excellent showing of horses in the various classes, entries in the agricultural and heavy draught exhibits being rather above the usual in quality and numbers; light horses were not as numerous as in other years. Much interest and enthusiasm was maintained pretty evenly throughout the afternoon, with an added degree of excitement when keen competition developed in the Pacers' Special, and the Gentlemen's Turnout Classes.

Mr. Charles Brothers of Toronto, judged here for the first time at the Winter Horse Show, his final decisions giving general satisfaction in all cases. Mr. Brothers expressed himself as being well pleased with the animals exhibited, and the character of the show throughout.

The prize winners were:

Class I. Carriage Horses.

a) Single horse in harness: 1 L. C. McNeil; , Mrs. Chandler (Peterboro.)

Class II: Roadster Horses.

(a) Single Horse in harness under 15.2: 1 C. F. Beatty; 2 J. O. Ball and Son.

(b) Single horse in harness, 15-2, and over: 1 J. O. Ball and Son; 2 C. F. Beatty; 3 A. Fallis.

(c) Pair horses in harness: 1 Ball and Son; 2 Beatty.

Class III: Gentlemen's Turnout.

1 Mrs. Chandler; 2 L. C. McNeil.

Class IV: Pacers' Special.

1: H. A. Fallis; 2 J. W. Mulligan.

Class V: Percherons. (Pair Horses in Harness.)

1 J. C. Campbell; 2 Robert Thorne, 3 M. Skelding (Orono.)

Class VI: General Purpose (Pair of Horses in Harness.

1 Skelding; 2 Moncrief Brothers.

Class VII—Agricultural Horses

(a) Pair horses in harness—1, F. Lowery; 2, D. A. Henry.

(b) Brood mare.—1, Lowery; 2, H. Seymour; 3 F. Maybee (Orono).

Class VII.—Heavy Draught

(a) Pair horses in harness.—1, W. Lindsay; 2, R. McCamus; 3, McMahon.

(b) Brood mare.—1, R. J. McKnight; 2, D. L. Armstrong; 3, R. McCamus.

Class IX.—Sweepstakes

Best agricultural mare, or gelding, any age.—F. Lowery, $3.00.

Class X—Sweepstakes

Best heavy draught mare or gelding, any age.—R. J. McKnight, $3.00.

Cash prizes were given in almost every case, the amount in Classes 1, 2, 3, and 4 being $5, $4, and $2 respectively, according to the standing of the exhibitor; in the same classes where a pair of horses was exhibited, and in secton (a) of classes 5, 6, 7, and 8, the amounts were $7, $5 and $3; in section (b) of classes 7 and 8 the prizes were $5, $3, and $2.50. Occasionally the third prize was in goods contributed by local merchants, amounting in value to the $2 or $2.50 a little over.

The rules governing entries in the various classes were:

1.—All animals must be bona fide property of exhibitors.

2.—No animal may be shown in more than one class, but may be entered in more than one section of its class.

3.—All exhibitors to be members of the Millbrook Agricultural Society.

4.—All entries to be in the hands of the secretary, J. N. McGill, not later than noon on the day of the Fair.

5.—No entrance fee to be charged, and all horses to be exhibited on King Steet, Millbrook.

The officers and directors of the Agricultural Society are enabled to meet the rather heavy financial obligations in connection with the annual Winter Horse Show by means of contributions either in cash or goods by the local merchants, and by the sale of tags on the street while the Fair is in progress.

FRENCH TOBACCO SALES INCREASE

State Monopoly Earns Millions For Payment of of Floating Debt.

During the month of December 1926 sales of the State tobacco monopoly in France aggregated 303,600,000 francs, of which 299,700,000 francs were applied to the sinking fund for the floating debt of the nation in comparison with 281,652,00 francs so applied in December, 1925.

The sales of tobacco during the whole year 1926 totalled 2,866 million francs as against 2,267 millions in 1925, while the sale of matches, also a State monopoly, yielded 177 1-2 million francs as against 134 millions in the preceding year.

The higher returns from tobacco are due not only to increased consumption but also to the higher sales prices which have prevailed since last summer, according to advices received by the Bankers Trust Company of New York from its French Information Service.

The consumption of matches in France during the year 1925, according to the statistics of the French Ministry of Finance, which have been transmitted to the Bankers' Trust Company by its French Information Service, aggregated 69,000 million matches, while the output of the State factories totalled 44,000 millions.

A consumption of 72,000 millions is expected for the year 1927, while the probable output in France is estimated at 54.000 millions. This means that 18,000 million matches will have to be imported by the State this year in order to meet the requirements of France's population.

THEATRE

AT THE GRAND

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE."

As was expected ,the rush for seats, to-day, for the engagement of Anne Nichols' riot of laughter, "Abie's Irish Rose," which comes to the Grand Opera House Monday evening, fully justified the management believing capacity at this performance would be the order of things, and it is asked that we advise theatre-goers and likely patrons, to secure their seats as early as possible, unless they wish to be disappointed.

"Abie" is one of those magnets of the stage which come but once in a decade or two, but in this particular instance, it happens to be the most phenomenal success in stage history, for this delightful comedy of love and tolerance, delivering a much needed lesson beneath one thousand hearty laughs, has added more pages to theatrical history than any play ever produced since the advent of speaking stage and passing of the puppet show, a matter of some five hundred years since .

The long runs and financial returns accredited to this wonder play of the age, which are now matters of record, have never before been equalled, and the precedents established, will no doubt remain as a standard for years to come.

There are plenty of good seats to be had at the box office, but as the demand is large, there is no telling how long they will remain there.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"THE DESERT'S TOLL"

Looked at from the angle of the small boy, "The Desert's Toll" is really a wonderful picture. It is thrilling in the extreme. It has a real honest-to-goodness hero, who, with a smile and an intriguing dark lock across his forehead ,above beautiful eyes, can hold three very bad men at bay at one time and retire to the depths of a rock fortress with a clear conscience after the job. This gentleman dwells in a medieval rock pinnacle, where he is compelled to crawl along the face of a treacherous cliff, in order to gain entrance, but the Indian girl and her brother who serve him manage to make things pretty comfortable for him in ne interior, with excellent meals and some interesting furniture. From this fastness, he looks across the desert and sees the dying prospector, gasping out his last moments in dramatic style, while the trio of bad men and the buzzards look on with relish and wait his last moments in order to gain, in one instance, his gold map, and in the other, his carcase. The hero, however, gets the map and eludes his pursuers.

Enter the heroine, a lady who appears in the first moments of the picture in a bustled frock of the style of half a century back, with leg o' mutton sleeves and a high feathered hat. However, she evens up matters by emerging after the lapse in the picture of a week or so, in modern garments, which make a satisfactory final setting. This lady is very pretty, also possessing wonderful eyes, but she acts somewhat after the fashion of the "melerdrammer" type of heroine. She vamps the hero, by pretending to sprain her ankle, and then leads him into the arms of the bad men, who have deceived her by saying he killed her uncle, the late Simon Cooper (prospector with gold map referred to heretofore).

The bad men live up to their reputation and provide further thrills tor the aforesaid little boy by torturing the hero, who is saved at the psychological moment by his Indian servitor, a strong man who makes off on foot across the desert with his load and gains the rocky fortress a few jumps ahead of the pursuing trio.

Then the girl escapes from her deceiving friends, who are about to fight over her possession, and makes her way once more to the hero's cavern. He, with truly majestic dignity, orders her out of the place, being still unable to forget the painful episodes which resulted from his first conversations with her. She intercepts a stray bullet from the savage leader of the gang and then the hero, manly and brave, takes her on his back in a nice little contrivance like a cradle which has been housed somewhere about the place, and, riding double on his nag, once more traverses the sandy desert. (Cheers from the little boy).

The ending is satisfactory in the extreme. The hero gains the village safely with his burden, deposits her in the hands of the local phyaician and then the bad men come along and are captured by the sheriff and posse, lying in wait with many rifles. A long embrace makes the final close-up. (The hero and heroine embrace).

Not being a little boy, we were not able to enjoy this picture as much as he would.

But the comedy, "Shivering Spookers" is a good one, with the "Rascals" of Hal Roach in a series of hilarious adventures with ghosts. —Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

"TRAMP, TRAMP, TRAMP." First National Comedy King Comes to Fore in First Feature Length Comedy—Episodes Thrilling and Hilarious.

Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd have a new playfellow. He is Harry Langdon, First National comedy king.

"Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," Harry's first feature length comedy, which enjoyed a premiere at the Regent Theatre last night, very definitely establishes the moon faced comic in the camp of the mighty of the screen world. However shrewdly you view the work of the new comedian, you must admit that his gifts are as fine as those possessed by Chaplin and Lloyd.

Langdon's comedy is all his own. It is a sort of baby innocence coupled with an age-old sadness. When this attitude is involved in a series of funny events the result is explosive.

We can say for ourselves and for those that sat around us last night that we appeared not to have laughed so much or so heartily in some time. It is not so easy to make a movie audience laugh. But Langdon experienced no difficulty at all.

The story of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp," is an original with the comedian, and he seems to have had it in mind for some time, as his stunts in it are most perfectly worked out.

Harry stages a transcontinental hike in "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp." He enters the walking joust in order to lift the mortgage from his father's house and also to win the hand of a beautiful girl. He succeeds in doing both.

One of the most exciting and diverting scenes in the picture is the cyclone episode. An entire township is shown blown to pieces by a terrific wind storm. The photography of this scene is remarkable. It is said that the cameramen had to be lashed to trees and posts to prevent being blown away.

Joan Crawford, a former musical star and a well-known beauty, plays opposite the funny actor. Others in the cast are Tom Murray, Alec Francis, Edwards Davis, and Brooks Benedict. The company as a whole gives a most competent account of itself.

Harry Edwards, who has made other Langdon pictures, is responsible for the direction of "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp." He has done an excellent piece of work. Harry Langdon is quite surely "made."

100 YEAR LIFE TO BE NORMAL

Prediction of American Physician Who Credits Work of Specialists.

CAN'T FIND SOUL.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 — More and more the medical men are becoming specialists. This was indicated at the session of the American Medical Council. It was due to specialists that life had been prolonged 18 years during the last 50 years. Dr. N. P. Colwell, secretary of the Council, in his address, asserted that if the success of the physicians continued and that the public educated to health habits, a life of 100 years would soon be normal.

Forebearance from chatty comment on his patients' ills and private affairs and on the doings of the latter's family and friends is best inculcated in the young doctor while he is an interne in a hospital, the Council was told by Dr. George E. Follansbee, chief of staff of St. Alexis Hospital, Cleveland.

The mystery as to the seat of the soul is not troubling the surgeons, though Dr. Charles Mayo searched every nook of the body for it and was disappointed.

BOY WOUNDED WHILE HUNTING

Acton Youth Severely Injured By Fall With Gun.

BULLET IN BACK.

GUELPH, Ont., Feb. 18. —Rex Young, an Acton youth, was brought to the General Hospital here yesterday, suffering from a severe gunshot wound received accidentally while out rabbit hunting. He had stumbled, and in falling discharged the rifle. The charge pierced the young man's lung and kidney, and narrowly escaped perforating the heart. He is in an extremely critical condition.

Upon his arrival at the hospital an immediate operation was performed, and the lead extracted from where it had lodged between the heart and the back, about an inch from the outer cuticle.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE PRESENT PROGRAM

Hope Township Women Give Splendid Valentine Concert.

WELCOME, Feb. 18.—The Women's Institute of Hope Township put on a play in Morish church on Monday, St. Valentine's night.

The church was looking festive with a large banner, on which was the Institute motto—"For Home and Country," and decorations of red hearts pierced with silver darts.

The play, entitled, "Oh, Gossip, Gossip," was written by Mrs. Wm. McHolm, one of the ladies of the neighborhood. She also, took a prominent partin the play.

The plot of the play was that a widow, the gossip, was very much "upset" by something she had seen at a neighbors. As she has to tell someone, she phones for Mrs. Bond to tell her.

Mrs. Blake, and Polly Spicer, who were listening on the phone come also. The widow tells them that for three nights she had seen a husband abusing his wife and such things could not be allowed in a respectable community. Mr. and Mrs. Carey are a young couple who have just come to the neighborhood, and the gossip had been walking by the house to gather what news she could and had seen the quarrel.

The ladies plan to get their husbands to help and they would watch that night and interfere if there was any trouble.

Act 2 shows Mr. Blake and Mr. Bond washing clothes and dishes while their wives pay the friendly visit. The ladies arrive and tell the news, also the plan they have decided on.

In Act 3 Mrs. Carey is reading a letter when her husband arrives, and roughly demands who wrote it.

The "neighbors" rush in and interfere. Later, Mr. Carey informs them, that they are theatrical performers taking a rest, but rehearsing some of their acts in the evening.

He, also, lectures the widow for spying on her neighbors, and starting untrue stories.

The Cast of the Play.

The Gossip, a widow, Mrs. W. McHolm:

MOOSE THREATEN CARIBOU HAUNTS

Herds Increasing Rapidly in British Columbia—

VANCOUVER, Feb. 14 (By Canadian Press).—Moose are thicker in British Columbia than ever before and they have increased to such an extent in some districts that the caribou herds are threatened, according to big game authorities.

At the beginning of the present century many districts that are now teeming with moose did not even know the species. They were, however, favored haunts of caribou which were so plentiful that they formed the principal food supply of the nomad Indians which used to follow the herds just as the prehistoric "reindeer men" followed the reindeer in Northern Europe.

The caribou and moose, however, do not get along well together, according to big game men. When the moose move into a region populated by caribou in large numbers the caribou move out. This has been going on over a vast area in northern and central British Columbia furing the past twenty-five years.

"The caribou is too hardy a breed to vanish altogether," said one authority. "The moose and the caribou seem to gain dominance over each other according to cycles. We happen to be passing through a moose cycle now. In a few years an epidemic or some other disturbance may weaken the moose and the caribou will have his day again. In any event, there is no possibility of serious depletion of either species for many generations.

The wapiti or elk, another antlered family, was in danger of being annihilated as a result of ruthless hunting some years ago, but since restrictive measures have been adopted the remaining herds, two on Vancouver Island, one in the Kootenay district and another in Northern British Columbia, have grown to large proportions.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, Feb. 18.—Mrs. R. E. Bonter is confined to the house through illness.

Misses Tillie and Leona Heath of Springbrook spent the week-end with their sister, Mrs. Marshall McCoy.

A surprise party was tendered Miss Mary Murray and brother Fergus, at their home on Tuesday evening, when each were the recipients of choice presents from their young friends. These two young people are proceeding to their old home in the West next Monday, and will be missed locally by their many acquaintances.

OPEN MEETING ORANGE ORDER

Rev. Captain Riddiford, Formerly Park St. Church Pastor, is Speaker.

HISTORY TOLD

"Are Protestant principles worth living for or dying for—If they are, why this pussyfooting?" was the demand of Captain W. C. Riddiford at the Victoria Hall last night.

Captain Riddiford, a former pastor of Park Street Baptist Church, delivered a stirring lecture entitled "The Orange Order: Its Birth, Beliefs and Battles," the meeting being held under the auspices of the Peterborough County Loyal Orange Lodge.

County Master Fred T. Brown officiated as chairman for the session and the following citizens occupied seats on the platform: J. H. Spence, J. C. Waldie, R. Ritchie, R. Lockie, R. Manley, C. Luffman, J. J. Cunningham and Adjutant Frank Ham.

Splendid music was furnished at intervals during the evening by the Park Street Baptist Church orchestra.

The speaker handled his subject in a masterly fashion, mixing humor and pathos with equal facility, as he traced the history of the Orange Association from its beginning.

He was introduced by Adjutant Ham, who stated: "I came in the humble role of a listener and find myself exalted to the platform and asked to introduce the speaker of the evening." Adjutant Ham, in a brief speech, introduced Captain Riddiford, telling of the services he had rendered overseas as a chaplain with the Canadian Expeditionary Force.

Captain Riddiford.

Commencing his address, Captain Riddiford stated that it was with great pleasure that he brought with him the greetings of the Grand Master of Ontario West to Ontario East. "We usually like to get to the origin of things—to their beginnings," he declared. "If I was asked as to the origin of the Christian Church I would turn to the second Acts, where it tells how 120 people met in one place and were of one mind. I wish I could bring the Protestant Church to that stage," he declared. "Some of its members, instead of having backbones have wish-bones; they want to soft pedal on their principles—but why should they?" he asked. "Our forefathers died for it, so why should we refrain from declaring our allegiance to it?"

Describing the origin of the Orange Order, the speaker took his audience back to the reign of Charles the Fifth and James the Second, and told how William Prince of Orange was asked to interfere, in defence of civil and religious liberty, with the actions of the then King. He stated that the first Orange conference was formed on November 12, 1688, with the object of supporting the King so long as he maintained the Protestant religion and to defend the civil and religious liberties of the people. In 1795 the first Orange lodge was formed in the north of Ireland, and if the country was spared to see the year 1930, the Dominion of Canada would celebrate the hundredth anniversary of the founding of Orangeism in this country, so great had been the progress since it first started.

"The day has long since passed," declared the speaker, "when a man has to stand on a public platform and apologize for the Orange Association. We have one hundred glorious years of history behind us and a reputation for loyalty that cannot be beaten."

Objectives of Orangeism.

Mr. Riddiford enumerated what he termed the ten cardinal principles of Orangeism, which, he said, included equal rights for all and special liberties for none; the defence of the Christian Sabbath; the open Bible; individualism; one school, one flag, one language and loyalty to the Empire.

The one great fundamental thing, in his opinion, that the people of Canada are forgetting to teach their children is that under the Union Jack they possess equal rights and are living in the greatest country under God's sky.

Speaking of the time he spent in Peterborough some fourteen years ago, the speaker stated that at that time the motto of the city was, "Peterborough presents unparalelled possibilities." He doubted, he said, if anyone in the audience could have told him but it had made a lasting impression upon his mind. It was a worthy motto and, in his opinion, "this Dominion could borrow it to advantage."

One Public School.

Making a strong plea for one public school for all classes and creeds, the speaker stated that it was the only way in which a united Canada could be formed. "Surely when every class and creed mixed their blood in defence of the Empire and died for the honor of Canada, their children can associate on the common playgrounds of the public schools."

One of the notable battles that the Orange Association had fought, he said, was when, in order to protect the sanctity of the home, it brought the now famous Tremblay marriage case to the very foot of the Throne at a cost of $15,000, in order that "when two people are legally married, that marriage cannot be annulled by any Church." "That battle," he declared, "was fought for every creed and faith alike." The origin of the case, he said, was when the Ne Temerre decree was introduced to annul the marriage of two persons of the same faith, due to the husband having discovered that he and his wife were fourth cousins. Notwithstanding the wife's objections, he said, the marriage was annulled by a priest, but the decision handed down many years after had cancelled the annulation and had restored the marriage tie again.

Continuing, he declared, "It's about time Canada rose to the heights of Australia and New Zealand who have passed legislation which renders any man who enters a home where a mixed marriage has taken place and says the woman is living in sin and the children are illegitimate, liable to a fine of $500 or a year's imprisonment."

"Are Protestant principles worth living for or dying for—If they are, why this pussyfooting?" he asked. "Every other faith can tell you of their beliefs, and you respect them for it—but why can't we do the same—what we need is a great Protestant expansion," he said in conclusion.

The thanks of the meeting were conveyed to the speaker by J. J. Cunningham and J. H. Spence.

BRITISH COLUMBIA IS EXPORTING FLIES

Sends 5,000 Lacewings To New Zealand To Control Aphids.

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 14 (By C. P.).—Five thousand lacewing flies from the Okanagan country were shipped to New Zealand recently on the steamship Aorangi.

In New Zealand the larva of the lacewing fly is used to control the aphids, or green fly, most destructive tree pest known to the islands. The lacewing is an elongated little creature with six legs, gauze-like wings and formidable jaws and the sworn enemy of the aphid.

Several unsuccessful attempts were made to import lacewings into New Zealand before British Columbia was called on to send a shipment last year as a sort of experiment. On the previous occasion, due to faulty packing, the flies were apparently none the worse for the sea voyage and as soon as they were liberated in New Zealand they promptly proceeded to annihilate the hosts of the aphid. Their good work led to orders for more of them this year.

Euchre Party Held in Downeyville Hall on Friday.

DOWNEYVILE, Feb. 18.—A very enjoyable social was held here in the Hall on Friday night under the auspices of the U.F.O. and was attended by a large crowd. Progressive euchre was played at some twenty tables until midight, when a dainty lunch was served by the ladies and afterwards dancing was indulged in till the wee small hours to music furnished by the Dinner orchestra of Lindsay, which was enjoyed by all, both old and young.

Auction Sale.

Mr. J. A. Milloy held a very successful auction sale of his farm stock and implements Thursday and it was one of the best sales held around as prices were very high. Sheep sold for thirty dollars, horses from $150 to $175, cows from $60 to $80, sows, one for $80 and $60, young cattle $40 and calves at $20 The mahinery also sold high and the sale realized over three thousand dollars. Mr. and Mrs. Milloy intend to reside in Peterborough.

Chimney Fire.

On Friday night Martin Carroll, Jr., had an exiting time with a chimney fire. The call was sent in to central at Omemee and a large crowd gathered in a short time. At first it was thought to be serious, but later was brought under control. The house is damaged with smoke and water, but no other damage was done.

Mrs. James O'Connell, who has been spending some time, the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Dennis C. Fitzpatrick, has returned home from Lindsay.

VALENTINE DANCE HELD AT APSLEY

Annual Masquerade Ball Great Success—Hospital Fund Increases.

APSLEY, Feb. 18.—The annual fancy dress Valentine dance was held in St. George's Institute on Friday evening, when some striking costumes were in evidence. Miss young, as an Indian girl, was awarded first prize; Miss Howie, as a Chrysanthemum, winning second. George Kilborn, Cowboy, whose outfit was made from covers of "Life" took the gentleman's prize. Over sixty people attended and spent an enjoyable evening. Music was supplied by Messrs. John Cognes, Ned Wilson, Alex. McCall, W. Earnshaw, and Mrs. D. Wilson.

A very enjoyable concert and basket social was held in the school house at Lasswade on Monday, Feb. 14, in the interests of the local United Church. Upwards of 60 persons were present and the very interesting programme of songs, recitations, dialogues, etc., was greatly appreciated.

Mr. Harley Woodbeck showed himself to be a good auctioneer and quickly disposed of a fine array of baskets. The proceeds amounted to $52.50.

Red Cross Notes

A complete equipment for bathroom has been donated to the Red Cross Outpost by two Peterborough well wishers who desire to remain anonymous. This is a splendid gift and the committee is very grateful to the donors.

Great interest is being manifested in the Home Nursing Classes conducted at the Hospital by Miss Ottaway, and the Domestic Science Class under Miss Howie. Indeed the attendance is above the limit announced and taxes the accommodation.

At the committee meeting on Saturday, it was decided to call a "wood bee" to get out a supply of fuel for the Outpost. Mr. Spence offered the privilege of cutting the wood on his lot, which was gladly accepted.

A basket social will be held on Thursday, Feb. 17th, in the Parish Room, in aid of the purchase fund.

The ladies' committee are planning to make an autograph quilt for the same purpose.

Mrs. J. Downing visited the Peterborough Lumber Co.'s camp last week to solicit subscriptions, and met with great success, the men making a generous response.

Mrs. Barnes who lectured on "Bermuda" last week in aid of the Red Cross Hospital, was formerly Miss Annie McFadden, not Myrtle, as stated in the account published in Saturday's issue of The Examiner.

The following additional subscriptions have been paid or promised: W. P. Hilton, Virginia, U.S., $10; Owen James, $5; Gordon Earnshaw, $5; Herbert Earnshaw, $5; A Friend, $10; Charles Smith, $7.50; Chas. Hakes, $5; T. J. Wilson, $4; J. Buchanan, $4; W. NO FEMINISM YET IN CENTRE AFRICA

Hubby Sleeps While Wife Does Household Tasks.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—The statement by Prince William of Sweden, lecturing on his adventures in hunting big game in Pygmy Land, that Africa is the real home of the shimmy and jazz was borne out by native versions that would have turned a Broadway stepper green with envy. Feminism has not yet exested its pernicious influence upon the women of the country, however. For while paterfamilias was seen stretched at full length in the sun—his favorite occupation, according to the Prince—his lady could be observed grinding her own corn, a task she did not relinquish, even when she nursed her shiny little pickaninnies.

Flapper tendencies in Africa parallel those here. Milady smokes—true, a long pipe replaces the more dainty cigarette—but her bobbed hair goes her white sister's one better with its incrustrations of brilliant paint. A distinctively African touch is found in the wooden discs, as large as coffee saucers, which many of the women wear in a slit in their upper lip. Prince William said that this fashion, which is a relic of slave days, when the natives tried to protect their women by making them unattractive, is dying out. The speaker declared that missionaries had done much good in the Belgian Congo.

BENSFORT NEWS

BASKET SOCIAL AT PONTYPOOL

Ladies' Aid Holds Annual Entertainment—Good Attendance.

PONTYPOOL NEWS

PONTYPOOL, Feb. 18.—The Ladies' Aid held their annual basket social in the Oddfellows' Hall on Monday, Feb. 14. The chairman for the occasion was Rev. A. J. Terrill. A good programme was given by local talent, including dialogues, solos, instrumentals, readings, and also a song, entitled "Ladies' Aid," sung by the local society. The baskets brought fair prices when auction off by Mr. Bert. Richardson, Deputy-Reeve of this township. Coffee served by the ladies helped to make the lunch more palatable for all present.

Mr. William Hall is holding his auction sale on Monday, Feb. 21, when he will dispose of his stock and implements; also his car. Thomas Cowan, of Orono, will be auctioneer. Mr. Hall has secured a position in Toronto.

The Young People's League held is regular meeting on Tuesday evening under the leadership of the Citizenship Vice-President, Mr. John Payne. The President, Miss M. Marvin, was in the chair. The Scripture reading was taken by Miss Mildred Delahaye, followed by prayer by the pastor. The topic, "How do wars start?" was taken by Mr. J. Payne, who gave an interesting paper. Mr. Lorne Wannan gave a paper, entitled "Investing in Yourself." The play books, entitled "Mamma's Little Wild Rose," having arrived, it was decided to go ahead with the play, to be given about April 1.

Mr. Cecil Bowins is making fairly good progress, and is now able to sit up for a while each day. He has been confined to his bed about 13 weeks.

The local School Board has secured the services of Mr. McDonald, of Perth, to succeed the late Mr. George Beggs, as teacher of the local school here. This school is one of the largest in the township, and the ratepayers wish Mr. McDonald every success in taking over the school so capably handled by the late teacher. Mr. Beggs filled a position in this community as teacher, church worker and all-round citizen that will be difficult to fill.

The social evening held under the auspices of L.O.L., 82, was well attended by the members and their wives and sweethearts. Music was supplied by the Taylor orchestra, assisted by other local talent. Another event of this nature will be held on Friday, Feb. 25.

At the last regular meeting of L.O.L., 82, three candidates were initiated in the Orange degree and seven in the Royal Blue degree. Special arrangements have been made for the annual pie social, which will be held March 17.

Mrs. Robert Payne has returned home from Bowmanville after visiting her daughter, Mrs. Freeman Eddy, who has been ill.

Mrs. Cecil Ferguson and Mrs. W. Gray, of Lotus, were recent visitors at Pontypool, taking in the basket social given by the Ladies' Aid.

SPLENDID SERMON ON CHRISTIAN FAITH

Rev. C. D. Daniel Preaches at Zion Church—League Meeting.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Feb. 18.—Rev. Mr. Daniel at the morning service in Zion church on Sunday last gave an exceptionally fine address on Christian faith, another of his series on Christian characteristics. The text was Hebrews 11:1: "Now faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." The choir at this service was composed mainly of junior members.

The regular league service on Thursday evening last was in charge of the missionary convener, Earl Fairman, with Violet Wright as leader. Mr. Fairman conducted the topic in the form of a missionary geography lesson which proved interesting. Mr. Daniel gave the devotional talk and an impromptu debate, "Resolved that educational work on the mission field has contributed more largely to the progress of Christian missions than medical work." The affirmative was upheld by Nellie Bennett and George Brenton while the negative debaters were Gladys McKenzie and Aylmer Petherick. Rev. Mr. Daniel as judge gave a decision of a tie, stating that he believed this was just about the relation of these two factors in mission work. Each is dependent on the other.

The attendance at the meeting was about sixty with the Blues at the top and the Reds, Khaki, and White in order named. When the figures for the contest were announced this standing was reversed. The complete figures up to and including the last meeting are: Whites 299, Khaki 276, Reds 242, and Blues 219. The race from now on promises to be a close one.

The young people of this district are starting to practice the play entitled "Dust of the Earth." This will be given at the annual pie social held each spring by the Ladies' Aid, which it is hoped will take place late in March.

STIRLING CHARGE CALLS MINISTER

Rev. L. G. Evans Asked to Become Minister of Two Churches.

STIRLING NEWS

STIRLING, Feb. 18.—At a meeting of the two congregations, St. Andrew's, Stirling, and St. Andrew's, West Huntingdon, held in the Presbyterian Church, Stirling, last Monday afternoon, it was decided to extend a call to Rev. L. G. Evans, of Podney, Elgin County. Mr. Evans had charge of the Sunday services in these churches recently. Rev. Mr. Mackenzie, of Burnbrae, the interim moderator, had charge of the meeting.

A very successful thimble tea, under the auspices of the Ladies' Union of St. Paul's United Church, was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. G. Bailey, Front street east. Thirty ladies were present. A short programme was given, consisting of instrumental music by Miss Clara Martin, readings by Mrs. Nora Wescott and a solo by Mrs. J. G. Butler. A very dainty lunch was served, their funds being augmented by the sum of $10.00.

The lady members of the Bowling Club entertained the whole club at a progressive 500 card party in the agricultural rooms, on Tuesday night. The room was profusely decorated with flowers. The winners of the evening were: Ladies, Mrs. Mills, Mrs. Alger and Miss J. Wescott; consolation, Mrs. W. R. Coulter. Gentlemen, Messrs. James Lagrow, Earl Eggleton and W. J. Whitty; consolation, J. G. Butler. There was an attendance of over 40 members. The proceeds amounted to $20.50. A dainty lunch was served, which closed a very enjoyable evening.

The "Entre Nous" Club, consisting of a number of young ladies of the village, entertained a number of their friends to a dance in the Town Hall on Tuesday evening. Lunch was served and an enjoyable time spent.

The degree team of Stirling Lodge, No. 239, I.O.O.F., visited Madoc I.O.O.F. Lodge on Wednesday night and conferred degrees.

Mr. David Cotton, of Harold, who quite extensively engaged in the production of maple syrup, has ordered 700 covers for his buckets, which will insure a better article being produced, if possible, by the exclusion of snow and rain water from the sap.

After a great many years of faithful service as Treasurer of the village, Mr. T. G. Clute, on account of failing health, was forced to send in his resignation.

Last Friday morning a fire was discovered in Mr. J. Thompson's bakery. The cause of the fire was due to some wood having been left in the oven over night. The fire was soon extinguished and very little loss incurred.

Mrs. B. Hatfield, of Campbellford, visited her sister, Mrs. Geo. Bailey, last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Williams attended the funeral of an aged uncle of Mr. Williams at Lansdowne last Saturday.

Mr. Arthur Pyear, of Glen Ross, was taken to Havelock hospital last Sunday. He came through an operation on Monday, and was doing nicely at last report.

Mr. L. Meiklejohn was a week-end visitor in Toronto.

Mr. J. Thompson is confined to his home by illness.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Thompson, of the 2nd Concession of Rawdon, are moving into their new residence on Church street west.

At the Quarterly Board meeting of St. Paul's United Church held on Tuesday night, Rev. Mr. Barrett signified his willingness to remain as pastor for another year.

HOW SHE GAINED 10 POUNDS IN 23 DAYS

Skinny Men Can Do the Same

That's going some—but skinny men, women and children just can't help putting on good, healthy flesh when they take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

As rich in vitamines as the nasty fishy-tasting cod liver liquid itself, but these sugar-coated tablets are as easy to take as candy, and won't upset the stomach.

One woman gained ten pounds in twenty-two days. 60 tablets, 60 cents. Ask McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Drug Co., or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets and if you don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your money back.

Demand McCoy's, the original.

VALENTINE SOCIAL AT NORHAM

NORHAM, Feb. 18.—A very successful Valentine social was given in Dartford United church on Monday evening under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society. Although the weather was inclement the attendance was good. The proceeds amounted to nearly $25.00.

Rev. Wesley W. Jones, of Warkworth, had charge of the program and opened the proceedings with a few remarks of encouragement and welcome, after which the following numbers were rendered in good form:

A chorus, "Every Day" by the church choir, Miss Mabel Honey presiding at the organ.

A reading, "The Meaning of St. Valentine," Mrs. Norman Latta.

A reading, Mrs. William Hopkins.

A solo by Miss Gertrude Davey, who played her own accompaniment on the guitar.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones rendered several request numbers on the organ during the evening.

A reading, Mrs. Davey.

A solo, Rev. W. W. Jones.

A reading, Mrs. Norman Hardy.

A duet, Clarence Lochart and Benson Runnels.

A reading, Mrs. William Hopkins.

A reading, Clifford Davey.

A selection by the choir closed the program.

During the evening the chairman opened up a Valentine Post Office from which many young people received contest valentines. The verse was first read and then the name of the donor.

Lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The Dartford Dramatic Club is to present the fourth and fifth acts of the "The Merchant of Venice" in the Town Hall, at Roseneath, under the auspices of the Canadian Girls in Training of the United church on February 25.

SHOPS FOR CLOTHES.

PARIS, Feb. 18.—An Eglishman, dressed only in silk pajamas, stirred up a sensation on the streets of Lyons recently. When arrested he explained that his clothes had been stolen from his sleeping compartment and he was shopping for a new suit.

SPLENDID CARNIVAL POORLY ATTENDED

Manager Runs Through Programme Although Only Twenty Attend.

OMEMEE, Feb. 18.—The first carnival of the season, and no doubt the last to be held in Omemee for some time, was staged on Tuesday evening. Enthusiasm ran low, only about twenty joining in the sports, and very few spectators turned out. However, the manager, Mr. P. Parsons, who had a good list of races billed, carried out the programme, and a good time was provided for the few.

Hockey fans turned out in full force to accompany the local team to Lindsay on Wednesday evening, where they battled for the Hughes Cup.

Rev. D. R. and Mrs. Clare and son, Earl, of Welcome, visited Mrs. Clare's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Scott, last week.

Mr. T. C. Ivory was in Peterborough Wednesday on business.

CHURCH REPORTS ARE ENCOURAGING

Warkworth Presbyterian Church Has Balance—Norham News.

NORHAM, Feb. 18.—The reports received at the annual meeting of the congregation of Warkworth Presbyterian church were very encouraging. The session reported that sixteen new members had been received into communion. A total of $3,801.80 had been raised from all sources. There was a balance on hand of $372. The offerings for Christian Missions, including the work of the Woman's Missionary Society amounted to $709.37.

Rev. Samuel C. Moore, B.A., B.D., pastor of Colborne United church, who has been in poor health for nearly a year, left recently for Arizona. While on his way he was given a surprise by a number of the officials of King Street United Church, Oshawa, a former charge, who met the train at the station and presented Mr. Moore with $200 in gold.

The many farmers in this district who have large fields of fall wheat and rye and who were anxious about the crops wintering well because of the disappearance of the snow, which had been succeeded by ice and water have had their fears allayed by the recent fall of snow.

HIAWATHA NEWS

HIAWATHA, Feb. 18.—Master Speros Yeotes, of Peterborough, spent the week-end with friends in this village.

Mr. Whitfield Northey and Mr. Harvey D. Hackaberry, of Ottawa, are in the township of Hamilton this week.

A number of parents and friends attended the "at home" given by the Junior Red Cross Society of the Public School on Friday afternoon.

Miss Flossie Howard was home from Peterborough on Sunday and assisted in the choir at the evening service.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Andrew Rennie, of Keene, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Northey on Sunday.

Motoring is still possible in spite of the light fall of snow on Monday and Tuesday. The snow helped the sleighing a great deal.

AID TO BUSINESS

KINGSTON, Feb. 18.—The news that the Canadian Locomotive Company of this city had received an order from the Canadian National Railways for twenty locomotives was received with great rejoicing by the citizens of Kingston. This contract means that 600 men will be taken on the staff, and it will mean much in stimulating business here.

MOUNT PLEASANT

MOUNT PLEASANT, Feb. 18.—Mr. John J. Sadler of Toronto visited with friends here recently.

Mr. John Murphy was a visitor in Franklin last week.

Rev. E. W. Rowland of Omemee spent Wednesday visiting his sister, Mrs. J. Eggleston.

Mr. and Mrs. Herb Parker and Miss Helen of Orange Corners spent Sunday the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Morden in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Melville Handley, Master Leonard and Miss Perla were guests of the former's aunt, Mrs. A. Henry of East Emily, on Sunday.

Rev. J. A. Totten took dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Shield on Sunday.

Mrs. W. E. Finley and daughter, Zella, of Cadillac, Sask., have returned to visit with her mother, Mrs. A. Henry in East Emily after spending the past week with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Lowe.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster Eggleston of Ida were Sunday visitors at the home of the former's brother, Mr. and Mrs. J. Eggleston.

Mrs. R. Brown of Millbrook spent Wednesday with her sister, Mrs. George Jamieson in town.

Mr. Albert Finley of East Emily visited with his sister, Mrs. J. Handley on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Bigelow called on friends in the village the first of the week.

Mrs. Robert Ruth and son, Gordon, spent Tuesday with friends in Peterboro.

HOW SHE GAINED 10 POUNDS IN 23 DAYS

Skinny Men Can Do the Same

That's going some—but skinny men, women and children just can't help putting on good, healthy flesh when they take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

As rich in vitamines as the nasty fishy-tasting cod liver liquid itself, but these sugar-coated tablets are as easy to take as candy, and won't upset the stomach.

One woman gained ten pounds in twenty-two days. 60 tablets, 60 cents. Ask McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store, McDermid Drug Co., or any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets and if you don't gain at least 5 pounds in 30 days your money back.

VALENTINE SOCIAL AT NORHAM

NORHAM, Feb. 18.—A very successful Valentine social was given in Dartford United church on Monday evening under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society. Although the weather was inclement the attendance was good. The proceeds amounted to nearly $25.00.

Rev. Wesley W. Jones, of Warkworth, had charge of the program and opened the proceedings with a few remarks of encouragement and welcome, after which the following numbers were rendered in good form:

A chorus, "Every Day" by the church choir, Miss Mabel Honey presiding at the organ.

A reading, "The Meaning of St. Valentine," Mrs. Norman Latta.

A reading, Mrs. William Hopkins.

A solo by Miss Gertrude Davey, who played her own accompaniment on the guitar.

Mrs. (Rev.) W. W. Jones rendered several request numbers on the organ during the evening.

A reading, Mrs. Davey.

A solo, Rev. W. W. Jones.

A reading, Mrs. Norman Hardy.

A duet, Clarence Lochart and Benson Runnels.

A reading, Mrs. William Hopkins.

A reading, Clifford Davey.

A selection by the choir closed the program.

During the evening the chairman opened up a Valentine Post Office from which many young people received contest valentines. The verse was first read and then the name of the donor.

Lunch was served and a social hour spent.

The Dartford Dramatic Club is to present the fourth and fifth acts of the "The Merchant of Venice" in the Town Hall, at Roseneath, under the auspices of the Canadian Girls in Training of the United church on February 25.

SHOPS FOR CLOTHES.

PARIS, Feb. 18.—An Eglishman, dressed only in silk pajamas, stirred up a sensation on the streets of Lyons recently. When arrested he explained that his clothes had been stolen from his sleeping compartment and he was shopping for a new suit.

SPLENDID CARNIVAL POORLY ATTENDED

Manager Runs Through Programme Although Only Twenty Attend.

OMEMEE, Feb. 18.—The first carnival of the season, and no doubt the last to be held in Omemee for some time, was staged on Tuesday evening. Enthusiasm ran low, only about twenty joining in the sports, and very few spectators turned out. However, the manager, Mr. P. Parsons, who had a good list of races billed, carried out the programme, and a good time was provided for the few.

Hockey fans turned out in full force to accompany the local team to Lindsay on Wednesday evening, where they battled for the Hughes Cup.

Rev. D. R. and Mrs. Clare and son, Earl, of Welcome, visited Mrs. Clare's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Scott, last week.

Mr. T. C. Ivory was in Peterborough Wednesday on business.

CHURCH REPORTS ARE ENCOURAGING

Warkworth Presbyterian Church Has Balance—Norham News.

NORHAM, Feb. 18.—The reports received at the annual meeting of the congregation of Warkworth Presbyterian church were very encouraging. The session reported that sixteen new members had been received into communion. A total of $3,801.80 had been raised from all sources. There was a balance on hand of $372. The offerings for Christian Missions, including the work of the Woman's Missionary Society amounted to $709.37.

Rev. Samuel C. Moore, B.A., B.D., pastor of Colborne United church, who has been in poor health for nearly a year, left recently for Arizona. While on his way he was given a surprise by a number of the officials of King Street United Church, Oshawa, a former charge, who met the train at the station and presented Mr. Moore with $200 in gold.

The many farmers in this district who have large fields of fall wheat and rye and who were anxious about the crops wintering well because of the disappearance of the snow, which had been succeeded by ice and water have had their fears allayed by the recent fall of snow.

HIAWATHA NEWS

HIAWATHA, Feb. 18.—Master Speros Yeotes, of Peterborough, spent the week-end with friends in this village.

Mr. Whitfield Northey and Mr. Harvey D. Hackaberry, of Ottawa, are in the township of Hamilton this week.

A number of parents and friends attended the "at home" given by the Junior Red Cross Society of the Public School on Friday afternoon.

Miss Flossie Howard was home from Peterborough on Sunday and assisted in the choir at the evening service.

Mr. and Mrs. S. Andrew Rennie, of Keene, visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Northey on Sunday.

Motoring is still possible in spite of the light fall of snow on Monday and Tuesday. The snow helped the sleighing a great deal.

New slate blackboards were purchased recently by the school trustees and were put in place by Mr. Gainor, of Keene, assisted by Ralph Loukes.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story.

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE HARD SHOES

When Curly and Floppy Twistytail, the little pig boys, were on their way through the woods one morning, going to do an errand for their mother, they met Uncle Wiggily, blowing out a merry whistle beneath his pink, twinkling nose.

"Hello, piggie boys!" called the rabbit gentleman. "Where are you going?"

"We are going to the store to get some hard shoes," answered Floppy.

"Hard shoes! Hard shoes!" exclaimed the bunny in surprise. "I guess you mean hard cheese, don't you."

"Ha! Ha!" Curly chuckled.

"What are you laughing at," asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Squinky, our little pig sister, couldn't wear hard cheese!" answered the piggie boy. "It is hard shoes mother told us to get. Come on, Floppy!" he grunted to his brother. "We must hurry along and get the hard shoes for Squinky. Good-bye, UncleWiggily!"

And, as the piggie boys hurried along the woodland path, Mr. Longears shook his head in a puzzled way and said to himself;

"Hard shoes! Hard shoes! I'm sure there must be some mistake. I feel quite certain Mrs. Twistytail sent her little boys to the store for some hard cheese, and they think she said hard shoes. They'll bring back shoes for their little sister, when it is really cheese to make a strawberry longcake for Mr. Twistytail that is wanted. Oh, dear!"

Since the little piggie boys were so sure of themselves, Uncle Wiggily thought it would do little good to try to tell them differently. So he watched them trundle off through the forest. But all the while he was saying:

"Hard shoes! Of course horses are shod with hard shoes of iron, but it cannot be those which Mrs. Twistytail meant. And, sometimes oxen are shod with iron shoes. But who ever heard of Squinky, a little pig girl, wearing hard iron shoes. Dear me! It's like a cross-word puzzle!"

Wondering and wondering more and more, Mr. Longears kept on his way, thinking it was almost time for an adventure to happen, when, all of a sudden it did. I mean an adventure happened.

The Woozie Wolf, leaping out from behind a tree, caught the rabbit gentleman in his paws and snarled:

"Now I have you! I've been waiting here a long time to catch you and now I have! Ah ha! Ah ha! Ah ha!"

"Yes, you have me, it seems," said Uncle Wiggily in a sad sort of voice, not to say discouraged. "And, now that you have shown how smart you are, catching rabbit gentlemen, I suppose you will let me go!"

"Let you go! Not a bit of it!" whiffed the Wolf angrily. "I caught you to carry back to my den for my little wolves, and here we go!"

With that he caught hold of Uncle Wiggily by the bunny's two, long ears, and, slinging the rabbit over his back like a bag of meal, the Wolf started off. But as Uncle Wiggily was heavy, the bad chap must use both his front paws to keep hold of the ears. The Wolf walked on his hind paws.

"Please let me go!" begged the bunny.

"No! No!" snarled the Wolf. But just then Curly and Floppy Twistytail, the pigs burst through the bushes, each one with something in his paws, and the piggies grunted:

"Yes you shall let Uncle Wiggily go!" And, with that they began hammering the bad chap on his soft and tender nose, and, to save himself the Wolf had to let go of Uncle Wiggily's ears and hold his front paws over his face. Oh, how hahowled! And how the piggies pounded.

Once he was free from the Wolf's paws, away ran the bunny and the piggie boys ran with him. And, when they were far away, and safe, the bunny asked Curley and Floppy:

"What did you hit the Wolf with."

"Squinky's hard shoes!" grunted Floppy. Then he and Curly held up two new shoes, with hard leather soles and hard leather heels which they had used on the bad chap. "You see, up until today, Squinky wore soft, little cloth shoes," explained Curly. "But since she got big she needed hard leather shoes, so we went to the store for them.

"It was lucky for me you did," laughed the bunny. So his ears were not nibbled. And, if one of the legs of the kitchen table will go walking with the rubber boot, I'll tell you again about Uncle Wiggily.

SHORT STORY

OUT OF THE DEPTHS
By Duford Jenne.

Boss Mervin paused a moment before he went up the rickety stairs that led to the room where dumb "Soupy" Sam would rent him a bed for the night for the sum of ten cents. He had debated long whether he would spend that dime or not, but there was a flurry of snow in the air; and even though he had reached the point where he cared little anyway, sleeping out with cold winds rising would be a bit too much.

He caught sight of a slight, girlish figure staggering along the street toward him. She stopped suddenly with groping hands. The light from the "Chink" laundry fell on her face, and the horror on it sent him with swift steps toward her.

"Something wrong?" he asked gently.

Her small, thin face wore the look of a child frightened beyond speech.

"I guess—I'm blind! My eyes—" were the whispered words he caught.

Her wide eyes did seem sightless to him. He took her arm quickly under his. "Perhaps it is just for the moment. I'll be glad to take you home if you tell me where to go."

"I have a room on East Street—number 30. If you will help me please," she said in a strange little voice.

She was a slight thing, and pretty under other circumstances, Ross thought. He learned in that brief but eventful walk that she had been studying art in the city, but success had not come her way. The Christmas rush in the stores had given her an opportunity to earn money. The lights had bothered her after the strain her eyes had been under in her studying and that night on her way home darkness deeper than the night had come over them.

He suggested getting in touch with the police, but she begged him not to. "I have my rent paid until Sunday night, and if I rest tomorrow my eyes may be all right. After that—after that——"

He put his hand encouragingly over her small one. "Don't worry about that. I am going to keep an eye on you myself. Here you are."

A rigid faced landlady came to the door. In a moment Ross glimpsed the situation. The woman heard the explanation with a scowl; and he decided to wait until she had seen the helpless girl to her room. Then he said quietly:

"Look after her well, and I will see that you are paid."

"She has her room paid until Sunday night. After that the city will take care of her—unless she has the cash Sunday night. You look like a bum to me, but if you get the money, all right," the woman said shortly.

Ross smiled. "You have my number; but I'll have the money. Be good to her. She's a mere kid and up against it."

"So am I," she replied sharply. "Goodby."

The next morning early he was at an agency. He stepped to the desk just in time to hear a man say, "That's no job for me!" and go on.

"I'll take it," Ross agreed.

The clerk smiled. "This job is driving a truck for the construction company at Millburg. The truck carries explosives for their dynamiting."

For two days Ross drove the truck. Saturday night he received his two days' pay and hurried to 30 East Street, paid the grim landlady rent for another week, and talked for one long happy hour with the girl he had vowed to aid. Her eyes had improved a little, and under his quiet determination she agreed to rest during the coming week.

"I—I don't see why you are so good to me," she said hesitatingly at parting.

"Well, I just plain like you," he answered gently. "I have the advantage; I can see you!"

Her hand sought his. "But—your voice out of the darkness—I know! O, I know!"

The next week, the fates seemed to take a hand in remoulding his life, and one event followed another speedily. He looked up from his engine to see his father's fur-coated figure and hear him say:

"Lad, one of my engineer friends here spotted you and told me. It's almost Christmas. I feel that I have been unjust to you—but won't you come home?"

Ross's mind lingered on the word "Christmas," and he said simply, "I will—if I can bring someone with me. No, not my wife, but a girl I hope to make my wife."

So it came about that one eventful evening Ross bent over a pale, flower-like face and looked into dark eyes to which a great city physician had brought the blessing of sight; and she said:

"Dear, what a dream it seems! This beautiful home—I you with me! And just a few weeks ago, you and I down——"

"In the depths, sweetheart. I began to climb out the moment I saw you that night."

"And you took me with you—" the chime of far-away bells broke into her words with distant music—"what are those bells?" she asked wonderingly.

He touched her lips with his. "Christmas bells, little girl, ringing out the old for us!—forever!"

Personal Comment
By Mrs. E. Johnson

Bell Grove, N. B.—"I became very weak and could not do my work. My nerves were very bad—in fact, I did not care if I lived or not. I also suffered with indigestion. I was getting pretty badly discouraged when a friend advised me to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and I am very glad to say it helped me right from the start. Now I am feeling like a new person. I will always recommend Dr. Pierce's medicine after this. I give permission to publish this letter, trusting it may be the means of helping some other sufferer back to health."—(Signed) Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson.

ASCENT OF MOUNT EVEREST NARRATED

Graphic Story of Hazardous Expedition Shown on Montreal Screen.

MONTREAL, Feb. 18 — Lovers of sport and adventure whose feet are restrained from wandering by the system of modern civilization, accompanied the Mount Everest expedition on its hazardous journey with the gleaming summit of Mount Everest as its goal when Captain John B. Noell, the official photographer of the expedition, lectured under the auspices of the National Council of Education at the Windsor Hotel. Moving pictures of the strange peoples encountered on the way and their almost unbelievable customs gave realism to the recital, while recurrent views of the summit of the mountain served as a constant reminder of the attainment of the band of men who carried on the last assault on Everest, which was to end so tragically with the deaths of Mallory and Irvine.

Members of the expedition were introduced to the audience at the outset, along with the native porters, and the hardy mules which were able to carry a weight of 150 pounds on their backs and bore a considerable proportion of the burden of the expedition. Inhabitants of Thibet came in for a deal of recognition, and the speaker drew a graphic picture of the topsy-turvy land in which they lived, where, when a woman marries a man by that act alone she marries all his brothers. The position of man as the head of the household suffers a serious jolt in this far country where Capt. Noel stated the women are more intelligent than the men and manage all the family affairs. The national greeting came in for considerable attention, when the speaker explained that the form of salutation in Thibet is sticking out the tongue. Capt. Noel advised his listeners to "try it at somebody you meet."

One boy in every family has to go to a monastery in this country, the speaker asserted, and presented the problem which arises concerning which of the two orders the young man shall select. The Red Lamas are not allowed to marry, and the Yellow Lamas are denied alcoholic liquid, so the question boils down to the fact whether he will marry or drink.

Thrilling Climax

The progress of the adventurers up the mountain after the last human habitation had been left behind was abounding in thrills. The ascent was made by mountain bivouacs 2,000 feet apart, which formed a step-ladder of camps.

Exceptional views showed a fairy land of ice, a belt of fantastic beauty two miles wide which caused the party four days' exploration to find a way through. All the glories and hardships which accompanied the latter part of the journey until Mallory and Irvine were last seen by Norton at a point 28,400 feet on the mountain, with the attainment of the goal 29,000 feet above sea level, were portrayed to the audience in the last words of the recital, reaching a point of dramatic intensity when the incidents relating to the search for the missing men by Odell and the signs of the cross made with blankets to the waiting comrades which proved its futility, were narrated. Slowly the party was seen retracing its footsteps down the mountain pathway, and a brief picture of the grave of the two adventurers who met death and their photographs were shown to the audience. Then the story closed with a view of Mount Everest glowing in the sunlight, still offering its invitation for the sportsman and the adventurer.

Without the thrilling account of the expedition, the lecture last evening could rest alone for merit on its illustrations as a photographic achievement by Capt. Noel. Brig.-Gen. E. de B. Panet introduced the speaker.

A KENTUCKY BELLE.

Under the auspices of the XL Mission Circle of S. James' United Church, a very interesting three-act comedy, entitled "A Kentucky Belle," was presented to a fair-sized audience which assembled in the Wesley Hall last evening. This play will be repeated to-night It was entertaining from beginning to end and the parts were exceptionally well taken by the young people of the cast, under the able direction of Mr. Earl Eakins and Miss Dorothy Foster. Rev. Mr. Richardson introduced the play and the Sunday School orchestra played the opening number, under direction of Mr. Clifford Rusaw, with Miss Mary Wood, A.T.C.M., at the piano.

Between acts, an instrumental solo was given by Mrs. Percy Dallin, A.T.C.M.; a vocal solo by Mrs. Elmer Frost; an instrumental duett by Ashton Fife and Jack Cuffe, and a selection by the orchestra. This evening, the programme during intermissions will include vocal solos by Miss Alma Blanchard, readings by Miss Helen Staples and violin numbers by Mr. Clifford Rusaw.

The cast is as follows: Miss Marie Douglas (a part taken by Miss Connie Wagar); Isabel Douglas, niece of Miss Douglas (Miss Nina Andrus); Marie van Hollinger (Greta Welbourn), Colonel McMillan (Percy Vannest), Dr. Blake (Herschel Welbourn), Miss Madden, a nurse (Dorothy Collins), John Cason Gordon, alias Jack Cason (Harold Freeman), Mrs. Gordon (May Ritchie), Miss Gordon (Hazel Davidson), three telephone line men (Clifford Rusaw, Sherman Rowe and Leonard Foster), Cindy, the maid (Edna Dingman), Henry (Arthur Vannest), Girls of the village (Aileen Rose, Hazel Davidson and Nellie Payne).

"A Kentucky Belle" will be repeated to-night, and should receive a good patronage.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

COOKING MUTTON

Before cooking mutton, remove the skin that comes next to the fat as this is what gives the strong, disagreeable flavor to the meat.

LOWLY PRUNE

A little lemon juice and a bit of the lemon rind—not too much—improves the flavor of stewed prunes.

SAVE SUGAR

Dried fruits such as apricots, peaches and apples will need very little sugar if you soak them long enough.

SERVING FRUIT

If fruit is served at the table, always provide fruit knives and finger bowls.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

The wisdom of Faith's move in regard to her mother was made manifest less than five minutes later by the arrival of a police officer with a summons for the appearance of all members of the Lane family, except Joy, before the coroner's jury. With Mrs. Lane in the hospital, committed there by her physician for acute heart trouble, there could be no question of her appearing before that body.

Junior had already smuggled Joy's packed suitcase out of the house and had driven away in his "store on wheels" to take Joy to her grandparents' home.

At twenty minutes after nine, Faith, hampered in everything she tried to do by the constant ringing of the telephone, left the receiver off the hook. She did not replace it until a quarter to ten, when she and Bob and her father were ready to leave in Bob's car for the inquest.

She was wearing the shabby old brown coat over the black satin dress she had worn to the church the day before, but she had freshened the frock with crisp, lace-trimmed white organdie collar and cuffs. She realized that neatness and attractiveness, without ostentation, would have a good effect upon those who had Cherry's fate in their hands. If only the coroner's jury would return a verdict of "death at the hand or hands of person or persons unknown!"

It seemed to Faith, when Bob maneuvered for a parking place near the Cluny house, that thousands of curious people were packed in the street, for the entire block on which the house was located. Mounted cops tried to keep the throngs in order. Newsboys, shrieking, "Cherry Gives Up!" ran in and out of the crowd, selling "extras" of the afternoon papers.

The word went through the packed masses of humanity that the sister and father of the runaway bride were arriving, and police made way for them.

When they reached the steps, two men detached themselves from the group awaiting their arrival and came forward with outstretched hands. One was Chief of Police Morehouse, and the other was George Pruitt.

"Hello, Hathaway. Good morning, Miss Faith," the chief's smile was kindness itself.

"Hello, Faith," George Pruitt gripped her hand so tightly that she winced even as she smiled. "I guess you and Cherry both know you can count on the Pruitts."

He spoke with his usual loud heartiness, and the cluster of reporters on the porch lost not a syllable nor an atom of his meaning. The Lincoln Pruitts! And Bob Hathaway! "The runaway flapper bride of Myrtle Street" was not without her influential friends.

"Is my—my sister here, Mr. Morehouse?" Faith asked in a low voice.

"Just got here a couple of minutes ago. She and Wiley are in the library now. The inquest will be held in the drawing room."

"Oh, could I see her, please?" Faith begged. "Just for a minute!"

"Don't see any harm in that," the chief passed his hand over his shock of fine gray hair. "Won't mind an officer or two in the room, will you?"

"Just let me see her!" Faith cried.

"Cherry!" Faith cried.

"Oh, Faith, Faith, darling! I didn't do it, Faith!" A little figure came flying across the room, flung itself into Faith's outstretched arms.

"Hello, Faith." Chris Wiley lifted his tall, thin body from a deep leather chair and strolled toward the sisters nonchalantly. "Sorry our elopement has gotten us into all this mess. We didn't dream there was any trouble until we read the papers this morning. Won't you shake hands?"

Faith tightened her arms about her weeping little sister and shook her head slightly. "I'd—I'd rather not, Chris."

"Pardon me; Faith," Bob Hathaway appeared in the doorway of the library. "The coroner is ready to proceed. He has given both of us permission to hear the case."

"Don't let them think horrible things about me, Faith," Cherry begged, clinging frantically to her sister.

The two officers stood at their elbow as they separated, Cherry to be led into seclusion in one corner of the library, Chris Wiley in another.

In the drawing room were scores of people, among them Alexander Cluny and his wife and son, young Ralph Cluny, an assistant district attorney. Near the great bay windows, rich with heavy silk draperies, and only a few feet from the long table at which Coroner Murchison and his jury of six were seated, was a bier on which rested the sheeted remains of Ralph Cluny. That bier was the first thing that met Faith's eyes as she entered the room on Bob Hathaway's arm, and she shuddered as she turned her head sharply away.

A full half hour was taken up with preliminaries, including a report of the first officer of the law who had entered the death chamber after Bob Hathaway had reported his discovery of the murder to police headquarters Dr. Enos Paxton, chief medical officer of the county, called in by Dr. Murchison, the coroner, testified briefly. He also indicated a large Chinese vase, broken at the lip, as the instrument of death.

"It is then, your opinion," the coroner summed up, "that death occurred between half past eight and a quarter to nine on the evening of November 25?"

"It is." Dr. Paxton nodded.

"That," declared the coroner, himself under oath, "corroborates my own findings, as the first medical man to examine the body. Officer Sims, have the maid, Mary Kearney, brought in."

There was a stir of interest, a muted flurry of whispering throughout the ranks of spectators, who included Chief of Police Morehouse and Charles Bauning, district attorney. Everyone present knew that Mary Kearney would be the star witness for the state, when the case would be brought to trial. And it would be largely upon her testimony that the findings of the coroner's jury would be based.

After she had been sworn, Coroner Murchison began his questioning.

"What is your name?"

"Mary Anastasia Kearney, sir."

"Your age?"

Mary Kearney blushed and bridled. "Thirty-three—I mean, thirty-six," she remembered her oath and corrected herself hastily, but with an involuntary glance at the doorway in which two policemen lounged.

"Your birthplace?"

"Dublin, Ireland, but I've been naturalized. I have my second papers," Mary Kearney answered belligerently.

"Now, Mary, what is your occupation?"

"I have been parlor maid in Mr. Ralph Cluny's house for three years, sir. Before that—"

"All right, Mary. Now tell us, in your own words, just what happened, within your own knowledge, in this house, from eight o'clock on, on yesterday, Thanksgiving Day."

Premier Asks Consideration Lady Laurier Gave Husband

TORONTO, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—When Premier King was in the city he gave reminiscences of Lady Laurier, saying that on her diamond jubilee she had shown him a ring set with sixty diamonds which Sir Wilfrid had given her. He had once asked her how she came to marry her husband. Premier King had heard that several suitors were in hot pursuit, and that Sir Wilfrid's friends had urged him to win her quickly. Then Mr. King explained that in her youth, Sir Wilfrid was particularly delicate, and Lady Laurier had said: "When he asked me to marry him I said 'Yes,' because he looked as if he needed me!"

Then, amid great laughter, from his feminine audience the Premier concluded his reminiscenes, by declaring he hoped someone would take pity on him in this fashion.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 19, 1927.

Friendly stars dominate today, according to astrology. It is a day held favorable to many of the finer things in life.

The morning is an auspicious time for business connected with finance and banking. Loans may be obtained under this kindly sway, if there is ever any chance to obtain money.

There is a sign read as presaging the rise of a new author who will bring back to popularity real romance of the old-fashioned sort.

Publicity is to be more in demand than hitherto, and newspapers are to benefit from much need of advertising.

Publishers of books are to benefit all through this year, which will turn much attention to serious works and magazines.

Thrift again will be much preached and more practiced than it has been in the past. New and alluring forms of saving are foreseen.

While this rule prevails there may be a tendency toward analysis and criticism. It is well to look gor the best in persons and institutions.

There is a sign of great promise to engineers and builders. Science is to rule trades and even certain professions, it is foretold.

American men of technical training are to be in demand in the Orient, where unusual events will take place, it is forecast.

The rule today is fairly favorable to the stock markets, but there will be sudden fluctuations in the next few days, it is prophesied.

Foreign countries are to offer Americans new forms of speculation and to lure many men of ability, the seers declare.

New fortunes are to be made this year in novel ways, if the stars are wisely interpreted.

Persons whose birthdate it is have a year that promises events of much importance. It is wise to cultivate poise and ability to head new enterprises.

Children born on this day should have extraordinary ability as engineers or architects. Both boys and girls are likely to be talented.

Miss Constance Davies, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Davies of Toronto, whose engagement to Mr. Rudolph Muspratt of London, England, was announced in England. Mr. Muspratt is the only son of the British chemical and industrial magnate, Sir Max Muspratt.—Photo by Ashley and Crippen.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

This coolie coat may be used as a negligee or a wrap. It is of soft yellow brocade with a stencil design in bright colors.

There are new coolie coats shown for the spring that may be worn either for afternoon or evening wraps or for negligees. Really they are the most versatile of garments. Just what these coats have to do with a coolie it is hard to see, save that they are built on the same straight, rather shapeless lines of the rough garments worn by these Eastern laborers.

One occasionally sees a splendid mandarin coat—that may have been once worn by a real mandarin—worn as an evening wrap by some well-dressed American woman, and these mandarin coats are also worn as negligees. Shawls, too, that might be carried for light evening wraps are chosen as negligee wraps by some women.

There are all sorts of interesting tricksy little wraps in the shops that may be worn as light evening wraps in the spring and summer or may be worn now to provide needed warmth to a negligee indoor costume. There are little oblongs of exquisite, lightweight brocade with fringe around the lower edge. These are provided with tie strings at the top and may be tied thereby around the shoulders. The sides are held with the two hands and are drawn forward where the wearer holds them close to her hips at the front. These little wraps are designed to give a little extra warmth at the back of the low-cut evening frock or may be used as part of a negligee costume.

Never before surely did women possess such attractive and expensive wraps for negligee wear. When Eugenie was empress of France—though reputed to be the best-dressed woman in Europe—she possessed no negligee wraps whatever, unless one might call the muslin gown she wore when her hair was being dressed a wrap. It was a matter of pride with her that once she was awake in the morning she immediately went through the protracted and elaborate process of being properly dressed. Once, when her beloved son was suffering from measles or some other childhood malady and she wanted to watch by his bedside at night, she indulged in a negligee, and that was a hideous flannel dressing gown. But times have changed and were Eugenie the best-dressed woman in Paris now she would spend a pretty penny on her negligees.

FAREWELL PARTY FOR SMITH PEOPLE

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ackison Receives Chairs From Friends.

A very enjoyable evening was spent on Wednesday, February 16, when the many friends of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ackison of Smith gathered to say farewell and to present them with two handsome sitting-room chairs. The following address was read by Miss Florence Little:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Ackison,—The wheel of time rolls on and once again we realize that it carries with it the bond of union established with these people, which has been the growth of a lifetime lived in our midst. We, your friends, will feel keenly the vacancy left by this broken chain of friendship which your departure from here will necessarily mean.

A good neighbor is a good citizen, and a good citizen is a nation's greatest asset. You have been all of this to us. No call for a helping hand has been met with a refusal. No opportunity to serve those about you has been treated slightingly or ignored.

Your loyal support given with such goodwill and whole-heartedness will serve as an example to those whom you leave behind.

You have shared with us the joys and sorrows of the past, and we in turn deem it a privilege to be able to rejoice with you in your joys, and to sympathize with you in your sorrows.

We trust and pray that the future will bring success and prosperity to you and your family. May every blessing of health and happiness attend you as you journey onward. May our loss be your opportunity and our sadness your enjoyment.

Your many friends desire you to accept these gifts, not for their value, size, or comfort, but for what they represent of those who remain here.

Our friendship, we seal as a lasting memory to eternize what the past has been between you and us.

"Though distance may divide, and acres stand between,
Regard and love go on for aye, an ever-flowing stream.
Though billows rise and sink, and winds blow hard and free,
The place you've earned will never change in this great family."

Signed on behalf,
Bert Tully,
J. A. Middleton,
Cornelius Millen.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Ackison made fitting replies. The remainder of the evening was spent in cards and dancing.

Some fashionable modiste shops are said to resort to a neat trick to satisfy the yearning for slimness on the part of their women customers. Their mirrors are made slightly convex, hardly enough to be noticed, but sufficient to give the necessary touch of slimness and weight-reduction to the average matronly figure. And so when the customer tries on a gown that suits her girlish aspirations and sees herself in this mirror that tells white lies—she unsuspectingly realizes that she is as slim as Diana—and the gown is as good as sold.

DO you tell your friends that you cannot relish refreshments? If so, we advise that you allow us to tempt you with some of our superior ice cream.

FIRE PREVENTION EXPLAINED BY CHIEF GIMBLETT

Local Council of Women Hears of Hazards About Homes.

INSTRUCTIVE TALK.

Ladies Discuss Holding of Theatre Night—Other Business.

The regular monthly meeting of the Local Council of Women was held in the green room of the Y.W.C.A. yesterday afternoon, the newly-elected president, Mrs. C. H. Edwards, in the chair. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by Mrs. Joseph Wearing, and Mrs. A. Mowat read the correspondence, also giving an abstract of the agenda of the executive meeting of the National Council of Women, to be held in Ottawa next month.

A letter from the Kiwanis Club, asking the support of the Local Council for the illustrated lecture, "The Epic of Everest," to be given in St. Paul's Church next Friday evening, was read, and the Council promised to encourage patronage of the event.

Fire Chief George Gimblett spoke to the ladies on Fire Prevention work, centering his remarks about activities in the home, and the fire hazard caused by carelessness and indifference in minor matters connected with housekeeping. About 85 per cent of fire losses were caused by conflagrations in homes and dwelling houses, he said. Last year, in Ontario, there were 7,524 dwelling house fires, causing a loss of $2,430,499. In 1925, these fires totalled 6,744, with a loss of $2,610,696, and in 1924, there were 6,341 such fires. In the province, these fires caused a loss of 63 lives and 94 people were injured because of them.

Contributory causes were cited in such things as placing heated ashes in wooden boxes and the Fire Chief was very eloquent on the subject of the use of gasoline for cleaning purposes around the home, and the consequent danger from fire resulting from this practice. A quart of gasoline, he said, has 83½ times the explosive power of a stick of dynamite, and yet women will use it, who would not think of handling the other explosive substance. The use of gasoline for cleaning hardwood floors was stamped as a very dangerous practice, the Chief explaining that the stationary fumes which resulted, often caused fires months later, a spark from a nail in a shoe striking on a hardwood floor being enough to cause a conflagration.

Defects in electric irons and electric sockets should be repaired at once: "otherwise, you may reach with wet fingers to turn off a light some day, and the result may be 'napoo'."

Neatness in Storage

Goods, when stored away in an attic or cellar, should be piled up neatly, rather than scattered about, as a fire attacking such a pile only burns along the edges, rather than spreading out as it will do in the latter instance. Dust and cobwebs were cited as collectors of gases which would ignite easily in case of fire.

Chimneys were the cause of many disturbing fires, and should be kept well cleaned out of soot. Soft wood was a great contributing factor to the clogging of chimneys.

Other danger spots were the local vent pipes leading from bathroom ceilings to chimneys, a defect in the latter often causing these to become channels along which the fire runs into the bathroom and the house. The keeping of rags soaked in oil for cleaning purposes, either for furniture or for stoves, was deplored. These, if kept, should be placed where a current of air would render them less dangerous, as spontaneous combustion often occurs which such oil-soaked rags are rolled up tightly and placed in a confined space. Cedar mops and such cleaning apparatus, in which oil is used, should be kept in air-tight metal containers.

Spontaneous Combustion

The danger of spontaneous combustion from a smoky fire in a confined space suddenly meeting a draft of air was also alluded to, the Chief citing cases in which barns would be filled with wet hay, which gradually became warmer in temperature, a sudden opening of the door often causing an immediate burst of flame and consequent disastrous blaze.

Proper ventilation was the remedy for such conditions.

The dangers of lighting a bonfire of leaves on a street and then leaving it to burn itself out, and the hazards caused by allowing children to play with matches, were also referred to.

A vote of thanks to Chief Cimblett was moved by Mrs. W. R. Morris.

Mrs. Edwards spoke of the efforts made by Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, as representative of the Council, to secure a theatre night for the society. Mr. Fletcher, manager of the Capitol Theatre, had been interviewed, and was unable, owing to bookings for his pictures being in the hands of the main offices in Toronto, to make any promises with regard to pictures. Mr. Fletcher recommended the rental of the theatre, and the putting on of a concert by the ladies. It was decided to interview the managers of the Regent Theatre, with regard to having a theatre night under the auspices of the Council.

Mrs. W. R. Morris asked for patronage of the lecture by Dr. Paddon, a co-worker of Dr. Grenfell in the Labrador, who speaks here on the 28th, this lecture being designed, not for financial benefit, but to revive interest in the work of the Labrador, and also spoke of the forthcoming visit to the city of (Miss) Dr. A. E. Marty, of Toronto, who will speak here shortly, under the auspices of the Home and School Council.

Talk on Doukhobors

Miss Leta Brownscombe, convenor of the Imigration committee of the Local Council, read some interesting facts with regard to the Doukhobors, expatriated Russians who, owing to difficulties with the authorities in their own land, sought absolute freedom in Canada, and, with their leader, Peter Veregin, came to Western Canada, seven thousand strong, some years ago. They had various altercations with the Dominion Government, owing to disinclination to register their land and in school attendance of the children, also refusing to take the oath of allegiance. A minor sect arose within their ranks whose ideas inclined to removal of all clothing and to a desire to refrain from shaving and cutting of their hair. Many of them removed to British Columbia, where they have built up a substantial and prosperous colony, living in community houses and tilling the land in ancient fashion. They have developed into a thrifty, industrious and highly moral people, kind and hospitable, and have in later years shown more desire to conform to the laws of the land in which they live. They now number 14,000 in Canada, 6,000 of whom are independent of the Communes in which the majority live. They have no set form of religious service or ministry.

Several of the questions which will come up for consideration on the agenda of the executive meeting of the National Council in Ottawa next month were discussed, among them a recommendation from the National Council, on which the Local Councils were asked to vote, asking the Provincial Government to give a bonus of $25 to expectant mothers who have availed themselves, whenever possible, of pre-natal care. This is now done in the Province of Saskatchewan. The local Council voted in favor of this resolution, on condition that the word "needy" be inserted before "mothers" in the wording.

NINE WOMEN NOW LEGISLATE IN N.J.

TRENTON, N.J., Feb. 18—When the 151st session of the New Jersey legislature convened in Trenton, nine women were on the assembly roll call. Six of the assemblywomen are Republicans and three Democrats. Six are veterans, having served one or more terms in the assembly. Five are married.

APPLE DISEASE.

KANSAS CITY, Feb. 18.—If red cedar trees stand too near apple trees certain varieties of apples will be affected by a disease known in Kansas orchards as cedar-apple rust. Winesaps, Delicious and Grimes apples are immune, but Jonathan, Rome and Wealthy apples catch it. The only control for the disease lies in destruction of the cedar trees.

STORM SWEEPS HUNTERS ACROSS SEA TO ALASKA

Six Siberians of Party of Eight Adrift For Two Weeks.

BADLY FROZEN.

Companions Lost While Foraging on Island—Sought Food For Village.

SEVOONGA, Alaska, Feb. 18.—(Via Radio).—Swept in an open skin canoe for three hundred miles across Bering sea from Siberia to this island under the lash of an Arctic storm, six survivors of a party of eight walrus hunters today were recounting an almost unparalleled story of hardship, peril, suffering and tragic disaster.

Their arms and legs frozen, their eyes distended and swollen, and their scanty clothing in tatters, the six men finally reached the Eskimo village of Gambell on the northern part of the island, from where the story of their ill-fated battle with the elements has reached Sevoonga by radio.

Driven by approaching starvation to seek food, the eight men left a little village on the Siberian coast on February 2 to hunt walrus.

Two of the party went foraging for food on St. Lawrence island and failed to return. They have not been seen since.

PAPER GREETS NEW MINISTER

Washington Star Hopes Massey's Stay Will Be Profitable and Pleasant.

LEGATION OPENS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18. — (United News.)—The Washington Star publishes the following editorial in welcoming Mr. Massey as Ambassador from Canada to the United States: "The Canadian Government has paid a distinct compliment to the United States by its choice of Minister Massey. Few diplomats came to Washington so well equipped with knowledge of the problems and understands of viewpoints of the American government and its people. Mr. Massey's stay in Washington should be as profitable to both nations as it is hoped it will be pleasant for him personally."

The Legation will start real activities to-day. Until the arrival of other members of Mr. Massey's staff, political questions will still be dealt with at the British Embassy.

BIG MATCH BOX WILL COST LESS

Tax Reduction Will Mean One Cent Cut in Price.

TAX NOW FOUR CENTS.

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—The household or large box of matches will chiefly be affected by the reduction in the excise tax on matches announced by Finance Minister Robb yesterday in the budget speech. It will mean a reduction of one cent in the retail price of the large box, according to a large match-producing factory here.

The present excise duty on the large-sized box of matches is four cents, so that a 25 per cent. tariff reduction just announced, will make the excise tax three cents on this box after July 1.

It is most unlikely that the retail price of the small box of matches will in any way be affected by the reduction.

SHOT AT MOTHER; ADJUDGED INSANE

John Schwartz, of Mildmay, Tried Twice To Kill Her.

MILDMAY, Ont., Feb. 18.—John Schwartz, a bachelor farmer, age 48, who was arrested on Tuesday on a charge of threatening to shoot his mother at their home on the Carrick-Culross boundary, was arraigned before Magistrate Walker and adjudged insane. It appears that Schwartz attempted to shoot his aged mother, who succeeded in getting the gun from him and hiding it. He then tried to strike her with a chair, but after a severe struggle she finally escaped and was able to call for assistance.

COPIES ARREST ORDER.

KENNEWICK, Wash., Feb. 18.—Theodore Smith, a telegraph operator here, was sitting at his key when a message came in from Norfolk, Neb. It was from the sheriff, ordering Smith's arrest on an embezzlement charge. The operator copied the message and delivered it and himself to local authorities.

33 FATALITIES FROM TORNADO

Louisiana and Mississippi Swept By Severe Storms.

SCORES INJURED.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press). Tornadoes that swept through parts of Louisiana and Mississippi last night killed at least thirty-three persons and injured scores, as well as leaving a trail of heavy damage.

The heaviest toll of dead was taken at plantations south of Newellton, in Tensas Parish, Louisiana, where fourteen persons were reported killed and at least two score injured, with prospects of the total fatalities being increased as other neighboring plantations were heard from. Eleven persons lost their lives and eighteen were badly hurt near Pleasant Hill, Sabine Parish, Louisiana, and eight were killed and several others injured near Rose Hill, Miss.

WOMAN REEVE IS UNSEATED

First Council Headed By Woman Ousted By Judge.

MAY RUN AGAIN.

COCHRANE, Ont., Feb. 18. — Judge Caron has declared Canada's first woman reeve unseated, and with her go the entire Council. All will be eligible to run again.

Mrs. Josephine Thomas, elected reeve of Tisdale, in the Porcupine district, in December, and her council, all were protested, the reeve on the ground that she was not a resident, within the meaning of the Municipal Act of the township, and the others because of certain alleged irregularities in the method of conducting the elections.

Judge Caron has ruled that the election is invalid, and has ordered another election, but the reeve and her colleagues may aspire to office, if such is their desire.

C.G.I.T. GROUP HOLDS VALENTINE BANQUET

George Street Church Young People Have Enjoyable Evening.

The Intermediate C.G.I.T. Group of George street United Church held a very pleasant Valentine banquet in the church parlor on Tuesday evening, under the leadership of Miss Helen Spenceley, assisted by the Misses Robson and Howland. Mothers of the members were guests at the function.

The tables were tastefully decorated with red and gold letters forming "C.G.I.T." and yellow candles were used in red and gold holders. Rose tulips and daffodils formed the floral decorations, with streamers of red hearts from the corners of the room.

Toasts were proposed as follows: "To the King," by Beryl Fowler, to "Our Mothers" by Elva Tretheway, responded to by Mrs. Burnham, and to "C.G.I.T. Girls" by Mrs. S. Purdy and responded to by Lenore Routley.

A pleasing programme was given later in the Sunday school room, Mrs. J. E. Todd acting as chairman, and announcing the following numbers: Chorus by the C.G.I.T. Group, readings by Florence Weese, Grace Jackson and Irene Cox, vocal solos by Miss Addie Batten, outline of business session by the Group, piano solos by Lenore Routley, Vera White, Alma and Irene Mark and Miriam Purdy and a talk by Miss T. Paxman.

WOOD LEG NO HANDICAP.

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Feb. 18.—When a cow on the farm of Miss Anna Penrose broke its leg, her owner put the leg in splints. But the cow just wouldn't be careful of the frail limb, and the leg was broken again. So Miss Penrose herself amputated the leg and devised an ingenious artificial one to replace it. That was six years ago. The cow now is in perfect health, has had three calves and is one of the best milkers in the herd.

HIRES TRIAL AUDIENCE.

BERLIN, Germany, Feb. 18. — Walter Schoening, real estate broker, had to stand trial for fraud in the administration of estates. Walter didn't want any of his friends or business competitors to hear the details of the trial. So he hired, at $1 a head, a sufficient number of unemployed to wait in line and fill the court room in hope of excluding all others. His plans were discovered and the court stationed guards to allow the entrance of everyone.

"DOGGY" SPECTATOR.

LEICESTER, Eng., Feb. 18. — There is a dog here who regularly visits a motion picture show. He goes to the front of the theatre, selects a vacant seat and watches the performance until the close. At times he registers excitement, but never barks nor makes any trouble for proprietor or visitors. When the show is over, he jumps down and trots quietly out, to return the next day whether there is a change of program or not.

Chicago Wheat Has Setback After Strength at Opening

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press)—Wheat underwent a setback to-day after firmness at the start. Initial strength was ascribed to likelihood of crop damage from the cold weather but with cables unresponsible and with the fate of the McNary-Haugen bill yet to be settled, the demand lacked volume. Opening unchanged to 3-8 cent higher, wheat declined about one cent. Corn and oats also receded, corn starting at 1-8 cents off to a shade advance and later declining all around. Provisions were strong.

Chicago opening — Wheat, May 140 7-8, July 134 5-8. Corn, May 79 5-8, July 83 3-8. Oats, May 46, July 46 1-4.

Atlas Figures Prominently Quebec Issues Advance

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press.)— Trading on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day remained steady with little of outstanding interest developing. Atlas figured the most prominently in the transactions and sold up 5-8 to 4 1-2. Barry Hollinger was traded in extensively and was stronger at 68, a gain of 2 1-2. Duprat was active and firm at 20. Laval Quebec, like most of the Quebec issues, was firmer, advancing one point to 38. Victory Silver continued to be actively traded in and sold off 3-8 to 10 5-8. Vacuum Gas, which has been a bullish feature of the market for the past two days, weakened 3-4 under heavy selling pressure to 22 3-4.

The dividend paying gold stocks on the whole were firmer. Gain of twenty cents to 9.30 by Dome Mines was the strong feature.

C.P.R. Spectacular Rise Follows Rails Interest

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press.—The spectacular rise of 2 1-2 points to 189 by Canadian Pacific Railway on the Toronto stock exchange to-day after the close yesterday of 186 1-2, is the most bullish movement experienced on the local exchange in some time.

The C.P.R.'s annual report is due to appear within the next few weeks and it is estimated that it will show net earnings of over 15 p.c. on the common, compared with 12.5 p.c. in 1925 and 11 p.c. in 1924. The stock pays dividends of 10 p.c. per annum.

Interest in the railroad issues at New York, where C.P.R. is listed, has been at fever height in the past ten days. Besides this there is said to be an excellent outlook for earnings in the current year and these factors have also been attributed to the steady upward trend in this issue.

Bell Telephone Is Active With Irregular Movements

TORONTO, Feb. 18. — (Canadian Press.)— Keen interest displayed in Seagram, which was the leader in activity, featured a quiet session on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day. This stock opened at the high of 23 3-4. It weakened slightly to 23 3-8, but rallied at the close to 23 3-4, a gain of 1-2. Massey Harris occasioned considerable interest and closed unchanged at 89. Bell Telephone was active feature. Its movements were very irregular. Opening at 158 1-2 its price movements varied greatly, selling as low as 146, to sell up upward at the close to 153, a gain of 8 points over the previous close. Page Hersey common and preferred were active stocks, common gaining one, while preferred was up 1 1-2.

International Nickel sold off 1-4 to 42 1-4, The oil stocks remained firm.

Further Advances Made By Railroad Shares

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—Speculation for the advance, which has been conducted at a rather brisk pace this week, particularly in the railroad shares, slowed down today as a result of rather heavy week-end realizing. Delaware and Hudson was in brisk demand in the late trading, crossing 184 to the highest price since 1910, while Wabash Common, another Loree issue, was pushed up to around $70 a share, a new peak for all time. Lehigh Valley also touched a new high. Heaviness cropped out in some of the motors, while South Porto Rican Sugar, International Harvester and Remington Typewriter yielded two or three points on the appearance of selling pressure. Among the new highs in the industrial group were American Telephone, Union Carbide, General Railway Signal, Loews, Burroughs Adding Machine and Westinghouse Airbrake.

MASSEY RECEIVED.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—Hon. Vincent Massey, Canada's envoy to United States, presented his credentials to President Coolidge when he was received at the White House today. After a brief address in which Mr. Massey expressed the desire to establish the friendliest relations with the United States Government, Mr. Coolidge greeted the Canadian Minister and promised the co-operation of his administration in the new diplomatic relations between two countries.

STEPHENS QUITS SAAR COMMISSION

Montreal Man, President Since March, Gives No Reason.

GENEVA, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press).—George Stephens of Montreal has resigned the Presidency of the Saar Valley Governing Commission, to which post he was appointed last March. No reason was given for the resignation, which is regarded as bringing the delicate Franco-German question before the March session of the League of Nations Council.

of Marmora; Miss Katie Keene, daughter, of Marmora, and James, the son, now working in Northern Ontario.

Neighbor Not Alarmed

John Bell, who took over Keene's house and small property a couple of years ago, told The Examiner today he had gone twice to the shack during the two months, but could see nothing and the door was bolted. When last seen, the victim he said, had been working for a farmer. Prior to that, Keene was engaged in County road work.

Bell absolutely denied that Keene had been linked with the liquor traffice, so far as he knows.

"He was quite a peaceable man," he declared, "and entirely harmless."

Mrs. Keene, he told The Examiner, had never in his knowledge visited her husband, nor had the daughter. It had been some years since the son was home, he said.

The Bell-Keene place occupies Lot No. 9, Concession of Marmora Township about a mile out of the village, which is some miles from Madoc.

Charles Gardiner told The Examiner the last time he had seen his unncle was about November the 16th or 18th, when he drove him home. During the course of that trip, the aged man told him, "I haven't an enemy in the world. He is of the opinion that the old man was shot the same night. That night he took three parcels home with him containing bread and butter. Upon locating the bread it was discovered that a couple of slices had been cut from it and that some of the butter had been consumed, indicating that he had partaken of a lunch after returning home.

A post mortem will be held this afternoon.

Three special prizes will be awarded to the ticket agents selling the largest number of tickets during th campaign and any persons desirous of obtaining tickets for the selling contest, please Phone 141 or 1753M. The net proceds of this campaign will be used for relief purposes.

WINNIPEG, Feb. 18 (Canadian Press)—Liquor shipped from Manitoba to Fort Frances, Ontario, apparently evaded United States revenue officers, who were notified that an attempt was being made to ship it across the line, according to evidence before the Customs Commission to-day.

OBITUARY

BENJAMIN WHITE.

The death occurred yesterday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. T. E. Graystock, of Benjamin White, a well known citizen of Otonabee Township.

The late Mr. White was born in Dummer Township in the year 1845, and was nearing his 82nd birthday at the time of his death.

His wife, Mary A. Kingdon, whom he married in 1870, predeceased him 18 years ago.

He leaves to mourn his loss one son, George J. White, residing in the west ,and one daughter, Alberta M. with whom he made his home, in Otonabee; also two sisters, Mrs. Paym of Hall's Glen, and Mr. Watts, of Warsaw. Six grandchildren also survive.

The late Mr. White was a member of the George street church, and was a Conservative in politics.

The funeral will be held to-morrow (Saturday) from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Graystock; Lot 16, Concession 10, Otonabee, to the Little Lake cemetery ,for interment in the family plot.

MRS. DAVID THORNTON.

The death took place on Thursday, February 17th, 1927, after a lingering illness, of an old and highly respected citizen of Peterboro, in the person of Adeline Corneil, wife of the late David Thornton, who predeceased her nine years ago. Mrs. Thornton had reached her 72nd year.

In religion she was a Presbyterian and was a faithful member of St. Andrew's Churrh.

There are left to mourn her loss, two daughters, Mrs. John Henry and Miss Ada of this city, one son, Chas. M., of North Bay, Ont., also one sister, Mrs. Rachael Robinson, of Toronto, Ont.

The funeral will take place from her late residence, 894 Sherbrooke Street, to Emily Cemetery, on Sunday afternoon, February 20th. Service will be conducted at the house at 2 p.m.

MRS. THOMAS McAULEY.

The death occurred unexpectedly at half-past three o'clock yesterday afternoon, at St. Joseph's Hospital, of Ethel Mary Moran, beloved wife of Thomas J. McAuley, tobacconist, of this city.

The deceased, who was a native of Wooller, was only thirty years of age. She was married eight years ago, and leaves, besides her sorrowing husband, three small children to mourn her loss. She was a devoted wife and mother, and a woman of sterling Christian qualities of life and conduct. She was unassuming and modest in demeanor, but outstanding in the large-hearted characteristics which made her a wonderful neighbor and help in time of trouble. Her sunny disposition and cheerful manner brought her a host of friends during her short residence in the city, and many whom she has befriended in quiet ways will sincerely mourn her passing.

Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves three children, Marcelle, Patrick ("P. J.") and John Vincent, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Moran, of Wooller, five brothers and five sisters. She was the eldest child in a family of eleven.

The funeral will take place on Saturday morning, from her late residence at 324 King Street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, where the funeral Mass will be said at nine o'clock, thence to St. Peter's Cemetery for interment.

KATHERINE A. DENNISTOUN.

The funeral of the late Katherine A. Dennistoun, widow of the late James Frederick Dennistoun, Q. C., was held at noon to-day from the C. P. R. train to the Little Lake cemetery. Mrs. Dennistoun, a former resident of this city, passed away in Winnipeg last Monday.

A short service was conducted in the chapel by Archdeacon Davidson, and assisted by Dr. Biagrave at the grave.

Achdeacon Davidson in a short address, eulogized the deceased as a highly respected citizen of the then town of Peterborough, and one who took a great interest in everything that was for the good of the community.

Representatives were present from the City Council, the Bar Association and the Militia, along with many old friends of the deceased.

The pall bearers were six grandchildren and the great number of cars present in the funeral cortege showed the high respect the deceased was held in by those who knew her.

Mrs. Katherine A. Dennistoun was born in Peterboro in 1841. Her father was Stafford Kirkpatrick, afterwards Judge of Fromenac. Her mother was Henrietta Fisher, daughter of Judge Fisher, of Hay Bay and Adolphustown ,on the Bay of Quinte, a United Empire Loyalist. In 1864 she married James Frederick Dennistoun, who was also born in Peterboro, a son of Robert Dennistoun, one of the backwoods pioneers of 1837, and later County Judge of Peterboro.

Twelve children were born, nine of whom grew to maturity and married, forming a wide family circle, with some twenty grandchildren and now in the fourth generation, seven great grandchildren.

Her eldest and only surviving son, Robert Maxwell, married Mildred Beck, daughter of the Rev. Canon Beck, for over 30 years Rector of Peterboro. He practised law for over 20 years in Peterboro and for 20 years he has resided in Winnipeg, where he is a judge of the Manitoba Court of Appeal.

Henrietta married Dr. C. S. Hualtain of the R.N.W.M.P, She is now a widow residing in Port Hope.

Margaret married Dr. James Robert Jones, of Winnipeg, where she now resides as his widow.

Mary married Lieut.-General Sir George Kirkpatrick, who commands the British forces in Northwestern India.

Annie, married Wilmot G. Hualtain of Regina, where she died some years ago.

Helen married the Rev. Dr. Torrance of St. Paul's church. She is a widow now living in Toronto.

Jessie married James Andrew Macdonald, secretary of the Confederation Life Association. She is now a widow living in Toronto.

Louise married Alexander Bain of Winnipeg, manager of the North British Canadian Loan Company. She now resides there and it was at her home that Mrs. Dennistoun died.

Georgina married Archibald M. Russell of Hugh Russell and Sons, Toronto and Montreal. She is now living in Toronto.

In 1886 James Frederick Dennistoun died leaving his widow in charge of their nine children, the eldest of whom was 22 years of age. She was herself but 45 at the time.

She immediately took control, planned and carried out the education which was suited to each, and made provision for the nine weddings which took place in the following twenty years. All were treated alike. She had no favorites and was absolutely impartial. Her undeviating sense of justice made her respected and admired as much as she was loved.

Until she removed to Winnipeg in 1907. her house in Peterboro, "Castleknock," was well known throughout Canada for its simple wholesome hosptiality to a large circle of the younger people, friends of her children who were always welcome to share the happy life which belongs to a numerous and healthy family.

She was a woman of great personality and character. Over her wide family circle she ruled as a patriarch of old, the acknowledged head of the clan. When the family became separated she expected, and received, a weekly letter from the senior members, which she never failed to acknowledge. No birthday, down to that of even the youngest great-grandchild, was ever forgotten. No family or domestic crisis was ever faced without her wise and shrewd counsel and when she gave an adverse decision it was accepted as final.

She died on the 14th Feb., 1927, at Winnipeg. The funeral service in All Saints' Church was largely attended. She was Hon. President of the Woman's Auxiliary of the church, and gave so long as she could, her devoted services to its welfare.

In her last years, almost blind, and unable to work owing to a fall in 1925 she maintained her interest in everything which pertained to her family and religious life. The day before her death she brought her correspondence up to date, though she always felt very much hampered by an amanuensis, finished her knitting, had the full church service for Mattins read to her, and composed her mind for rest and sleep, during the course of which she passed away.

Everywhere she had friends. No one who got to know her at all well ever forgot her—nor did she ever forget them. Her mind remained undimmed to the last, and she was busy with her memory work, revising and adding to her store of religious poetry to the very end.

She had planned for new and useful work on Feb. 15th but when that day came the burden of the years had proved too great. She would have entered her 87th year on the 13th of March next.

NINGPO CAPTURED.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 18 United Press—Ning Po, a treaty port in the province of Chekiang, and about 200 miles from Shanghai, was reported to have been captured to-day by Cantonese Nationalist troops.

Ningpo lies at the eastern extremity of the railway connecting Hangchow and Shanghai. From Ningpo to Hangchow the railway runs westward for about 100 miles parallel with an inlet of the sea,turning north north at Hangchow toward Shanghai.

Cantonese troops could not advance to Shanghai from Ningpo without having captured Hangchow.

KIWANIS SPIRIT

depicting joy, hilarity and even foolishment, as the negro once put it, making a man's soul run free with that of his fellow-man. He pictured a valley with a sparkling stream of water running through it, and mountains in the background, telling of the eternal realities of divine love.

The one essential thing in his picture, he said, was the river as it represented the very embodiment of the spirit of Kiwanis. "You have discovered a stream that has action and purpose, that is of help to you and your fellow-man."

Kiwanis and similar movements have not stolen enterprise from the church as some people thought, but it had found an expression among men that had its own place outside the regular channels of the Church. "Your work has been crowned with success since you fill a long felt want among men to do something good and worth while. It has given something that makes life brighter, broader and has given it a new enterprise, a new value and a new purpose," he declared.

The thanks of the members was conveyed to the speaker by J. A. McNabb and J. E. Smith.

To-day's visitors were the Rev. William McDonald, R. J. Devey and T. J. Coo.

Three Bonspiel Trophies Won By Out Of Town Rinks

JACK DELANEY'S RIGHT HAND IS BIGGEST ASSET

Has Fastest Right Hand and Mind in Sparring Business.

CRAFTIEST MAN

(Joe Williams.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. — Jack Delaney has the fastest right hand—and the fastest fighting mind—in the beak-busting business to-day.

Into his routine of fighing are woven all the turbulent trickeries, savage subtleties and animal artifices that made Kid McCoy what he was back in the olden days—the craftiest man in the craft.

You are asked to make a mental note of this in pondering the consequences of the Canadian's first important start as a contender for the heavyweight championship — this against Mr. James Moloney of Boston here on February 18th.

Delaney figures to have two chances of winning from Mr. James Maloney. Arrayed in the order of their seriousness they are as follows: One is to outsmart him. The other is to outsock him. Or, as an alternative, both.

Delaney's general procedure is to make a swift analysis of the man in front of him, detect a weakness in his armor, and then make the most of it.

That's how he knocked out Paul Berlesbach, Tiger Flowers and more lately, Bud Gorman, the latter a heavyweight of full blown dimensions and at least average ability.

Admittedly it required no parlor magic to conceal the Teutonic carcass of Berlenbach; he was wide open for a right hand and got it.

With Flowers it was different, and I think the story of how Delaney manoeuvred into position to knock out the negro middleweight is one of the classics of ring strategy.

Flowers, a southpaw, respecting the power of Delaney's right hand, fought with his gloved fist held high against his jaw. Flowers is a body puncher. The section of Delaney's body that seemed to offer the best target for Flowers was the left side in the kidney region.

Flowers began taking stiff shots at this target. The blows did Delaney no good physically. But in another way they won the fight for him. Delaney noted every time Flowers landed a stiff wallop with his right, the left, moved by the impact of the blow, would bounce back, exposing the jaw by about six inches.

At the end of the first round of his first fight with Flowers Delaney, sat in silence in his corner, while Pete Reilly, his manager, put him on the toaster.

"Say move around more out there. Don't let that guy, hit you so much with his right hand. That'll weaken you."

Delany answered: "Don't worry. The next time he hits me there I'll knock him out."

MARMORA LOSES GAME IN TWEED

League Leaders Shut Out and Entirely Swamped By Homesters.

FINAL COUNT 8-0.

MARMORA, Feb. 18.—Marmora, in playing their last scheduled game at Tweed last night, were decisively beaten by the score of 8-0. With the exception of the initial period, the green and whites were never in the picture, Tweed's fine combination standing out conspicuously against the individual work of their opponents.

The game, played on ice that was in fair shape, was watched by one of the best crowds of the season. Tweed scored within six minutes of the start, Bert Houston beating Neal with a good shot. Brown, in goal for Tweed, kept out a series of long shots with fine saving. Marmora's goal had two narrow escapes in this period, Houston slipping when close in with the puck on the first occasion. Max Geraldi increased the lead for Tweed on the start of the second period, scoring on an intercepted pass by one of the visitors. Brown was tested but proved sound. Bert Houston burst through as the period was closing to add a third.

Tweed got a harvest of goals in the last period, Houston and Max Geraldi registering twice and Ray Quinn also finding the net. Brown was given a few hard shots to deal with and proved unbeatable. For the losers, W. Shannon, Auger and McWilliams were aggressive in turn, while Tweed as a whole gave one of the finest exhibitions that the local crowd has been privileged to witness. The game was a little rough at times and minor penalties were meted out to both teams.

With the game resulting thus, Marmora, Tweed and Stirling are practically tied, since each team has lost four games in the season. Interest centres now in the next two games at Madoc, where Tweed and Stirling will be visitors. On present form, Tweed should enter the play-off and are favorites for the championship.

The line-ups:

Marmora—Goal, C. Neal; defence W. Shannon and M. Auger; centre, G. McWilliams; wings, C. Brady and C. Wood; subs, A. Shannon and R. Neal; goal umpire, J. Clairmont.

Tweed—Goal, C. Brown; defence, J. Minore and R. Quinn; centre, B. Houston; wings, F. Geraldi and G. Geraldi; subs., M. Geraldi and B. Hansford; goal umpire, W. Fisher.

Referee—W. Jackson of Peterboro.

Eddie Collins Picks Whitehill and Pennock

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—"The most effective southpaws in the American League as I see them," says Eddie Collins, "are Herbie Pennocks of the Yankees and Earl Whitehill of Detroit.

"There may be other lefthanders with more stuff, but Pennock and Whitehill are by far the most troublesome for me."

"I rank Pennock as one of the greatest portsiders in the history of the game. Whitehill has the chance of becoming just as famous."

BONSPIEL ENDS WITH TRIUMPHS FOR VISITORS

Morrow Cup Final Not Played, Due To Soft Ice—Orillia Vs. Millbrook.

WILL MEET LATER.

Matthews-Blackwell Trophy Goes To Oshawa—Close Fight With Keene.

The biggest and most successful bonspiel in the history of the Peterboro Curling Club, was brought to a close last night. Three of the four trophies will go out of the city — the Peterboro trophy to D. H. Skitch of Dunsford, the Matthews-Blackwell to C. H. Peacock of Oshawa, and the Morrow trophy to either R. H. Edmunds of Millbrook, or Dr. Harvie of Orillia. The final game of the Morrow Cup was not played, as the ice had become very heavy and it was not considered fair to either rink to play last night, so they went home, and this game will be played later.

Alex. Ray, J. H. Sedgwick and J. H. Connal Peterboro rinks which reached the semi-finals, were all eliminated in that round.

Dr. Harvie and J. H. Connal played in both series up until the end of the fourth round, when they lost in the Matthews-Blackwell series.

The Matthews-Blackwell Trophy was won by Oshawa eliminating Keene 18 to 15 in a 16-end battle which was full of thrills.

Great credit is due the bonspiel committee for staging the finest 'spiel in Ontario this year. The weather was all against them but under the guiding hands of J. Mayneord and H. Renwick, the bonspiel was brought to a successful finish.

16 YANKS UNSIGNED RUTH LEADING LIST

Meusel, Dugan and Pennock Are Other Holdouts From Contracts.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Sixteen of the New York Yankee regulars have not signed their new contracts, Ed. Barrow, business manager of the club admitted in announcing that 26 signed contracts have been received.

Among the regulars who have not accepted the club's offer are Babe Ruth, Bob Heusel, Earl Combs, Ben Paschal, Joe Dugan, Mark Koenig, Tony Lazzeri, Midget Adams, Benny Bengough, Pat Collins, Urban Shocker, Herb Pennock, Dutch Ruether, Henry Johnson, Walter Beall and Wilcy Moore.

Bob Shawkey, Waite Hoyt, Lou Gehrig and Mike Gazella are among the few regulars who have accepted terms.

MILL DEFEATED AT CAMPBELLFORD

Menie Team Showed Early Season Form For 5-1 Victory.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 18. — Playing back to their early season form Menie defeated the Mill 5 to 1 in a Town League fixture at Covert's Arena Wednesday night. It was the best display the country boys have given so far this season. They outskated the Mill gang all through the piece, and their backchecking generally broke up the Mill attack before it reached the danger zone. Menie uncorked more than their usual amount of combination and it was very effective many times, carrying them in close on the Mill goal. The whole Menie team were at their best, and would have given any team in the league a mighty battle for victory.

Rannie came into his own and played the best hockey of his career; his attacks were always dangerous and his backchecking was a constant worry to the Mill forwards.

Rannie and Kew shared the honors of being the most effective players in the game. For the Mill, Stewart turned in a fine performance in the nets, and Reid and Brown were good defensively, but could not make any headway on the offensive. The flashy Brown lacked his usual speed, and his rushes were not nearly as dangerous as in former games. The forwards could never get going under the close checking of Menie.

The game was less than a minute old when Ayrhart registered the first goal for the Mill, following in fast for his own rebound and slipping the puck past Owens.

Play was very even in centre ice and half way through Hay equalized for Menie Kerr and Rannie went from end to end in a fine combination, but Rannie missed the open net when Stewart came out to intercept the pass, and missed.

Menie gradually assumed the upper hand, and Rannie went through alone for a nice goal, putting the country boys ahead 2 to 1 at the end of the period.

At the start of the second period Ayhart was through the Menie defence and shot wide of the net, and play continued up and down the ice both goalers making many clever saves. Half way through, Kerr grabbed the puck at the Mill Blue line, and evaded the defence to get right in close on Stewart.

The Mill pressed hard near the end of the period and Owens was working overtime. End of period score: Menie 3, Mill 1.

Menie had the getter of the final period; Rannie and Kerr both scoring on individual efforts.

It took the Elks ten minutes extra time to beat the Bear Cats 2 to 1 in the Midget game. Neither side attempted much combination, and the individual efforts were easily blocked by the opposing players.

Hendy gave a fine display of checking for the Elks and carries the puck well, but apparently lacks an effective shot.

Lambert and Grills were the Elk marksmen and D. Runions scored for the Bear Cats.

Line-ups

Menie.—Goal, Ted Owens; defence, Shillingaw and Kerr; centre, Rannie; wings, Lynn and Hay; subs Coulter and W. Owens.

Mill. — Goal, Stewart; defence, Reid and Brown; centre, Lambert; wings, Ayrhart and Wilks; sub., Reynolds.

Referee—P. Saunders.

Bear Cats.—Goal, Bush; defence, Free and Maybee; centre, D. Runions; wings, Henson and McPherson; sub., Peake.

Referee—P. Saunders.

Hockey Schedule

Next week's games:

Tuesday, Feb. 22.—Midget series, Tigers vs. Elks, at 7.30. Senior series, Clerks vs. Menie, at 8.30.

Thursday, Feb. 24.—Midget, Bear Cats vs. Tigers, at 7.30. Senior, Mill vs. Hydro, at 8.30.

Warkworth Juniors will in all probability play the Midgets here Tuesday night replacing the regular Midget game which will be played at a later date. The added attraction should be a tidy little argument between two evenly matched teams.

RINGSIDE PRICES UPWARD SLANT

$20 Ringside Seats Now Selling From $75 to $150.

HEAVY DEMAND

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. (Canadian Press). — Tex Rickard yesterday pitched his historic ring for a 10-round heavyweight battle between Jim Maloney and Jack Delaney tonight with frenzied fandom pounding vainly on the doors of Madison Square Garden for tickets that were not to be had.

Amid scenes unparalleled in the history of boxing, the promoter secluded himself in his private office as hundreds bombarded the place in a futile effort to obtain pasteboards. Under the record demand, word reached the State Athletic Commission that speculators' prices for $20 ringside seats had jumped from $75 to $125 and $150.

There remained a fighting chance for those who were willing to stand in line today for a general admission sale starting at 5 o'clock this afternoon, when 3,200 tickets at $3.30 and $5.50 will be disposed of.

There has been no public sale thus far and all the reserved seat tickets were disposed of more than a week ago. The official receipts will approximate $200,000—a record sum for a fight not involving a championship—but boxing men estimate that the public will pay at least $100,000 more than that to see two of the outstanding heavyweight challengers battle for consideration as finalist in Tex Rickard's elimination tournament.

As the two principals struck camp to return here last night—Maloney from Long Branch, N.J., and Delaney from Bridgeport, Conn., betting commissioners continued to quote the light heavyweight champion a 3 to 2 favorite. They will be weighed today and indications are that the scale will show a 25 pound advantage for Maloney. Delaney expects to scale slightly under his class limit of 175 pounds.

For the victor in to-night's battle a veritable golden road will be opened. Rickard has agreed to match the survivor with the winner of a forthcoming bout between Mike McTigue and Jack Sharkey. Next is promised a final testing bout against Jack Dempsey and the title climax with Tunney.

Out of close to $500,000 wagered on the outcome of the battle, betting commissioners say that a generous share has been placed at 1 to 3 and 1 to 4 that Delaney will win inside the limit. His knockout victories over McTigue and Bud Gorman have largely encouraged this expectation.

Delaney has carefully preserved his hands during the long training grind at Bridgeport. His attention has been directed largely to quick-timing and speedy footwork, and handlers of the 175 pound champion say he will play a waiting game tonight. In this battle plan his skilful boxing and ring generalship are expected to hold important roles.

Maloney has promised a rushing battle. He hopes with an aggressive onslaught to break up Delaney's defence and penetrate to the body with crushing blows at close quarters.

The main bout is scheduled for 10 o'clock.

PYLE ABANDONS EUROPEAN TOUR

Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen's Contract Demands Are Too High.

DELAYS NEXT MOVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Plans of C. C. Pyle for conducting Suzanne Lenglen on a tour of European tennis centers have been abandoned.

Disagreement over terms for Suzanne's services caused abandonment of the jaunt, William C. Pickens, Pyle's representative, announces.

Suzanne demands approximately the same terms that brought her here last fall as a professional. Pickens said Mlle. Lenglen received a flat guarantee of $50,000 and 50 per cent of the gate receipts. She received a total of $100,000 for the tour, including royalties for commercial use of her name.

Pyle himself declared he would resume tennis activities when an opportunity for profit is visualized. Other members of his professional cast, including Vincent Richards, Harvey Snodgrass and Mary K. Browne, had signed with him for the European invasion, he said, but he had declined to participate in "a bidding contest," he said.

Suzanne expects to close negotiations for a tour with European promoters, and probably will be accompanied by Paul Feret, French professional, and Howard C. Kinsey, of California, when she sails for home Saturday. The remainder of the troupe has no intention of following her abroad. Miss Browne is to enter business in Cleveland.

Pyle said he had no intention of seeking William T. Tilden's services in the professional field at present. He has decided to forego professional tennis "until the players realize they are not entitle to increases in pay."

DIENER GETS MATCH BRITISH CHAMP

German To Meet Phil Scott in Berlin Ring.

BERLIN, Feb. 18 (A.P.). — Franz Diener, who forfeited his title as German heavyweight champion by staying in the United States longer than the prescribed time, and who barely succeeded in scoring a point victory over the Dutch heavyweight, Piet Vanderveer, several night ago, will soon have another chance to show the home folks what he learned about fighting in America. He is signed to meet Phil Scott, heavyweight champion of England, in Berlin, March 4.

It probably will be April before Diener will be called upon to fight to regain his crown against a contender to be named by the boxing commission after an elimination tournament.

BAILEY LEADS SCORING WHEN HIS TEAM WINS

Local Star Nets Two and Gives Pass For Another Marker.

SCORE 4-1.

Montreal Beats Rangers and Ottawa Beats Detroit in N. H. L.

TORONTO, Feb. 18.—There are many reasons that can be advanced for the locals' 4 to 1 victory over the New York Americans at the Arena Gardens last night on the occasion of the Americans' last visit to Toronto this season. There were the change of ownership, new uniforms, new manager, a new player and a switch of "Happy" Day from the forward line to the defence. Any or all of them combined, may be the cause for the fine showing of the Maple Leafs, formerly St. Patrick's, but the chances are that it was the moving back of Day to the defence. It was as a defence player that Day made his reputation in amateur hockey with the Hamilton Tigers and Varsity, but he has always been used on the forward line with the professionals. Last night he was somewhat nervous, but as a result of his playing he is a certainty for a defensive position for the remainder of the season. He did not use his body in stopping opponents' attacks, and was sent off three times for tripping, the Americans' only goal coming while he was serving his first penalty. He staged many rushes during the game, and played without a relief all the way.

Day apparently set the pace for the other defence players on the local team, and in addition to playing the tightest defensive game that they have served up on local ice this season, they rushed well all night, and defence players had a hand in three of the four goals. Brydge passed to Patterson for the first counter, and before the second period was over Corbeau gave Bailey a pass, to put the locals in the lead. In the third period Bailey counted on a solo effort near the end of the game, and fifteen seconds later he passed across to Corbeau for the fourth goal. While the locals' defensive game was stronger, the forwards' back-checking keenly all through the piece, they did not depend upon a defensive style of play to hold their lead during the third period, and in the closing minutes gave Forbes plenty of work to do.

MONTREAL 4, NEW YORK 1.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Feb. 18.—The world champion Montreal Maroons, after an uphill fight of several weeks' duration, landed in third place at the international group of the National Hockey League here last night, when they defeated the New York Rangers, leaders of the American group, 4 to 1, while the Toronto Maple Leafs were downing the New York Americans by a similar score.

The Rangers, showing the effects of their road journey, played listlessly and their usual brilliant combination was lacking. The Marroons took advantage of every opportunity offered them, taking a two-goal lead in the first period when Stewart and Dutton scored. The second period was listless, and play continued so until midway through the final period, when Thompson put the Rangers in the running. Phillips and Stewart added two more to the Maroons' total before the game ended.

Referee Lou Marsh refused to allow a goal scored by Murdock in the second period. The goal umpire, who appeared to be conversing with a lady, did not see the puck enter the net and come out again, and the referee gave the Maroons the benefit of the doubt.

OTTAWA, 2; DETROIT, 1.

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 18.—Playing such hockey as is usually found only in instruction books, the Ottawa Senators continued their starring in the N.H.L. by beating the Detroit Cougars, 2 to 1 last night.

The Detroiters made a desperate rally in the final period and Foyston scored one goal but the tallies made by Kilread and Denneney in the first and second periods respectively, stood as the winning score.

The game was very clean, only five penalties being exacted and two of these might have been spared by a less strict referee than Dr. W. J. Laflamme.

Hooley Smith was a tower of strength in front line defence and a constant menace on offence. Kilrea's goal was by no means his only contribution to Ottawa's victory. Clancy shone as usual, but was closely guarded. George Boucher played a sweet and consistent defence game. Behind these men, Connell has not much to do, but did his part well when called on.

Detroit, already crippled in defence by the temporary loss of McLaughlin and Gordon at one time had five nominal forwards on the ice. The Cougars played better in defeat last night than two nights ago when they beat Toronto 5 to 1.

O.H.A. SECRETARY SECURES RINK

Arrangements Made For the Play-off Game Here Next Wednesday.

Mr. W. A. Hewitt, Secretary of the O.H.A., was in communication with the management of the Brock street Rink last evening, and made arrangements for the play-off game with the Grads. of Toronto here on Wednesday evening next. The O.H.A. has control of all play-off games.

There will likely be only two admission prices, namely, 75c for general admission, and $1.50 for reserved seats, plus tax.

English Driver Named To Pilot "Mystery Car"

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Major H. O. D. Hargraves, noted English racing driver, will pilot the English 'mystery car' which will attempt to set a record of 200 miles an hour at Daytona Beach, Fla., this spring, it was announced yesterday.

Major Hargraves, who will make the attempt under the auspices of the American Automobile Association, will sail from England March 2, with the machine.

PAYS WAY IN JAIL

LEAVENWORTH, Kas., Feb. 18.—Fred Irvine was convicted of violating the prohibition laws but was relieved of serving his sentence in the Jefferson county jail. He told the court he was not on speaking terms with A. J. Hamm, sheriff, and offered to pay his expenses if committed to the Atchison county jail. His request was granted.

NO MOTIVE FOUND FOR SHOOTING OF JEROME KEENE AT MARMORA; BELIEVED TO BE SECOND ATTEMPT

Aged Man Had Apparently No Enemies, While Goods Were Undisturbed.

MURDER EVIDENT.

No Shotgun Found in the Shack—Poison Attempt Recalled.

(By a Staff Reporter)

MARMORA, Feb. 19—With two gaping wounds in forehead and chin, the body of Jerome Keene lies frozen in the basement of Marmora Town Hall. When the body is thawed out Dr. H. Crawford and Dr. Thomson will hold a post mortem.

On a hillside just outside the village a small shack, tightly locked and boarded, holds a bed with a number of bloody blankets. This is where the body of the aged man was found on Thursday afternoon about 4 o'clock by his nephew, Charles Gordanier.

On Monday afternoon a jury presided over by Dr. W. S. Harper of Hastings, will inquire into the crime, which it is thought occurred at least two months ago, and which Inspector G. E. Lougheed characterized as murder.

The crime occurred in a little shack about twelve feet square and it would seem that the shot was fired from the door. Alongside the bed the wall is spattered with blood and marked with pellets from the shotgun charge. The dishes on the table were not disturbed, nor were provisions in a cupboard. Ten dollars was found in his clothes. A stove and two chairs completed the furnishings of the house. The weapon used was not in the house.

Inspector Lougheed is assisted by Provincial Constables R. C. Clarke of Belleville and Percy McCoy of Madoc and Provincial officer W. T. Nugent of Madoc.

Whiskey Poisoned?

What is considered now to have been a previous attempt on Mr. Keene's life is recalled by Marmora citizens who paid little attention to it before. A short time before he was last seen he reported that he had found a bottle of liquor on his table and had taken about a spoonful of it. Even that small quantity was enough to knock him out for an hour or more and he brought in the bottle to his nephew with the suggestion that it be analyzed. This was not done at the time but the liquor will now be tested to see whether or not it was poisoned.

Relatives' Story

Charles Gordanier, who made the discovery when he went with his brother George to find out where his uncle was, said that the last time he saw his uncle was about the 17th or 18th of either November or December. He fixed it as being in one of those months just after his pay day. On that occasion he had driven his uncle out to his house and the older man had remarked, "I haven't an enemy in the world." The parcels of bread and butter which his uncle had at that time were found in the cupboard with signs that he had had a lunch and gone to bed, never to wake up.

The body was lying on its back, with one hand on the chest, as if asleep. The head was slightly turned, apparently by the force of the shots. The door was locked, the key having been turned in the ordinary house lock apparently from outside.

Gordanier went back and returned with his brother James, a county constable, who sent for the Coroner and Provincial Constable P. McCoy of Madoc.

MAYOR MAY CANCEL LUNCHEON TO YOUNG

Swimming Champion Refuses To Attend If Bill Hastings Is There.

TORONTO, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—"We have already accepted Mayor Foster's invitation to the civic luncheon to-day, and it would not be etiquette to back out now," said Townsend Paull, manager for Bill Hastings, when asked to-day what Hastings would do in view of the fact that George Young and his management had given notice that they would not attend the welcoming civic luncheon to-day if Hastings and party were present. The Mayor and civic officials are considering the cancellation of the luncheon.

A deputy city clerk in New York performed 85,001 marriages in the last five and one-half years.

Young Refuses To Try To Make Peace With Pal

TORONTO, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—Ceremonies attendant upon the reception here today to George Young, Toronto swimming marathoner, were held up for half an hour while Mayor Foster urged upon Young and his managers that they should attend the civic luncheon with Young's former pal, Bill Hastings, also of Toronto, and see if something could not be done to "bury the hatchet." The Young party remained adamant, however.

NO AMENDMENT TO THE BUDGET SEEMS LIKELY

Inaction on the Tariff May Satisfy All the Factions.

BENNETT'S PLAN.

New Scheme, But It Is Regarded as Worth Exploiting.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19. — Although both the Conservatives and the U.F.A. members will have caucuses on the budget and decide whether or not an amendment will be presented, any such move is considered improbable. Gossip in the lobbies yesterday did not indicate the likelihood of any particular trouble being stirred up, nor is the debate likely to be long.

The decision to do nothing in regard to the tariff makes possible criticism from two opposition angles—from those who want the tariff raised and those who would cut it down. As nothing is done at all, it is thought they may call it an even break and be satisfied with a maintenance of the status quo.

Bennett Proposal

There is a good deal of discussion of Hon. Mr. Bennet's proposal for meeting maturing debt by a consolidated fund in which banks and insurance companies would have to invest surplus funds. The scheme is an entirely new one, but coming from a financier of Mr. Bennett's class it is regarded worth exploiting.

RESCUE PARTIES SEARCH FOR DEAD

Seven Members of Family Found Buried in One Grave.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—The States of Louisiana and Mississippi to-day were nearing an authentic approximation of the damage done by the tornado which struck sections of both states on Thursday night.

While the death count stood at 32, rescue parties were still searching for other bodies. The body of one negro girl was found a quarter of a mile from the place she was when the tornado struck.

At Pleasant Hill, La., seven of the nine members of the Ashby family were buried in one grave.

BAND OF THIEVES SACK MAIL CAR

Italian Bandits Get Away With Several Million Lires in Daring Robbery.

MILAN, Feb. 19.— (United Press.)— Search through all Italy was under way to-day for a band of thieves who sacked a mail car on the Turin-to-Milan train, just outside of Brindisi, in one of the boldest train robberies of recent times and escaped with money and valuables estimated at several million lires.

Forcing their way into the mail car the thieves ripped open 27 sacks piled there, stripping them clean of their contents, chiefly money and valuables. The robbers worked quietly and skilfully but in their haste overlooked a sack containing $10,000 shipped to the Orient by a London bank.

No Marriage Proposal Received By Suzanne

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—Suzanne Lenglen, who will take back more than one million francs when she sails for France to-day, following a four months' professional tennis tour of Canada and the United States, says she did not receive a single marriage proposal during her stay here.

FOREST PLANES DO GOOD WORK SAYS MINSTER

'Falcon' Flew Eleven Hours With Men and Supplies To Fight Fire.

ONLY ONE CASE.

Mr. Findlayson Says Many More Occasions Could Be Given.

TORONTO, Feb. 19. — "Every year," said Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, in the Legislature yesterday, "we have the same number of fools starting fires in the bush. Now, we can't control the idiot who throws a burning cigarette away, but we can spot a fire when it is still small and prevent it from spreading to township-size proportions."

How is it done? Ask the "Falcon," for instances, says Mr. Finlayson.

Far From Beaten Path

On July 4, 1926, at 4 o'clock in the morning, forest patrol machine "Falcon," with Pilot Ruse, and Air Engineer Cheeseman, spotted a fire in valuable spruce timber in unsurveyed territory around Clearwater Lake, far out of the beaten path of the forest fine ranger. What happened?

Well, the "Falcon" flew direct to its base at Pine Ridge, 45 miles distant, for assistance. It flew the course 13 times that day, putting in more than 11 flying hours. To the scene of the fire it transported ten men, 1,950 pounds of food, innumerable blankets, 300 feet of hose, extra pumps, two canoes and other materials with which to prevent the spread of the conflagration.

Furthermore, Pilot Ruse also flew his "boat" to Lac Seul to bring in three extra fire-fighters. At 7 o'clock the same night the fire was out, with less than an acre of timber consumed.

"Planes Conquer Fires"

"This," said Mr. Finlayson, "is only one of a half-dozen stories of this kind that I might relate. Our planes, nowadays, not only spot fires, but they conquer them."

Ontario, according to figures supplied by the Minister, spends approximately $1,000,000 yearly on her forest fire protection.

Is it worth it?

Well, in 1926, there were 106,000 less acres of timber destroyed by fire than there were in 1925, although the Province reported 1,105 fires—only 50 fewer than the previous year.

There's a reason for that, unquestionably.

"And, the 'Falcon,' for instance, can tell you," says Mr. Finlayson.

Sulphur Used To Make Many New Articles

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (NEA Service).—The average person thinks of sulphur in terms of gunpowder or matches, or the sulphur-and-molasses remedies of our grandmothers.

But to William Kobbe, a research engineer for a large sulphur company, the yellow mineral means exquisite vases, table-tops, railway ties, pipe coverings and a multitude of other things.

One of the greatest obstacles which the inventor has had to combat was the public notion that sulphur was very inflammable.

"Of course sulphur will burn" said Mr. Kobbe, as he handled a beautifully wrought sulphur vase that looked like bronze, "but the fact is that it is very difficult to make it do so."

Horns for radios and phonographs may be made of sulphur, he said, and resemble papier mache, although much stronger. Sulphur baths are used to strengthen some of the millions of cheap toys imported annually.

THINKS CANADA WILL NOT STYLE SELF "KINGDOM"

English Press Comments on Garland Proposal For Changing Name.

COURT TERM.

Believe That Proposal Is Likely To Have Little Support.

LONDON, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press Service).—"Recognition which has been given to the fact that the crown is the only formal link binding the British peoples together, would logically entitle the overseas nations to style themselves kingdoms if they wished, but for very good reasons, both of sentiment and fact, Canada is not likely to abandon a style which has come to mean so much in world affairs as has the word 'Dominion'."

This is the comment made by the Manchester Guardian yesterday on the suggestion made in the Canadian House of Commons by E. J. Garland, U.F.A., member for Bow River, that the Dominion should be called "the Kingdom of Canada."

Implies Aristocracy

"A kingdom implies a court and an aristocracy," The Guardian continues, "and nothing is more foreign to the trend of Canadas sturdily democratic outlook than a wish to ape one or acquire the other. The proposal is likely to have as little support as the comparable proposal of Premier Ferguson, of Ontario, that the fountain of royal honors should play upon Canada once more.

"The name and attendant institutions of a kingdom suit the Old Lind well enough, but one need not be surprised if new lands see little sense in copying them."

Forces of General Sun, Defender of Shanghai, Defeated All Along Front.

CITIES SURRENDER.

Defeated Armies Pillage on Retreat—As Much Feared as Cantonese.

LONDON, Feb. 19 (United Press).—A British gun boat was in action in the upper waters of the Yangtsee River, a private telegram to an American firm at Shanghai reported today, according to the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily News.

Another dispatch reported the seizure of a British steamer in the Yangtsee.

General Sun Chuan-Fang, leader of the Northern forces operating in Chekiang Province has suffered reverses all along the front, according to the Shanghai correspondent of The Daily Express. Reliable reports today announce the fall of Wenchow, a rich treaty port of 80,000 population, 140 miles south by southwest of Ningpo, which also has surrendered to the Nationalists. Sun has lost 40,500 men in recent fighting, the dispatch said, and 14,000 of his troops, retreating toward Shanghai in great disorder, were burning and pillaging villages in their path.

Foreign Nationals at Shanghai were as apprehensive of the rabble of Sun's defeated troops as of the menace of the Cantonese, The Daily Express correspondent said. This message also told of the flight of Tsai Po, Civil Governor of Chekiang Province.

Seven trains were reported to be held in readiness behind the front to assist the retirement of Sun's forces.

Imperialism Denounced

BERLIN, Feb. 19 (United Press) —British Imperialism in China was denounced today by General Lutcharin of the Cantonese military forces, who opened a propaganda campaign by addressing a mass meeting of Berlin workmen.

Speakers at a dinner to the foreign press, given by Chinese students, simultaneously asserted that foreign troops were incapable of subjugating China.

Volunteers Mobilized

SHANGHAI, Feb. 19.— (Canadian Press.)—"Precautionary mobilization" of the Shanghai volunteer corps defence body, composed of the residents of the international settlement, was ordered this evening in reparation for eventualities in the strike of the Chinese workmen, which continued to grow worse as the national sympathizers celebrated victory of the Cantonese at Hangchow.

GEORGE YOUNG RETURNS HOME AMIDST POMP AND CEREMONY

Acclaiming Crowd Greets the Champion Along Five Mile Route of Parade.

HASTINGS HOSTILE.

City Presents Swimmer With a Handsome Service of Plate and Address.

TORONTO, Feb. 19. Canadian Press. — George Young returned to his own today, and his own received him gladly. The stripling who left this city four months ago, practically unknown outside of local swimming circles, came back to-day to man's honors and man's glory, in his own country. Cheering crowds at the Sunnyside Station, an acclaiming line which befringed the five mile route of the parade, more crowds and civic and provincial addresses, presented from the British flag draped stand at the city hall, testified with no uncertainty to the welcome of Toronto to her swimming champion.

There was a rift in the lute, however, in regard to Bill Hastings, George's pal at the start of the great adventure. Hastings returned last week and received an informal reception from the business men and other organizations.

Hastings and his managers, with others, received an invitation from Mayor Foster to the civic luncheon to George Young to-day, and it was hoped locally that the breach between the two young swimmers and fellow citizens, opened since Young won fame and money at Catalina, would be bridged over at the luncheon. This morning, there seemed little prospect of their meeting for an attempt at reconciliation.

The procession from the station to the city hall included motor cars containing representatives of various recreational, sporting, business and social organizations. George Young rode with Mayor Thomas Foster and Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, representing the Premier of Ontario. It was a demonstration of "The Conqueror's Return" all along the route.

At the city hall a handsome service of plate was presented and addresses read from various public and semi-public bodies.

Military bands which took part in the procession, gave a programme of patriotic airs and songs of victory. The crowd cheered the champion again and again. There was no limit to the enthusiastic welcome to the famous home comer. Rev. Dr. J. G. Inkster, minister of Knox Presbyterian church, offered prayers.

This afternoon George Young has an engagement at a local theatre.

TORONTO, Feb. 19—Following were addresses and presentations amid cheers of crowd. O'Byrne and Ralph Levy were firm in determination not to attend luncheon if Hastings was present, so Young and party went on to Queen's Hotel and civic luncheon went on without chief guest, Young having declined to attend.

Operating Gets Message Ordering For Own Arrest

KENNEWICK, Wash., Feb. 19.—Theodore Smith, a telegraph operator here, was sitting at his key when a message came in from Norfolk, Neb. It was from the sheriff, ordering Smith's arrest on an embezzlement charge. The operator copied the message and delivered it and himself to local authorities.

Strike Contributions Bill Lost In London

LONDON, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press). — The House of Commons yesterday rejected, 183 to 75, a private bill which would have made it illegal for British trade unions to accept foreign money for the furtherance of industrial disputes. The bill, fostered by Reginald Mitchell Banks, Conservative, would have prevented repetition of the acceptance of money from Moscow, as was the case during the coal strike.

The Laborites and many Liberals and Conservatives, including the Home Secretary, Sir William Joynson-Hicks, opposed the bill on the grounds that it was too broad, since it affected legal as well as illegal strikes.

MONTREAL MAN RESIGNS FROM RHINELAND POST

Major George Stephens Quits as President of Saar Valley Board.

GIVES NO REASONS.

Action May Embarrass the League of Nations Council.

GENEVA, Switzerland, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press Service).—George Washington Stephens, of Montreal, has resigned the presidency of the Saar Valley Governing Commission, to which post he was appointed last March.

No reason was given for the resignation, which it regarded as bringing a delicate Franco-German question before the March session of the League of Nations Council.

This creates an embarrassing situation for the League, as it will necessitate the Council naming his successor at its next session.

Personal Reasons

Major Stephens has resigned the chairmanship for personal reasons, it is understood.

The Canadian member encountered opposition from French, Belgian, and Czecho-Slovakian commissioners last summer, when he suggested an Allied expert railway commission to ensure safety of transit on the Saar Railway after the withdrawal of French troops of occupation. Other members contended that such a commission should be a military one with French troops under its control, but Major Stephens held that such a proposal would bring back by one door the French troops they were sending out of another.

Mr. Stephens succeeded former Mayor R. D. Waugh, of Winnipeg, as a member of the Saar Valley Commission, in August, 1923, when Mr. Waugh was appointed chairman of the Manitoba government liquor commission.

STUDENTS GIVE PLEASING RECITAL

Pupils of R. Gliddon Show Expert Tuition in Concert Rendered.

A number of the pupils of R. Gliddon, director of the Conservatory of Music, gave a very pleasing small recital in the studio at the Conservatory, last evening. The pupils acquitted themselves admirably, evidencing expert tuition on the part of their teacher, with special attention to smooth tonal effects and rythm. The programme, which was as follows, concluded with a social hour, when refreshments were served:

Beethoven, Sonatina, Vernon Armstrong; Mozart, Rondo, Russell Rowan; Rachmaninoff, Prelude in C Sharp, Walter Townsend; Rohde, Will O' the Wisp, Hanna Dutnick; Beethoven, Sonatina in F, Arnold Bates of Campbellford; Tellier, Dance of the Wood Nymphs, Mrs. A. E. Micks; Nevin Suite, Day in Venice, Verda Graham; Chaminade, Danse Ancienne, Marguerite Rome; Mendelssohn, Song Without Words, No. 4, Helen Fisk; Tellier, In a Rose Bower, Mrs. Gray Copping; Rubenstein, Kammenoi Ostrow, Evelyn Armstrong; Gaston Borch, Scherzetto, Zetta Thompson; Merkel, Song in the Night, Helen Clancy; Liszt, Barcarolle and Kruger, Egerie, Miss Agnes Grant.

PREMIER KING DECLARES THAT JOURNAL REFLECTED ON HONOR FORMER GOVERNOR-GENERAL

Brands Story of Undertaking With Lord Byng as False.

CAUSTIC DENIAL.

Says No Understanding Other Than What Appeared in Public Prints.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19.—The prime minister took caustic issue with the Ottawa Journ at the opening of the House yesterday with reference to an editorial in the Ottawa Journal dealing with the constitutional controversy of last session.

"Generally speaking, I would be prepared to treat this editorial with the silent contempt I am disposed to accord most of the Journal editorials," said Mr. King. "In this case, however, it reflects on the personal honor of a former governor-general of Canada, and is a fabrication from beginning to end.

"It implies the former governor-general was prepared to grant to the Journal the right of listening in to a private conversation which took place between a governor-general of Canada and a prime minister of this Dominion. It appears to imply that the governor-general was prepared to make to the Journal a statement which he was not prepared to place on the official record.

"I wish to refer to the repeated reference to an understanding between Lord Byng and myself arrived at after the election of 1925. I wish to say emphatically on my responsibility as prime minister of this country that there was no understanding between Lord Byng and myself other than what appeared in the public prints of this country in a statement which I issued to the public, after having submitted it to Lord Byng in the first instance for his approval.

"There was no understanding of any kind, and I cannot make that statement too emphatic nor clear. The only advice which I tendered to Lord Byng was to let Parliament decide with respect to the situation that arose after the election of 1925. That advice was accepted by Lord Byng, and Parliament met and did decide the question as to who was to be the leader in this House in the last parliament."

Mr. King read the correspondence already brought down in the House. "There is the official record as given to this parliament of all that actually transpired that was material between Lord Byng and myself," he said, "and I submit, Mr. Speaker, that no public journal in this or any other country has a right to circulate false statements or false representations with respect to communications between the prime minister of a country and the representative of His Majesty, when it is known that the only source from which the truth can come is either the representative of the crown itself or the prime minister of the country with whom the conversations were had."

FATHER, MOTHER FIVE CHILDREN ARE FOUND DEAD

Entire Family Wiped Out—Believe Man Did Deed.

WAS OUT OF WORK.

According to Physician They May Have Been Dead a Week.

UTICA, N.Y., Feb. 19 (Associated Press).—Seven persons, a man, his wife and their five children, yesterday were found dead in a little frame house here. Their bodies had been hacked with a razor and knife. The family was last seen last Friday and, according to a physician, perhaps had been dead for a week.

The dead are Guy H. Taylor, 35, a welder, his wife, a waitress, and the children: Elizabeth 8, Owen 14, Goldie and Albert and an infant, name unknown. The police are working on the theory that Taylor killed his family while they slept and then committed suicide. He had been out of work since February 4.

PRODUCE PLENTIFUL FARMERS' MARKET

Potatoes Are Very Scarce, Selling at $2.00 Per Bag.

Produce was fairly plentiful in the basket section of the farmers market this morning. Chickens were priced at 32 to 35 cents a pound, hens at 25 cents and a few turkeys at 40 cents. Butter was generally quoted at 48 cents a pound and eggs sold from 42 to 45 cents a dozen. There were quantities of home-made goodies on sale this morning, in cakes, bread and biscuits.

Downstairs, pork and beef were selling at prevailing prices of 18 and 20 cents a pound for the former, 11 to 13 cents a pound for the latter. Potatoes were scarce and were priced at $2 a bag and apples were offered at 60 cents a peck for russets, 75 cents for Spies and 40 cents for cooking apples. White Leghorns and Barred Rocks were offered in coops at $1.50 apiece, and in one small, wired box, a tiny Bantam was overshadowed by a companioning huge Plymouth Rock.

THE WEATHER

A little colder last night, but still not down to the zero mark. Two above zero was the lowest point reached. February this year is proving to be a particularly fine winter month. On only two occasions has the thermometer been below zero.—W. P.

MEMBERS SUGGEST ALTERATIONS CLAUSES OF OLD AGE PENSION BILL

Bill Was Given Considerable Discussion at Yesterday's Session.

INCREASE RATE.

Fraser Valley Member Believed That Name Should Be Changed.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—The Old-Age Pensions Bill was discussed for a considerable portion of yesterday afternoon's sitting of the House of Commons when a number of alterations in its conditions were suggested by private members.

H. J. Barber (Conservative, Fraser Valley) thought that the minimum wage at which a person would receive the pension should be lower than 70 years. In Australia it is 65, and if it were raised to 70 there it would wipe out 90 per cent. of the pensioners.

Mr. Barber also thought that the rate of pension, namely, $20 per month, was too low, and remarked that British Columbia allowed $1.00 per day to the prisoners in the jails there.

A provision in the bill which makes the amount paid in pensions, plus interest, a first charge on any estate that the pensioners may leave after his death, was also criticized by Mr. Barber, who said that the bill should be called an old-age loan bill rather than an old-age pension bill.

Hon. Peter Heenan, Minister of Labor, interrupted to explain that this provision was to meet the case of children who would not provide for their parents and therefore should not enjoy the estate their parents might leave.

Labor Support.

J. S. Woodsworth (Labor, Winnipeg North Centre) described how the Labor party had stood for a Federal administration of the pensions act, but in order to get a start in old-age pensions, had supported the present measure. He agreed there was some advantage to having the act administered by the provinces, as there would be more apt to be a check on this administration than if it were handled directly from Ottawa. Most of the provinces already had the machinery for carrying out this work. What he was afraid of was, that some of the provinces would not accept the scheme, and aged people in those provinces would not receive the benefit of it. To avoid this he urged that the Federal Government, instead of providing 50 per cent. of the amount to be disbursed in pensions, should provide 75 per cent. This would be a compromise which, he thought, would encourage all the provinces to provide the remaining 25 per cent. Mr. Woodsworth also thought that the minimum age should be lower.

L. J. Ladner (Conservative, Vancouver South) complained that the provision in the bill which took out of the estate of a pensioner the money he had received, was unfair to the thrifty people who had a home of their own. Mr. Heenan explained that in cases where heirs had helped keep the old people, this provision did not apply.

The point was raised by Mr. Ladner as to whether in cases where provinces might already be looking after their aged people satisfactorily and for this reason did not want to go into the scheme, was there any provision whereby they could be compensated? He explained that Ontario and Quebec paid 80 per cent. of all the taxes of Canada, and of they declined to go into the scheme the people of these provinces would be paying 80 per cent. of the Federal Government's share for caring for the aged of the other provinces, and receive nothing in return. The Minister of Labor said that there had been no provision to reimburse provinces which did not come under the act.

Should Bear Cost.

Peter McGibbon (Conservative, Muskoka, Ont.) thought the Federal treasury should bear the whole cost of the pensions and levy a secession duty to make up the loss. He thought the provinces could well afford to such an invasion in their field of taxation if they were relieved of caring for the aged.

Geo. H. Pettit (Conservative, Welland) expressed his belief in the principle of old-age pensions, but favored a Federal scheme. He also thought that the age limits should be 65 instead of 70 years, and that the maximum pension should be $300 in place of $240.

Lady Deputy Sheriff Arrests Three Bootleggers

PAULSBORO, N.J., Feb. 18. (United Press.)— Miss Edith Batton, 24, pretty bobbed haired deputy sheriff, made her first raid to-night, capturing three men at the point of a gun and seizing 300 gallons of alcohol.

Clutching a heavy revolver in one hand, Miss Batton, who was appointed a deputy on November 10 after two years' service as a stenographer in the sheriff's office, entered what was apparently a deserted house with a squad of assistants at her heels. The three men inside surrendered without a struggle.

QUEEN'S SABLES ONLY RAT SKIN

Royalty Amused By References To Queen Mary's Winter Coat.

LONDON, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press)—Many persons have admired the brown fur coat which Queen Mary has been wearing this winter, and numerous references have been made to it in print as "the Queen's sables." As a matter of fact, it is made from the skins of rodents killed on the royal estates and put together by a skillful furrier. Every public reference to its assumed value and rarity of its skins is greeted with unrestrained amusement by the royal household.

OBITUARY.

MRS. DAVID RODGERS.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 19.— The death took place on Saturday, February 12th, at the Hamilton Sanitorium, of Mrs. David Rodgers (nee May Parcels) of Niagara Falls, Ont.

The deceased was in her 38th year and was a resident of Havelock until six years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, four children, Hazel age 13, Leafy age 11, Earl age 9 and Lewella age 8; two sisters, Mrs. Arthur Graham of Galt and Mrs. W. J. Lyon, D.C. of Chicago, Ill., one brother, J. H. Parcels of Toronto and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Parcels of town.

The funeral took place from the residence of her parents, Concession Street, on Monday afternoon. The service, which was held in the United church was conducted by Rev. Wr. R. Archer. Interment was made in the Maple Grove cemetrey.

The pallbearers were: Theron McMullen, George Pacey, Albert Woodbeck, Frank Parcels, Joseph Faulkner, A. Kennedy.

MRS. MARGARET WALTON

HAVELOCK, Feb. 19.—The funeral of the late Mrs. Walton took place on Thursday afternoon to the Maple Grove Cemetery.

Mrs. Walton was the widow of the late Samuel Walton who was killed in a railway collision in British Columbia in September 1900.

She leaves to mourn her loss four daughters and two sons: Mrs. T. Murtell of Hamilton, Mrs. C. Danpert of Weston, Mrs. W. A. Jones of Detroit, Miss Winnie Walton of Toronto, Robert Walton of Montreal, and George of Peterboro.

Mrs. Walton was born at Baron Bay, Mulenkure, in the county of Cavan, Ireland, in the year 1859. She was married in the year 1889, during which year she and her husband came to Canada and settled in Havelock.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

LET'S GET ACQUAINTED

Life's brief; let' s get acquainted fast,
Let's meet t ogether, face to face.
The first nam e's better than the last
To fellow s of a common race.
There's onl y one, whatever land
First gave us birth, or how we stand,
We all are brothers, anyway;
Let's get acquainted, while we may.

Life's short; let's get acquainted quick,
Not wait b cause we're rich or great,
Not wait b cause we're poor or sick,
Nor any reason fellows wait.
We're h re for such a little while,
Why w aste our time with too much style?
We'll soon be equal, never fear;
Let's get acquainted, while we're here.

Life's brief; let's get acquainted now,
Not wait till time has made us old.
And I'll forget my classic brow,
And you forget about your gold.
Perhaps before the journey's end
We'll need no fortune like a friend,
The kinship of our fellowman—
Let's get acquainted, while we can.

CANADIANS PLAN TO GREET ENVOY

Royal Welcome To Massey Arranged in United States.

BIG GATHERING.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—Canadians in Washington are planning a royal reception to Canada's first minister, Vincent Massey, who has just arrived here.

While details have not yet been completed, due to the already crowded calendar of the new envoy, the Canadian club of Washington has plans under way to afford such a reception to their diplomatic representative as is seldom accorded any one here.

The date for the reception and dinner of welcome has not yet been fixed, but it is expected that on or before March 1 Washington will witness one of the largest gatherings of Canadian notables in the history of the capital. Invitations will be sent to Premier King and the Canadian cabinet and to the recently appointed minister of the United States to the Dominio., William Phillips. The committee on arrangements also hopes to bring to Washington for the occasion, prominent members of the judiciary and other high officials of the Dominion.

Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, is to be among the speakers.

deceased, has lived with her sister, Mrs. Ben Demas, about 300 yards away from her husband's home, ever since they separated about six years ago. She and her sister and brother-in-law had seen Keene passing at times but had had nothing to do with him.

James Gordanier said that his family had not worried about their uncle's absence as he had spoken of going to the woods to work, and they had also heard that he had gone to visit relatives at Detroit. When his mother, Mrs. Nancy Gordanier, heard that her brother was not in Detroit or with his son James at Schumacher, they decided to go and look for him. His brother had gone first and then come back to meet him. He knew of no reason why anyone should kill him.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bell live in a house not fifty yards from the murder. They bought the house and land from Keene about two years ago, and the seller continued to live in the shack on the hillside which he had occupied when he rented the farm after parting from his wife. They paid no attention to Keene's absence as even when he was in the shack they would not see him for days at a time, while he was absent frequently. When his relatives showed no anxiety they had not worried.

Their relations with Keene had always been friendly. They had given him permission to use vegetables from their garden, and he had at times taken a meal with them.

The jury which viewed the remains on Thursday and will hear the evidence on Monday consists of Harry Connor, foreman, and William Linn, Thomas Warren, A. T. Neal, William Smith, George Forestell, Fred Johnston, Hugh Gillen and Sam Moffett.

Severe 'Quake Shocks Felt On Island of Jersey and Guerney.

LONDON, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—Reports from the Channel Islands say that a severe earthquake which shook the Island of Jersey Thursday night also was felt at Guernsey.

A small landslide on the Island of Jersey was caused by the 'quake in St. Peter's valley. Many walls and ceilings of dwellings were cracked.

Weymouth, in Dorset, England, also felt a tremor Thursday night, beds being shaken and walls cracked.

OLD MASTERS

The world is too much with us: late and soon,
Getting and spending, we lay waste our powers;
Little we see in Nature that is ours;
We have given our hearts away, a sordid boon!

This sea that bares her bosom to the moon,
The winds that will be howling at all hours
And are up-gathered now like sleeping flowers,
For this, for every thing, we are out of tune;

It moves us not—Great God! I'd rather be
A Pagan suckled in a creed outworn—
So might I, standing on this pleasant lea,

Have glimpses that would make me less forlorn;
Have sight of Proteus rising from the sea;
Or hear old Triton blow his wreathed horn.

House Between Warkworth and Hastings Has Not Been Touched By Death In 75 Years

There is a house near a small place called Brickley, situated between Warkworth and Hastings, that enjoys the enviable reputation of never having been touched by death during its existence of nearly three quarters of a century. No one has ever passed away in this house and no one has ever been buried from it. It has covered only the living and the Grim Reaper has not yet paid it a visit. It has been lived in continuously since it was built, three generations having passed their lives under its roof.

Seventy years ago, Samuel Wilson, grandfather of H. W. Jones of this city, built the house and lived there for about thirty-three years, raising eight children under its roof. Then he moved to Warkworth, where he died, his son, William Wilson, moving into the old homestead and raising five children during his tenure of twenty-two years' residence. He also went later to Warkworth, where he died. His son, Frank Wilson, now occupies the old house, living there for the past fifteen years, and his five children have been born there.

"When Is a Man Drunk?" Finally Decided By Experts

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press.)—The question, "When is a man drunk?" has been answered by the report of an expert commission, just published. The answer is that the word "drunk" should always be taken to mean that the person concerned "is so much under the influence of alcohol as to have lost control of his faculties to such an extent as to render him unable to execute safely the occupation in which he is engaged."

SMUGGLE CARS ACROSS BORDER

Methods Indicated Before Royal Customs Commission at Yesterday's Session.

SOME STOLEN.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 19 (Canadian Press)—Methods whereby motor cars, s ometimes stolen, are smuggled into Canada from the United States, were indicated to the oRyal Customs Commission during a rather brief sitting yesterday afternoon. Only two witnesses were examined at any length during the sitting and both of them were questioned by R. L. Calder, K.C., commission counsel, in regard to the illegal importation of automobiles. Investigation into the methods of a Winnipeg wine importing and manufacturing company, Luigi Calissano and Kigli, were deferred until Monday to give the solicitor for this firm time to consult with his clients.

Cyril Knowles, assistant inspector of Customs and Excise Preventive Service, at Winnipeg, was one of the witnesses examined in regard to the automobile importations. He told of a number of cars which he had seized because of evasion of duty. On March 8, 1924, he said, he had seized one of the most expensive American touring cars here. In this case, a Winnipeg taxi driver went to Minneapolis for a period of two or three months and then returned with the car. The car was seized after the driver placed on it the license plates which he had obtained for another much less expensive car which is made in Canada.

After considerable correspondence in regard to this seizure with the Customs department at Ottawa, the car was released and the deposit returned to its owner on payment of $60 and an undertaking that the automobile would be exported to the United States.

"A year after," said Mr. Knowles, "I seized the same car in Winnipeg in the possession of a person to whom it had been sold."

On the second occasion, said Mr. Knowles, the car was seized from George Conley, whom he described as "a well-known whiskey runner." The department instituted action against Conley but it was unsuccessful. However, said the witness, the owners of the car had waived their rights in order that the crown could collect the duty. The car was still in the possession of the customs.

Brought Expensive Cars

Mr. Knowles told the Commission that Canadians sometimes went down to the United States and brought in some of the most expensive cars with license plates which had been secured for much cheaper automobiles. He told of one car seized which showed 23 alterationse. Incidentally, he had located another car bearing the same number as the one seized. Seizures were sometimes made by checking up the tourist permits which were shown as outstanding in the records of the various customs offices.

ANTI-SUICIDE "FRAT" FORMED

Students at University of Baltimore Organize To Discourage Suicide.

13 MEMBERS.

BALTIMORE, Feb. 19 (A.P.). An anti-suicide club, with an initial membership of thirteen, whose members pledge themselves to take special courses in psychology, study student habits of thought and discourage suicide, has been formed at the University of Baltimore.

Formation of the club was announced yesterday after reports had been received of two more student suicides in the United States, bringing the total to seventeen.

The anti-suicide club membership includes both men and women students. Its motto is "Live and let live," and its organizers expressed hope that it would expand to combat the "germ of self-destruction."

Cognizance of the suicide wave was taken at the University of Maryland, also, where President R. A. Pearson said American parents were digging graves for their children with abnormal living.

CABINET DISCUSS CHINA OUTLOOK

Members Hopeful That Fresh Instructions Will Clear Trouble.

TRANSPORTS ON WAY.

LONDON, Feb. 19. Canadian Press Press. — Swift developments in China where the advancing Nationalist forces are menacing Shanghai more than ever after capturing the neighboring cities of Hangchov and Ningpo caused Prime Minister Baldwin to call another cabinet council yesterday to discuss the news. The ministers furthermore will remain in London over the week end in readiness to meet again at any time.

The members of the cabinet remain hopeful that the fresh instructions sent to Charge d'Affairs O'Malley, who is negotiating at Hankow with Foreign Minister Chen of the Cantonese or Nationalist government, will result in the sign ing of an agreement settling the future status of the foreign settlement at Hankow. They realize however that the changing military situation might involve some fresh delays.

With 21 foreign warships anchored off Shanghai, and about 12,000 troops available for the defence of the international settlement there little anxiety is felt for the safety of the lives or interests of Englishmen or other foreigners in Shanghai.

The government takes the position that the latest events fully justify the precautionary policy of sending strong forces to defend Shanghai, as well as revealing the danger of the demand by the Labor party for the withdrawal of the defence forces.

Mr. Baldwin in a letter to a political correspondent yesterday said:

"The recent events in the Far East and the attitude of the Socialist party toward them afford a fresh example of their unfitness for national responsibilities."

Six transports which are en route to Shanghai carrying troops from England and Mediterranean ports, are expected to arrive off Shanghai during the week from Feb. 28 to March 7th.

Considerable excitement has been caused here by the circulation of rumours that a rapprochment might be effected between the Cantonese government and Chang Tso-Lin, the Manchurian war lord and present generalissmo of the northern forces which are contesting the spread of the Cantonese power.

SEND MARINES.

America To Increase Defense Force Following Disturbing Rumors.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Additional marines are being sent to Nicaragua, it was said yesterday at the White House, because of reports that shipments of arms are on the way into the country from the outside.

The prospect of increasing the munitions at the disposal of Liberal forces, the President believes, presents a further degree of jeopardy for Americans in Nicaragua, and the administration is taking steps to meet that danger.

HELD PRISONER IN MEXICAN JAIL

Winnipeg Youth Incarcerated For Period of Three and a Half Years.

IS RELEASED.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—Held prisoner in a Mexican jail, tried without counsel, sentenced to death and finally released, was the ordeal through which John Helliwell, a former Winnipeg youth, endured within a period of three and a half years. His release was ultimately obtained through the efforts of the Veteran's organization in the city.

Helliwell, who served with the Canadian forces during the war, will soon rejoin his mother here. A fund to bring him back to Canada, has been raised by those who were instrumental in securing his freedom.

According to accounts, Helliwell was arrested in a Mexican town on a charge of murder. He was thrown into prison and held without trial for some time. Without any knowledge of Mexican court procedure and unable to present his side of the case, it is reported that a verdict of guilty was quickly passed and the capital sentence imposed.

The youth succeeded in getting a not through the mails to his mother, Mrs. Helliwell immediately appealed to the returned soldiers' organizations, who despatched a protest to the Mexican authorities. Counsel was procured and an appeal entered for a new trial. This was eventually granted and as a result of the second hearing, the sentence was reduced to life imprisonment. The evidence brought against Helliwell, it is alleged, was purely circumstantial and his counsel remained firm in his belief that the boy was innocent. He succeeded in building up a sufficiently strong case to satisfy the authorities, and Helliwell was released.

FEAR FUGITIVES WILL LOOT CITY

Defeated Troops of Marshal Sun Streaming Into Shanghai.

CHEN IS WARNED.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—There is a great anxienty in official circles here, caused by the fear that the defeated troops of Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, ruler of the province of Kiangsu, will begin looting Shanghai, into which city they are streaming, following disastrous encounters with the advancing Cantonese armies.

However, it is reported in government quarters that the British are prepared for all eventualities and that they have warned Chen, the Cantonese Foreign Minister, that should the riotous rabble overflow into the international settlement at Shanghai, it may be necessary for British troops to fire.

TABLET SUGGESTED.

To Mark Montreal Hotel in Which Dickens Stayed.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 19. — (Canadian Press).—A suggestion that a tablet be placed on the uilding formerly known as Roscoe's Hotel, where Charles Dickens stayed while in Montreal in 1865, was recently made by Judge E. Fabre Surveyer, President of the St. James' Literary Society, in remarks to that body. It will be considered by the Antiquarian Society.

RECEIVES HONOR.

Lady Hoare Appointed Dame Commander By King George.

LONDON, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press). — King George yesterday appointed Lady Maude Hoare a Dame Commander of the Order of the British Empire. The appointment is in recognition of her recent voyage to India which she made by air, accompanying her husband, Sir Samuel Hoare, British Air Minister.

WEDDING BELLS.

DELINE-CLARKE.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 19. — The marriage was solemnized at the Knox Church manse on Tuesday, Feb. 18, of Carrie Elizabeth Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Clarke, and James Irvine Deline, both of Belmont.

DROP OLD ORDER.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—Directors of the old Southwestern and London Railway have decided that, after all, these new-fangled safety devices may be dependable. So they have rescinded the order, in force since the earliest days of the road, requiring uniformed employees to wear red ties for use in emergency flagging of trains.

THIN BABIES HEALTHY.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19. — Thin babies are more healthy and have more resistance to sickness than fat ones, says Dr. J. L. Blumenthal, director of the Bureau of Child Hygiene. "Conservation of energy is achieved in good muscle tissue, not in fat," says the doctor. "Mothers should not worry if their babies are not the 'butterball' type."

BROTHERHOOD

God placed a soul
In a body of white,
To labor the trials here.
Godplaced a soul
In a body of black
To toil thro' the torrid there;—
And a soul be put
In a body of brown,
And others in yellow and red,
To serve where the world
Was needing them most;
But—"the color won't matter"—
He said. —Nick O'Teen.

FLYER DROPS OCEAN ATTEMPT

Pinedo's New Route Will Include Two Island Stops.

NOT CARRY FUEL.

BOLMA, Portuguese Guinea, Feb. 19 (United Press).—Colonel Francesco de Pinedo yesterday announced that he had abandoned his plan to make a non-stop flight across the South Atlantic, and that he would revise his schedule to include two island stops on the flight from Africa to South America.

Reported efforts to lift the big Savoia plane from the water here Thursday and the day before apparently convinced de Pinedo that he could take off with sufficient fuel to ensure success of the non-stop venture.

The new itinerary anonunced by the flyer would cause him to return northward to Dakar, in French Senegal, whence he would make a short flight to Porto Praia, Cape Verde Islands, which lies west and slightly north of Dakar. From Porto Praia, the Italian would fly to the Island of Fernanda Noronha, approximately 1,900 miles to the southwest. Fernando Noronha is about 300 miles from the nearest point on the coast of Brazil.

Leaves for Senegal

BOLAMA, Portuguese Guinea, West Africa, Feb. 19.—Colonel Francesco de Pinedo, Italian aviator, departed at 2.47 p.m. yesterday for Dakar, French Senegal, where he will take off on a flight across the South Atlantic to Brazil.

COOLIDGE WILL POSTPONE REPLY

Will Not Personally Consider French Reply Until All Heard From.

MAKE STATEMENT.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—President Coolidge intends to postpone personal consideration of the French reply to the United States arms conference proposal until responses from the other nations approached are at hand. Then, it was said yesterday at the White House, he expects to make a public statement as to his conclusions.

Thus far, France is the only nation which has transmitted its reply and it constituted a rejection. Italy also is expected to take a similar stand.

While the President's intentions were being disclosed yesterday, the House was approving a resolution to provide $75,000 for expenses of United States delegates to the forthcoming Geneva preliminary arms conference.

The Senate must now act on the measure, passage of which was requested by the President.

INCREASE SHOWN IN CIVIL AVIATION

Department on National Defence Issues Very Gratifying Report.

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—"Statistics compiled from the returns made each year to the Department of National Defence on their operations by all organizations operating civil aircraft show a gratifying increase in civil aviation over all previous years," says the statement issued to-day by the Department of National Defence. These organizations include the Provincial Air Service of Ontario, the commercial aviation companies operating under contract with the Province of Quebec, air transportation companies, and in fact all the flying done in Canada except that of the Royal Canadian Air Force and a few aircraft registered by private owners and used solely for their own pleasure.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

SINCE last week's 'Musings' appeared I have had another interesting time with Dr. Stough. He spent quite a while with me: and, after talking about various other matters, he led my thoughts around to the question of cards again. "Well," he said, "I see you made use of what I was saying about card-playing. And, I don't mind telling you that I think you were wise in mentioning my name: for it is more than likely that many will be feeling a bit hot under the collar because of what they may be pleased to call my impertinent and narrow view of things. Even then you may not be permitted to pass unscathed! Some will be sure to think that you never would have written about what I was saying unless you had to some extent, at least, agreed with me. It will be interesting to see the reaction to your 'Musings' of these two weeks. If you do agree with me, don't let yourself be scared by anything you may hear. Should you feel a bit weak at heart just let me know and I will be glad to administer the right kind of a stimulant."

A JUDGE AND CARDS

Mr. Nolan Rice Best, at one time editor of 'The Continent,' tells of an incident which shows the effect of cards upon the temper. He says:

"In the delightful suburban home of a Chicago judge a group of neighbors dropped in one evening for an informal call. A vivacious young woman at once proposed a game of cards.

"'Come, judge,' she coaxed gaily, 'get a deck of cards and play a game with us to pass the evening.'

"'Indeed, I won't,' promptly responded the jurist.

"'Judge, are you such an old fogy that you won't play cards?'

"'No, I'm not an old fogy.'

"'You think cards are wicked, then, do you?'

"'Not at all.'

"'Why won't you play, then?'

"'Well,' blurted out the judge, crowded into a corner, 'I've watched you card players a long while, and I've never yet seen a bunch of players that could get through a whole game without losing their tempers. There's always somebody complaining of the way somebody else has played, even in the most friendly company. I won't bother with anything that spoils one's temper so.'

"'But, judge,' still coaxed the young woman, 'you know we are your guests and you ought to play a game with us just because we want you to.'

"'Yes, you're my guests,' echoed the judge, his spirit rising notably higher; 'you're my guests, and that's the reason why you ought to think of my preference for spending my evenings. Why shouldn't you do what I want to do—sit and talk of something sensible?

"'There's just one reason why you play cards, and that's because you are so empty-headed that you can't talk. You don't know enough to spend an evening in any kind of conversation, and so you have to kill time fingering over those useless cards. You can do as you please. I'm going to the library to read.'

"Afterward the judge explained why he foreswore cards:

"'I never played much, and was always poor at the business. One evening, however, I sat down at home with my wife, my son, and a young lady neighbor for a game of whist.

"'Pretty soon I made some misplay. My son groaned, "O father, that was wretched!" I turned toward the young woman. Her face was white with anger.

"'"Was that such a very bad play?" I asked.

"'"It was inexcusable!" she almost hissed.

"'I laid down my cards. "Here," I said, "is where I quit. If this paltry good-for-nothing game can raise such a tempest as this over a blunder that I'm likely to make at any time, I'm never going to touch it again. I know I can't play very well, and I'm not going to put myself in a position to be scorned any more like this for an ignorance that isn't worth curing."'"

ARE CARDS AS A DIVERSION WORTH THE PRICE?

A magazine article which has been brought to my attention by the doctor gives a deplorable picture of the dissipation which is going through society and the church like a virulent, deadly epidemic.

"Physicians deplore the craze, claiming that it burdens their hands with hysterical women. Captains of industry say that it is weakening the stamina of the young men of the country who need their strength for work. It is certainly draining the nerves, the purses, and the characters of those who heretofore made up in our land a sane, substantial society. The bars are down, and the social climber can cast aside church and charity,—the open gate of society. Let her hire a professional teacher and play bridge. The game will ruin her temper, and probably bring on the habit of heavy drinking, but if she can play bridge, she will be one of society's favorites. If bridge, in its present hysterical form, does not really impair a sturdy character, it does encourage the development of every latent trait. It may not create depravity, but it surely lifts the veil from it."

"Now," said the doctor, "what do you think of that? I can assure you that such an article as that from the pages of a magazine which could never be accused of being an enthusiast for Puritanical ethics, is not a bit overdrawn. I don't live the life of recluse! My profession takes me out among men and women in all walks of life, and I can assure you that this is the tragedy of what has been considered a pleasant evening diversion. It has invaded both home and church, and is undermining both health and morals. Some of the most astonishing things have happened among women who have been inveigled into playing for money, even to the disruptions of intimate friendships without number, and the demoralization of homes, such is the frenzy that has grown up among the devotees of society."

WHERE SHALL I GO TO-NIGHT—TO THE CARD PARTY OR THE PRAYER-MEETING?

The doctor said to me, "Card-playing Christians are indeed the menace of the church."—Perhaps he was thinking of cards carried to excess!—"It is such that makes the work of the minister almost impossible. Their lives belie their profession and their influence causes others to stumble. The sinner outside the church sees little difference between himself and them.

"In a certain community there lived a gentleman of excellent character and intelligence. Two church officials, his companions in social life, were very anxious to secure him as a member of the church. These two elders were noted as card-players. Each entreated his pastor to visit the longed-for brother. He did and had with him an hour or so of Christian conversation. As the pastor urged the gentleman to surrender to Christ, he replied, "You want me to accept Christ and unite with the church. I see no reason why I should. I see no gain in it. I see no difference between your officials (referring to the two) and myself. They give me no example of anything superior in their lives. From me they differ only in that they pray in public and make a show of religion. I play cards, but they more. They go to card parties and dances instead of prayer-meeting. Will you tell me frankly, what benefit may I expect in your church?"

MURDERING TIME

Dr. J. G. Holland wrote: "I have all my days had a card-playing community open to my observation, and I am yet to be made to believe that that which is the universal resort of the starved in soul and intellect, which has never in any way linked to itself tender, elevating, or beautiful associations, the tendency of which is to unduly absorb the attention from every weighty matter, can recommend itself to the favor of Christ's disciples. The presence of culture and genius may embellish, but can never dignify it. I have at this moment ringing in my ears the dying injunction of my father's early friend: 'Keep your son from cards. Over them I have murdered time and lost heaven."

A COLLEGE PROFESSOR AND CARDS

Professor David Smith, The College, Londonderry, Ireland, in his correspondence column in the British Weekly was once asked.—"Will you kindly say if it is sinful in ministers wasting their time playing cards? I am in my seventy-eighth year."

In his reply the professor says, "Like you I 'know nothing of the use of cards,' and therefore I am not qualified to say whether it is, generally, right or wrong. Considering that the game was invented for the amusement of an insane king, I should hardly think it can be a highly intellectual employment; and in any case I do not understand how a minister can have either time or taste for it. It is wonderful how responsibility sobers and elevates a man; and there is no responsibility like a minister's. A fitting sense of it puts an awe upon him, and detaches him from trivial and petty things."

But I am wondering, as I bring my musings to a close for another week, if a minister is the only person who has a responsibility which ought to sober and elevate! There are some pleasures and pastimes which may be honey and gold at the start, but will turn out to be gall and dross at the end.—Allan Fairbairn.

A Christian's Amusements

A CHRISTIAN'S amusements must be blameless as well as ingenious, safe as well as rational, moral as well as intellectual. They must have nothing in them which may be likely to excite any of the tempers which it is his daily task to subdue; any of the passions which it is his constant business to keep in order. His chosen amusements must not deliberately add to the "weight" which he is commanded to "lay aside"; they should not imitate the besetting sin against which he is struggling; they should not obstruct that spiritual mindedness which he is told is life and peace; they should not inflame the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life, which he is forbidden to gratify.

—Hannah More.

A Pen Picture

SOME great building work is going on. The air is full of the sound of axes and hammers, and the ring of the mason's trowel on the stones. What numbers of workmen! How extensive the works! No enemy can ever surely make their way through these defences, yet an enemy from within is often more dangerous than one from without. Look at this young foreman of the works; how clever he seems, and how busy! He is not idle for a moment—the heads of the work seem to think a great deal of him, as they entrust him with so much. He has the charge of a great number of masons and their labourers, but he is quite able to undertake the trust; and when his widowed mother saw him leave home this morning with a new coat upon his back, I have no doubt that she felt proud of her boy, and wondered what future lay before him.

Such a change! No busy crowds, no sound of workmen's voices or clang of tools, no friends near by. It is a foreign land, and the young man recently filling such an important position is a fugitive.

A messenger arrives with important tidings.

"Dead?" Then home for him once more, and who knows what higher position may fortune have in store.

TELL US A STORY

THERE was once a young shoemaker, who became so much interested in politics, that his shop was filled with loungers, talking, and discussing, and disputing about one thing and another, from morning till night; and he found it often necessary to work till midnight, to make up for the hours lost in talking during the day. One night, after his shutters were closed, and he was busy on his bench, a boy passing along, put his mouth to the key-hole, and mischievously piped out, "Shoemaker, shoemaker, work by night, and run about by day. "Had a pistol been fired off at my ear," he said, "I could not have been more startled. I dropped my work, saying to myself, 'True, true; but you never shall have that to say of me again.' I never forgot it. To me it was the voice of God, and it has been a word in season throughout my life. I learned from it not to leave till to-morrow the work of to-day, or to be idle when I ought to be working. From that time I turned over a new leaf." This shoemaker was Samuel Drew, who subsequently wrote on the 'Immortality and Immateriality of the Soul.'

What Think Ye of Christ?

TO-DAY the question that is stirring men's hearts to their very depths is, "Who is this Jesus Christ?". His life is becoming to us a new life, as if we had never seen a word of it. There is round about us an influence so strange, so penetrating, so subtle, yet so mighty, that we are obliged to ask the great heaving world of time to be silent for a while, that we may see just what we are and where we are. That influence is the life of Jesus. We cannot get clear of it: we hear it in the tones of joy; we feel it stealing across the darkness of sorrow; we see it where we least expect it. Even men who have travelled farthest from it seem only to have come round to it again; and while they have been undervaluing the inner work of Jesus Christ, they have actually been living on the virtues which came out of His garment's hem.

Christ unites in Himself the sublimest precepts and divinest practices. He pours out a doctrine beautiful as the light, sublime as heaven, and true as God.

A Weakness of the Church

A CORRESPONDENT to "The Presbyterian" points out that one of the chief weaknesses of the Christian church at the present time is the tendency to be governed by what are spoken of as "practical considerations." To a very large extent these so-called "practical" considerations are purely "worldly" considerations. One finds them manifesting themselves chiefly in the matter of compromising convictions for the sake of peace, popularity, or some such man-fixed objective. One finds them also manifesting themselves in the tendency to make the sacred services of public worship primarily worshipful, devotional, spiritually helpful, and uplifting. The tendency is one which must make the Evil One very happy, because it certainly is effective in the long run, in gaining his ends.

The Pathos of Suicides.

UNDER the above caption an article appears in one of the great periodicals on this continent which ought to bring the thoughtless up with a jerk, and make the thoughtful even more thoughtful. A startling discovery of the increasing number of suicides is one of the contradictory features of our intensive civilization. It is not difficult to analyze the causes when openly traceable to acoholism, which leaves its victims the dependents of a depressing despair. When the memory of a series of hopeless and fruitless efforts in the past rise up to block the way against another brave struggle, death by one's own hand may become a seeming road out of all the wretchedness which the habit has created. Dr. F. L. Hoffman who has been many years statistician for a great insurance company, has sought to trace these acts of self-destruction back to the main causes. He is convinced that while there are causes which seem unavoidable, like a mental collapse, that much of our present-day plague is the result of a gay, unrestrained emotional life, which so often ends in the complete break-up of the nervous system and brings on melancholia or other conditions of mental depression, which reach or border on insanity. Simply speaking, it is sin again. The less civilized races and the primitive sections of civilized countries, have fewer cases by a striking difference, than those sections where higher culture and more emotionalism is dominant.

Some Newspapers Have a Conscience.

IT IS encouraging to know that there are even [illegible] newspapers which refused to [illegible] surveyors of the filth of the Browning trial under the plea that it was news. There was one in Oklahoma, one in Jacksonville, Florida, and one in Boston, Mass. The Boston Traveler apologized for having begun publication of reports of the trial and said: "The revel of filth that has been indulged in by the contestants at law has passed all limits of decency, and a further publication of the details is a menace to the morals of the community." May the tribe of newspapers of sensitive conscience increase.

Calls Youth Godless.

DR. RIBOURG, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Fifth Avenue and 127th Street, New York City, in a sermon on "A Christless World" said among other things: "There has never been a time, perhaps, since the founding of Christianity when it was harder to live a consistent Christian life than now. The conflict between right and wrong was never greater than it is to-day. Since the fall of the Roman Empire the allurements of sin have never been more fascinating than they are in our present age. The youth of the land is confronted on every side by temptations which make it difficult for young people to live clean, pure, wholesome lives. In colleges and universities, the new scientific teachings eliminate God as the creator and architect of the universe. Christ's teachings are considered good only for women who do not read and children who cannot think, but entirely inadequate for the thinking minds which are acquainted with biology, chemistry and philosophy.

The result of this atheistic propaganda is that when young men and women with no faith and no hope are placed face to face with the perplexing and intricate problems of our modern life they have neither the will nor the strength to conquer them. The epidemic of suicides among educated young folk is the answer to a Godless and Christless training. The swan's song of these unhappy young people is that they have found life a vacuum, an empty idiotic thing. They live only by thrills, and the world of sin has only a few to offer them, and so they seek the last thrill in death]

CHRISTIANITY

CHRISTIANITY as we view it, says Professor Blackie, crystallised into a rigid system of scholastic formulas and phrases, is like a fair woman ill dressed. Men of taste, taking offence at this dress, will not look at the beauty of the woman, and even call her ugly; while others, partly from want of taste and partly from habit, have so identified the idea of the woman with the dress in which she appears, that in any more chaste dress they cannot recognise and even violently disdain her. In this way the Christianity of Christ stands a scanty chance of popular recognition, being disowned alike by enemies who will not have it without its dress, which is just as foreign to its essential nature as prickles are to a lily, horns to a horse, or the hide of a rhinoceros to a plumy dove.

GOLDEN SILENCE

IT IS easy for one to poison a person's mind concerning another. There is measureless ruin wrought in this world by the slanderer. Characters are blackened, friendships are destroyed, jealousies are aroused, homes are torn up, hearts are broken. Let us never take up an evil report and give it wing on breath of ours. Let us never whisper an evil thing to another. We know not where it may end, to what it may grow, what ruin it may work. Words once spoken can never be gotten back again. We had better learn to keep the door of our lips locked and say no evil ever of any one. This is a silence we shall never regret.

—J. R. Miller.

A GREAT BOOK

YOU will find, unless I am much mistaken, that a great book remains a great book at different periods of life. At least this is what the late Sir W. Robertson Nicoll used to say. The things that impressed you at twenty are not the things that impressed you at thirty, but yet as the mind grows, and as life discloses its realities, the book has other things to say. The boy who reads Don Quixote at twelve laughs over it, but at fifty sees he is reading the greatest book in the world.

No good thing is failure and no evil thing success.

It may be that the reason why some young men hang around the bank is because there is money in it.

. . REPORTER OF THE NEW . . . REMEMBRANCER OF THE OLD AND TRIED . . . HERALD OF WHAT IS TO COME.

THE BUDGET COMES FIRST.

Ontario people who are anxiously waiting to learn the details of Premier Ferguson's Government control legislation will have to wait for some time.

The Budget comes first; it will be introduced on Tuesday, and while it is not expected that there will be a prolonged debate on the financial proposals of the Government, it will postpone for several weeks the introduction of what is to be the real feature of the session.

From present indications, the Government control measure will contain no provision on behalf of standard hotels, except that guests will be permitted to have liquor in their rooms.

There is to be no sale by the glass, not even at meals, according to authentic information.

The legislation, according to Mr. Ferguson, may prove as big a surprise in its way as was the appointment of D. B. Hanna as Chairman of the Commission.

Ontario will have to wait several weeks to learn just what the Premier meant by that statement, but at least it can be taken for granted that no sale by the glass under any conditions will be authorized.

THE DETAILS ARE WANTED.

The formation of a Central Ontario Power Association, representative of some twenty-five municipalities in this part of the Province, and the decision to demand concrete information from the Hydro-electric Commission as to the causes of the recent increase in power charges, are two very important steps.

The municipalities affected by the increase feel that they have every right to be supplied with complete information as to the power conditions in Central Ontario.

They resent the tendency of the Hydro Commission to ignore their rights in this respect, and they will ask the Ontario Government and the Commission to put their cards on the table.

In short, the Central Ontario Power Association proposes to let the Hydro forces know that the municipalities of Ontario decline to be treated any longer like children.

They want to be assured that the increases are justified, or rather they want to be shown by the production of all the figures in the case that there is good reason for added power costs.

They are no longer to be put off with generalities—there has been too much of that kind of thing—but they demand details.

CELEBRATING THE JUBILEE.

The proposal of the Dominion Government to spend $250,000 in staging a fitting celebration of Canada's sixtieth birthday has been attacked by a famous trio of members who usually do not find common ground on any question.

Assailants of the plan include Mr. Woodsworth, the Labour leader; Miss Agnes MacPhail, U.F.O., and T. L. Church, well-known Toronto member, who criticize the proposal from various angles.

Mr. Woodsworth doesn't think that there should be any particular glorification of our forefathers; Miss MacPhail is afraid that "crazy military parades" will be a feature of the celebration, and Mr. Church declares that the only people who want the jubilee "are a lot of Canadian clubs that are no more Canadian than Empire clubs are imperial."

In spite of these distinguished opinions, The Examiner believes that Canada's sixtieth birthday should be observed, and observed in a manner that will impress the world.

If it is worth doing—and beyond a doubt it is—it is worth doing well.

If for no worthier motive than to advertise Canada, it is worth $250,000 as a publicity medium.

The Government need not worry about the Woodsworths, MacPhails and Churches—the majority of Canadians are heartily in favour of the jubilee celebration.

TARIFF CHANGES.

While the failure of the Federal Government to announce any tariff changes will not please those industries which have stressed the need of greater protection or favourably impress the Progressives who believe that the tariff should be scaled down, there is no doubt that the majority of Canadians will agree that Mr. Robb has taken the right position.

If the Advisory Tariff Board is to be of any real service to the people of this country it must be given a fair chance.

While its investigations into some fifty applications for tariff changes are not yet completed, it would have been both unfair and unwise on the part of the Government to have announced alterations in the tariff.

The Tariff Board must be given a clear field to hear all the evidence in regard to suggested changes, and having sifted and weighed the data placed before it, to make recommendations to the Government.

Otherwise the organization will prove of little value.

When the next Budget is being prepared the Government should have the benefit of the findings of the Advisory Board in reaching a decision as to what changes should be made.

In the meanwhile Canada as a whole is not likely to suffer any great inconvenience because there have been no alterations in the present tariff.

CANADA'S AIR PROGRAMME.

An outstanding feature of the main estimates at Ottawa is the provision for extending the air services. This was foreshadowed by the Prime Minister in his recent Toronto speech. The sum of $3,892,000 is asked for aviation, an increase of more than $2,000,000. It is impossible to draw a line between civil and military aviation, as the great Powers realized when they discussed the limitation of armaments, and it may be assumed that Canada's air forces will serve the double purpose of defence and commerce. On commercial grounds alone there is an unanswerable argument for a larger air programme. America is far behind Europe in civil aviation, and Canada is behind the United States. Admirable use of airplanes is being made in surveying and forest protection in this country, but apart from this there has been nothing corresponding to the progress across the line, where regular aerial routes have been established, some of them traversing the continent.

The Dominion representatives at the Imperial Conference were deeply impressed in Great Britain by the plans and achievements of the British Air Ministry. In his Toronto speech on Feb. 3, Mr. King dwelt at some length on the special value of aeronautics to the British Empire both for defence and trade, and suggested that Canada should play a larger part in this development. The present air programme is the outcome of his observations there and of the deliberations of the Imperial Conference, but even if there had been no such stimulus this country must inevitably have given increasing attention to aviation. We have in this country many of the most skillful aviators in the world, so that there will be no problem of recruiting men either for military or civil service. The Government has taken a preparatory step by inviting many of the municipalities to report on local conditions for establishing air depots. When the estimates are under discussion we shall hear more of its plans. Probably one of the first steps will be the creation of an aerial branch of the Postal Department. In the prairie country and the north especially the airplane can do much to banish time, distance and isolation. Sir Alan Cobham, whose speeches in Canada promoted public interest in the question, described graphically what it had done and is doing for the settlers of Australia. It can be made a similar boon in the thinly-populated parts of Canada. In the more populous sections, as in Western Ontario, the airplane will probably soon be a regular feature of our transportation system.—London Advertiser.

YOUTH.

The last few days have seen an epidemic of suicides and other forms of violence among youths in United States cities. Mental experts, studying the motives, lay such acts to revenge, irreverence, the "giddy speed" of the age and the lack of spiritual guidance in modern churches. There may be other reasons, but those are the main ones quoted.

Psychologists, save for the few very intelligent ones, find it hard to study a problem deeply without becoming immersed in mere words. Revenge, or "mental foes," for instance, does not constitute a primary motive. The cause lies under that again. It is usually found in a feeling of inferiority, either general or specific. That sense of inferiority, it can often be found, has been implanted in the mind ever since early childhood. Not wittingly, of course, but put there nevertheless. Children are laughed at, told they are very wicked; drilled to consider their own ideas worth nothing. Most of all, does ridicule leave a wound in the heart? In some cases it is ineradicable. The child grows up subject to revengeful feelings, to hatreds and jealousies. Or, again, he becomes in his own elementary way, a fatalist, feeling that he cannot be right, so he might as well be genuinely wrong and have satisfaction. He may have been taught morals, but unless he has seen them exemplified and been taught to believe that he himself is a pillar of morality, then he may throw off his superficial learning and yield to the more primitive passions

A reaction from this feeling of inferiority is found among the youthful so-called intellectuals. Their first insight into the deeper secrets of life, usually the barest smattering of knowledge, appears to them a veritable well of wisdom. They revel in its freedom, they find an escape from restraint. Unless character is solidly built on morality they are apt to jump too far into their new-found freedom. They find apparent support for their excesses in popular American publications which usually clothe their deeds with a halo of mystery, not entirely free of glorification. If more encouragement is wanted, it can be found in the American courts and in the hundred and one leagues for this and that method of redeeming at the expense of the victim. The stage is set for these children of violence. Finding no self-confidence in the restricted teaching of their homes, they seek it in the sentimentality of a later age.

The "giddy age" is given too much credit—or blame—for the behavior of youth. The age is merely a human product, representing adults and children alike. The plain truth is that children have caught up to their parents. They are looking for truths that have not been taught them. It is too late now to talk of reforming youth. It has always been too late. The groundwork for that is and has always been laid in childhood, when the minds are fresh and impressionable, and when teaching makes indelible marks on the memory. The opportunity today lies not so much with the youth emerging into manhood as with the child, laying a substantial foundation of morality for the next generation of grown-ups. And morality, as here used, does not mean a mere jumble of don'ts. It means the instilling every day of absolute self-confidence into the child, from the cradle up. Grant him that, and his respect for life will look after itself.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

With the Federal Government inaugurating a 10 per cent. cut in income tax and the Ontario Government increasing the exemption so far as municipal income tax is concerned, the salaried man is beginning to come into his own.

The Robb Budget has been well received. Now we're all waiting to see what Hon. Mr. Monteith is going to do for Ontario folks.

Mr. Church failed to get a seconder for a motion the other day. But the rebuff won't cause the irrepressible Tommy even to hesitate.

Premier Ferguson says that his Government control policy will furnish as big a surprise as did his announcement of the identity of his "strong man." Is that a promise or a threat?

The debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne in the Legislature took up two weeks, and then was terminated without a division. Wouldn't two days have been ample under the circumstances?

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Feb. 19—The week's cattle marketing closed with a good active demand for butcher cattle of practically all grades except the heavy coarse, unfinished steer type. Choice light butcher steers and heifers, 800 to 900 lbs., were in quite brisk demand at a shade better prices, from $7 to $7.50. Good medium butcher, $6.50 to $6.75. Heavy steers, from $6.50 to $6.75, and up to $7.

Fat cows were quite active, choice selling $5.25 to $5.50, with quite a number at $5.75. Some young heifers cows $6 and good cows $4.50 to $5. Canners and cutters steady. Choice butcher and bologa bulls active at steady prices. Baby beeves steady for choice at $9.50 to $10; good, $8 to $9. Too many of the unfinished kinds coming in and selling at $7 to $7.50.

Export buyers earlier in the week took 475 cattle off the market for export, and report about the same number will be required for next week.

Steers, $7.25 to $7.65. Light steers sold at $7.25 to $7.50; heifers, $7 to $7.25. No bulls taken or wanted for export.

Springers and milkers—There has been some improvement in the demand, choice springers selling at $85 to $100; good, $60 to $75; choice, fresh milkers with calf at foot, $75 to $90; good, $50 to $70; common cows not in demand, except to go over the scales at cutter prices.

Stockers and feeders.— One load of western cattle, mixed steers and heifers, selling at $5.75, weighing 800 lbs., for the steers and yearling heifers $5, weiging 600 lbs.

Sheep and lambs — Choice lambs selling at 12¼c to 12½c, with a few as high as 12¾c; good, 11 to 12c; heavy lambs, 10c to 10½c; buck lambs, 9 to 9½c; yearling sheep, 7c to 8c; choice butchers' sheep, 6c to 6½c; good, 5c to 5½c; heavy sheep and aged bucks, to 5c; cull sheep, 2c to 3c. We advise shipping any lambs still back, as they are likely to be classed as yearlings any time now. There is a demand for a few choice fat spring lambs, weighing not less than 45 to 50 lbs.

Calves—Choice veal calves met with strong trading at 13c to 13½c, with a few mancy 14c; good, 11c to 12c; medium calves, 7c to 10c; stockers calves, 4c to 4½c.

Hogs—Sold this week at $10.75 f.o.b.; $11.25 fed; $11.65 weighed off cars. Premium on selects $2.21 per head, or on a basis of $11.88 per hundred f.o.b. Market weakened towards end of week, reflecting lower Buffalo prices. Local packers bidding $10.25 f.o.b.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—A feature of the export grain trade on the Montreal market yesterday was the improved demand from the Continent for Canadian Western oats and sales of several loads were made. The trade in wheat with both the United Kingdom and the Continent continue slow.

The demand from local buyers for American corn showed some improvement and it was reported that sales of 25 cars were made for prompt shipment from Chicago. On spot car lots of No. 3 yellow corn were quoted at 92c; No. 4 yellow at 89c; sample yellow corn at 85c, and cool sweet corn at 83 1-2c per bushel. The trade in Canadian Western oats was quiet but firm.

The export and local trade in Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour continued inactive, but values were firm.

The demand for all lines of millfeed showed some improvement and a moderate amount of business was worked at unchanged prices. The market for standard grades of rolled oats continued quiet but prices ruled steady.

The egg market was without any special feature to note, prices being well maintained under a moderate demand. The receipts were 1,362 cases.

The undertone to the potato market was firm but the demand was limited. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.60 to $1.65 per bag of 90 pounds, while Quebec White stock sold at $1.25 to $1.30 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track, and New Brunswick Green Mountains at $1.20 to $1.25 per bag of 90 pounds, ex-store.

The volume of business done in butter was moderate-sized and prices were firm. The receipts were 82 packages.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—Unfavorable crop reports from the southwest tended to rally wheat yesterday after the market had averaged lower most of the time. Passage of the McNary-Haugen Bill failed to bring about any notable increase of buying. Wheat closed irregular at 1-4c net lower to 1-8c advance; corn 1-4 and 3-8 to 3-4c down; oats a shade to 1-4c off, and provisions 10c to 17c gain.

Scattered liquidation sales dominated corn. Unsatisfactory shipping demand together with prospects of a further increase of stocks were a weight on the market. Oats sympathized with corn.

Provisions went up with hogs and cotton oil.

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

CORRECT ENGLISH AN ESSENTIAL

(By The McClure Syndicate, Inc.)

In an article published in the Atlantic Monthly, on "What Constitutes an Educated Person To-day?" Katherine Fullerton Gerould asserted that the ability to use correct English is one of the prime characteristics of a truly educated man or woman. She wrote:

"I maintain that no man is educated whose grammar is shaky. He may have a Ph. D. from any place you like but if he confuses adverbs and adjectives, he is not an educated man. This minimum I think we can—we must—still demand."

The Sun of New York commented not long ago on the fact that some persons who hold high official positions are not guiltless of faulty English. It quoted Attorney General Daugherty as saying, "If anyone thinks the Government will not move the mails, they are wrong." The newspaper said, "But then grammar never was a primary qualification for a Cabinet member." (Of course the error lay in the use of "they" in reference to "anyone." The sentence should have read, "If anyone thinks the Government will not move the mails, he is wrong.")

LAMENTS BIBLE JOKES

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—There is one thing about almost every entertainment, that to me, is very distressing, and that is the habit so many, even ministers have, of making jokes on Biblical subjects. In our home we try to teach reverence towards God's Word, then we take a child to an entertainment, for some church organization, and the child hears leaders provoke mirth by such jokes. Perhaps I am out of date, but it does seem that the terrible lack of reverence exhibited by so many young people is often encouraged by these jokes.

Surely there are many funny stories and jokes that can be told without resorting to the Bible and cheapening it.

ABOUT WOMEN IN BUSINESS

Recently I read a rather lengthy article about the seven deadly sins of women in business. Summarized these sins are:

Taking yourself too seriously.
Taking your job too seriously.
Overestimating your importance.
Underestimating the importance of your masculine associates.
Losing your feminine viewpoint—the sympathetic understanding, tolerance, and patience that are women's rich gifts to business.
Eliminating all other interests, social and recreational, from your life.
Permitting yourself to become unsexed by destroying all semblance of feminine charm in mind and heart, manners and appearance.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

ORIENTATION

By Dr. Frank Crane.

Orientation means, roughly speaking, getting one's bearings.

The mariner out of sight of land orientates himself by the north star. By observing that he can tell in which direction he is going and calculate whereabout he is on the surface of the earth.

In every dispute one is more likely to be correct in his contention if he properly orientates himself by certain accepted truths. This point was brought out in Daniel Webster's reply to Hayne.

It all comes back to the statement that has often been made, that there would be no disputes if people were careful to agree in the first place upon their definitions.

In the case of the debts which the European nations owe to the United States, if both parties could agree upon the actual facts there would be less divergence of opinion.

It is not a question of wrong logic upon the one hand and right upon the other, but a question as to the reliability of the facts assumed.

Before you start an altercation with your fellow man if you will take pains to find out and define the terms of the thing in dispute between you, you will find that you have no dispute at all.

The case of the two knights is in point where they fought over the color of a shield. One said it was red and the other blue. They came to find out at last that the shield was red on one side and blue on the other.

If you are engaged in a fight over the color of a shield it might be well first of all to examine the shield carefully and see that it is all the same color.

Things seen from one point of view look one way, and from another point of view they seem to have another appearance.

One reason why there is so much dispute among theologians is that they are never able to agree upon their facts, and one reason why there is rarely a dispute among scientists is that they do not commence to argue until the facts have been established.

It is a good thing to find out exactly what is the truth before we begin to discuss it.

ORGAN RECITALS

In these days of advanced surgery it is hard to find an acquaintance who has not been through some kind of an operation. These operations are discussed in the best of society, and serve as a favorite subject of conversation wherever two or three people are gathered together. Each one seems trying to beat the other ones' story, and it is a difficult thing to avoid being burdened by these "Organ recitals."

Nearly every one is sure that their operation was the most dangerous and unusual one ever performed, and they seem to want to brag about it, instead of being ashamed of it. All operations are man's punishment upon man for breaking nature's laws, and although a skillfully performed operation may have been the means of saving a life, it is certainly only something for the surgeon to boast about, and not the patient, who is a real culprit in the eyes of nature.

This practice by the layman of discussing his trouble with friends can be of little help to him, and only tends to make him all the more a chronic invalid who will be shunned by healthy friends, and courted more by sick ones, who want to swap stories about their disorders.

How many symptoms are needlessly developed by the hypochondriac who actually brings on diseases by using his imagination like a microscope on simple and harmless disturbance, which pass unnoticed by the one with a healthy viewpoint.

The most difficult patient is the one who has learned the medical name for each of his symptoms. He has usually filled his memory mind with an exhaustively complete history of every ailment he has had during his life; the number of consultations with different specialists, the medicines he has taken, the fees paid, etc., —no detail is omitted. He knows the Latin name for each operation and for every anatomical structure, and often perplexes his new doctor with namesof diseases the doctor has never heard of, or has long since forgotten. It is so hard for the earnest physician to sidetrack this patient's mind away from thoughts of disease to thoughts of health. He is unwilling to listen to advice about diet and exercise, and indignant if the suggestion is made that he should think of health and not so much about sickness.

It has been wisely said that "Fool patients often make fool doctors," and the honest surgeon is often persuaded against his judgment to operating just once more upon a patient who is so insistent, that only something of a radical nature will cure him! Many operations are resorted to by doctors who furtively hope that the patient will be helped because of his faith. A vicious circle is thus established from which the patient cannot extricate himself, until he comes into the knowledge that a strong imagination can be used to better advantage in developing healthful habits, than it can be in creating thoughts of disease.

TRUE STORIES ABOUT LIFE INSURANCE BY A REPRESENTATIVE OF THE MUTUAL LIFE

He Thought He Was "Overloaded"

HE bowled on the office team and collapsed one night in the alley. Nobody knew that his heart was affected.

He carried $17,000 of Mutual Life Insurance, and always claimed I had "overloaded" him, because all his spare funds were absorbed by premiums. He had earned about $8,000 per year.

However, his widow doesn't think he was "overloaded." How else could he have left her an estate of $17,000, in cash?

The cost of carrying Mutual Life insurance is reduced by the profits. The Mutual Life is run on a sound business basis and earns a substantial surplus. There being no stockholders in this company surplus profits, after reserves are cared for, accrue to the policyholders. Write for the Mutual Book.

THEATRE
AT THE GRAND

"ABIE'S IRISH ROSE."

Judging from the line at the box office and the clamoring for seats over the telephone at the Grand Opera House, Anne Nichols' famous appealing comedy, 'Abie's Irish Rose," which opens for an engagement of one performance only on Monday evening, will undoubtedly prove one of the record-breaking attractions of the season, and unless all signs fail, one week's stay would hardly be enough to give all local theatre-goers who wish to attend, an opportunity to witness this dispeller of gloom and blues, for it is said that in unfolding the trials and tribulations of Abie and Rosemary, his Irish bride, there are so many hearty, spontaneous laughs that many persons have said, "You laugh until it hurts."

The hearty response accorded this wonderfully clean and humorous play is due to its human appeal and its bright and witty lines and natural situations which can be seen and heard by even the unsophisticated without fear of a blush.

The excellent company which Miss Nichols offers in presenting "Abie's Irish Rose" in this city is that which recently played eleven weeks at the Majestic Theatre in Buffalo, and six weeks at the Wieting Opera House, Syracuse, besides four weeks in Utica, and comes direct from a return engagement at the Princess Theatre in Montreal.

AT THE CAPITOL.

"FLESH AND THE DEVIL."
John Gilbert and Greta Garbo.

One of the world's most seductive screen charmers—being made violent love to by the champion lovemakers of two nations—this is the unique combination of the screen in 'Flesh and the Devil," which comes Monday to the Capitol Theatre.

Greta Garbo blonde charmer of the screen and famous star from Europe will know forever the difference between American and European love making as a result of her role in the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture—in fact, she had to act as a sort of judge of a battle for supremacy between the lovemakers of the American and the Swedish screen champions.

One of her screen lovers is John Gilbert, hero of "The Big Parade," "The Merry Widow, and famous for his romantic roles—the other is Lars Hanson, the "Swedish Barrymore."

It is a gripping story based on sociological conditions in the old world, hanging on traditions of love and marriage, and with Miss Garbo in the role of a seductive modern Circe, whose beauty and charm lures men to ruin. John Gilbert plays one of her lovers, and Hanson the other—who marries her to precipitate one of the most powerful dramatic situations ever portrayed on the screen.

AT THE REGENT

"THE TRAP" VITAL TALE OF CANADIAN WOODS

"The Trap," a strong story of the North woods, the Universal-Jewel attraction starring Lon Chaney which comes to the Regent Theatre on Monday for an engagement of three days, is unique in having enjoyed a sensational success a few years ago and then being reshown to a public ewen more enthused over the remarkable acting of Chaney than they were at its first release. Robert Thornby directed this film masterpiece.

Lon Chaney, the star, gained his enviable reputation as an actor in "The Miracle Man," which he followed closely with "The Penalty," still sustaining a reputation for creating human characterizations in decidedly a distinctive manner. Then came "Outside the Law," where he was seen in support of Priscilla Dean. It was as a result of his work in that picture that Universal decided to star him in "The Trap." In this production Chaney had unusual opportunities for living up to his reputation as "the man of a thousand faces." He made the most of them.

This great actor was not world renowned when the production of "The Trap" was first announced, but following this, his initial triumph as a star, he quickly became recognized as the premier character actor of the screen.

Had No Ambition and Had To Rest Frequently.

Mrs. Wm. J. Griffin, Tehkummah, Manitoulin Island, Ont., is one of the many thousands of women who was run-down and bloodless, and who has found new health through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says: "For a number of years I felt very weak and had no ambition. I found it very difficult to do my housework and had to rest frequently. As time passed my condition grew decidedly worse, and my feet and legs were badly swollen. My husband told the doctor of my condition, and he gave me medicine. Then my baby came and the doctor attended me. He said I had scarcely any blood in my body—that it had turned to water. I continued taking his medicine for a time, but did not feel that it was doing me any good. Then I started to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In a short while I felt better, and after taking the pills for a couple of months I felt like a new person. When my work used to be a drag upon my strength I enjoy doing it now, and I will always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to weak people."

If you will send your name and address to The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., they will mail you a little book called "Building Up the Blood," which contains many health hints. You can get the pills through any medicine dealer or by mail from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)
SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1927.

Astrologers read this as an unfavorable day and advise abiding at home after the Sunday services.

Accidents to automobiles appear to be indicated as more probable than in usual circumstances.

It is a day when the mind will not be naturally attuned to spiritual things, and the clergy may find congregations unresponsive.

Criticism had a tendency to tear down rather than to build up are supposed to be encouraged by this positing of the stars.

Religious propaganda will be much needed in certain quarters, the seers foretell, for there is to be increase of scepticism, although an awakening to spiritual needs also will be apparent.

Stress is to be laid on the power of the mind at this time when startling theories regarding the occult world will be disseminated.

Quarrels may be easily started while this configuration prevails, and there may be a tendency toward irritibility.

Warning is given that courtesy should be cultivated in the United States, which is to suffer seriously because of an act of grave lack of good manners toward a foreign representative, the seers declare.

In the reactionary trend the seers see hope that old-time codes in manners again will become popular.

This is not an auspicious day for making visits. One is likely to bore oneself but that is no reason for making other persons suffer.

In the coming year church architecture of extraordinary beauty will be revealed in new edifices, it is foretold.

Money is to be spent lavishly for art and music in 1927, which is to give a great impulse to the lovelier things of life the seers prophesy.

Persons whose birthdate it is should have a fairly lucky year, but they should beware of egotism and self will.

Children born on this day have the augury of success, but they may be difficult to guide.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1927.

Again certain stars frown on the planet Earth, according to astrology, but there are certain promising aspects.

Banks and bankers should benefit. If the stars are rightly read they will gain greatly in their general business connections which will be wider this year than ever before.

Thrift is well directed at this time when Americans are to begin to realize the importance of saving money.

One of the reactions predicted in 1927 will be regarding waste and reckless spending.

Fortunes are to be made through methods ignored in the land of methods ignored in the land of when thrift rules, the astrologers declare.

This is not an auspicious day for any sort of real estate speculation, and it is well to avoid investments that tempt with promise of big returns.

Profits through oil appear to be indicated at this time when new wells are to be discovered.

This is a fairly favorable day for starting on journeys overseas, but it is well to expect unusual storms abroad.

Military matters will be prominent in Great Britain and there will be heated discussion in this country regarding military protection, if the seers are to be believed.

This month is to be important in the history of labor in Europe and America. Workers will benefit.

Owing to aspects at the time of the eclipse of the Sun last month the seers foresee great upheavals in the British empire.

Financial conditions in certain foreign countries will become desperate before the spring, it is prophesied.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have a year in which a few money worries are troublesome in a situation otherwise extraordinarily happy.

Children born on this day may be reserved and modest, but they are likely to be gifted and able to succeed in a learned profession.

W. A. MEETING.

St. John's Women Hold Monthly Gathering For Study.

The monthly meeting of St John's W.A. was held on Tuesday afternoon, February 15th, with about forty members present.

The president, Mrs. A. W. Turner, occupied the chair, and the devotions and Bible address were conducted by Dr. Blagrave.

All reports of the various departments were satisfactory, and after the reading of the annual report by the secretary, attention was drawn to the fact that it was the 40th annual meeting for St. John's branch although the organization had really been in existence for six years prior to that date.

The meeting was closed with the members prayer and benediction, after which tea was served by the refreshment committee in charge of Mrs. Lemmings.

More than $12,000,000 worth of musical instruments are sold annually in foreign countries by American manufacturers.

BANKERS' DANCE

The fifth annual dance of the Bankers of Peterboro held in the hall of the Canadian Legion last night, was a very successful affair, attended by nearly five hundred people. The music was provided by Gilbert Watson and his Recording Orchsetra of Toronto, and the decorations were especially dazzling and brilliant. The walls were festooned with paper chenille ropes in red, yellow and green, and artificial flowers with colored foliage, and silver leaves, were placed in wreaths and cornucopias about the walls and the doorways, which were outlined, like the windows, with conventional scrolls in Oriental designs, in brilliant shades of mauve, orange, red blue and green. A large basket of white fluted paper wreathed with roses and green leaves, depended by silver tinsel ropes from the central electrolier, the smaller lights being covered with large silver-edged paper stars in crimson, orchid, yellow, emerald and blue.

The moire white and gold paper blinds on window were silhouetted with red hearts and cupids, and a large red Valentine heart decorated the north wall. Flat bronzed plaques were placed on the south and north walls and on the former appeared a huge crescent moon, also in bronze, outlined with tinsel. The orchestra stand was backed by a blue drape, panelled in red and yellow and arranged with palms and tall piano lamps. The small sitting out room at the end of the hall was arranged with wicker furniture, and the upstair refreshment rooms had red-shaded lights and red candles on the tables, in low black holders.

Patronesses for the dance were Mesdames E. S. Martin, J. W. Fraser, J. Crane, A. J. Reynolds, C. S. Cummer, E. J. H. Vanston and V. Eastwood, Sr.

The committee in charge was as follows: Chairman, G. M. Lyons, secretary, R. D. Mulholland; members, the Misses M. Conner, G. Collins, M. Drope, G. Wilson, Messrs. J. Crane, R. R. MacDonald, F. J. Blanchfield, C. Sedgewick, L. S. Hollingsworth, E. R. Hatton and J. V. Baird.

SO SHORT OF BREATH SHE COULD HARDLY DO HER HOUSEWORK

Mrs. Nelson Moore, Milford, Ont., writes:—"I had heart and nerve trouble, and became so short of breath I could hardly do my housework, and was so nervous every little sound I heard felt like a shock to me.

A friend of mine recommended MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS so highly I got a box of them and they did me so much good I got the second box, and now I am feeling like a different woman."

Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. a box at all druggists or dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

WILL ORGANIZE COMMERCIAL FLYING

Sir Alan Cobham Interests Winnipeg Citizens in New Venture.

WINNIPEG, Man., Feb. 19. — (Canadian Press).—The mission of Sir Alan Cobham, famous British airman, to Winnipeg has already borne definite results. Following a meeting at which Sir Alan relating his experiences in flying from Great Britain to Australia and back, a committee of leading Winnipeg citizens was formed for the furtherance of commercial and civil aviation in Manitoba.

The commttee will investigate the possibilities of aviation in the Province and co-operate with other Provincial bodies that are working for the organization of a Dominion-wide aerial league.

Among those who are included on the Manitoba committee are Hon. W. R. Clubb, Minister of Public Works in the Bracken Government; Mayor R. Webb, D. C. Coleman, A. W. McLimont, H. R. Drummond Hay, Col. W. G. Bell, Major G. Northwood. W. McCurdy, C. S. Riley and C. Heubach.

In urging the formation of light 'plane clubs, Sir Alan offered to supply any needed statistics relative to aviation.

PROVINCES HAIL RED CROSS WORK

Real Interest Taken in Organization in Seaport Cities.

NURSERIES PRAISED

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 19.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. J. L. Biggar, Chief Commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross Society, on returning to Toronto from a three weeks' tour of the Maritimes in the interest of his organization, stated that "there is a more optimistic note apparent in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick regarding the future."

"The people generally," said he, "seem to be looking forward to a period of expansion and greater prosperity and they evinced a remarkable interest in the public health activities of the Red Cross in their own and other Provinces."

Dr. Biggar attended the annual meetings of the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia Provincial Red Cross Societies which have undertaken a very extensive health programme, and also addressed a number of service clubs giving his message regarding the peace-time programme of the Red Cross. The Commissioner was particularly pleased with the fine quarters occupied by the Saint John Seaport Nursery where immigrant women and children are welcomed and sped on their way to their destinations by Red Cross nurses and volunteer helpers.

"The service in these seaport nurseries in Quebec, Halifax and Saint John is already gaining recognition in Great Britain and the Scandinavian countries as an invaluable addition to the immigration formalities, and is providing to newly arrived settlers from these or other countries the very best kind of introduction to the land of their adoption. They provide the human touch which is so important and at once establish friendly relationships," said Dr. Biggar.

BANKER FORCED TO OPEN SAFE

DETROIT, Feb. 19.—A bold and chatty armed hold-up man, accompanied by a blonde young woman, escaped yesterday after he had kidnapped the manager of the United Savings Bank in Plymouth, forced him to open the safe, and helped himself to $5,425.

Frank J. Pierce, aged 59, the bank manager, was on his way to the bank at 7 a.m., when an automobile stopped beside him and a man inquired for a "Mr. Hogarth." Before Pierce could reply he was covered with a revolver and ordered into the car.

The bandit, sitting in the front seat with the woman, drove to the bank and forced Pierce to unlock the door. The vault had a time lock set for 8 a.m., and the bandit waited, and then ordered Pierce to fix the furnace and to telephone his wife that he would not be home for breakfast.

When the time lock opened the bandit packed the money in a black bag and forced Pierce to carry the bag and place it in the car, which the young woman waited. Pierce was again ordered to get into the machine, and was driven to an abandoned farm and left in a barn, with orders not to come out for 15 minutes.

Pierce left the barn after the bandit car had disappeared, and called the bank by telephone from a neighboring farmhouse. He said the bandit was very chatty, and told him he had been in Plymouth before, and had had a "raw deal" all his life.

Just before leaving, Pierce said, the hold-up man turned to him and said: "You might get in Dutch for this job, because they might iblame it on you." The bandit then wrote a note, which read: "To whom it concerns: Mr. Banker had to do this or die."

PUZZLE Who Won the Movie Channel Swim? WIN

New 1927 Chevrolet Coach $1800.00 IN PRIZES

WHO ARE THEY?

THE PUZZLE

Twenty-two popular moving picture stars are supposed, recently, to have swam in a race across the English Channel. Their names are printed below. The results of the race were broadcast by Radio Station BWLO, but the operator, to have some fun and keep the thousands of interested listening fans in suspense, announced the names of the first seven to finish jumbled up. For instance, he gave number 5 as "Nan grows o sail" instead of Gloria Swanson, and offered big prizes to those who could correctly name the first seven he announced. In the picture above you see him announcing the names in ridiculous fashion. If you can put the letters of each name back in their right places you will have the names of the first seven whose pictures are shown to the left in the order in which they finished. Find their names and send them in to compete for the big prizes.

NAMES OF ALL THE MOVIE STARS WHO SWAM IN THE CHANNEL RACE—THE FIRST 7 ARE AMONG THESE—Alice Joyce, May McAvoy, Lillian Gish, Constance Talmadge, Colleen Moore, Madge Bellamy, Corinne Griffith, Norma Shearer, Seena Owen, May Allison, Gloria Swanson, Norma Talmadge, Bebe Daniels, Clara Bow, Vilma Banky, Pola Negri, Viola Dana, Florence Vidor, Marion Davies, Marie Prevost, Lois Wilson, Mary Brian.

SOLVE IT AND WIN FIRST PRIZE

If you are clever enough to solve this fascinating puzzle you have opened the way to being declared first prize winner. If your solution is successful in winning 175 points, the maximum for being correct, we will write you and show you how first prize can easily be won. Be neat and careful. Comply with rules.

WHY THIS CONTEST IS RUN

This is an advertising contest. We want to make you and your friends acquainted with wonderful Sterling Hosiery, made in all the better grades of pure silk, silk and wool, and pure wool for the whole family; and sold direct to you through a chain of Sterling Stores, and personal service direct to the home. We will write and tell you of a wonderful plan to save you money on your hosiery requirements. At the same time we will ask you to allow us to send you a few sample pairs to examine and show a few friends who will be glad to join you in saving money too.

SEND NO MONEY

Costs Nothing to Compete

There is no entrance fee, nor do you have to spend your money to compete and win the highest prizes. This is not a sales contest for the biggest sales. Everybody's opportunity is equal.

PRIZES

FIRST - -	Chevrolet Coach - Value	$910.00
2nd	Cash	$150.00

Money to pay the above prizes in full is on deposit in trust with the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Wallace & Lansdowne Ave., Toronto.

FOLLOW THESE SIMPLE RULES

1. Write answers in pen and ink on one side of the paper only. Put name and address and name of this paper in upper right hand corner, stating whether Mr., Mrs., or Miss. Put anything else on separate sheet. Don't send fancy, drawn or typewritten entries. 2. Contestants must be 15 years or over. Employees of this company, their friends and relatives are forbidden to enter. 3. Final awards will be made by a committee of 3 Toronto gentlemen having no connection with the firm. Their names will be made known to all contestants. Contestants must agree to abide by their decisions. Prizes will be awarded by points. 300 points, the maximum, will take first prize, 175 points will be awarded for the correct solution to the puzzle. 10 points each for general neatness, appearance, spelling, punctuation and handwriting of entry, and 75 for fulfilling the conditions of contest. Contest closes June 30th, 1927. Entries should be forwarded promptly. $100 extra prize for promptness will be given.

The Company conducting the contest is an old established, reliable and responsible Company.

WILLYS-KNIGHT Sixes

Now! ANOTHER EXCLUSIVE FEATURE

The silent Willys-Knight sleeve-valve engine plus a Belflex silenced Chassis now make a completely silent car.

From the first turn of its sleeve-valve engine, the most powerful, most highly efficient and quietest in operation of all cars of its type or class—the Willy's Knight Six—to a mileage point still undetermined—gains in power, gains in efficiency, gains in smoothness and silence with every mile.

And now—Belflex Shackles—still another new and exclusive Willys-Knight feature—a tremendous engineering advance over the unsatisfactory and noisy metal shackle of other cars. Belflex guards against all chassis rattles and squeaks. It deadens road vibration, eliminates all need for shackle lubrication.

Belflex provides that the sprung parts of the car are insulated from the unsprung parts with a noiseless, flexible fabric—shock-absorbing, rubberized—thereby affording permanent chassis silence and diminishing wear at every point of the car.

Examine the new "70" Willys-Knight Six or the Great Six yourself. Willys-Overland Engineering Leadership was never more definitely emphasized than in the extraordinary beauty, luxury and performance ability of these fine cars.

Willys-Knight Great Six prices from $2575 to $3050. The new "70" Willys-Knight Six, companion car to the Willys-Knight Great Six, from $1625 to $1945. Prices f.o.b. factory. Taxes extra.

Spring Millinery

This spring introduces one of the cleverest Hats we have ever yet seen. Its inspiration is, quite naturally, Paris. No brim, or just a tiny rippling one in the front only; it fits the shape of the head, and what is more novel, follows the line of the haircut at the back of the neck.

Usually of faille silk and straw, this Hat will indeed find favor for dancing because of its lightness and comfort, and having no brim in back, there is no rubbing against the collar. A very debutante sort of Hat that you will adore. Come in and look them over.

ART STUDY CLUB HOLDS MEETING

Miss B. Beatty Reads Paper on Life of Josef Israels.

MANY ADMIRERS.

The Art Study Club of the Women's Art Association held a meeting at the home of Mrs. R. J. Kidd, Hunter street, this week, when the response to the roll call was a quotation of "Home" and a very interesting paper dealing with the life of Josef Israels was read by Miss B. Beatty.

Josef Israels, "who lived to the age of eighty seven years, painted almost to the day of his death, and to the end retained an enormous body of admirers scattered over nearly the whole of the civilized world," was hailed in his time as the regenerator of Dutch art, and as the man who was to place it in the glorious position it had occupied during the seventeenth century. "His art must be regarded a blending of the influence of Rembrandt with that of Jean Millet."

Israels was born in 1824 at Groningen, of Hebrew parentage, his father being a money-changer and broker. As a boy, his first ambition was to be a rabbi, and at an early age he studied Hebrew and buried himself in the Talmud. He was well into his teens before his talent for painting unmistakably asserted itself, and, parental opposition having been overcome, he was allowed to study art in Amsterdam. It was while living with an orthodox Jewish family in the Ghetto that the impressions received from the life about him, combined with the study of the religious paintings and etchings of Rembrandt, influenced to a great extent the scope of his later art. At the age of twenty-one, he went to Paris to study, and entered the studio of Picot, who had been a pupil of David. Here he learned to admire historical paintings in the classical style.

During the next ten years, he divided his time between historical genre and romanticism, for the influence of another master, Delaroche, was strong, and the public called for pictures of the romantic type.

In 1848, he returned to Amsterdam, and in 1855, he exhibited in the Paris Salon a historical picture which won great praise from the critics. In 1857 he exhibited again and in 1867, his celebrated "Interior of an Orphan Asylum" gained for him a third-class medal and ribbon of the Legion of Honour. Eight years later, he receievd the Cross and a first-class medal.

It was life, not art nor artists, that changed the whole spirit of Israel's painting. While living at Amsterdam, he had a serious illness, and went while convalescing to Zantvoort, a little fishing village close to Haarlem. Here he made the discovery that " the events of the present are capable of being painted, and the sorrows of the poor are as deep as the tragical fate of ancient heroes." Henceforward, he painted from the lives of the poor and humble, and it may be said that the art of Israels was the fruit of his own experience, rather than the outcome of French influence.

While he has painted landscapes and marine studies, his most characteristic pictures represent dim interiors, with the light stealing from a small window into the room, and etching certain objects in faint relief. He selected subjects that aroused deep feeling within himself, putting his whole heart into the work.

Under the influence of Israels, the Dutch people have learned once more to find the inspiration for their art in their own land, and among their own people. He died in 1911 at the Hague, respected, honored and word famous.

The clock which Charles V. of France ordered to be constructed for his palace ran for 471 years.

REGULAR MEETING OF SCHOOL BOARD

Havelock Trustees Discuss Providing Fire Escapes For School.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 19.—The regular meeting of the school board was held in the school on Wednesday evening with all members present.

Letters from the Shipway Iron, Bell and Wire Manufacturing Co., the Dennis Wire and Iron Works Co. and the McGregor McIntyre Co. Ltd., regarding fire escapes, were read and discussed.

It was moved by Trustees Roche and Anderson that Chairman Thompson attend convention of the Ontario Education Association which will be held in Toronto on April 19, 20 and 21, also that secretary arrange registration for delegate and to subscribe for six copies of the School oBard Journal, also to have the Association send copy of School and Teachers Journal and pictures as advertised in circular. These to be at a cost of $8. Carried.

Card of thanks from Mr. W. Lehane read and ordered filed.

The matter of coal for the school discussed, and it was moved by Trustee Anderson and Scully, that the letter from the E. J. Corbett Co. of Detroit be referred to the local coal dealer, T. Wood, for more information regarding the coal advertised. Carried.

Mr. Forbes of the Lundie Co. of Toronto then addressed the Board and thoroughly explained fire escapes as built by his firm and advised that it would cost $463.00 for two fire escapes complete and installed. Width of platform to be 22 inches and width of tread of steps to be 7 inches. They would take three weeks to install.

Chairman Thompson addressed Board and thanked Mr. Forbes on their behalf for explaining details and information on fire escapes.

Moved by Trustees Roche and Anderson, that chairman and two other trustees act as committee to look into the question of fire escapes and report as to the advisability of installing them. Carried.

Moved by Trustees Roche and Rigby, that letters from the Shipway Co., the McGregor, and McIntyre Co. and the Dennis Wire Co. re fire escapes, be fyled for future reference. Carried.

Chairman Thompson then appointed Trustees Fraser and Scully to act with him on fire escape committee.

The question of fire drill was thoroughly discussed and it was the feeling of the Board that Principal Hildred have fire drill every week for a certain length of time and after that about every ten days, this to be at the discretion of the principal.

Accounts from A. C. Denike for borax, books, etc. for $12.05, Hydro light bill for $1.50, the cost of telegrams re Miss Lehane's absence, also premium for bond for secretary-treasurer Jamieson, amounting to $10 were ordered paid on motion of Trustees Anderson and Scully. Carried.

Secretary Jamieson reported that he had received seal and all correspondence from Mr. Pennell the preceding secretary.

Verbal instructions were given to caretaker to arrange to have new grates put in furnace also to have a light put in hall of school and to arrange to obtain wood for lighting up furnace.

Trustee Roche moved that application from Mr. J. Evans for use of school room during evenings for first aid instruction class be granted.

Moved by Trustees Roche and Scully, that the thanks of the Board be tendered Mr. Hildred for his zeal and devotion to duty in looking after Miss Lehanes' class during her unavoidable absence.

MOTHER'S PRAISE BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mrs. L. M. Brown, Walton, N.S., says:—"I cannot recommend Baby's Own Tablets too highly. I have found them invaluable for the ailments of little ones." Mrs. Brown's testimony is the same as that of thousands of other mothers who have used the Tablets. To use them once is a sure guarantee that they will always be kept in the home as long as there are babies or young children to be cared for. The Tablets are a laxative—mild but thorough in action—which never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels; relieve constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the dreaded teething period easy. In fact you banish all the minor ills from which little ones suffer. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TOO OLD AT 77? NO!

PARIS, Feb. 18.—Two years ago the Minister of Public Instruction decided that Silvain, veteran at the Comedie Francaise was too old to act and decided that he should retire Jan. 1, 1926. Silvain, however, went to law about it and the courts upheld him in his job.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE SPONSOR FIRST AID

Classes Are Now Being Held in the Village of Warsaw.

WARSAW, Feb. 19.—The class in first aid and nursing held under the auspices of the Women's Institute organized on Monday. Miss Florence MacLean Alexander is instructress. She impressed on the class the necessity of obedience.

The Council offered the class the use of the Town Hall.

The instructress gave a list of supplies which should be kept in every household. She explained their necessity and uses, also how to improvise some necessary articles.

The use of epsom salts, turpentine, castor oil and some other standard remedies was explained.

She impressed on the class the necessity of really caring for the patient, and doing all in their power for them; that the nursing in the long run conneted.

Pie Social.

A successful pie social was given by the W.M.S. on Valentine's day. The receipts were twenty-seven dollars.

Dr. Munro's orchestra gave some delightful selections, the little Misses May and Emily Payne sang, also Mr. Henry Batten. The Rev. H. B. Herrington acted as chairman.

The feature of the evening was a debate, "Resolved that Character Is a greater asset than Riches." Mr. Blakely and Miss Sage held the affirmative; Garfield Crowe and Miss Calder upheld the negative. Some of the affirmative points were that riches often cause ruin; that many of the great men in literature, art, science and other things were far from wealthy; that a man of sterling character may be of great good to the community; people who wish to employ seek character; that the Government requires certain standards of character in the immigrants; people of good character can learn better; character aids education; character cannot be bought.

On the negative side some of the points were: That it required money to carry out ideas; that it was not character but brains that invented; that if one was wealthy he could do much good, also he could gain by having books, travel, art and other refinements. Money gives opportunity for refinements; money builds hospitals, churches, and other useful buildings; riches aid philanthropy; money can provide education; a poor man cannot do much to assist others, and a rich man can. Men of high character see the use of money.

All but Mr. Crowe read their arguments, which were well prepared and showed care and thought. The judges were Mr. Ilvan, Miss Quinn, and Mrs. David Miller.

The judges gave the result in favor of the affirmative.

Sandwiches, pie and tea were then served.

Personals.

Glen Crowe, who has been in a hospital at Chapleau, is now visiting his aunt, Mrs. Charles Bowen.

Mrs. Jones (nee Nichol) spent a few days with her cousin, Mrs. George Taylor.

Miss Laura Bowen has been visiting friends in Peterboro.

Mrs. Allan U. Payne has her aunt, Mrs. Chaplin, visiting her.

Miss Elsie Cooper is spending a few days at home.

KING'S WHARF NEWS.

KING'S WHARF, Feb. 19—Sawing wood is the order of the day here now. Messrs. Hubert Flood and J. Wintesr from Ennismore are sawing big logs with the drag saw, and Patrick Dorgan is sawing wood with the circular saw. The roads are good for moving and drawing wood.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Herlihey were business visitors to Peterboro Wednesday.

Mr. Thomas J. Murtha disposed of his farm stock and implements Tuesday, Feb. 15, and the sale was a decided success. Everything sold well and the day and roads were all that could be desired. Geo. Jackson and Son were the auctioneers, from Port Perry.

A number from here are drawing fall wheat to Lindsay on the good roads and the price is fair, $1.30 per bushel.

Mr. Michael Sheehan of Douro has returned home after a pleasant visit with his sister, Mrs. Dennis Begley.

Jopling Bros. of Peterboro made a business trip through here last week in their car. They crossed Pigeon Lake and returned home with a beautiful fox.

Man Seeks Thieves Who Stole His Leg

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 18. United Press. — Armed with his crutches, Charles Clark, who makes his home at the Wisconsin Hotel, took to the highways and the byways in search of thieves who stole his wooden leg. The thieves broke into Clark's room during the night, and worked so quietly the cripple was not aware of their presence. Clark failed to find the thieves.

TO achieve, in a four-cylinder car within the Chevrolet price-range, an automobile of such outstanding beauty is a unique and remarkable accomplishment, scarcely to be expected even of the world's largest builder of gear-shift automobiles.

To produce this Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History to sell at New and Lower Prices—the Lowest for which Chevrolet has ever been sold in Canada—is to set a record for automobile value which no other manufacturer could hope to duplicate.

Yet it is a literal fact that, with the beauty of its Fisher-Built Bodies, in the richness of its Duco colorings, the completeness and quality of its appointments, the refinements too numerous to list here—this Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History has created an entirely new standard of values in the low-priced field.

When you come to inspect the Most Beautiful Chevrolet in Chevrolet History you must come prepared for a new revelation of beauty and refinement and for an instant revision of your present conception of what your automobile dollar will buy.

WOMEN'S PAGE

SOCIETY

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew McCarrell wish to announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Martha Irene, to William George Burley of Verulam, only son of Mr. David Burley and the late Mrs. Burley of Dunsford. The marriage to take place the middle of March.

Friends of Mrs. Alice Roger Collins of Elora, who was born and spent much of her early life in this city, will be interested in the following extract from The Toronto Globe:

"An artistic programme of vocal and instrumental music was presented last evening at Havergall College, Jarvis Street, by Mrs. Alice Roger Collins of Elora. The interest of the event was deepened by the fact that Mrs. Collins was once a pupil of the school, and that the words and settings of many of the songs were of her own composition. These were charmingly rendered by Mrs. Rae, Miss Winfield, and Miss Maryc Scott, with violin obligato by Miss Kathleen Wallis of the Aeolian Trio. Mrs. Collins gave a finished rendering on the piano of selections from Mendelssohn, Chopin, Liszt, and Schumann-List.

After the concert a reception was held in the drawing-rooms. Miss Wood and Miss Dykes, the members of the staff, and Mrs. Douglas Woods, Vice-President of the Old Girls' Association, received the guests."

Judge R. M. Dennistoun of Winnipeg is the guest over the week-end of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stevenson, Aylmer Street.

Out-of-town people attending the funeral yesterday of the late Mrs. Katherine A. Dennistoun included Judge Dennistoun, Mrs. Alexander Bain and her daughter; Mrs. Featherstonehaugh, of Winnipeg; Mrs. C. S. Haultain of Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Archibald M. Russell, Mrs. James A. Macdonald, Mrs. J. Torrence, Mr. Guy Russell, Mr. Fred Torrance and Mr. W. Macdonald, all of Toronto; Mr. James Dennistoun, of Montreal; Mr. Norman Haultain of St. Catharines, and Mr. Charles Haultain, of Garden Hill.

Miss Mary Scully has returned home after spending the past month in Norwood, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke Eyres of Buffalo, N.Y., are visiting Mrs. Eyre's parents at 701 Stewart Street.

Mrs. J. C. Wood, of 777 Water Street, was hostess last evening to the Co-Workers' Bible Class of George Street United Church, when the members and their friends were entertained at a pleasant evening spent in playing contests, arranged by Miss Brock, in singing, and in the enjoyment of dainty refreshments. The main feature of the evening was the presentation of a certificate of Life Membership in the Women's Missionary Society, to Mrs. W. Hill, an old member of the class who is leaving the city. The address was read by the teacher, Mrs. Batstone. The service of refreshments was in charge of the social committee, composed of Mesdames Strong, Frederick, Hales and Spencer, assisted by Mrs. Wood. Rev. Mr. Todd spoke briefly at the conclusion of the evening.

Mrs. Alex. Darling was one of the hostesses of the past week.

Mrs. De Carlonis and Miss Madeline Asta have returned home, after spending the past week with friends in Hamilton, Thorold and St. Catharines.

Miss Olga Johnson was down from Toronto for the bankers' dance last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Brown of Keene and Dr. Walsh were in the city last night for the bankers' dance.

Mrs. Arthur McClellan, Monaghan Road, entertained at bridge this week.

Dr. and Mrs. B. E. Marshall and children, of Montreal, are spending the week-end in the city with Mrs. G. E. Marshall, Hunter Street, and Miss Olive Marshall.

The students of the Normal School were entertained at a very jolly party, with games, dancing and refreshments, held under the auspices of the A.Y.P.A. of St. John's Church, in their parish hall, on Wednesday evening.

Mr. John J. Perdue manager of the Gotfredson Truck Corporation of Walkerville, is in the city on a business trip and will be the guest of his brother, Charles Perdue, of Ennismore.

Mr. and Mrs. Emil Dudrap, formerly of Bischviller, France, now of New York City, are guests of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Baumer, 567 George Street.

The Women's Guild of St. George's Church held a very pleasant afternoon on Thursday in the basement of the church, when the members and their friends gathered for the purpose of making a presentation to the former president, Mrs. H. Rew, and the former treasurer, Mrs. B. Moore. The honorary president of the Guild, Mrs. J. L. Hughes, read brief addresses of appreciation to the two ladies, presenting Mrs. Rew with a silver cream bowl and spoon, and Mrs. Moore with a silver jardiniere, the latter presentation being made by Mrs. E. J. Brown, president of the W.A. Both ladies thanked the members sincerely and afternoon tea was then served by Mrs. Brown and Mrs. T. Mark.

Mrs. Heeney of Kingston is the guest over the week-end of Mrs. F. A. Hodgson.

Out-of-town people attending the funeral this morning of the late Mrs. Thos. J. McAuley included her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Moran of Wooler, her brothers, Messrs. William and Thomas Moran of New York City, her sister, Miss Rose Moran of Detroit, Mr. P. E. McAuley of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Young of Young's Point, Miss Katherine McAuley of Rochester, N.Y., Mr. and Mrs. J. Cowan of Lindsay, Mr. Fortune of Trenton, Mr. G. Sullivan of Campbellford, Mr. John Coughlin, Mr. Timothy Coughlin and Miss Gertrude Coughlin of Hastings

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"Well, sir," Mary Kearney gazed about the room as if proud of the fact that she had so important an audience for her story, "at eight o'clock the last of the other servants left the house. Everybody but me had been given the evening off. Except Sam Horne, the chauffeur, sir. He was to call for the bride—"

"All right, Mary. We'll let Sam Horne tell us about that. He wasn't in the house, was he?"

"No, sir. There wasn't anybody but me, sir, and Mr. Cluny. I was the only one that wasn't allowed to go to the wedding sir. He wanted me to be here to let Mr. Hathaway in—Mr. Robert Hathaway—his nephew, who was coming for him to take him to the church at eight forty-five. And he wanted me to be here after the wedding, in case messages and visitors came. I didn't think there would be any visitors myself, seeing as how everybody was going to the Randolph reception after the wedding, and Mr. Cluny was then going straight to the train, without coming home—"

"You're digressing, Mary," the coroner smiled slightly. "Stick to the story of what you know happened in this house after eight o'clock yesterday evening."

"That's what I'm trying to do, sir," Mary Kearney answered indignantly. "But I have to explain things, don't I? Well, sir, Mrs. Barnes—she's the housekeeper—and Minnie Cassidy, the housemaid, and Bunny Smith, the cook, and the outside man, that's Tony Salvatore, a wop, he is, all left in the servant's car at about eight o'clock.

"Mr. Cluny was in the library, going over some papers, when I took him a whisky-and-soda at ten minutes past eight. It looked like passports and railroad tickets to me. He had his drink and talked to me a few minutes about my vacation. I was going to have three months on half pay while he was in Europe—and then he said he was going upstairs to dress. He told me to go ahead of him and draw his bath. I went up to his room on the second floor and saw his wedding clothes laid out on the bed, everything ready for him to put on.

"Yes, sir," she nodded sulkily, as the coroner tapped suggestively with his gavel again. "I'm hurrying. Well, I went into the bathroom and turned on the hot and cold water to just the way he liked it. Then I waited around until he came up, to see if there was anything else I could do for him. He said there wasn't.

"While I was in th epantry putting away the tray and things, there was a ring at the front door bell. It was snowing pretty hard and the wind was blowing, so I didn't open the door wide, but I did look out, to see how the young lady had come.

"I was struck all of a heap, sir, because the young lady was the bride herself, Miss Cherry Lane, and she was the last person I expected to see."

"You know Miss Lane well enough to be certain of her identification?" the coroner inquired.

"Oh, yes, sir. She's been at the house a lot since her and Mr. Cluny has been engaged. And she spoke to me, called me 'Mary,' sir. I said, 'How do you do, Miss Cherry. Ain't you gonna be late to the wedding?'"

"What did Miss Lane say, Mary?"

"She didn't answer my question, sir. She pushed past me into the hall, and said, real breathless, 'I've got to see Mr. Cluny, Mary—right now. Where is he?' I told her he was dressing in his bedroom, and wouldn't want to be disturbed in that condition, sir, and told her I'd call him on the house phone. But she ran past me up the stairs, quick as lightning. I peeped out of the door I was still holding open a little ways and I saw—" she paused, as for dramatic effect.

"Go on, Mary. What did you see?"

Mary Kearney folded her handkerchief to her entire satisfaction before answering the coroner's question. To Faith, straining forward in her seat, it seemed as if the maid was bent on keeping the spotlight upon herself as long as possible.

"Well, sir, there was a man sitting in the car, at the steering wheel. The window of the car was down about half way, so he could stick his arm out to make traffic signals, you know, and I saw his face, side view. It was Mr. Chris Wiley, sir."

"How do you know it was Mr. Wiley, Mary? Do you know him personally?" the coroner demanded sharply.

"Oh, yes, sir, everybody knows Mr. Wiley by sight, anyway. And I used to work for his sister, Mrs. John Bemis. Mr. Chris used to come to the house frequently."

"All right, Mary, go on. What happened after Miss Cherry ran up the stairs?"

Mary Kearney blushed and dropped her eyes for a moment, then lifted her head and went on defiantly. "I stayed downstairs for a minute or two, then I thought—I thought Mr. Cluny might need me for something and I went upstairs. I thought I ought to listen a minute before knocking—"

"Eavesdropping, eh?" Coroner Murchison grinned.

"I didn't intend to eavesdrop, sir," Mary Kearney retorted. "But I didn't want to butt in if I wasn't needed."

"Well, the truth is, you listened outside the door, Mary. Now tell us what you heard."

"I couldn't hear everything they said, sir, because the door's thick, and the walls too. But when they raised their voices real loud, I could hear plain as day. About the first thing I heard was Miss Cherry screaming out, 'But I can't, Ralph! I can't marry you! I thought I could go through with it, but I can't!' Her voice sounded like she was caying.

"Oh!" Faith covered her face with her hands.

"Keep a stiff upper lip, darling, for Cherry's sake," Bob whispered to her.

"And what did Mr. Cluny answer, Mary? Be careful to tell only what you heard, and exactly what you heard," Coroner Murchison warned her.

"I didn't hear what he said, but his voice was soothing and low, like he was laughing at her a little," Mary Kearney replied.

"Then I heard Miss Cherry cry out, 'I'm going to marry Chris, and you can't stop me! I won't marry you, I won't, I say! You can't force me to!' And then Mr. Cluny shouted at her, 'You're not going to make a fool of me like this, Cherry! I can and will force you to keep your word. You won't leave this room until Bob comes, then you'll go home with him and dress for your wedding. I'm not going to have any nonsense at this late hour'."

"What then, Mary?" the coroner prodded, as the maid paused to enjoy the sensation she had created.

"Then I heard Miss Cherry scream, 'I'll kill myself first. I'd rather be dead!' And then I heard her run across the room and fling herself against the door. I backed away, but Mr. Cluny opened the door real quick and looked out into the hall. I saw him plain. He was holding Miss Cherry by the arm, and she was crying and pounding at him with her fists.

"Then Mr. Cluny saw me backed up against the wall, and he was terrible mad. He shouted at me, 'Go downstairs and stay in the kitchen 'till I ring for you!' I started to run downstairs, and he came out in the hall, and shut the door, with Miss Cherry inside, beating on the door. He said to me, he said, 'Mary, if you tell anything you've heard here tonight, you'll be discharged without notice. Now go and stay in the kitchen until Mr. Hathaway comes. Send him upstairs, but you needn't come up yourself.' Well, I ran downstairs and didn't hear anything else until Mr. Hathaway rang the doorbell at a quarter to nine."

"How far is the kitchen from the front stairs, Mary?" Coroner Murchison asked, his face very grave.

This Lassie Has Her Colds "Rubbed Away"

The mother of this attractive little girl, Mrs. E. E. Emmans, of 215 Seventh Ave., N. E., Portage La Prairie, Man., is one of the many Canadian mothers who are enthusiastic about the vaporizing salve, Vicks VapoRub, for treating children's colds. Mrs. Emmans writes: "My little girl had croup at night pretty badly and Vicks did her a lot of good. I have also used it with very satisfactory results for head and chest colds."

Vicks is just "rubbed on" for sore throat, tonsilitis, bronchitis, croup or deep chest colds. When so applied, Vicks has a double direct action: internally medicated vapors are inhaled while, at the same time, externally, it is absorbed through and stimulates the skin.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

This frock of canary yellow cotton crepe georgette is trimmed with the same material in a deeper shade. The embroidery is in cotton to match the deeper shade.

Yellow trimming on navy blue is one of the new color notes for spring, and if you have seen any of the new dark blue frocks trimmed with lingerie touches of light yellow lawn—sometimes edged with yellow lace—you have doubtless been delighted with the crisp, fresh effect. Entire frocks and wraps of yellow have also come forward as likely candidates for spring favor, and if there is anything prophetic about what women are wearing at Palm Beach and on the Riviera then surely yellow is going to be of great importance during the coming season.

The time was when the mere mention of a yellow frock made some women sigh. Yellow was said to be unbecoming. Nowadays there are no unbecoming colors. There are so many variations of the popular shades that it is usually possible to find one that suits almost any complexion. There are yellows with a bit of pink in their make-up, there are clear green-yellows, light yellows and yellows of a pure golden hue. Besides if you cannot find a yellow that suits your complexion, you can make your complexion suit your frock. The complexion blatantly made up is as bad taste as it ever was but to use just the right touch of make-up needed to make your frock becoming is entirely within the limits of perfect decorum.

The up-to-date woman skillful in the use of make-up has rouge and powder in a variety of shades. One sort she uses when she wears yellow, another when she wears red, still another when she wears violet or blue and she uses a different system of make-up when she wears black from that employed when colors are chosen.

Yellow on black is not quite so new as yellow with dark blue but it is just as smart. In Paris at present there is a decided vogue for velvet frocks of a greenish yellow worn under all-black coats lined with yellow to match the gown. There are simple little cloth frocks for spring made of yellow trimmed with a black hip belt, a black tie and black buttons.

Yellow felt hats have been worn with success at Southern resorts, and these are effective with white frocks trimmed with yellow or with black coats. You may wear a yellow frock with a black coat lined with yellow and a plain felt hat.

One of the new shades of yellow is spoken of as popcorn.

Weak Nerves—Weak Heart

It is only natural to become alarmed at any irregularity of the heart's action. But in the majority of cases the cause is found in an exhausted condition of the nerves.

The muscular action of the heart in pumping the blood through the body is entirely controlled by the nerves. So when the nerves are weak the heart's action becomes weak.

As a result you find yourself easily tired, you have shortness of breath, digestion fails and you become downhearted and discouraged.

But there is relief for you—by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. This great restorative treatment has no rival as a means of enriching the blood, building up the nervous system and strengthening the action of the heart and other bodily organs.

You are never in greater danger than when the nervous system gets run down and for this reason you should lose no time in beginning the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

QUAKERS DEFEAT C.G.E. APPRENTICES

In Fast Game of Hockey, Porridge Boys Win Five To One.

In a fast game of hockey at the Porridge Boys defeated the C.G.E. Porrige Boys defeated the C. G. E. apprentices 5 goals to 1.

The C.G.E. registered the first goal on a nice play by Smith about two minutes after the face off but were held scoreless for the remainder of the game, while the Quakers ran in five goals.

The feature of the game was the clever display of back checking by the Quaker forwards. Smith was the star for the losers and the goal he scored was well earned. The line up:

Quakers: Meyette, goal; Dunbay and Carroll, defence; Wolff, centre; Garvey and Ralph, wings; Maher and Hill subs.

C. G. E.: Nash, goal; Epps and Mc McGillen, defence; Smith, centre; Scrates and Connors, wings; C. McGillen and McWilliams, subs.

Referee, Herbert Ralph.

VACHELL LINDSAY'S POEMS DISCUSSED

Professor Pratt Delivers an Interesting Lecture in English Literature.

Professor A. E. Pratt, of Victoria University, Toronto, gave one of his interesting lectures on English Literature in the green room of the Y.W.C.A., last evening. The big room was filled to capacity with an attentive audience which listened with much interest to Professor Pratt's reading of excerpts from his own works, also the works of several modern American poets. Miss Margaret Hamilton presided, and a piano solo was given by Mrs. Percy Dallin, A.T.C.M.

From the works of Vachell Lindsay, described as "a very individual writer, "who has set English words to a peculiar type of rhythm, imitative of the chant or lilt heard in the negro spirituals, the speaker read the dramatic "General William Booth Enters Heaven," descriptive in its odd meter of the old General of the Salvation Army, bringing his tatterdemalion army of roughnecks up to the golden courts of heaven.

He also read from the peculiar composition entitled "The Congo," by the same poet, and a short lyric, in "The Leaden Eye." Harriet Munro of Chicago, described as "the high prestess of the new cult in free verse ("Verse libre") was quoted in "The Turbine," and Untermeyer in "Irony."

Preceding the reading of several of his own poems, based on activities of the fisher folk of the Labrador and Newfoundland, Professor Pratt gave a graphic, if somewhat depressing, account of the manner in which the seal industry is kept up, and the way in which the slaughter goes on, on the treacherous moving ice pans, with the men clubbing the little "white harps" that lie beside their mothers. The "bobbing" holes were mentioned, those curious holes in the ice, one beside each mother and her baby seal, which never freeze over and are used by the parent animal to dive down to the water below where fish are hunted, the mother coming back unerringly to her own particular hole through the miles of moving ice.

A poem of Professor Pratt's own composition was read, descriptive of the disaster which overtook the S.S. Greenland some years ago, when the great sealing ship was separated from her men by storm and sixty lives were lost.

Then a little poem about a shark coming into the harbor at St. John's was read, in impressionistic style, and the story also in rhyme addressed to "Carlo," the great black Newfoundland dog who carried a line from a sinking ship, swimming from the shore through icy combers to grasp it, then returning an hour later, nearly dead, to the beach, after all efforts by the men on land had proved unavailing to assist the sailors on the steamer, caught on a reef, and breaking up under the pounding of heavy seas. This dog saved ninety-one lives by his action and was given the freedom forever of the island by a grateful Government, along with a huge silver collar and medal, in recognition of his bravery and initiative.

Much applause followed the reading of Dr. Pratt's own verses.

EVANGELIST VISITS BIG NIGHT CLUBS

"Dancing Over Trap Doors To Hell" Is Aimee's Statement.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—Aimee Semple McPherson, the evangelist, toured the night clubs of New York last night and found their patrons "dancing over trap doors to hell."

"Look at those eyes," she said, as she spied a young woman in one of the smoky cellar cabarets of a Greenwich village.

"They are hard, hopeless; they are lost. Here you see them sowing. I have always been concerned with reaping," she said to the escorting party.

Amer. Telephone Touches Highest Price In 20 Years

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—Selling pressure was more pronounced in today's stock market with the result that the price movement disclosed much irregularity. Profit-taking by floor traders and sporadic bear selling of some of the recent strong spots in the industrial and railroad groups accounted for much of the liquidation. Bullish operations were not altogether abandoned, however, another flock of new high records being established with the list led by American Telephone, which touched the highest price in over 20 years. Heavy accumulation of the Erie issues was one of the features of the rail group. Rather sustained demand developed for the high grade dividend payers, inspire in part by the announcement that the National City Company, one of the country's largest investment institutions, had decided to add high grade common stocks to its investment list.

All American Cables jumped six points; International Telephone added two points to its recent gain, and Radio moved up one. Electrical equipment issues moved forward under the leadership of Allis Chalmers, Westinghouse and General Electric. Baldwin, International Harvester, Commercial Solvents B, Canadian Pacific and Wabash Preferred "B" bore the brunt of the selling, yielding two to three points. The closing was irregular, total sales approximating 800,000 shares.

British Columbia Fishing Is Very Active Leader

TORONTO, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press).—A number of strong spots stood out in the quietly firm market on the Toronto Stock Exchange today. British Columbia Fishing, the active leader, Massey Harris and City Dairy all gave exhibitions of strength. Fishing closed 1½ higher at 93, Massey Harris sold up three points at 91 3-4, and City Dairy advanced sharply to 96¼, 5¼ higher. Arnold Brothers Common gained 1¼ at 23½, and Gooderham and Worts advanced 3-8 at 48 3-4. Other unlisted issues showed little change, although the active British American Oil firmed an eighth at 23. Page Hersey eased a quarter at 64, and F. N. Burt eased nearly a point at 62¼.

Steadiness Shown In Wheat Few Fluctuations Recorded

CHICAGO Feb. 19 (Canadian Press). — Exceptional steadiness showed itself in wheat to-day during the early dealings, fluctuations being confined to narrow limits of 3-8 cent a bushel. One sustaining influence was the fact that Liverpool quotations were firmer owing to scarcity of sellers. Starting at ¾ cent decline to 1-8 cent advance, Chicago wheat held closely to the initial range. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise almost stationary, corn opening 1 1-8 cent off to 1-8 cent up, later showing little change.

Mining Market Dull: Few Changes Recorded

TORONTO, Feb. 19 (Canadian Press)—Few features relieved the dullness on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. Trading was comparatively heavy, but the market was quiet and firm. Amulet and Area each firmed two points at 140 and 52 and McKinley Darragh firmed two at 17. Duprat eased three quarters at 18 1-2 and Hollinger eased ten at 22.40. Barry Hollinger, one of the active leaders dropped sharply to 63, down 5 3-4. McIntyre eased 15 at 26.70.

BRITISH WAR VESSEL

chow by the Cantonese troops, the situation in the Chinese civil war becomes grave. As the victorious Southern army marches on, driving the Northerners back, strikes among the working classes are adding to the confusion. The following "high lights" were apparent to-day:

An attempt to continue tramway service in the international settlement here resulted in stoning of several cars and foreign passengers were endangered. The service finally was entirely stopped.

As the strike continued to spread some labor leaders declared it was only a projected two day celebration of the Cantonese victory at Hangchow, but indications are growing that it is expected "boring from within" designed to cause the complete downfall of Marshal Sun Chuang Fang, the city's defender.

Leaflets Distributed

The leaflet distributed to the workers says: "Cantonese forces are victorious. The power of Marshal Sun Chuang Fang has ended. The time is opportune for the people to assist the movement against the militarists."

Another leaflet warns strikers to maintain order.

The foreign forces here and aboard the warships in the river aggregated upwards of ten thousand men and others are due soon.

The waterworks employees in the French concession struck, causing water shortage in some of the districts.

The British troops were kept to their billets to prevent armed clashes.

Seamen on Strike

The Seamen's Union joined forty thousand or more strikers who went out earlier in the day.

Post office strike pickets, armed with clubs, lined entrances to the General Post Office and attempted to prevent indoor workers from entering the building. The post office closed till Monday as a result.

Four hundred mill strikers entered the British Cigarfette Company and attempted to intimidate thousands of employees into joining the strike. The company decided to close down to prevent trouble.

Three of the biggest Chinese department stores in the international settlement also closed.

Marshal Sun's local defence committee asked permission of foreign authorities to run armored motor cars through the settlement to put down the trouble. A report that Sun Chuan Fang is still falling back toward Shanghai after losing Kashing was forwarded to London to-day by Sir Percival Phillips, Shanghai news correspondent. Kashing is fifty miles from Shanghai. Reports state that Sun is gathering forces for a stand at Sunkiang, twenty miles from Shanghai.

LONDON, Feb. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—While most reports indicate all is quiet in the city of Shanghai, the imminence of the Cantonese approach after their victory at Hanchow, has again awakened anxiety in some quarters over the Chinese situation.

HANKOW, Feb. 19.—(Canadian Press.)—One British and one United States' anaval officer were beaten to-day in a fracas with a gang of dock coolies at the port of Ichang. Trouble started when the British steamer King-wo docked at Ichang and the coolies there refused to allow the cargo to be handled. Sailors from the British gunboat Cockchafer landed and trouble ensued.

TOKYO, Feb. 19. — (Canadian Press.)— A Japanese cruiser and four destroyer, were ordered tonight to proceed to Shanghai. They will depart from the Sasebo naval base, probably to-morrow.

The Super-Six Principle freed to the Limit—and Beauty to Match Its Matchless Performance

The body styles created for the New Hudson Super-Six have shared equally with its brilliant new performance in its enormously successful reception everywhere shown. At the New York Show and all subsequent Automobile Shows the Hudson-Essex exhibit has outdrawn any other by two and three to one. It is the high point of the year in interest, discussion and sales activity.

The new Hudson bodies are of such variety and beauty as will satisfy all demands for luxury and exclusiveness as well as comfort and price advantage.

The Super-Six principle, now freed to the limit, delivers its power with the smooth flow of an electric motor. Throughout, the car is engineered to make full use of its stream of energy. And so the Super-Six gets under way faster and with a total absence of the violent lunge usual to high-powered cars.

It glides into motion from a standing start. Even at high you always have untapped reserves of power for quick acceleration. Four-wheel brakes just as softly and effectively check your speeds.

In motor and chassis, both new, the Hudson Super-Six reaches new heights of speed, safety, comfort and performance.

In the Essex Super-Six—sharing all these advantages in comfort, safety, quality, and surpassing motor efficiency—there are five new bodies—entirely new in appearance, beauty, smart upholstery and appointment.

Delaney Defeated By Points in Ten-Round Bout

MALONEY WINS DECISION OVER JACK DELANEY

Victor's Drives To Body Completely Broke Up Delaney's Attack.

EVADED RIGHT.

Marked Maloney's Fourth Straight Win in Rickard's Elimination Tournament.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.— Jimmy Maloney of Boston, battled through ten fiercely contested rounds to a judges' decision over Jack Delaney before a record crowd of 20,000 at Madison Square Garden last night.

The margin of the rugged Boston contender in Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament was clean and decisive. His drives to the head and body completely broke up Delaney's attacks, and the French-Canadian, nailing Maloney now and then with his heralded right smash to the head, could do little more than jar the Boston Giant. Maloney weighed 203; Delaney. 175.

Delaney, popular favorite, could not hold Maloney's rushes as the Boston slugger bore down upon him with the full force of his 31-pound advantage. A majority of the critics at the ringside gave Maloney a clean-cut margin in six rounds, with Delaney having the better of two and two even.

The victory came as a stunning surprise to a capacity crowd that had made Delaney a 13-5 favorite. It marked Maloney's fourth straight win in Tex Rickard's elimination tournament to determine a challenger for Champion Gene Tunney next September.

The result terminated a string of fourteen successive triumphs by Delaney.

Maloney boxed the typical battle of the "good big man." Making the most of his 203 1-2 pounds, he stormed through the defenses of the flashy Bridgeport boxer with sweeping left hooks which seldom failed to find their mark. At close quarters he pummeled the light heavyweight title-holder until Jack was compelled to hang on. At no point of the match, however, was either principal apparently in danger of a knockdown. The bridge of Maloney's nose was slightly cut, while Delaney's mouth bled in two places.

Evades Delaney's Right.

The Bridgeport contender, upon whom thousands had been placed at 1 to 3 to score a knockout throughout the ten rounds, held his famous right hand cocked for a decisive blow. But the crafty Maloney, bending low and covering his chin with a high shoulder gave the Bridgeport "rapier" but little chance to land solidly.

Time after time the right flashed out with smashing force. The fifth, sixth and seventh Delaney landed with terrific force. But Maloney, refusing to give ground, continued to tear into the attack with ripping blows which eventually forced Delaney to cover.

Carrying his aggressive attack into every round, Maloney repeatedly battered Delaney to the ropes. In the clinches he handled the Bridgeport contender almost as he pleased, twirling him about and nailing his sides with a club-like right, which soon painted his body crimson.

Maloney Too Strong.

Delaney, attempting to stand his ground and box his way out of the shower of club-like blows rained upon him, was hurled backward by the whirlwind rushes of the Boston heavyweight. Frequently he rallied desperately, stopping Maloney in his tracks with sharp shooting lefts. But the interruptions were only temporary. Maloney, quickly recovering, pushed on with grim determination and a pair of battering hands which eventually carried him to the outstanding triumph of his brief career.

OSHAWA WINS FOURTH ROUND

Intermediates Enter Semi-Finals By Defeating Cornwall 5 To 1.

JUNIORS LOSE.

OSHAWA, Feb. 19.—In winning the second game of the fourth round of the O.H.A. intermediate playdowns from Cornwall here last night by 3 to 1 and the round by 5 to 1, Oshawa passed the unlucky number thirteen hung out at Cornwall on Wednesday by turning in their fourteenth consecutive win of the season and are now sitting high and handsome on the top of the intermediate hockey of all Eastern Ontario and ready to enter the semi-finals with the winner of the Jordan-Newmarket series next week. With the dip into colder weather assuring good ice for last night's game and memories of last year's Cornwall at Oshawa 2 to 0 struggle, hockey fans from the Motor City and surrounding towns packed Bradley's arena to its limit with many of the cash customers having to find parking space on the rafters.

Oshawa lined up when the bell rang the same as in the first game at Cornwall, minus their regular left defence player, Sammy Lowe, who is under the blankets nursing a severe cold; Carl Houck, the regular left wing player, moving back to team up with Johnston and Yank Avery working the left boards.

TORONTO, Feb. 19. — St. Michael's College swept Oshawa Shamrocks to defeat at the Arena with an 8 to 1 victory last night, which easily overcame the Motor Town's lone goal lead at the start of the game, and gave the local Irishmen the round by a 10 to 4 score and the right to advance in the Junior O.H.A. eliminations. It was easily the best exhibition of junior hockey this year and was witnessed by the largest and most enthusiastic crowd. The Collegians gave a super display of combination, working passes and plays that had Oshawa bewildered, and only the wonderful playing of Leveque, in the visitors' goal prevented the score running high in the double-figures. Leveque alone kept the Easterners in the race, until the last period, when the Students slipped five goals behind him.

It was a victory for team-play, the almost perfect combination of the Collegians carrying them into the mouth of the goal, on almost every attack. The Shamrocks put up a gallant struggle to score another win over the students, as they did in the first game in Oshawa on Wednesday, but they could not break through the Saints' sturdy defence, while they also had trouble getting away from their checks. Although the score finished rather one-sided, there was plenty of brilliant hockey, and only in the last period did the Prep. School champions make sure of victory.

The Oshawa front line never stopped, trying every trick they knew, but all failed to get goals, while on the defence Leveque played almost a lone hand, his goal-guarding being the most sensational seen this season. Leveque dived from his cage to smother the close-in shots while to beat him from long range was impossible. Often he stopped two and three shots in rapid succession, and every goal the Collegians counted was well earned.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, I suppose you expect me in this letter to make a forecast of the Grads-Petes serious which settles the group honours next week. On the dope, of course, they ain't only 1 answer, and that is, that Mister Connie Smythe's lads has a nice chance to come through with a win. But hockey seriouses is not settled on the dope, but on the ice, and the whole argument depends upon 1 question: Can the Petes carry themselves fast enough for 2 whole games to check them Grads, as they'll hafta be checked if their disagreeable habit of running up a pile of goals is to be cured? Let the x-students run loose and they'll score plenty; they know their garden truck, and they'll make monkeys out of any team that don't check them all the way down the ice surface. As for me, I'm satisfied that if the home talent can forget they're playing the Grads and will go out there and battle as if it was the Kitchener Dutchmen or some of them birds they was playing that a whole lotta the smoothness of Mister Smythe's machine would be missing before the argument is over.

Any 1 that tries to tell you them Grads hasn't speed or cleverness would believe the Smith Bros. never made a coughdrop or old Doc. Chase never owned a pill. They have plenty of stuff, and it just remains to be seen if they can produce it when they're faced by a team determined to check them all the way. Our lads say they'll be that kinda team next week. Here's hoping. The 1st game is in Toronto Mon., while the home customers will see the last shot of the serious fired here Wed. night. They won't be no wide-open spaces along the sidelines for that battle, for everybody in the neighborhood expects to be among them their Wed. night.

The game in Toronto Wed., Mac, was a sorry cup of tea. The 1st period it was even going and the x-students didn't have much of a edge until well on in the 2nd dash, when a perfect rash of scoring broke out among them at the same time that sleeping sickness developed among Mister Wright's lads. The Grads scored so fast that the red light back of the Petes' nets looked like a permanent exit signal, and a Hydro official made a memo on his cuff to notify the Varsity management that they was using so much juice that the old flat rate arrangement would have to be scrapped in favour of a meter.

The most excitement in the last period was a boxing bout between Mister Ranger and Mister Plaxton, which for a few seconds looked like it was going to shape up into a regular knock-him-down-and-drag-him-out affair. The real hero of the flare-up was Mister Connie Smythe, who had nerve enough to walk out into the argument wearing a new vintage stiff hat. Time was when a lid like that woulda started a fight on its own account, and Mister Smythe wouldn't have got a foot away from the boards before somebody would hammered the hat down over his ears. But the old days is no more, and not a bird took advantage of the chance to smother the Varsity pilot in his own bonnet.

Well, Mac, just as a last tip to the customers. Don't overlook the Wed. game. It oughtta be a thriller.

Sportfully yours,
A. WISE CRACKER.

Loses Bout; Attacks Referee American To Be Deported

SYDNEY, N.S.W., Feb. 18. (Canadian Press.)—When the referee gave his decision against Johnny Reisler, American boxer, in a bout at Sydney Stadium, the latter attacked the officer and the pair rolled in the ring, punching and wrestling, until pulled apart by attendants. The crowd rushed the ring and a strong force of police had to be called to keep Reisler from being badly handled. The authorities have cancelled Reisler's contract and will deport him back to America by the first available boat.

ALTICAR, Lancashire, Feb. 18.—(Canadian Press). — The Waterloo Cup, the Derby of dog racing, was won to-day by A. Gordon Smith's "Golden Seal," which defeated Lord Dewar's "Demetrus" in the final. "Golden Seal" was quoted at one thousand to thirty in the betting before the meet started.

GROVE DEFEAT LAKEFIELD JRS.

Three Cornered Tie in District League as Result of Game.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 19.—As a result of last night's game between the Grove and the Juniors a three-cornered tie has resulted in the district league. The Juniors needed the game to be declared champions but the Grove proved too much for them, defeating them by a score of 5 to 2.

A good crowd watched the game which was fast and clean throughout, only three penalties being awarded and those for minor offences.

The work of the opposing goal-keepers bordered on the sensational at times.

The first period ended in a tie, and at the end of the second the Grove was one goal ahead. In the last period the Grove drew ahead and finished with a three goal lead. The line up was as follows:

Goal.—Foore, Robertson, Boslpbee, Northey, Griffith, Hudson, Bogg and Earl.

Juniors—Junkin, Sherin, Lawless, Stabler, Hamblin, Wannamaker, McFadden.

Referee—John Sabatino.

BILLIARD TITLE TO LEFT-HANDER

Chicago Southpaw Is Now Champion Over Three-Cushion Billiardists.

50-20 VICTORY.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—A southpaw reigns over the three-cushion billiardists today.

Augie Kieckhefer, the Chicagoan who strokes a cue with the left hand, showed precision, calm and a thorough mastery of angle and English in overwhelming Otto Reiselt, of Philadelphia, the champion, 50 to 20, in 31 innings.

Their match, played before a capacity crowd, with hundreds of would-be spectators turned away, was the final one of a 45-game round robin in which nine of the best three-cushion players in America competed.

Tied For Lead.

Kieckhefer and Reiselt started their match tied at the top of the list, each haivng won seven games and lost one. Besides Kieckhefer, the only other participant in the tournament who was able to beat Reiselt was Gus Copulos, of Detroit. Copulos finished third.

Allen Hall was the only player to win from Kieckhefer; the score was 50 to 46. Hall finished in a tie for fourth place with Art Thurnblad, of Chicago, and Tilford Denton, of Kansas City, a former titleholder.

Earl Lookabaugh, of Chicago, making his first tournament appearance finished seventh, just inside the prize money and ahead of Raimundo Campanioni, of Havana, Cuba, and Len Kenney, Chicago, tied for eighth place. McCourt, the Cleveland player, was low man, winning only one of his nine games.

It's Worth $1,300.

In going out in 31 innings Kieckhefer added $100 for best game to the first prize money of $1,200. Reiselt won $1,000 for finishing second. He announced that he would post $250 immediately to bind a challenge to play Keickhefer.

It was Kieckhefer's consistent play, rather than high runs, that enabled him to beat Reiselt. The new champion's best runs were two of five, while Reiselt had one run of six. The Philadelphian, however, won the $100 prize for high run of the tournament with a string of 10 points in his match with Campanioni.

MOVE MAY BE MADE TO BLOCK ELECTION

Counsel Contends Seats Should Be Filled "Stepping Up" Process.

WINDSOR, Feb. 19.—Acting for another "Citizens' Committee," Frederick C. Kerby, who was counsel for John W. McConnell, one of the Aldermen unseated as a result of the municipal election investigation, yesterday announced he may ask the Supreme Court of Ontario for an order allowing the "stepping up" process in filling six vacancies in the City Council.

Mr. Kerby disagrees with Court Clerk W. B. S. Craig's interpretation of Judge Duncan A. Ross's judgment, by which Miss Martha A. Dickinson, City Clerk, is ordered to prepare for an election for the vacant seats.

"If I take action to this effect I will ask that the judgment be made to conform with the finding of the court," explained Mr. Kerby.

Since Judge Ross's decision was made public by County Court officials some days ago, the lawyer has contended that the correct interpretation of the judgment does not call for a new election at the polls, as interpreted in some quarters.

Meanwhile, Miss Dickinson is preparing a proclamation calling for a new contest on March 12. This will be published Monday or Tuesday at the latest, unless Mr. Kerby files his motion for appeal. Nomination day, she says, will be March 5.

D. M. Frederick, Kirksville, Mo., claims to have eaten a piece of ham 125 years old. The ham was found in the chimney of an old house in England and had shrunk about 60 per cent. in size.

Skeletons May Be Quebec Court Equipment

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 19. —(Canadian Press).—Human skeletons may shortly put in an appearance as part of the standard equipment of every Superior Court in the Province of Quebec. The prospect, unpleasing as it may appear at first blush, is designed to improve the administration of justice. The suggestion that a skeleton be placed in each court comes from Mr. Justice J. Camille Pouliot, who in rendering judgment in a Workmen's Compensation Act case in the Superior Court of the district of Arthabaska, dwells on the difficulties of translating technical medical terms to the lavmen, among whom he includes lawyers and judges, and expresses the belief that with a skeleton at judical proceedings some of these difficulties will disappear.

NEW PLAYERS COST HEAVILY

Cobb, Collins, Wheat Send Athletics Pay Roll To Highest Point.

EXPENSIVE CRAFT.

NEW YORK, Feb. 19.—Carrying payrolls estimated to total half a million dollars, Connie Mack and John McGraw will launch the most expensive base ball craft in their long careers as managers on rival pennant cruises this year.

With the acquisitions of Zack Wheat, Ty Cobb and Eddie Collins by the Athletics, baseball men today figured that Mack's salary and bonus bill for the season would reach the quarter million dollar mark. The Giants' salary total likewise has been sent skyrocketing by the additions of Rogers Hornsby, Eddie Roush and Burleigh Grimes.

Cutting of the purse strings of the New York and Philadelphia clubs has led to an unprecedented series of trades and purchases. In Hornsby, the Giants added a $40,000 star to their payroll, while recently they mailed a three-year contract to Roush which is said to call for $19,000 a season.

Pay For Minors.

The signing of Wheat, Cobb and Collins is estimated to have added $125,000 to the season's salary bill of the Athletics. Mack also paid fancy prices for new infield talent from the minor leagues in landing Dudley Branon, first baseman from Kansas City, and Joe Boley, Baltimore International shortstop.

If Roush signs for the $19,0000 salary he received last year, base mall men figure the club will have at least seven players whose pay ohecks for the season will exceed $10,000. They are Hornsby, $40,000; Roush, $19,0000; Grimes, $15,000; Ross Youngs, $13,000; Virgil Barnes Fred Lindstrom and Travis Jackson, $11,000.
